Saturday has come and gone and the great lacrosse match is over—for the present and still the EXAMINER does business at the same old stand. Chicago is under military rule and Mowat is on the top of the heap. The Review is naturally very jubilant over the result, and the Examiner team does not envy them in the least, and perfectly willing to allow them a little jubilation, as our contemporary has not sufficiently recovered from a recent disappointment.

Although the EXAMINER team, with few exceptions, are showing the result of the conflict by the many cuts and bruises they sport to day, still they have not hung up their sticks by any means, and the world will hear from them later on.

The star player of the EXAMINER "Rolly" Glover was on the field—an interested spectator—being rendered hors du combat in a practice game the previous evening, and often did the boys wish he was in condition. The Review were confident of victory, in fact too confident, as they themselves admit. The Peterborough team members of the Review team, as every one expected, played in their old form, but the spectators never dreamed of seeing one of their players dance a war dance among the juniors on the EXAMINER team and so far forgot the rules of lacrosse as to introduce a combination of club swinging, juggling and other innovations not usually witnessed on a lacrosse field. But the EXAMINER played rings around them. "Danny" Costello and "Willie" Knapp, (who was not caught K-napping) the two youngest players on the field, playing very pretty lacrosse and winning the applause of the spectators. The match was played on time, the Review scored the only goal, by a shot from near centre. Play was again resumed and for the remainder of the game the EXAMINER held their opponents down, but could not score. The Review goal keeper, it is rumoured, was a star, but he didn't shine and it is Nead-less to say that he furnished sport for the spectators around the goal. The EXAMINER team was doing some splendid play at a certain stage of the game, but the ball was suddenly lost in a potato patch and the game was declared off—for the present.

NOTES.

Many of the players ran as if their feet did not belong to them.

The umpire at the EXAMINER goal did not do his duty—because he did Nott know how.

Mr. L. LeBar as referee filled the position very acceptably and reports that he had only to consult the book of lacrosse rules twenty-eight times.

A number of ladies occupied the grand stand and judging from their smiles and remarks passed, their sympathies were all with the EXAMINER team. Thanks, very much.

Mr. "Lee." McWilliams, of the Review staff, is on the shelf to-day suffering from a bruised optic.

As regards the challenge issued by the printers on our down town contemporary to play next Saturday, the EXAMINER team wish to state that as soon as a number of the players recover from the Heaps of bruises and cuts which they are sporting around to-day, they will give the challenge their serious consideration.

As soon as arrangements are completed and doctor bills paid, the EXAMINER team will issue a challenge to the Review to play for a barrel of flour for some charitable institution. As charity covers a multitude of sins, it is to be hoped the challenge will be accepted, as the Review should certainly take an opportunity of cleansing themselves of the sins of omission of Saturday. Only legitimate employees of the two offices will be allowed to play; the date of match is yet to be announced, and as the small boy says: "Oh let it be soon."

A strong feature of the game was its strict originality. No such game was ever played "in the heavens above, in the earth beneath or the water that is under the earth." There was none of that effete and antiquated style of play practiced by the Shamrocks, Capitals and other professional teams.

The Granites, of Peterborough, will cross sticks with the junior Millbrooks to-morrow in that village. The members of the Granites are requested to be on hand at 7 o'clock sharp to-morrow morning at Fitzgerald's livery.

Mr. Wm. Galley leaves this week for Campbellford, where he has secured a good position. In his departure the Shamrocks lose a first-class stick handler and an all-round lacrosse player.

An effort is being made to run an excursion from Port Hope to Peterborough to-morrow in connection with the visit of the Ontarios, who cross sticks with the Shamrocks to-morrow afternoon.

CRICKET.

On the P.A.A.A. grounds Saturday a scratch match was played between teams chosen by Walter Stocker and Sam Ray, and some excellent batting and fielding was done on both sides. A number of games have been arranged with first class clubs, and it is to be hoped the members will turn out regularly to practice.

BASEBALL.

An effort is being made to arrange a baseball match between Lindsay and Peterborough in that town on Thursday.

The Cobourg club is asking the Canadian Baseball Association to reinstate Pat Mulhall, the pitcher who played professionally for a few weeks this season with Buffalo. Mulhall's fine work won the championship for Cobourg last year.

RANGE AND RIFLE.

League and Monthly Practice—Some Good Shooting Done by the First Team—The Fifty Seventh keeps well To the Front.

The third league and monthly match took place on Thursday last, resulting in the scores as given below for the Peterborough Rifle Association. The 57th stand fourth in the aggregate of the two first matches, standing fifth in the first and second in the second match. The average in the third match, though not quite so high as in the second, is no tumble, being 87 1-5 per man, which will likely give the team one or two places higher. If the team can only keep up their present average they will likely stand well up at the finish, but they can hardly expect to take the first place from the Hespler Rifle Association, unless they immediately invest in a gatling. It was a mistake this team was not sent to shoot for the Kolopore. Following is the score:—

A PLUCKY CLIMB.

"I am very sorry, Harry, but, as business is now, I can't afford yon the trip."

"I understand, father," replied Harry; "and under the circumstances I wouldn't want to go, even if you gave me the money." The young man spoke bravely enough, but a lump rose in his throat, and his lip trembled, though he was a full-fledged college sophomore.

Harry Adams had just returned from his first year at college. He had been fortunate enough in a competitive examination in geology to secure an appointment as one of a party of ten that was to explore the Grand Canyon of Colorado in search of fossils and other specimens for the college museum. The party was to be in charge of Prof. Wilson, and the trip was to last about two months.

The funds provided by the museum, however, were insignificant, and it was understood that, wherever possible, the successful competitors were to pay their own expenses. This made an appointment seem rather an empty honor. But Prof. Wilson's reputation as a geologist, together with the glowing reports of expeditions by previous classes of the beauty of the scenery, the excellent hunting and the fun and excitement of "roughing it," so aroused the enthusiasm of the class that more than 50 students took the examination.

Harry had never been regarded as a scholar, but rather as a leader of athletics in his class. He had set his heart on the Western trip, however, and had devoted all his energies to securing an appointment, even going so far as to give up his exercise in the gymnasium. His success was a great surprise to those who did not know how hard and faithfully he had been working.

Now, however, his efforts seemed to have been all in vain. His father had met with severe business reverses, and Harry had the sense to see that even the comparatively small sum he would require would add to his father's embarrassment. As for the museum fund, even had he been disposed to take advantage of it, that had already been disposed of. With a heavy heart, therefore, Harry wrote to Professor Wilson resigning his hard earned prize.

On the Saturday after his return from college Mr. Adams and Harry took advantage of the half-holiday for an afternoon's fishing. Three miles from Lawrence, where Mr. Adams lived, was Penn's Mill, and Harry had heard reports of fine catches of pike above the dam.

They secured a boat, rowed a short distance up stream, where, in the course of an hour or two of good sport, they landed a fine mess of the big-mouthed, gamy fish.

Just as they were preparing to return they heard a loud shout and then a confusion of cries. Looking toward the big mill down below them, they saw flames pouring from one of the windows on the first floor.

With all haste they rowed ashore and hurried to the mill. By the time they arrived the first floor was all ablaze, and the flames were spreading to the second. There had been an explosion of some kind, and the men had barely escaped with their lives. Saving anything was out of the question, and the mill hands and farmers from near by could only look on helplessly and watch the building burn.

"Is everybody out?" asked Mr. Penn, the owner of the mill. He was congratulating himself on having recently insured his property.

"All out," answered the foreman. "Every man accounted for."

But there was another answer to the question.

"Papa! Papa! Come and take me down!" cried a child's scared voice.

The mill was a high, four-story building. On the fourth floor, which was used as a loft, was a front door through which grain was taken as it was hoisted from the wagons below. The hoisting apparatus, which was rather old-fashioned, consisted of a rope and an arrangement of pulleys fastened to beams projecting from the roof.

In that upper doorway stood the miller's only child, Freddie, a bright little fellow 3 or 4 years old. He had climbed into the loft on an exploring expedition, and after playing about for awhile had fallen asleep there. Now, suddenly awakened, without knowing exactly what his danger was, he was thoroughly frightened and crying bitterly.

"My little Fritz! Oh, save him!" cried Mr. Fenn. The frantic father would have rushed to certain death in the burning mill had he not been restrained by force. There was but one way to save the boy, and that was by means of the hoist rope, which hung from the roof beams to the ground. The flames fortunately had been confined chiefly to the rear of the building, else the rope would have been burned.

Freddy's voice had no sooner been heard than half a dozen of the mill hands and farmers sprang toward the rope. The first to reach it was a young workman who enjoyed the reputation of being the strongest and most athletic hand in the mill. Seizing the rope, he began to draw himself up hand over hand.

But the man had not got twenty feet above the ground before he found that lifting heavy weights and climbing a rope were entirely different feats. Each time he raised his hand it covered a shorter distance, and after five or six feet more, to the dismay of the crowd below, he came to a stop, exhausted. He gave the rope a twist around his leg, and tried in that manner to get a rest for his tired biceps. Then he started bravely up again, but the little fellow was still eight or ten feet above him when his muscles again gave out. He had barely the strength to hold fast to the rope as he slipped back to the ground, which he reached with the palms of his hands badly torn.

Where "Big Tom" Rider had failed it seemed useless for anyone else to try. Nevertheless, several others of the most active attempted the rope, but in each case without success.

The fire meanwhile was making rapid headway, and puffs of smoke began to come from the door where Freddie still stood, screaming at the top of his lungs.

Now Harry Adams, both at his preparatory school and at college, had devoted a great deal of time to athletics. He had always taken part in the winter meetings in the gymnasium, and had competed successfully in the rope-climbing contests, a game which, though it seems to depend entirely on strength of muscle, depends quite as much on skill and knack.

Harry was among those who had rushed to the rope when Freddie's cry was first heard. While Tom Rider was making his attempt, he threw off his coat and shoes, satisfied from the clumsy manner in which the mill hand went about it that, no matter what his strength, he would never reach the fourth floor. When Rider came down Harry tried to get hold of the rope, but was shoved aside. It was not until all the others had failed that he got a chance.

Harry's heart misgave him somewhat as he estimated the distance he had to climb. He was not in condition, and besides, the length of rope on which he had practiced in the college gymnasium was but twenty-five feet, while the hoist rope was more than forty feet long.

He started up, however, at an even pace and the crowd saw at once from the smooth way in which he progressed and from the upward kick of both legs each time he raised himself, which relieved the arms for a moment of their weight, that he understood how to climb a rope. Harry also avoided the mistake which the other would-be rescuers had made of trying to do nearly all the lifting with the upper hand. At each raise he distributed the weight as equally as possible on each arm.

The crowd, which had become almost breathless when it saw the scientific manner in which Harry began the ascent of the rope, gave a great cheer when he reached the point where Rider had been forced to give up.

Harry, however, was tiring fast. His lack of condition told against him. His arms felt heavy as lead, and an iron band seemed tighting around his chest. But the sight of the frightened little face, now but a few feet above him, nerved him to a desperate effort. In a few seconds more he had reached the door and swung himself in.

Then another great shout went up from the crowd.

The rest was easy. First taking an empty flour bag in his hand, he lifted Freddie in his arms and told him to hold fast around his neck, an order which the child obeyed with an energy that nearly choked his rescuer. Using the bag to protect his hands, Harry caught the rope, and, taking a twist in it with his foot, slipped swiftly and safely down upon the shoulders of as many of the crowd as could gather under him.

The heat by this time had become intense even in the front of the mill, and Harry and his burden had hardly reached the ground when the flames burst from the fourth story floor and set the rope afire.

Mr. Penn's joy and gratitude knew no bounds. He kissed and hugged Fritz and Harry alternately, and then both together, and even Mr. Adams came in for a share of his demonstrations.

Harry, as soon as he could, escaped from his rather embarrassing position, and, with his father, returned to the boat, where they gathered up their fish and then drove home.

"Are you all right, Harry?" asked Mr. Adams, anxiously, as soon as they were alone.

"Didn't even raise a blister," answered Harry, exhibiting the palms of his hands.

"Well, I'm proud of you," said Mr. Adams, and that was the only praise Harry ever got from him. But from a man of so few words as his father Harry felt it was quite enough.

Mr. Penn, who was an old acquaintance of the Adams family, drove into Lawrence a day or two later to see Harry. He wanted to show his gratitude to the young man in some more practical manner than by words alone, but was at a loss to know how to go about it. He was relieved of his uncertainty in an unexpected manner. While he was waiting in Mr. Adams' office Harry's youngest brother entered.

"Harry ain't going out West, after all," began the youngster, after exchanging greetings with the visitor.

Mr. Penn was surprised, for he knew Harry had secured an appointment.

"Why not?" he asked.

"Oh, papa hasn't got enough money just now," was the frank but rather startling answer. Mr. Penn changed the subject, but he had received an idea.

"Harry, my boy," he said, placing his hands on the young man's shoulders as he entered the office, "I've come to thank you again for saving all I have held dear in the world since little Fritz's mother died. I would like to thank you, too, in a more practical manner. Isn't there anything I can do for you?"

"Why, of course not, Mr. Penn," answered Harry. "It really wasn't anything, after all, except climbing a rope, and I'm used to doing that for fun. Poor Tom Rider is the fellow who suffered."

"I've looked after him," said Mr. Penn. "Now, see here. I understand you are going West with the University expedition. I want you to let me give you that trip."

It required a great deal of argument on Mr. Penn's part to persuade Harry to accept the offer. He "gave in," though, finally, after a talk with his father. That night he wrote to Prof. Wilson withdrawing his resignation.

Harry received a check from Mr. Penn next day for $500, more than twice the amount he required. He at once drove out to the mill and tried to argue the matter with the miller, but the latter was obdurate, and refused to take the check back. In fact, he seemed so much hurt at the idea of Harry's considering the amount too large that the young man was forced to keep it in spite of himself.

So Harry Adams visited the Grand Canyon, after all, and a jollier time he never had in his life in spite of a great deal of hard work with pickax, shovel, hammer and chisel. WALTER C DOHM.

THE G. O. M. OF CHINA.

LI HUNG CHANG, THE PREMIER OF THE EMPIRE.

A Celestial Statesman of Great Ability Who Is Progressive—The Bismarck of China—Frank G. Carpenter Interviews Him for Our Readers.

TIEN-TSIN, CHINA—I have just returned from the palace of the greatest man in China. I refer to Li Hung Chang. He is the premier of the Chinese government, the viceroy of the imperial province of Chihli, and the power behind the throne which governs the fate of nearly five hundred millions of people. In his own province he has almost supreme control of a population numbering 85,000,000, and here a wink of his eye can out off a head. He has more power than any ruler in Europe, with, perhaps, the single exception of the czar, and he is almost the sole representative of the government in its dealings with foreign nations. He has control of the Chinese navy. His army is by all odds the best in the empire, and he has at his back ten thousand more troops than the standing army of the United States. These troops have been trained by European military officers. They are all armed with the latest of modern guns, and they know no master but Li Hung Chang. They are, in fact, practically his slaves.

Li Hung Chang is the most progressive Chinaman of to-day. Gen. Grant spent some time with him here during his tour of the world, and the two talked over the future of China together. They discussed military and civil matters, and Gen. Grant said he considered Li Hung Chang one of the greatest statesmen of the age. He called him the Bismarck of China and was wont to compare him with Gladstone. The two men fell in love with each other, and they corresponded to the day of Gen. Grant's death. Now, on every Decoration Day, the Chinese legation at Washington sends, by the orders of Li, flowers to place on Gen. Grant's grave, and during my talk with the viceroy he was very solicitous as to the health of Mrs. Grant. The two men had a great deal in common. Their careers were somewhat similar. Li was the son of a great scholar in the province of Anhui. His father was, however, poor, and he had no official rank. Li was given a good Chinese education, and he soon jumped to the front as one of the greatest scholars in China. He passed three public examinations, which means that he was three times one of the 200 successful men out of the 15,000 competitors, and at his last examination he took the highest degree of the whole 15,000. He is a member of the Hanlin College, the most learned body of China, and he had a great deal to do in the education of the emperor. His scholarship gave him the position of military secretary to Gen. Tseng Kuo Fan, one of China's most famous statesmen of the past, and from here he rose to the governorship of the state of Kiangsi. He was acting as such during the Tai Ping rebellion, and it was he who, in connection with the American adventurer, Ward, and Chinese Gordon, put down this rebellion. Li Hung Chang was the commander-in-chief of the imperial forces, and the rebels were slaughtered by the millions. It is estimated that 10,000,000 of people were killed during this rebellion, and when it was over Li's fortune was made. This was away back in the fifties, and Li Hung Chang has since then been the leading figure in Chinese history. He rose from his governorship to be viceroy of Wuchang, and as such controlled millions of people in central China. He was next made the viceroy of this, the imperial province. His capital here is one of the biggest cities of China, and it contains more than a million people. It is the centre of the northern trade of the empire, and Li has control of everything that comes into North China. This trade amounts to many millions of dollars a year.

He is a pure Chinaman, but he has adopted many modern methods. He manages his great official force much like one of our western executives and he has a staff of interpreters who keep him posted on what is going on over the world. He subscribes to the clipping bureaus and everything that is printed in Europe and America concerning China is sent here and translated for him. He has control of the Chinese telegraph system and it was he

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

Gives Instant Relief.

DR. CHASE'S

OINTMENT

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—ulcers and tumors form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly afflicted from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause than Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

FRED H. DIXON, Secretary.

who introduced the electric wire into China. From his capital now runs more than 8,000 miles of wire, connecting him with the emperor and with the governors of all the provinces, and he has the news of all the world cabled to him daily.

But let me describe the interview I had with this great statesman in his palace. It was arranged for me through the American consul to Tien-Tsin, Mr. Sherman P. Rendle, and the secretary of the Chinese navy, the Hon. Lo Feng Luh.

I was first led into two reception rooms and was given a seat in the more honored one of the two, the place reserved for Chinese mandarins of high rank. It was rather ragged for a palace and for the ruler of such a vast people.

After a time the word came that the viceroy was ready to receive us. We rose and walked out behind a gorgeous but somewhat official, who held my red card high up in the air before him and strutted like a drum major. We walked through long corridors running around open courts, and at last came into a large parlor furnished in half Chinese, half European style. Here we met a Japanese screen by a table stood a tall old man to whom the secretary of the navy bowed low as he introduced me. It was Li Hung Chang, the great viceroy of China. His personality impressed me even more forcibly than when I met him in that same room five years ago. He is now 74 years of age, but stands firmly and his long gown, which reaches to his feet, makes him look like a giant. He is in fact 6 feet 2 inches in his stockings, and the thick soles of his Chinese shoes add another inch to his stature. He has a slight stoop. His shoulders are broad, and in his prime he must have possessed great muscular power. He is by no means an old looking man to-day. There are few wrinkles in his cream-colored face, and his straggling beard is black, mixed with silver. His eyes are black, bright and piercing and the eyelids are of the pronounced almond shape. He has high cheek bones and a full forehead. His black one is mixed with gray, and his head when I met him to-day was crowned with a black satin Chinese cap, in the front of which glittered a solitaire diamond as big as the end of your thumb.

Li Hung Chang received me with a stately bow, slightly bending his body, but not offering his hand. He then motioned me to follow him and conducted me into the second parlor, where he receives visitors of state. The talk commenced with his asking me how old I was. I told him and thereupon said that I hoped that if I lived to be 74 I would look as healthy and be able to work as hard at that age as he did. I said to him that he looked no older than he did when I was here five years ago, and asked him what was the secret whereby he was able to retain his wonderful youth.

As this was translated to him the viceroy's eye brightened. I could see the remark pleased him and he replied: "You are right when you think I have good health. I do a great deal of work and I expect to do a great deal in the years to come. In your country people say that a man should divide his day into three parts. Eight hours should be devoted to sleep, eight to outdoor exercise and eight to work. I sleep only five hours a day. I work about twelve hours and I take a regular amount of exercise every day. I think my health is largely due to my temperance and to the regularity of my habits. I do everything by rule and I plan my work systematically. I don't worry and I sleep well. I required eight hours' sleep until I was 30 years of age, but now I find that five are sufficient for me. I do not exercise in the open air, but take a walk within the yamen every day and limit myself to a certain number of steps." Here Mr. Lo, the interpreter added: "His excellency takes 5,000 steps in the way of exercising daily and he finds this exercise keeps his muscles in good condition."

I asked as to his diet. The question was repeated to him and his answer, as translated, was: "I believe that man should be very careful of his eating, and I never overload my stomach. I know by experience what agrees with me and I take nothing else. The foreign doctors tell me I ought to eat more heavy meats, but I find that a mixed Chinese and European diet suits me best. I believe in eating plenty of vegetables. I think well of beef juice and eat considerable of it. I do not drink much wine and think man is just as well off without it."

I referred to the future of China, and asked the viceroy whether he thought the country would be developed by Europeans or by the Chinese. He replied that there would undoubtedly be a great development and that railroads would cover China as with a net. He believes that it will eventually do all its own manufacturing and that in the future it will enter the markets of the world as a great manufacturing nation. Already, he told me, the statesmen of the empire are making experiments of all kinds in this line and their cotton factories are to-day among the largest of the world, and other vast works are planned. He gave me to understand, though he did not use these words, that the motto of China from now on would be "China for the Chinese," and intimated that the Chinaman could hold his own against the world as a worker and manufacturer. He was very gracious in his treatment of me, and the interview lasted for nearly an hour. It was closed by the bringing in of three glasses of champagne, after the sipping of which the viceroy walked with myself and Mr. Lo Feng Luh out to the outer door of the yamen and shook my hand in American fashion as he said good-by.

LOYAL ORANGEMEN AT WORSHIP.

A VERY LARGE TURN-OUT OF THE BRETHREN.

Attending Divine Service at St. Andrews — Sermon by Rev. A. McWilliams.

Yesterday evening the members of the Orange fraternity attended divine worship in a body. The various Orange bodies assembled at the lodge rooms, corner of Simcoe and George streets, and a procession, headed by the Fire Brigade band, formed and marched to St. Andrews' Presbyterian church. The following lodges were represented in the procession:

Young True Blues.
Queen's Own True Blues, No. 48.
Jubilee Lodge of Prentice Boys, No. 7.
L.O.L. No. 49.

The procession marched to St. Andrew's church, where the special sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. A. McWilliams:

St. Andrew's beautiful church was crowded to excess, the aisles, porches, everywhere being filled. The Orangemen, about 300 in number, occupied the centre seats, completely filling them. Each lodge donned its special uniform and looked quite imposing. After singing "Praise God from Whom all Blessings Flow," "All hail the Power of Jesus' Name," "Stand up for Jesus," reading of the 17th chapter of the Acts, and prayer, the Rev. Mr. McWilliams took for his text Acts 17, 11, "These were more noble than those in Thessalonica in that they received the word with all readiness of mind and searched the Scriptures daily whether these things were so."

After the introduction which related the circumstances under which the text was spoken, Mr. MacWilliams said that here we have the Thessalonians and the Bereans contrasted and the Bereans declared by God to be the more noble. Various reasons were given why they were the more noble.

First, they received the word with all readiness of mind. This implied love and reverence for the truth. The Bereans believed with the Apostle, that "prophecy came not in old time by the will of man, but that holy men of God spoke as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." They, therefore, took the word as the light to their feet and the lamp to their path. It was sweeter to them than honey and the honey comb. But they not merely received it but they received it with

ALL READINESS OF MIND.

This implied that they were the subjects of grace, that their hearts were disposed to the word by the Holy Spirit, for the carnal mind is enmity—against God and also against His word. This work of grace was the foundation of all nobility.

Second.—They searched the Scriptures daily whether these things were so.

This was a second reason why they were the more noble. This manifested great wisdom on their part. They were not willing to accept a strange doctrine from a strange man without testing its verity by the Holy word. This was wisdom. Then diligent search also implied a strong, yearning desire to know the truth. It also put great honour on the word of God. It declared it to be and to be the only infallible rule of life which it is. Then it honoured God. It declared that God had succeeded in his design, in giving to us a rule of life that could be understood generally and used by all.

But third, the Bereans were more noble because they were more tolerant. Here Mr. MacWilliams defined religious tolerance to be "suffering every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience." Tolerance employed no means to coerce people to think or worship as they do. The Thessalonians were intolerant and were determined to silence the Apostle, while the Bereans were tolerant, suffering him to believe and worship as he deemed fit. For this threefold reason, then, the Bereans were more noble than the Thessalonians.

Having explained the text thus, Mr. MacWilliams then proceeded to try Protestantism and Romanism by these divine tests to ascertain which was the more noble.

Firstly, the more noble had receptive minds for the word. "They received the word." This implied love and reverence for the truth. Love and reverence for the truth would manifest itself by prayerful study of the word. If we received a letter from a loving father or mother we read and re-read it over and over until its every truth was written upon our souls. So the Word of God is just the letter of our kind and loving Heavenly Father and if we love Him we will read and study his blessed letter until its sweet and precious truths are indelibly written upon the tablets of our soul. Here Mr. MacWilliams proceeded to show that while Protestants were encouraged to study the Holy Word for themselves, that Catholics were discouraged and even prohibited from reading it in the vernacular by the Council of Toulouse, 1229 A. D. But again, love and reverence for the Holy Word manifested itself in PRESERVING THE WORD FROM ERROR.

This the Protestants had done notwithstanding all that was said about the heretics' Bible. The most ancient manuscripts have been employed by the most scholarly and spiritually minded men to procure the word as free from error as possible. He did not believe that this much could be said of some editions of the Catholic Bible. Here Mr. MacWilliams quoted from a controversial letter by Mr. Green in the Daily Witness of April 16th, 1892, to substantiate his allegation:

"First, one of the commandments was omitted while another was greatly mutilated. The Word was also corrupted by mingling with it the apocrypha and such silly fables as the song of the three children, Susanna, Bell and the Dragon.

The word penance was over and over inserted for repentance, as in Job 42:6, Ezekiel 18:21, I Kings 8:47, Matt. 4:7, where instead of "Repent for the kingdom of heaven is at hand" it is "Do penance for the kingdom, etc." A was printed at Bordeaux in 1686, prepared by the Louvain divines, expressly to teach Romish doctrine. Acts 13 is perverted to make it teach the mass. In Acts 18:30 the word priest is inserted instead of elder. I. Cor. 11:2 is also made to teach the authority of tradition. Thus it goes on. Thus it was not Protestants but our Catholic brethren who had perverted the Holy Word. Such perversion was a terrible sin and an index of lack of love and reverence for the Holy Word.

But love and reverence for the word would not merely preserve from error but from destruction. This our Catholic brethren had not done, but on the contrary had frequently, even in our own Dominion, collected them together and consigned them to the flames. Thus, tried by this test of love and reverence for the word, Protestants were the more noble. But again, receiving the word with all readiness of mind, implied that their minds were prepared by the Holy Spirit for the reception of the truth. Therefore, the more noble were the more spiritual. This was the foundation of all true nobility. Mr. MacWilliams believed that the Catholic religion by its very nature militated against a strong spiritual life. Personal study of the word was absolutely essential to a vigorous spiritual life. This was discouraged. Their worship was too ritualistic; formal instead of spiritual. Much of the service was conducted in a language unknown by the worshippers and what edification was there in that? Here Mr. McWilliams proceeded to contrast the moral and spiritual condition of natures under Romanism and Protestantism. The moral and religious condition of Spain, Mexico, Brazil and especially Equador were referred to. In Equador the effect of Catholicism was probably best seen as it was wholly Catholic. There was a church to every 150 of the population. One quarter of the property belonged to the Bishop. Ten per cent. of the population were priests, monks or nuns. Two hundred and seventy-two days of the year were feast days. Illiteracy is the normal condition. Cock fights and bull fights are the common amusements and 70 % of the children are illegitimate. (From Curtis' Capitals of Spanish America and Statesman's Year Book.) Thus the Catholic religion did not generally produce a strong spiritual life. Tried by this test the speaker believed Protestants to be the more noble.

Secondly, The more noble tested the doctrines by the Word of God. "They searched the Scriptures daily." This implied great wisdom on their part. It implied a strong, craving desire to know the truth. It put great honour upon the Word and honoured God. Tried by this Divine test the Protestants were the more noble, for they preeminently searched the Scriptures. They believed the Word to be what it was, the only infallible rule of life, above every human being of whatever name. And they believed it was quite safe and right for all to personally test every doctrine by the Word, and by so doing God's wisdom in giving us such a book was acknowledged. Tested, therefore by the searching of the Scriptures, the Protestants were the more noble for they searched and encouraged the searching, while our Catholic brethern discouraged it.

Thirdly, and lastly, the more noble were the most tolerant. Religious tolerance was suffering every one to worship God according to

THE DICTATES OF HIS OWN CONSCIENCE.

This was all. It ended there. It has nothing to do with suffering any religious body to enjoy special favours from any Government. Some religious bodies are continually seeking these as the price of favours, and when other religious bodies object there is the cry of intolerance. It is no intolerance, nay more it is the duty of every true citizen to protest with all his might against such favours. Tried by this test of tolerance which was the more noble? The question was easily answered. That Protestants have been and are still free from religious intolerance is not true. There is to-day among Protestants a species of intolerance that is unrighteous. It may be understood by the term "boycott." If a person doesn't belong to this or that communion there is refusal to deal with him of a merchant, to employ him if a doctor or lawyer. This is religious intolerance. It is coercion to make that person worship at your altar and is unrighteous in principle: and Protestants as well as Catholics are guilty of such. But Roman intolerance, I am sorry to say, has far exceeded this. It has employed the sword to constrain others to believe and worship as they do. Many refused and for so doing the blood of millions of God's dear children flowed upon the ground. The darkest pages of history record their cruel massacres. Romanism has not changed. "I would, said the preacher, God that she had." But it is her proud boast that she never changes, therefore she has never expressed sorrow or repentance for such dark crimes. Nay, more, we see that she still lusts for civil as well as religious power. She longs to wield the carnal as well as the spiritual sword, and we have every reason to believe that if she did that the sword of intolerance would again be unsheathed and bathed with the blood of all who would refuse to worship at her altar. Tried by these divine tests, we believe that Protestants are the more noble. "These were more noble than those in Thessalonica. The reverend gentleman concluded a powerful sermon of 45 minutes by a strong appeal to all present to examine themselves whether they be among the truly noble. He said, "Thus are we all among the more noble when measured by the divine standard. True nobility consisted not in the name but in the character. If not, I appeal to you to receive the word with all readiness of mind, to search the Scriptures daily whether these things are so, to ever exercise true religious tolerance, and if you do all shall be well for time and eternity. You shall now be enrolled by the King of Kings among the more noble, and when time with you is no more, your pilgrim journey ended, you shall go home to the celestial city to receive your reward, yea, to dwell with the more noble in the presence of the elder brother for ever and ever more world without end. Amen."

At the conclusion of the service the procession reformed, and headed by the band playing distinctive Orange airs, returned to the lodge rooms, when open lodge was held, and the usual resolutions of thanks to the Rev. Mr. MacWilliams, and the managers of the church were passed.

On the second round the Britannia reached Ascog at 3.02.15 and the Vigilant at 3.03.20. Vigilant was first to cross the line at 4.17.55. ## DEATH OF SENATOR GLAZIER

Major-General Herbert Writes a Letter Reinstating Colonel Powell—The Conference Has a Quiet Session on the Trade Question—Other Notes.

OTTAWA, July 9.—Major-General Herbert has written a letter to Colonel Powell reinstating him as adjutant-general of the militia. The fact that the officer commanding has taken this course does away with the talk in military circles that the trouble might lead to the resignation of the Major-General. Since the story was given to the public of Colonel Powell's suspension every mail has brought to the Department of Militia scores of letters from officers all over the country sympathising with him. Colonel Powell resumed his duties to-day.

The remains of Senator Glazier, who died at the Grand Union here on Saturday, were forwarded to his late home at Sudbury in the evening. Deceased was 84 years of age and was appointed to the Senate in 1868. He was a Liberal. He was only ailing for a week, general debility being the cause of death.

Mrs. Ives has left for Sherbrooke.

Lady Tupper and family have gone to Kamouraska.

The city Orangemen had a parade to the Eastern Methodist church yesterday, where Rev. Mr. Mavety preached to them. Grand Master Wallace was noticed in the parade.

The Colonial Conference had another day's discussion of the trade question. No decision was arrived at and President Bowell said he had no news for the press. To night a dinner is to be given in their honor by Sir John and Lady Thompson in the Senate restaurant, to which about 50 guests have been invited. To-morrow they leave on the train for Toronto and Niagara Falls. In the evening they will attend a banquet given by the Toronto Board of Trade. On Thursday they will visit Kingston. Taking the boat there on Friday morning the party will visit the Thousand Islands and run the Rapids on the way to Montreal, reaching there in time for the banquet by the Board of Trade in the evening. Next Monday they will leave by boat for Quebec, where they will stay for two days and be banqueted at the Chateau Frontenac.

The post-office employes have not as yet been paid and a great deal of dissatisfaction is felt over the fact. The Postmaster-General says that it is unavoidable as all the moneys appropriated had been spent for unforseen expenses, and no money could be had until the estimates were voted. This is no doubt caused through the prorogation of the House of Commons.

The revenue statement for the year ending June 30th last shows a total of $35,382,899, compared with $37,183,255 for the year previous. There was expended on capital account $4,738,156 for the past year, compared with $3,584,804 for the year 1893. The total expenditure on consolidated fund and capital account for the past year amounts to $35,493,515, which, compared with revenue for the year, shows a deficit of $110,616. There was an increase in expenditure during the past year of over $100,000. The revenue for the month of June last dropped nearly $500,000 as compared with the previous year.

MONTREAL, July 9.—A statement has been prepared showing the Richelieu Navagation Company's earnings for eleven weeks, from the opening of navigation to June 20. The gross earnings were $153,442.03 and the total running expenses $76,750.07, leaving the net receipts at $78,691.96. The total number of passengers carried, exclusive of excursions and pilgrimages, was 242,658. The increase of gross receipts over last year is $26,000.

Killed in a Sawmill.

SHELBURNE, N.S., July 9.—The three-year old son of G. W. Lantz, of Centreville, was instantly killed in the sawmill of his father by a revolving shaft which protruded two feet above the floor. It is supposed the child thoughtlessly approached and took hold of the shaft, which was revolving with such velocity as to appear almost motionless, when he was thrown with such violence against an adjoining beam as to cause instant death, his head being literally smashed to pieces.

Action for Illegal Imprisonment.

MONTREAL, July 9.—Mr. Elzear Rousseau, notary, has entered an action for $50,000 against the community of the Brothers of Charity of St. Vincent de Prul. The Brothers have charge of the Asile St. Jean de Dieu and also of the St. Benoit Joseph Asylum at Longue Pointe. Mr. Rousseau complains that the Brothers, without legal authority, imprisoned him in the latter establishment from May, 1890, to October, 1893.

Montreal's Weekly Trolley Accident.

MONTREAL, July 9.—Montreal is keeping up its record in the matter of trolley car accidents. ## REFUSE TO ARBITRATE

The Pullman Company Maintains a Defiant Attitude.

WAR NOW TO THE KNIFE

A Hundred Thousand Men Will Quit Work in Sympathy With the Boycott—A Riot at Grape Creek Results Fatally—Two Women Killed.

CHICAGO, July 10.—It is war to the knife and the knife to the hilt. The powers have spoken and the most tremendous strike known to history will be inaugurated to-day when the evening whistles blow and 100,000 men lay down their work not to return until the Pullman boycott is settled.

Yesterday was the most quiet Chicago has experienced since the great Pullman boycott was declared. But it was the quiet that precedes the storm, and beneath the strange stillness the ear of the close watcher of events could catch the ominous rumbling of an industrial cyclone threatening dread disaster and fearful destruction, a storm whose awful portends none may read and whose vast consequences none may forecast.

The strike to-day will be augmented by the practical cessation of all industry and the almost complete paralysis of commerce in and about the city. At the meeting composed of delegates from all of the Trades Unions in Chicago in Uhlich's Hall on Sunday night it was determined that a last attempt be made to get the Pullman Company to arbitrate its differences with its workingmen and a committee of seven was appointed to call upon the Mayor with a view to securing the co-operation of prominent business men in securing from the Pullman Company the concession asked for—arbitration. A brief meeting was held in the mayor's office which adjourned to another meeting with the city council committee on arbitration. At the latter meeting Ald. McGillen, chairman of the council committee, made the suggestion that a committee be appointed who should investigate and determine whether the Pullman Company's statement that there was nothing to arbitrate was true and just; that the committee be composed of two members named by the Pullman Company, two to be named by the judges of the Circuit Court of Cook County and the fifth by the four first chosen.

The suggestion was adopted by the joint committee and a sub-committee appointed to present the proposition to the Pullman Company. The sub-committee repaired at once to the office of Vice-President Wickes, of the Pullman, and requested an interview with that gentleman. It was granted and then followed a scene which bids fair to rival in historic interest and importance any event in the history of labor. Every man present felt the extreme gravity of the hour and the silence, through which the voices of the speakers seemed painfully distinct, was oppressive.

"Do you come as an official of the city?" Mr. Wickes asked the alderman.

"I do," replied Mr. McGillen.

"Do you represent the Mayor in this matter?" inquired the Pullman official.

"The Mayor will endorse our action here," the alderman replied. Alderman McGillen placed before Mr. Wickes the proposition as authorized by the full committee. Once, as the aldermen halted for an instant, Mr. Wickes said:

"The company cannot recede from the position it has already held."

The interjection aroused Aldermen McGillen and he eloquently portrayed the situation in all its bearings and the inevitable consequences unless a settlement were reached. Mr. Wickes listened attentively. He seemed touched by the appeal and when the spokesman had concluded retired with Attorney John S. Runnells of the Pullman Company for consultation. The delay was of brief duration. When he returned every one present read in Vice-President Wickes' stern face the full answer he would make. The feeling was intense and the little throng composed of committeemen and members of the press waited breathlessly for him to speak. Addressing Aldermen McGillen Mr. Wickes said:

"The Pullman Company has nothing to arbitrate."

Then there was a painful silence. Alderman McGillen seemed paralyzed for a moment. He could not believe the Pullman Company would assume a responsibility so grave. "Am I to understand," he slowly said, "that the Pullman Company refuse this slight request made at so grave an hour and upon which so much depends?"

"The Pullman Company has nothing to arbitrate" reiterated Vice-President Wickes.

Ald. McGillen said with great impressiveness: "Mr. Wickes, your company demands the police protection of the federal government, the state of Illinois, the county of Cook and the city of Chicago, and yet you utterly ignore a fair request made by the city, a request the fundamental idea of which is the preservation of peace. We have come to you as conservatives of the peace and you have assumed grave responsibilities in thus refusing the request we make—a responsibility greater perhaps than you are aware."

"There is a principle involved in this matter," replied Mr. Wickes, "which the Pullman company will not surrender. It is that employers must be permitted to run their business in their own way and without interference from their employes or from anybody else. We shall not allow anyone to tell us how our business shall be conducted and we shall not consent to arbitration. Our business is our own private affair and we want no interference from federal or state or any other government."

There was nothing more to say. One hundred thousand men will quit work to-night for an indefinite period in a contest for the principle of arbitration.

SOVEREIGN STAYS HIS HAND.

Awaiting the Action of Chicago Trades Unions—Debs Willing to Arbitrate.

CHICAGO, July 10.—Several freight cars were fired yesterday on the Belt Line tracks at 91st street. The flames were extinguished before much damage was done. Belt Line switchmen at Englewood have been armed with revolvers in anticipation of an attempt to stop trains by rioters.

Representatives of the Englewood police told of a plan to fire the Rock Island shops at 47th street and a strong guard was sent. General Miles issued a general order to the troops, directing them, under the President's proclamation, to disperse all riotous gatherings.

General Master Workman Sovereign of the Knights of Labor says he had determined to delay the order for a strike of his order until to-morrow. He said: "I make this postponement to await the outcome of the fight amongst Chicago's trades unions. I do not consider it impossible that the tremendous importance of a paralysis of Chicago's industries may force George M. Pullman and the railroads to meet the American Railway Union half way in measures for a settlement. It is high time public sentiment should move the corporations to arbitration.

"Mr. Debs has all along evidenced his willingness for arbitration, and the general managers should assume that manner, too. As soon as the result of the conference between Mayor Hopkins and the Union Committee is known we shall take up the question of calling out the Knights of Labor. I feel that the union men did the right thing last night. The minute the President's proclamation was received I knew there could be but one event—the strike order—and I am glad of it."

President Deb's address to the public, issued several days ago, is being distributed in pamphlet form to the workingmen of this city.

An Untruthful Report.

The talk of President Eugene V. Debs of the American Railway Union taking to drink and suffering from nervous prostration is pronounced by his friends to be wholly untrue. Reporters have been with Debs day and night during all the time he has been out of bed and can also assert with perfect safety that the strike leader has not as yet yielded to any bibulous temptations.

Served With Injunctions.

President Debs, Director Rogers and Secretary Kelliher were served with new injunctions yesterday issued by Judge Taft of the United States Court in Ohio. The injunction is similar to the one issued here, and commands those named to appear before the court at Columbus.

Improved Situation in Chicago.

There are no indications within the immediate limits of the city that the railroad strike or boycott is in existence. On the majority of the roads having their terminals in the city through passengers as well as suburban trains are moving on time. The members of the Railroad Manager's Association claimed last night that so far as the local situation is concerned the backbone of the strike has been broken. The tracks in the stock yards district were patrolled by regulars and State militia up to 3 o'clock when it became evident that mob violence had been deferred if not abandoned and except at one or two points where a few men were left as a precautionary measure, the troops were called off. The reports of the General Managers' Association indicated a decided improvement in the movement of trains, both passenger and freight.

Another Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The President has issued another proclamation similar to the preceding one, although general in its import. It includes the States of North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Wyoming, Colorado and California, and the territories of Utah and New Mexico. This proclamation takes effect at 3 p.m. to-day.

TWO WOMEN KILLED.

Stray Bullets Again Find Innocent Marks—Two Men Fatally Shot.

DANVILLE, Ill., July 10.—Seven freight cars were burned in the upper end of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad and word afterwards came that the Shelbyville passenger train on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois was stopped at Grape Creek, a mining settlement six miles south of here. A squad of militia was sent there to move the train. As soon as they arrived they were set on by a crowd and the troops claim they were fired upon first. The officers, who were in front, returned the fire, and one man whose name is not known was fatally injured. Two women were killed by stray bullets. Their names are Miss Clara James and Mrs. Michael Glennon. Miss James was in her house and Mrs. Glennon was in her yard, a short distance from the scene of the trouble. The miners are greatly excited over the shooting and trouble is expected.

Non-Union Man Shot.

H. M. Zauley, a non-union brakesman on the Eastern Illinois, who arrived on the local freight train from Terre Haute, was fatally shot in the neck here last evening. When the train arrived he was surrounded by a crowd, who jeered him. It is claimed by the strikers that he fired three shots before the fatal shot was returned. The officials of the road claim that he never fired, but was shot from ambush. The town is wild with excitement.

Reports from Other Points.

DALLAS, July 10.—Santa Fe switchmen struck yesterday at Galveston and here. Employes on railroads entering Fort Worth have held several meetings and voted not to go out on Debs' order. This is important as nearly all roads centre there.

HUDSON, Wis., July 10.—There is trouble at Spooner, and Adjutant-General Falk has summoned the military companies from here, Eau Claire and Menominee. The mob has cut the wires and no details are obtainable.

MASSILON, Ohio, July 10.—The Wheeling & Lake Erie Company announced last evening that no freight would be received until further notice. The A. R. U. men at Norwalk and on the Huron docks followed the example of the Massilon union and the tie-up is complete.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 10.—All freight trains are tied-up on the Kanawha and Michigan Railroad in this city and nothing but passenger and mails were allowed to go out.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., July 10.—A meeting of engineers of the Chicago and Grand Trunk here decided by a majority vote to return to work. A number say they will not return and the strikers claim enough men to keep the road tied up.

BALTIMORE, July 10.—Charles R. Small, General Passenger Agent of the Baltimore and Ohio, has announced that the regular schedule of passenger trains had been resumed on the Chicago division of that road.

BUFFALO, July 10.—President Malloan, of the local branch of the American Railway Union, was seen by a United Press reporter last evening and in reply to inquiries as to the prospects for an immediate strike here said: "As far as I am concerned I shall not order any strike at present. The situation does not warrant a strike here in my opinion."

NEWARK, N.J., July 10.—The Essex Trades Council, representing twenty-eight labor organizations, is arranging for a monster mass meeting to raise funds for the Chicago strikers.

LOUISVILLE, July 10.—The Louisville and Nashville firemen and switchmen went out on strike last night.

Smuggling Chinese from Canada.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Secretary Carlisle said yesterday that he had orders several weeks ago to open an investigation into alleged smuggling of Chinamen into the United States from Canada on our northern frontier. The subject is still under investigation and all parties found guilty will be prosecuted.

BRITANNIA WINS A THIRD TIME.

The Prince of Wales' Cutter Again Beats the American Cup Winner.

GLASGOW, July 10.—The Prince of Wales' cutter Britannia and Geo. Gould's Vigilant, the America's cup winner, met in their third race yesterday. The Vigilant had the best of the start, crossing the line at 10.30.20 and the Britannia at 10.30.35. The course was 50 miles and the prize £75. The Vigilant got the better of the manœuvring and was the weather boat in crossing the line. Reaching Dunan half an hour later the Vigilant had a good lead. The wind decreased as the boats rounded Skelmorlie mark, the Vigilant turning at 12.14.18 and the Britannia at 12.15.24. Off Ascog at 1.05 the Vigilant lost the wind completely and the Britannia catching a puff passed her. The Britannia rounded the Ascog mark at 1.18.31 and the Vigilant at 1.17.11. After rounding the mark the Vigilant got a current of wind and overhauled the Britannia off toward light. Inellan was reached at 2 o'clock, the Britannia leading by three lengths. At 3.10 the Vigilant passed the Britannia. At 3.30 the wind was light and fluky and the Vigilant was leading. It looked as if Britannia was beaten.

Britannia won the race.

To-day the yachts will meet again over the same course and strive for the Clyde Corinthian Cup, valued at £60.

IMPERIAL UNITY.

Difficulties in the Way of It as Summed Up by the London Chronicle.

LONDON, July 10.—In a leader on the Ottawa Intercolonial Conference the Daily Chronicle to-day says: The second act of the Ottawa conference brings into striking relief the difficulties in the way of imperial unity. The colonies sincerely desire to strengthen their bonds with the Mother Country, but they wish to do it in their own way, namely, the way of the protectionists. It would be false kindness to allow the colonies to suppose for a moment that Great Britain can afford to forego the policy of free imports; these are the very basis of her commercial stability and must remain so. But there can be no serious objection to commercial preference between colonies; the more they trade with one another, the better for them and the empire. There is no reason why Canada should not bid for a large section of the United States trade with the West Indies, totaling $52,000,000. The British Government may be expected to ask Parliament to adopt the small legislation necessary to remove the hindrances to intercolonial trading.

Suicided With Carbolic Acid.

BUFFALO, July 10. — Mrs. Barbara Nellasy, of 116 Goodyear avenue, quarrelled with her husband on Saturday night and when she said she was going to kill herself no attention was paid to the remark. A few minutes later she left the house and returning in less than ten minutes went direct to the kitchen. A piercing scream summoned the household and neighbors to the kitchen, where Mrs. Nellasy was found lying on the floor in terrible agony. Beside her was a small bottle labelled "carbolic acid." Dr. Trotter was sent for, but was unable to save the woman's life. Mrs. Nellasy was 39 years old and leaves six children.

Revelations in Scotch High Life.

EDINBURGH, July 10.—Shocking revelations were made here in court in the suit for divorce of Claud Alexander, son of Sir Claud Alexander, against his wife, Lady Diana, daughter of the fourteenth Earl of Eglington and Winton, one of the oldest families in Scotland. Mr. Alexander discovered a visitor named Allison in his wife's room. Lady Diana testified that her husband forced her into a secret agreement, permitting each of them to violate their marriage vows. Allison, she added, visited her repeatedly and she always let her husband know of it in advance.

Valuable Horses Burned.

BOSTON, July 10.—Eighty horse stalls at the Mystic Park track in Medford were burned last night and five horses perished in the flames. Hadley, jr., a peer, and Gilmore, a well-known trotting stallion, both owned by B. Demerest, of Baltimore, were burned to death. The two horses were valued at least at $5,000. The sheds were worth $3,500. The insurance on the horses and buildings is not known.

Bill to Regulate Railways.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—Representative Straus (Republican, N. Y.), has introduced in the House a bill to regulate railway companies engaged in inter-state commerce. The object of the measure, as stated by Mr. Straus, is to protect railway property from being wrecked by collision between the managers and outside parties, who are interested in buying up the stock of the corporations.

TUESDAY, JULY 10, 1894.

Now that Mr. Marter has sufficiently denounced the over-consumption of eggs, milk, raspberries and catsup in the lunatic asylums, he might, the Globe suggests, turn his attention to the Montreal bridges. Michael Doheny testifies that were 5,500 days' work of stone-cutters appeared on the pay-lists, the right figure was 2,198. The discrepancy on this item alone would pay for at least 150,000 quarts of milk. One bridge cost $170,000, when it could have been built for $70,000. Some of the journals which are figuring on Sir Oliver's majority might vary the exercise profitably by bringing the discrepancy of $100,000 to a basis of eggs, catsup and raspberries. To show the possibilities of the investigation it may be mentioned that according to the Empire's market report, $100,000 would buy more than a million boxes of raspberries, or more than ten million eggs. If Mr. Marter could only have rolled out such figures as that in the late campaign the position of the two parties would have certainly been reversed.

PATRONS AND COMBINES.

Senator Drummond and his organ are much disturbed over the outcome of the recent general election for the Ontario Assembly. More especially are they displeased with the course pursued by the Patrons of Industry in the contest. The Patrons disregarded utterly the excellent advice tendered them by the combinesters and their agents. The obstinate Patrons refused to follow the programme so generously prepared for them by Mr. Drummond and the Star. Before the provincial election the chief of the sugar combine undertook to patronize the Patrons. He desired to prevent them from making blunders and therefore tendered them a lot of fatherly and wholly disinterested advice. The Patrons were told that in order to exhibit their strength as a political force they must join hands with Mr. Meredith, drive the Mowat Government out of power and establish at Toronto a provincial administration in sympathy with the protectionist government of the Dominion—an administration whose influence would be exerted to perpetuate combine rule and combined robbery. To assist in overthrowing Mowat was held by the Drummondites to be the first duty of the Patrons to their order and their country. What next? After the Patrons had aided in ousting the Reform provincial government, they were, according to the programme of the chief combinester, to adopt a policy of "masterly inactivity." They were to spend their time in congratulating each other upon their display of strength in the local contest and to framing resolutions setting forth the inadvisability of interfering in Dominion elections. The Drummondite programme required that after defeating Mowat, the Patrons should address the federal premier thus: "Now Mr. Thompson you see that we are a powerful lot of men. We have turned Mowat out and can turn you out; but of course we don't want to do anything so unkind. We love you and your protective tariff. But you must be careful. If you commit any offence more serious than murder or arson the boys may get angry and vote against you. So be careful please." But this delightful little plan of campaign prepared by Tory combinesters for the Patrons of Industry has not been followed by the Patrons. Instead of helping to turn Mowat out at the recent Ontario elections the Patrons joined forces with the Reformers in several instances to defeat Meredith men and elect government supporters. In other places they voted for Liberal candidates against Conservatives, and we have it from no less an authority than Mr. Sam Hughes, M.P., that "the Patrons of Industry started to save Mowat and succeeded." And now comes the more serious departure by the farmers from the Drummondite plan of campaign. The Patrons do not propose to keep out of federal politics or to refrain from embarrassing the protectionist government, in which Senator Drummond holds the portfolio of minister of the exterior. They are not going to rest upon the laurels won in the recent Ontario campaign, or to content themselves with threatening Sir John Thompson. On the contrary they are going into the Dominion politics "for blood" upon a platform almost identical with that of the Reform party. The first plank in the platform of the Patrons is a direct assault upon the Tory party's "Ark of the Covenant." Like the Reformers the Patrons demand a "tariff for revenue only," and the abolition of all protective duties. They are for the Reform party's policy of tariff for revenue, and against the Tory's party's policy of tariff for protection. Consequently the election of a Patron candidate to the House of Commons will be quite as emphatic a condemnation of the Thompson Government and its trade policy as the election of a straight Reformer. The Patrons have not had their attention diverted from the tariff question by provincial issues or the efforts of Senator Drummond to instruct them in regard to their political duties. The votes of the Patrons of Industry will be cast at the coming Dominion election, for candidates pledged to support the trade policy of the Reform party, and to destroy the whole system under which combines and monopolies have been permitted, and are still being permitted, to rob Canadian consumers. The appeal of the combinesters and their organs to the Patrons to spare the protectionist government will be "dismissed with costs."—Ottawa Free Press.

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Committee on Appointments, having carefully considered the matters referred to them, beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

With reference to Mr. Kenner's application for increase of salary, your committee would recommend that no action be taken in this matter until after the result of the departmental examinations becomes known, so that the Board may have ample data to guide them as to his teaching qualification.

Your committee would recommend that Miss Davidson be appointed directress of the Kindergarten department, to be established in the South Ward school, at a salary of $275 a year—based on the same terms as other lady teachers on the Public School staff.

Your committee would recommend the appointment of Mr. H. T. Lewis, B. A., as teacher of the boys' department of the junior fourth class in the Central school, at a salary of $450 per annum—based on the same terms of increase yearly for the next ten years, as that of the principals of the Ward schools, until the maximum of $900 be reached.

Your committee would recommend the re-appointment of the members of the Public school staff whose names are given below at salaries as indicated—and that Miss Cairns, Miss Mark, Miss Morrow and Miss Thomas be added to the staff at the minimum salary (in each case) of $375 per annum.

Statement of re-appointed teachers with salaries attached for 1894-95:

The Heavy End of a Match.

"Mary," said Farmer Flint at the breakfast table as he asked for a second cup of coffee, "I've made a discovery."

"Well, Cyrus, you're about the last one I'd expect of such a thing, but what is it?"

"I have found that the heavy end of a match is its light end," responded Cyrus with a grin that would have adorned a skull.

Mary looked disgusted, but with an air of triumph quickly retorted, "I've got a discovery too, Cyrus. It was made by Dr. R. V. Pierce, and is called a 'Golden Medical Discovery.' It drives away blotches and pimples, purifies the blood, tones up the system and makes one feel brand-new. Why, it cured Cousin Ben who had Consumption and was reduced to a skeleton. Before his wife began to use it she was a pale, sickly thing, but look at her; she's rosy-cheeked and healthy, and weighs 165 pounds. That, Cyrus is a discovery that's worth mentioning."

Young or middle-aged men, suffering from premature decline of power, however induced, speedily and radically cured. Illustrated book sent securely sealed for 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

When the Nerve Centres Need Nutrition.

A Wonderful Recovery, Illustrating the Quick Response of a Depleted Nerve System to a Treatment Which Replenishes Exhausted Nerve Forces.

MR. FRANK BAUER, BERLIN, ONT.

Perhaps you know him? In Waterloo he is known as one of the most popular and successful business men of that enterprising town. As managing executor of the Kuntz estate, he is at the head of a vast business, representing an investment of many thousands of dollars, and known to many people throughout the Province. Solid financially, Mr. Frank Bauer also has the good fortune of enjoying solid good health, and if appearances indicate anything, it is safe to predict that there's a full half century of active life still ahead for him. But it's only a few months since, while nursed as an invalid at the Mt. Clemens sanitary resort, when his friends in Waterloo were dismayed with a report that he was at the point of death.

"There's no telling where I would have been had I kept on the old treatment," said Mr. Bauer, with a merry laugh, the other day, while recounting his experiences as a very sick man. "Mt. Clemens," he continued, "was the last resort in my case. For months previous I had been suffering indescribable tortures. I began with a loss of appetite and sleepless nights. Then, as the trouble kept growing, I was getting weaker, and began losing flesh and strength rapidly. My stomach refused to retain food of any kind. During all this time I was under medical treatment, and took everything prescribed, but without relief. Just about when my condition seemed most hopeless, I heard of a wonderful cure effected in a case somewhat similar to mine, by the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and I finally tried that. On the first day of its use I began to feel that it was doing what no other medicine had done. The first dose relieved the distress completely. Before night I actually felt hungry and ate with an appetite such as I had not known for months. I began to pick up in strength with surprising rapidity, slept well nights, and before I knew it I was eating three square meals regularly every day, with as much relish as ever. I have no hesitation whatever in saying that the South American Nervine Tonic cured me when all other remedies failed. I have recovered my old weight—over 200 pounds—and never felt better in my life."

Mr. Frank Bauer's experience is that of all others who have used the South American Nervine Tonic. Its instantaneous action in relieving distress and pain is due to the direct effect of this great remedy upon the nerve centres, whose fagged vitality is energized instantly by the very first dose. It is a great, a wondrous cure for all nervous diseases, as well as indigestion and dyspepsia. It goes to the real source of trouble direct, and the sick always feel its marvellous sustaining and restorative power at once, on the very first day of its use.

ERASTUS WIMAN'S CASE

Argument at New York for a Certificate of Reasonable Doubt.

JUDGE'S DECISION RESERVED

Mr. Wiman Will be Kept in Further Suspense Until the 20th Instant, When Judge Barrett Will Decide—General Tracy for the Motion.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Justice Barrett listened to an argument yesterday on the motion of Gen. Tracey and Mr. Boardman for a certificate of reasonable doubt of the legality of the conviction of Erastus Wiman. Gen. Tracey presented the argument for the motion. Assistant District Attorney Lindsey opposed the motion. Gen. Tracey insisted that the proof of the criminal intention of Wiman had not been properly proven and that Justice Ingraham's charge to the jury on that point left them no alternative but a verdict of guilty.

The learned lawyer threshed out the old straw of evidence in the case. He told how the provisions of the contract agreement between R. G. Dun and his associates, Wiman, Douglas and Thompson, had been disregarded constantly.

"Justice Ingraham erred in refusing to charge at my request that the jury must find a criminal intent before they could convict," urged Gen. Tracey.

General Tracy also urged that it was for the jury to determine whether Wiman had the right to draw cheques for the firm of R. G. Dun & Company, the right to draw more than $3,000 a month for his own personal uses, and the right to use the names of payees as fictitious names in indorsements. Gen. Tracy insisted that as Wiman had the power to draw cheques in the name of the firm any number of fraudulent indorsements on the cheque could not make it a fraud on the firm and nobody else paid any money. "Again I insist if Wiman believed he had the right to draw this cheque and use Bullingers name as a fictitious payee, there was no fraudulent intent and he could not be guilty of a crime."

"Ah, but you have said that there is no contention that Wiman was empowered to sign Bullinger's name," retorted Judge Barrett. "If that is so your argument might extend to the pickpocket and say that the pickpocket inserting his hand in the pocket of another did not intend to do a criminal action because he believed that he had a right to take another pocket-book."

Assistant District Attorney Lindsay, arguing in opposition, said that Mr. Wiman went to the cashier of R. G. Dun & Co. and instructed him to make out the cheque in question to E. W. Bullinger. Mr. Wiman told the cashier that Mr. Bullinger wanted some money on account of the $15,000 or so that was due him. This statement was false.

Mr. Boardman—You have no right, Mr. Lindsay, to misrepresent the testimony. Will you point out this statement.

Mr. Lindsay continued, saying that the cheque was signed in a disguised hand. Then Mr. Lindsay then went on to show that unless the amount of this particular cheque was paid to Mr. Wiman's private bank account on that day Mr. Wiman would have overdrawn his account something like $3,000, and how Mr. Wiman had committed other crimes of a like nature, which showed embezzlement. As to the criminal intent, Mr. Lindsay said that was fully shown; that Mr. Wiman was never anything but an employe and had never considered himself a partner. "In our opinion the question is—Do these acts complained of constitute forgery? We contend they do.

"If your honor thinks otherwise, the defendant is entitled to a certificate of reasonable doubt. We think, however, the higher court will endorse our views. The intent to defraud is clearly shown by Mr. Wiman having put Bullinger's name on the cheque. The payee's name to the cheque was authority for the bank to pay the money." Mr. Lindsay cited a lot of decisions by English courts bearing on the question of intent.

Judge Barrett said he would reserve his decision and adjourned court until Friday, July 20.

A certificate of reasonable doubt is usually accompanied by a stay of proceedings pending the appeal of the case to the general term.

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please, an have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similiar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose to pay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

"I Told You So."

Mr. Bertie Scott, formerly of the Toronto Empire, but now a departmental clerk at Ottawa, is spending his holidays at Stony Lake, a guest at Mr. Gillott's cottage. On Saturday Mr. Scott, who considered himself anadapt at canoeing, a confidence not shared by his wife, who was always anxious as to his safety when afloat, went out for a sail, not in regulation yachting costume, for having no change of clothing, he went forth in all the glory of silk tile and irreproachable tweed. In the course of his cruise he called at several places, among them Mr. Cox's, of Lakefield. He was invited to remain at lunch, but declined on the plea that his wife was anxious for his return, at the same time deploring his entirely unnecessary solicitude on this point, as he was an expert canoeist and there was no danger of a mishap. Almost as the words left his lips he placed one foot in the canoe and the other foot—made a wild smash in the air as the canoe shot like an arrow in one direction and the expert canoeist took a header, silken tile and all, into the water. Fished out, dripping like a sea god, he was assisted to his canoe and went to his quarters dampened both as to his person and his spirits. He was met by his wife with a kiss and—"I told you so," as she shrank from his moist embrace and seeing him safe refrained not from glorying in her own triumph. The expert canoeist was glad to seek the seclusion of a bed and remain there while his clothes were drying, for he had only one suit of clothes with him. He will hereafter have more respect for his wife's opinion of his canoeing capabilities than his own. What a world of gloating triumph a wife can throw into the simple words, "I told you so."

ARRESTED, CONFESSED, AND SENTENCED.

Head Post Office Clerk, T. W. Tebb, gets Three Years for Purloining Post Office Money—Arrested at 12.30, Sentenced at 2.30.

Much surprise and as much sorrow was felt to-day when the news of the arrest of T. W. Tebb, head clerk in the Peterborough post office, charged with stealing money from letters in the post office, was made known. This afternoon at 12.30 Chief Roszel arrested Mr. Tebb at the instance of P. O. Inspector, G. A. Burnham, who had investigated the case. Mr. Burnham in view of the fact that sums of money sent by mail had been lost at the Peterborough Post Office though he says this office is singularly free from such complaints, and having reason to fear that the head clerk might be connected in the matter the inspector caused letters containing marked money to be so sent as to require to pass through the local post office. This morning he found that the letters containing the money, one $2 and the other $5, had not gone west and he taxed the chief clerk with the offence which he at first denied, but on being pressed showed the money he had on his person and among it were excepting one dollar which Tebb admitted that he had spent. The prisoner was placed in the cells and at three o'clock was arraigned before Police Magistrate Dumble and charged with the offense of stealing the sum of eight dollars from the post office. He was given the option of being tried by a jury or summarily. The prisoner elected to be tried summarily, and pleaded guilty.

The Magistrate—Then, there is nothing for me to do but pass sentence!

The Prisoner—I'm very sorry; this has been the one mistake of my life.

The Magistrate—You must perceive that you have made a terrible mistake. The law is so severe in these matters, because the post office must be kept a safe medium for the transmission of money. The penalty prescribed by the act is life imprisonment as the highest and three years in the Penitentiary as the lowest. The Magistrate recognized the fact of the prisoner being a young man with his life before him and that three years in prison was a terrible period, but he, (the Magistrate), to impose a lighter sentence. Have you any counsel?

HAD NO POWER

Prisoner—No sir.

The magistrate evidently was placed in a most unwelcome position. He consulted the act carefully and at one time suggested the idea of deferring sentence till the morning, but after consultation with the post office inspector he said that the act prescribed the term and he had no discretion except in the direction of a larger sentence than three years, but three years were enough to vindicate the law. The sentence might be shortened by good behaviour.

Rev. W. R. Young, pastor of the George street Methodist church, who was present, asked the magistrate if previous good conduct might not be placed in mitigation of the sentence.

The magistrate said that the law was peremptory. If it had permitted any discretion he might consider extenuating circumstances. He had no option but to sentence the prisoner to three years in the penitentiary at Kingston.

There was no reason why the mistake might not be rectified by good conduct, and the prisoner restored to the high standing he had forfeited. He advised him not to lose courage, but try to win back the position he had lost.

The prisoner was unattended by counsel and the fact of his having confessed his offence, so hastened matters that within two hours of his arrrest, his sentence was pronounced and before even the fact of the arrest was generally known about the business quarters of the town.

The Inspector says that the general offence to which Mr. Tebb pleaded guilty has been going on for some time and the prisoner admitted to him (the inspector) that the amount taken improperly was as much as $300. He had paid that amount on a house he had purchased within about two years, a circumstance that argued, the inspector thought, great economy.

The circumstances are a shock and a surprise to the community, who were entirely unprepared for such startling developments.

Much sympathy is felt for the unfortunate young man in the circles in which he moved, a respected member, and for his young wife and little child.

RIVER AND LAKE RIPLETS.

R. are putting the Harwood branch in shape to run, and the Peterborough Navigation Co. will connect with the City of Peterborough at Harwood, and issue tickets for the round trip, to leave here and return on evening train via Port Hope, or leave Cobourg and take night train from here via Port Hope home. This will open a splendid route for scenery, as the Otonabee river cannot be beaten. It is expected the tickets will be $1. The opening of this branch line will enable the people of Cobourg and vicinity to visit the far-famed Rice Lake.

SOUTH MONAGHAN.

Mr. John Riddell called this morning to report instances of early harvesting at least a week ahead of any other season in his memory. On Thursday, July 5th, Mr. Joseph Wood, of Bensfort, cut his fall wheat and since that time harvesting has generally set in. On June 28th Messrs. Stirton Bros., Bensfort, cut their early Kent peas. With so advanced a season the farmer will get through with work early enough to permit him to take a holiday. Mr. Riddell reports a good crop of winter wheat. There is an immense bulk of straw, but the yield may not be in proportion, owing to unequal ripening, which is due to considerable winter killing and considerable wheat coming on rapidly, but not quite equal to these stocks that escaped the frost. On the whole the crop will be quite up to the average.

COLONIAL CONFERENCE

Atlantic Steamship Scheme Discussed at the Final Meeting.

A RESOLUTION OF APPROVAL

The Conference Favors the Granting of a Subsidy by the Imperial Government—Major-General Herbert Denies the Report That He Has Resigned.

OTTAWA, July 10.—The Colonial Conference practically concluded its business yesterday. There was a short meeting of some of the delegates this morning, but it was of an informal character.

The fast Atlantic steamship scheme was up for consideration yesterday, and a resolution, moved by Sir Adolphe Caron and seconded by Sir Henry Wrixon, was adopted, to the following effect:

"That this conference approves of the action of the Dominion Government in taking such a prominent part in placing and subsidizing a line of steamers on the Pacific between Canada and Australia, and also of the fact that it is proposed now to increase the subsidy for a fast line across the Atlantic with cold storage accommodation, and as the Imperial Government has already voted mail subsidies to steamship lines for the Cape and Australia, this conference hopes that the Canadian line will also be favored with an Imperial subsidy."

It is significant that while the press was given the affect of the above resolution nothing was told as to what was done respecting the trade question, which was said to be discussed at several sittings.

Last night Sir John Thompson and Lady Thompson gave the delegates a dinner in the Senate restaurant. A grand ball was also given by Sir Adolphe Caron in the drill hall.

General Herbert's Denial.

Shown a paragraph in a newspaper that he had resigned, General Herbert characterized the statement as absolutely false. He said that he had not resigned.

The Railway Committee.

The Railway Committee of the Commons finished the order paper and closed its labors for the present session. There were only two or three members present. An Act to revive and further amend the Act to incorporate the Brockville & New York Bridge Company was passed.

The Prorogation.

The Cabinet met yesterday and sat all forenoon preparing to close the session on Saturday next.

ACCIDENT AT A G.T.R. WHARF.

Sixty Pilgrims Precipitated Into the Water—One Life Lost.

QUEBEC, July 10.—A sad accident occurred at the Grand Trunk wharf, Levis, yesterday. The inward G. T. R. train brought in about 600 passengers, all pilgrims for St. Anne de Beaupre. The boat St. Croix was chartered to convey them down. At the appointed hour the pilgrims went down on the G.T.R. pontoon to watch for the St. Croix. The weight on the slip was such that as the steamer came alongside the pontoon it rebounded back, breaking the slip in two. Some sixty people were thrown into the river, which was then some eight feet high.

A woman from Somerset had her arm broken in two places. She, however, got out of the water and walked on board the boat, where she expired.

The other pilgrims who were thrown in the water had to get their clothing dried before proceeding on to St. Annes. It is really a wonder that out of 600 persons standing on the pontoon only one life was lost. The presence of mind of Supt. Smallhorn and his men saved many people. Coroner Bellefuelle will hold an inquest on the woman who lost her life in the accident.

M'WHERRELL'S CASE.

He Will Probably be Tried With Walker on September 15.

OTTAWA, July 10.—The commutation of MacWherrell's sentence is until the first day of October. The Brampton Assizes will open on September 15, with Chief Justice Armour as judge. Walker will then be tried for the murder of Mrs. Williams. It is altogether likely that MacWherrell will be placed in the box with him and tried for the same offence. Sir John Thompson will say to-morrow whether or not the condemned man will be given another trial, and his counsel has every hope of a favorable reply.

The Crown authorities have much new testimony, which they believe will convict Walker. In an interview they would not say the exact nature of the evidence. A Government detective did say, however, that they would show that Walker was present in the house at the time of the murder, and also trace his footsteps back to the city.

SHOT THE NIGHTWATCHMAN.

A Dastardly Attempt at Murder on a Montreal Street.

MONTREAL, July 10.—What will probably prove a dastardly murder took place here last night. A nightwatchman named Emery was proceeding along St. Sophia lane, near Victoria square, when he was attacked by some unknown man and shot in the body near the region of the heart. He was found shortly afterwards in a dying condition and removed to the hospital. It is not likely that he will recover. The affair is shrouded in mystery. The man had no enemies, and why he should be shot down in his tracks cannot be explained.

Sunday Observance in Hamilton.

HAMILTON, July 10.—The Sunday Observance Association will hold a meeting this week to decide upon what course of action shall be pursued in regard to the Sunday trains and boats. It is probable the matter will be tested in the courts. On Sunday the G. T. R. ran five trains to the beach and the steamboat company ran its boats all day. The Hamilton Electric Street railway, the Hamilton and Dundas street railway and the Incline railway were all in operation and done a thriving business during the day.

Recount in Haldimand.

CAYUGA, Ont., July 10.—The recount which was finished yesterday before Judge McMillan, re the recent Haldiman election between Baxter and Senn, has resulted in increasing Senn's majority from 10 to 15.

The Royal Christening.

LONDON, July 10.—The Archbishop of Canterbury will christen the Duke of York's baby boy at White Lodge on July 16. The Queen will be present.

THE YOUNG WOMEN'S SUCCESS.

A Highly Pleasing Lawn Social on Mr. McKee's Grounds.

A successful and most enjoyable lawn social under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. was held last night upon the handsome grounds of Mr. John McKee's residence, 174 London street. The grounds were tastefully and brightly illuminated with Chinese lanterns and the gleam of the bandmen's torches. There was a large attendance. The evening was chiefly given over to social enjoyment, mild games among the younger guests and listening to the charming and liberally contributed music of the Fire Brigade Band. Refreshments consisting of cakes, coffee and cooling drinks were served and nosegays were offered for sale. Altogether, considering the numerous entertainments that are afloat the entertainment was highly successful both from a numerical, social and financial point of view. The Y. M. C. A. wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. McKee for the use of their handsome and spacious grounds and for the graceful and genial hospitality extended to their guests of last night. They also wish to most cordially thank the Fire Brigade Band for the excellent music so liberally supplied.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, July 10, 1894.

The amount of wheat on passage to Europe is now 34,888,000 bushels, and of corn 5,732,000 bushels.

The total tonnage of east-bound roads from Chicago last week was only 11,666 tons as against 42,982 tons the previous week.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Wheat nominal at 62c. for white and at 61c. for red. Oats dull, one load selling at 39c. Peas are quoted at 65c. and barley at 41 to 43c.

Crop reports and higher cables caused an advance in wheat at Chicago, closing prices showing a gain of ¼c over Saturday. Corn was firm, closing ¼c higher than Saturday. Oats were active and ¼c higher at the close. Receipts to-day—Wheat, none; corn, 4 cars; oats, 1 car; hogs, none.

The conflict between the federal troops and the strikers at Hammond yesterday led a weak opening at the New York Stock Exchange and encouraged the bears to extend their lines. London, alarmed at the western situation, sold St. Paul and other stocks and accelerated the downward movement. The force of the selling movement expended itself before 11 o'clock, however, and a rally ensued, but before midday the bears resumed active operations.

Buffalo.—Cattle—170 cars on sale; light and mediums in large supply and with all commoner grades dull and lower; choice to extra steady, $5 to $5.60. Sheep and lambs—20 cars. New York demoralized, which made market here dull and lower for lambs. Good to fancy at $5.25 to $6; good to choice wethers, $3.60 to $4.20; fair to good mixed, $3.15 to $3.50. Hogs—35 cars; strong and higher, best mediums and heavies sold up to $6.75; best pigs at $5.85 and top Yorkers at $6.70.

A DIVIDED CONQUEST.

"Of course it is," said Ingram, readjusting the chrysanthemum in his buttonhole; "there never was such an independent age as this, and probably never will be again. But the point I make, and the one which I am prepared to cling to like grim death, is that independence does not make a woman the least bit more charming."

"That is for you men to say, certainly," returned the pretty girl on the other side of the room, with a decisive snip of her scissors as she trimmed a dying leaf off one of the geraniums in the windows, "for, of course, we cannot judge for ourselves. But I never knew a girl who became really independent to lose one iota of the fascination she first had, no matter how charming she was at first; and even you won't deny that independence adds greatly to our stock of common sense and worldly wisdom."

"Undoubtedly, but the man doesn't want to come home to his 'woman-folk' feeling he has to keep his brightest wits about him unless he wants to be picked up every word he says, or to be reminded that his sister or his wife really owe him very little. It gives a man the pleasantest feeling in the world to think that someone is dependent upon him all the time, he feels a responsibility which would otherwise be absent. What he wants and what he usually marries for is a place where he may find sympathy and love, and nothing much else."

"What an intellectual household you must have in mind!" she cried. "Why, would you drive us back to the mental slavery we once endured—to be mere puppets with simpering manners and pretty faces?"

"We would," answered Ingram, "if we could thereby rid the world of this overdeveloped idea of the eternal and complete independence of womankind. It is right and proper for you girls to know how to turn an honest penny in case the necessity presents itself, but when it comes to earning your own livings whether it is necessary or not, when you go out into the mercantile world and mingle with the coarser elements of it as you have to do, it brings you to the level of the men who constitute that element, and the inevitable result is that women are not and cannot be looked up to as they once were."

Miss Lovelace turned on him with a scornful little motion, and he hastened to add, "I am quite aware that my ideas are very old fashioned and not to be given an 'independent' thought, but they are none the less sincere."

"Then the only way, in your opinion, that we may obtain and hold the respect of mankind is to return to the blank-mindedness of our great-grandmothers—to the clinging vine about the towering oak idea, as it were? How unreasonable of you, Mr. Ingram! A man of such otherwise progressive ideas should certainly be more liberal and advanced upon the subject of the rights of women."

"If it goes much further," he answered, laughing and quite ignoring the compliment upon himself, "the cry will change to that of 'Men's rights.' From the manner in which the girls are filling the places formerly occupied by men——"

"There! I knew we would come to the meaning of it all soon. The truth is you fear of 'Othello's occupation,' do you not? Is this not the reason why you are so severe upon the 'weak women' who desire to live and to earn that living?"

Ingram colored angrily.

"It is quite plain you do not choose to understand me," he said shortly. "I think you will in the end, however."

"Please do not be offended," she begged, as they moved toward the door. "I am sorry if I have hurt—you are going?"

"Yes," he answered. "Is there anything I can do for you down street? Or are we too independent even to send men on errands of importance?"

"No, I suppose not, though man's memory is usually of man's life a thing apart—far apart," she said smiling. "I believe everything is ordered for the day, thank you."

Ingram was looking down at her as she spoke.

"What a girl you are," he said, thoughtfully, and then before she realized what he was doing he had caught one slim and flower stained hand in his and kissed it gently. She turned upon him blushing angrily, but he was already out of the room. As he disappeared into the crowd upon the platform her anger and color, together with the independent air she was fond of putting on for his especial benefit, went away and she looked down at her hand for a moment in dreamy silence.

"What if he knew," she whispered, "what if he knew!"

All way downtown Ingram was silent and thoughtful, and before he reached the office he had gone over the little conversation and its abrupt end many times. He acknowledged he had rather surprised himself at what he had done. He had wanted to speak as he had done just now for many months past, for what man who cares for a woman likes to see her drifting away from him, whatever the cause? He thoroughly expected to come home, almost any night and find she had accepted a position with some lawyer as a stenographer or typewriter or both. He thanked heaven, at least once a day, that she was of good blood and family, however reduced in circumstances they might be—her mother had a small pension, and he roomed there—and he hoped and prayed that she would resist this ultra independent temptation long enough for him to get upon his feet financially and ask her to marry him.

He nodded briskly to the men about the counting-room and hurried up to his desk, next to that of the city editor's. For many years Ingram had held a position upon the Investigator, and he was well known and thoroughly liked by every attache of the place. As he dropped into his chair and began to sort the mass of manuscript which had accumulated from the night mails—he was nominally the literature editor—a small boy hurled himself into the office with that reckless abandon known only to a printer's devil, and laid a handful of proofs beside him.

"Mr. Forster says please correct that 'Fashion' galley right off, sir," he said, half way to the door again as he spoke, "he wants to run it on the second page today, and I'll be back for it in a minute."

"'Fashion's Foibles. Something About the Latest Styles in Woman's World,'" he said, reading the headlines—which were separated at the bottom of the column from the other matter by a wide black line, "and all written by Walter Ingram. It's a poor question that hasn't two sides—but what would she say if she knew?"

It was several days before Ingram saw her again for any length of time, for during the evenings she was either out—at the theatre or some other social function—or else in her room, writing, her mother said. The second day after their talk he had sold several large lots in a successful Southern boom town and the round sum he had realized from the sale had cheered him up greatly and had thrown some much needed light upon the path which he hoped was leading to the church doors. But now that there seemed to be no prospect of his finding the opportunity he sought to speak to her—an opportunity which he felt was his right—he asked her one morning at breakfast if she would witness a new opera that evening with him. She hesitated before answering, and he wondered for a moment what problem it was she seemed to be turning over in her quick mind; then she answered "Yes," and that night found them in his old seat at the National. Then Ingram felt better.

On the way home he had fully determined to tell her of his love, and he had even gone so far as to plan just what he would say, as we poor men are apt to do in the innocence of our first love affairs. What was his consternation, then, to find that the conversation had drifted around to the old subject of discussion between them.

"Do you not really think," she said, as they turned into the little gate and he began to search for a latchkey; "that it is quite as absurd to say it makes a woman 'mannish' to be independent, as it would for us to assert a man is womanly when he has to—to sew a button on for instance?"

"Yes. But did you ever know a man to sew a button on for the mere amusement of the thing, or just because he wanted to be independent of his wife or sister? Isn't it always a case of dire necessity?"

PRESIDENT OF FRANCE.

A MAN OF GREAT ABILITY DEVELOPED BY PUBLIC AFFAIRS.

M. Casimir-Perier Will Make France a Strong Ruler, as He Is of Patriotic Lineage and Possesses Wealth—Something of His Career.

M. Casimir-Perier, the new President of the French Republic, is hated by Socialists and Anarchists. He is one of the richest men in France. He favors a graduated income tax, despite his fifty millions of francs.

He stands for the rights of all men, but particularly for the rights of the poor—knowing that the rich will look after themselves somehow.

Jules Guesde, the most intelligent leader of French Socialists, despises Casimir-Perier, as the hereditary representative of wealth, but, say the United States, every trust-worshipping monopolist with intelligence enough to bribe a Senator would denounce him as a rampant Anarchist.

Casimir-Perier has always had a good deal of money, and unlike sudden millionaire sugar and stock gamblers, believes that men should contribute to a government in proportion to the benefit they derive from it. He believes, for instance, that it is wrong for a bricklayer to contribute one-tenth of his income to the public welfare while a rich man contributes a thousandth part of his. He said—

JEANNE PIERRE PAUL CASIMIR-PERIER.

Those who enjoy a superfluity must form a larger idea of their social obligations and resign themselves to assuming a somewhat heavier portion of the public charges in order to relieve those who buy bread for their families with a daily wage.

France is to be congratulated on getting this sort of an Anarchist for President.

The new President of the French Republic is, like Lord Rosebery, an example of those rare fortunate human beings who get at birth most of the good things of this world and acquire the others without humiliating or discouraging effort. Jean Paul Pierre Casimir-Perier was born of a distinguished and enormously rich family, with a father wise to develop his abilities and influential to advance them to places where they could show to the best advantage. He married a woman of the old nobility, who gave him the social prestige necessary to admit him to that high society which is not based upon personal merit. He followed his chosen political career, and has never been defeated in any of his ambitions. And now he has come to the highest place in France.

But M. Casimir-Perier has great ability as well as good fortune. A look at his face, whether in repose as the presiding officer of the Chamber of Deputies or in action as the Prime Minister fighting for a vote of confidence, told the story of why he had succeeded.

Those who hold that the world is usually ruled by undersized men will find an instance for their theory in M. Casimir-Perier. He is short even for a Frenchman. He is thin, but plainly of splendid health and of great endurance. His skin is clear and very dark. His face is smooth except a military mustache. His eyes are clear and frank. His nose and chin are fine. The nose projects from his face in that bold curve which indicates audacity and fearlessness, and his chin in lines of firmness and decision. His walk, his manner, his speech are quick and nervous, his gesture abrupt and almost domineering. But education, breeding and breadth of mind temper these aggressive peculiarities, so that those who know him say that he is the most cheerful, polite and agreeable of companions.

His great efforts in public life have been directed towards finance and the military. Of these he has been a profound student and an able administrator. He equipped himself in them because these two are the great questions with which the European statesman must deal. And although he is not forty-seven years old, he is without doubt the greatest statesman in France.

The father of the new President, the son of Louis Philippe's Minister, was Casimir Victor Perier, who had a long and most distinguished career, culminating in his holding the portfolio of Minister of the Interior under Thiers. As the Perier family had spread out into many distinguished branches, this member of the main branch decided to so alter its name that it would stand out distinctly. He petitioned the Government to give him permission to hyphenate Casimir and Perier. So he and his son were called Casimir-Perier, the name always until now recalling to Frenchmen the great Casimir-Perier of Louis Philippe's reign.

The President was born November 8, 1847, at Paris, which has been the home of the family for nearly a hundred years. He was carefully educated for a political career. When the Franco-Prussian war came he was chosen captain of a company of volunteers from his district, the Aube, and so carried himself as [illegible] that he won the Cross of the Legion of Honor. At the close of the war his father at once began to advance his political career. He first made him chief of his Cabinet—that of Minister of the Interior. He held this training place from October, 1871, until February, 1872. Then his father made him Councillor-General of the Aube, to give him the opportunity to make the acquaintance of the people, with a view to offering himself for their votes.

In April, 1874, when he was not yet twenty-seven, he made his first campaign, and in July he was elected to the Chamber of Deputies almost without opposition, and took his seat to repres nt Nogent sur-Seine. He was then a Republican, but of a very moderate character indeed, his royalist surrounding strongly influencing his views. In February, 1876, he was re-elected without opposition, and began to stand more strongly for the Republic. He refused to support Broglie, and, appealing [illegible] constituents, was re-elected, much to the surprise of those who thought he would end his career, so far as Nogent-sur-Seine could influence it.

In December, 1877, at thirty years, he took his first Cabinet position. He entered the Republican Cabinet as Under-Secretary of State in the Department of Public Worship and the Fine Arts. He held this until Jan. 31 1879. He was inactive for about three months, and then, coming out as a candidate for the Deputies, as a Republican of more pronounced type, was again elected by a great majority. He did not believe that the descendants of the royal families of France should be banished, and withdrew Feb. 1, 1883, to return again a few months later. In October, 1883, he became Under Secretary of State to the Minister of War, and remained in this second minor Cabinet position until his chief, Gen. Campenon, resigned, Jan. 3, 1885.

In October, 1885, he was elected to the Deputies as an Opportunist, and in the general elections of Sept. 22, 1889, he was re-elected, always from the district of Nogent-sur-Seine. Until this time, while his great abilities were admitted, he had had no important place. His bent of mind was such that he could not compromise. As Cabinets were compromises, and as he had no distinct following, he got nothing that set him in the public eye, but only those places in which his knowledge of financial and military affairs would be of service.

In 1890 M. Casimir-Perier had risen to such a place in the esteem of his fellow-members that he was chosen Vice President of the Chamber and President of the Commission of the Budget. Late in November, 1893, President Carnot found himself face to face with a great crisis. The labor troubles, piled upon the hideous Panama scandal, had made it well-nigh impossible for him to get together a Ministry unstained that would stand a chance of being acceptable to the Deputies. His great rival, Casimir-Perier, then recently elected President of the Chamber of Deputies, was the only man who could make such a Ministry, and Casimir-Perier, an avowed candidate for the Presidency, refused to do it. He felt that if a Ministry of which he was the head should fall in the eve of a Presidential contest, his last chance would be gone. Even if it held a majority, he would have to stir up too much factional hatred to keep enough Deputies in his favor for the Presidential fight.

Casimir-Perier held out for a long time, but the crisis became so acute that his patriotism compelled him to come to the rescue. He organized a Cabinet, taking the portfolio of Foreign Affairs, and put forward a strong and unflinching line of action. He was conciliatory towards labor, but he yielded no principle which involved republican institutions. For a time his Ministry was strong, but a vote on a side issue overthrew it unexpectedly—so unexpected ly, indeed, that the general impression was that M. Casimir-Perier had "ridden for a fall."

And now, since the assination of President Carnot, the National Council, composed of the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate, has elected him President of France.

A Word of Advice.

A patient should never be raised suddenly to receive food, drink or medicine. Aside from distressing the sufferer there is danger of heart trouble. Place the arm under the pillow and gently force the invalid into a position between lying and sitting. Medicine cups and porcelain spoons are now in general use and save considerable torture.

Value of Swamp Muck.

The chief value of swamp muck is obtained when it is used as an absorbent. If thoroughly dried during the summer months it can be employed to good advantage in stables and in composting with nitrogenous manures. It has but little manurial value in itself.

Lansing People Hear of his Illness and Subsequent Cure While in London, Ont.—Much Pleasure Manifested over the News.

LANSING, Mich., July 2.—A friend of William Langley, formerly of this city, now of London, Ont., received a letter a few months ago, stating that Mr. Langley had Bright's disease. Of course no hope of his recovery could be held out. Within a month, the same friend has received a letter from Mr. Langley stating that he is completely cured of the supposed fatal disorder. Mr. Langley says no medicine did him any good until he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. These helped him from the first and in the end restored him to perfect health.

Nothing Impossible.

Just now a mite of money is worth a mountain of stock.

Just now, nothing seems impossible in the line of economy. But the TRUTH about low values is hard to comprehend. Anything less than ALL the facts concerning OUR goods and their present values would be unjust to the public.

You cannot always buy so many kinds of goods at and below cost as we offer you now. Your best economy is to invest your money in wisely selected goods at present prices at this store. Listen:

DRESS GOODS
AT COST.

Just to liven things up these hot days we offer all our Summer Dress Goods at about cost. This will help to clear out our stock and save carrying anything over to another season.

WASH GOODS
AT COST.

Chambrays, Krinkles and Muslins all at cost. This is the chance of the season as the stock is all right and well bought.

PARASOLS
AT COST.

Not a fraction of a fib, fabrication or falsehood gets into our store talk. Truth is the best salesman. Parasols at cost just means what it says.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY
AT HALF PRICE.

That's a sweeping reduction. Surely cost plays no part in this case. Half price takes everything we have in Trimmed Millinery.

MANTLES AND CAPES

At interesting figures.

DELAINES
AT ABOUT COST.

We can accommodate these beautiful goods to those who come for them. Their bargain story has new life to-day.

BLOUSES, SHIRT WAISTS
AT COST.

Don't be skeptical. Prudence says buy freely.

From E. B. From Town Clerk Armstrong presenting a statement of the expenditure and receipts of the town to July 1st, stating that the total payments were $25,051.80, and accounts were due amounting to $14,363.56, making a total of $39,415.04. Finance committee to report at special meeting, at which the estimates are to be presented.

A PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—With a view to the permanent investment of part of the moneys under the will of the late Mrs. Nicholls set aside for public parks for the use of the inhabitants of the town of Peterborough, we hereby offer and agree that if the council will in the proposed bylaw for building an outfall sewer provide that the debentures therefore to the amount of $21,000, or thereabouts, shall bear interest at five per cent. without any sinking fund, as was done in the case of school debentures under the Act of last session, we will purchase such debentures at par, the council agreeing by resolution to apply to the Legislature at its next session to authorize this arrangement, as in the case of the Act mentioned. The money received for interest will be expended in the maintenance of the parks, and at the end of the thirty years during which the debentures are to run, it is not probable that the principal will be called in, but the town as well as ourselves will then be free, if so desired, to insist upon the debentures being paid off. In such case the special Act to be obtained can provide for the issue of fresh debentures if required.

(Signed),

RICHARD HALL, } Trustees Nicholls

2. In regard to the communication of Mr. Jno. Gamble, your committee are of the opinion that the council is not responsible and recommend that no action be taken.

THOMAS CAHILL, Chairman.

Report adopted.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT.

Mr. Kelly for the Fire, Water and Light committee reported.

1. That we are of the opinion that the water company should put in the double branch hydrants instead of the single ones and recommend that the company be notified to that effect.

2. That the water company be instructed to put in a hydrant at the intersection of Sargardo avenue and Conger street.

3. That a by-law be prepared to regulate the storage of coal oil and other inflammable materials.

4. That John Murphy, driver and stable man, left the employment of the town on Saturday night, June 30th, and Ed. McDonald was placed temporarily in the stable. A number of applications for the vacant position were addressed to the committee and considered. Your committee recommend that James English be placed in charge of the hall and stables without any increase of salary and that he make all purchases and order all repairs necessary for the stable and hall under the instructions from the chairman of the committee and that he give security for the performance of these duties.

5. We recommend that Ed. Lawrence be appointed inside driver at the salary he is now receiving and that John Montgomery be appointed outside driver at a salary of $350 per year.

6. Your committee has ordered a new sprinkler for the water cart in the northern district.

T. KELLY, Chairman.

The report was referred back to the committee to consider further applications.

Mr. Sutton, chairman, presented the report of the

which stated that the committee had considered the complaints re Whyte's dam and believe that the best way to deal with the matter is under the sanitary laws. They recommend that the council strongly urge the Board of Health to thoroughly investigate the complaints with a view of remedying the evils complained of.

The report was adopted.

LICENSE.

Mr. Kelly, chairman, presented the report of the License Committee, stating that the committee had considered the application regarding the peddlers' licenses referred to them and recommended:

1. That a rebate of $15 be granted to Ed. Minicola.

2. That no action be taken in regard to the application of Philip Lococo.

The report was adopted.

Mr. Dawson, for the Property Committee, verbally reported that the fire hall was too small to contain the horses and wagons, and a committee was instructed to have the hall extended to give the necessary accommodation.

THE OUTFALL SEWER.

Mr. Best, chairman, presented the report of the Sewerage Committee as follows:—

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Sewerage Committee beg leave to report and recommend that an outfall sewer be constructed from Townsend street by way of George, Lake and Lock streets to the river, the portion from Lake street to the river to be of brick three feet by two feet in size inside, and from Lake street to Townsend street to be an eighteen inch sewer pipe. The cost of the work is estimated at $21,000.

We recommend this amendment of our last report so as to follow Mr. Allan Macdougall's scheme in building a brick outfall that will be sufficient for all time to serve all parts of the town.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

H. BEST, Chairman.

July 9th, 1894.

Report unanimously adopted.

Mr. Dawson called attention to the well founded complaints of the reduction of the wages of the men employed on the streets from $1 25 to $1.00 per day. He thought there was nothing to be gained by cutting down wages of men employed on the streets. For his part he never cut down a man's wages—he gave his labourers $1.50, and certainly street men worked as long hours and were entitled to at least $1.25 per day. A resolution was adopted leaving the matter of wages to the street inspector according to his judgment of the earning ability of the workmen.

Mr. White, chairman, presented the report of the CHARITY COMMITTEE.

The Charity Committee reports that it has expended on charity to date the following sums:—

|---|---|
| Groceries | $ 932 60 |
| Wood | 474 01 |
| Tickets | 46 60 |
| Sundries | 17 50 |
| | $1,570 11 |

W. H. WHITE, Chairman.

Report adopted.

Mr. White said he would like to have some men on his charity list get even a dollar a day and Mr. Cahill suggested that by a little consultation between Mr. White and Mr. Pope the matter might be beneficially arranged.

THE SEWARAGE BY-LAW.

Mr. Best introduced the first reading of a by-law to authorize the construction of a main outfall sewer and to raise the sum of $21,000 to pay for the same. The by-law was duly passed, providing that the votes of the qualified electors shall be taken upon the by-law on Thursday, the second of August.

ARBITRATOR APPOINTED.

A by-law was passed appointing Wm. Langford an arbitrator on behalf of the town respecting the right of way through the township of North Monaghan, to determine the conditions upon which the outfall sewer shall pass through the township.

MOTIONS PASSED.

On motion a resolution was passed authorizing the Property Committee to advertise for tenders for the coal required by the town.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. White, that the Fire, Water and Light Committee be authorized to make such arrangements as will insure the better lighting of the council chamber.—Carried.

THE OFFER ACCEPTED.

Mr. Best moved, seconded by Mr. White, that the offer of Messrs. Hall and McGill, (trustees under the will of the late Mrs. Nicholls), to purchase the debentures for the main outfall sewer bearing interest at five per cent. without sinking fund, be received and approved, and, in the event of the bylaw being approved by the electors, that this council agrees with Messrs. Hall and McGill, as such trustees that upon their advancing the said moneys and purchasing the said debentures, the council will apply to the Legislature of Ontario at their next session for an act of parliament authorizing and confirming the arrangement made as in the case of the school debentures under the act of last session.—Carried.

TO ENFORCE THE LICENSE ACT.

On motion of Mr. Roger, seconded by Mr. Sutton, that a sum not exceeding one third of the fines imposed under the Liquor License Act or any by-laws of this council passed in pursuance thereof be set aside as a fund, to be used for the better enforcement of said act and by-laws, to be administered and paid out from time to time as may be required in the recommendation of the Police Magistrate, without necessarily disclosing the names of the persons to whom the sums have to be paid, no portion of such moneys to be paid any employee of either the government or this corporation, and that the Finance Committee be authorized to issue cheques as may be required for this purpose. In response to a question from one or two members, Mr. Roger stated that the object in desiring the passing of this resolution was that the council should comply with the license law in the respect covered by his resolution. The motion was carried on the casting vote of the Mayor, the Yeas and Nays being taken as follows; Yeas, Messrs. White, Rogers, Sutton, Mason and Kendry—5; Nays, Messrs. Kelly, Cahill, Best and Dawson.—4.

TO CLEANSE THE AUGEAN STABLES.

A motion was adopted instructing the property committee to have Council Chamber properly cleaned.

The Council adjourned at the call of the Mayor at 10:30.

BRITISH CABLE NEWS

Comments of the London Press on the Colonial Conference.

CATTLE EMBARGO QUESTION

Professor Smith, Toronto's Veterinary Expert, Interviews Professor Nocard of Paris—The Disease Affecting Canadian Cattle Not a Contagious One.

LONDON, July 11.—The Times to-day says: The work done at Ottawa is the summing up and expression of the evolution of opinion which has been going on for a quarter of a century, and now reached a stage at which it must be recognized as a powerful factor in determining the policy of the empire. It has affirmed the unity of the empire, not as a mere abstract sentiment depending upon vaguely conceived ties of blood, but as the basis of the practical assertion of an economic principle and political right. While firmly grasping and expressing the principle of imperial unity, and the main corollary of unity among the colonies themselves, the colonial delegates have shown most admirable reticence and restraint in dealing with practical applications.

In discussing the fiscal resolutions the Times says: If the colonies were in a position to supply food and staple raw materials for our industry, one great difficulty in the way of such customs arrangements as they contemplate would be considerably diminished, yet its total disappearance can hardly be conceived of except in such conditions of cheap productions by the colonies that they would naturally monopolize the home market without any special favor.

The Standard remarks the dignified character of the deliberations of the Ottawa conference and the warm loyalty to the mother country shown throughout the proceedings. Regarding the cable and steamship subsention the Standard expresses the opinion that Great Britain will not be backward in meeting the colonists' views. "The other resolutions of the conference," it says, "present more difficulty. If the colonists were allowed to raise a special tariff against foreign countries, the latter would retaliate against England until finally our export trade would be almost solely confined to our dependencies, which would be ruinous to us." The Standard admits the absurdity of the instance of the United States being able to tax Cape of Good Hope diamonds without the Cape of Good Hope retaliating on United States lumber, but says that unless England is prepared to retaliate, which means an end of free trade, it is hard to see how it can be otherwise.

LONDON, July 11. — The St. James' Gazette in an article on the Ottawa Inter-Colonial Conference, says the question whether the conference will result in any new arrangement of colonial and imperial relations depends entirely upon the Home Government. The latter is ready to subsidize the new Canadian Pacific mail line between Canada and Australia via England, and certainly will do so, but the views expressed by the conference in regard to a colonial and imperial commercial policy affect the relations of Great Britain with foreign nations, and are, therefore, impracticable.

Britannia Wins the Fourth Race.

GLASGOW, July 11.—The contest for the Clyde Corinthian Cup, valued at £60, while ostensibly sailed by ameteur skippers was practically a professional event. Mr. W. J. Jamieson was at the tiller of the Britannia, and Nat Herreshoff was at that of the Vigilant, but they were advised by the racing skippers of their craft. The Brittannia was again victorious, but the winds were mostly very light and variable and it was really almost as inconclusive a battle as that of Monday. The gentle force of the wind is indicated by the fact that the Britannia covered the 50 mile course in 7 hours, 45 minutes and 5 seconds. There was much light air sailing, some drifting and a bit of real racing in a modest breeze. The Britannia won the cup by 6 minutes and 30 seconds elapsed time and 9 minutes and 30 seconds corrected time.

The Cattle Question.

LONDON, July 11.—Dr. Alexander Smith, the well-known veterinary expert of Toronto, who is now in London, says he has seen Professor Nocard, of Paris, the leading pathological authority in France, in regard to the alleged cases of pleuro-pneumonia in Canadian cattle. Dr. Nocard expressed himself to Dr. Smith as positive that lungs of animals submitted to him for examination did not indicate contagious pleuro-pneumonia, but merely the ordinary non contagious bronchial pneumonia.

A Dane's Romance.

HAMILTON, July 11.—William Lawson, an industrious Danish carpenter, from London, Ont., is in the city trying to get possession of his four-year-old son. Lawson was in business in London with Fred Edson as a partner, and a few days ago he found himself minus his wife, children and partner. He found Edgson and his wife living here with Mrs. Lawson's mother. Lawson will endeavour to secure his child and will let Edgson stick to the fickle woman.

Montreal's Military School.

MONTREAL, July 11.—The Montreal city council has voted $25,000 towards the establishment of a military school in this city. The council has decided to effect a loan of $2,000,000.

THE PULLMAN BOYCOTT

President Debs and His Associates Placed Under Arrest.

LIBERATED ON $10,000 BAIL

Sovereign Calls Upon the Knights of Labor to Lay Down Their Tools — Two Men Killed in an Affray Between Regulars and Rioters.

CHICAGO, July 11.—There is no disguising the fact that the local situation in the labor troubles is more grave than it has been at any time. This is not the view of alarmist or biased of the radicals among the strike element, but rather the opinion entertained among all classes of the community which are looking forward with fear and apprehension to what the night or another day may bring forth. There were three times as many people on the streets to-day as were to be seen any day for many months past. Nine-tenths of them, men and women alike, displayed some emblem. The majority wore the white ribbon emblematic of sympathy with the strikers. Silken miniatures of the Stars and Stripes, too, made their appearance this morning and before noon they were to be seen by thousands. It many instances this emblem of loyalty to the national government was fastened with the significant bronze button of the Grand Army of the Republic. It was significant also that the Stars and Stripes were hoisted on scores of flagpoles, both in the business and residence district, that are generally bare except on the 4th of July, Decoration day, and similar national or local holidays.

The people on the streets keep moving. There was no congregation of crowds except about the military camps on the lake front and the Government building and in the region of various headquarters of the labor organizations. In commercial circles there were lamentations loud and deep, for retail business of all kinds is in a state of paralysis and the wholesale trade is faring but little if any better. Although, to some extent, it has been anticipated the arrest of President Debs and his associates was the sensation of the day. The President of the American Railway Union and his colleagues were brought in quietly and without any outbursts of popular indignation that sensationalists had predicted. The Federal grand jury occupied less time than had been expected in reaching the decision that the evidence presented for its consideration was sufficient to justify the return of true bills against the leaders of the union.

Judge Grosscup's charge, although denounced with fury at the headquarters of the various labor organizations, is generally commented upon in commercial and professional circles as a masterly exposition of the line between the legal and justifiable methods of trades organizations and defiance of the laws or rebellion against the authority of the United States. Organized labor was prompt to strike back at the latest manifestation of federal power and authority. Hardly had the word been flashed across the half mile of intervening ground between the government building and the labor headquarters that the indictment should be returned and warrants for Debs and his associates placed in the hands of the officers when the committee appointed by the trades and labor associations of the city to urge upon the Pullman company the desirability of submitting the dispute with its employes to arbitration, attached its signs to the order calling out every union man in the city from midnight.

Almost before the ink was dry on this document General Master Workman Sovereign of the Knights of Labor placed the official seal of the order upon a manifesto appealing to the order and through it to the whole people to lay down the implements of toil. This order, request, or whatever it might properly be designated, was wired at once to the officers of every district assembly throughout the country, with instructions looking to its immediate transmission to the executive head of each local assembly. The organization of the Knights and its means of communicating with the individual members is so perfect that it was the opinion at headquarters that every Knight of Labor in the land would be made acquainted with the ultimatum by midnight. District Assembly No 24, representing every local assembly in Chicago and surrounding towns, was the first to respond to the executive appeal, and by formal resolution it declared it the duty of all members within its jurisdiction to carry out the suggestions of Grand Master Workman Sovereign. Around town the news of the arrests, while it intensified the strained feeling already referred to, failed to produce any prolonged manifestations either of approval or indignation.

The arrested men took the situation in a nonchalent mood. No glittering of steel bayonets or tramp of military forces marked their progress to the government building, nor were any handcuffs brought into requisition. They came like free citizens, joked and laughed, and enjoyed the hospitality of the District Attorney's office while waiting for bail, put their signatures to the bonds as a matter of personal recognizance and then returned to resume the work that had been temporarily interrupted. Their appearance was the signal for enthusiastic cheers and greetings from the crowd in waiting.

SOVEREIGN'S MANIFESTO.

He Calls on the Knights of Labor to Lay Down Their Tools.

The manifesto of General Master Workman Sovereign to the Knights of Labor, issued last night, is as follows:

"CHICAGO, July 10, 1894.

"To the Knights of Labor of America:

"Greeting.—A crisis has been reached in the affairs of this nation that endangers the peace of the republic. Every fibre in our civil structure is strained to the breaking point. The shadow of fractional hatred hovers over our land with terrible forebodings.

"The arrogant lash of superiority is being applied by the corporations with relentless fury and the chasm between the mass and the classes is growing deeper and wider with each succeeding day. If peace is to be restored and this nation saved from acts repulsive to the conscience of Christian people there must be wise action and that quick.

"Sincerely believing that the flames of discord are being purposely fanned by the railway corporations at the risk of the life of the Government I take the liberty to appeal to you and through you to the conscience of the whole people imploring you to lay down the implements of toil for a short season and under the banner of peace and patriotic desire to promote the public welfare use the power of your aggregated numbers through peaceable assemblages to create a healthy public sentiment in favor of an amicable settlement of the issues growing out of the recent strike of the Pullman Palace Car employes, and you are further requested not to return to your usual avocations until a settlement of the pending troubles is made to you through some authentic source. The Pullman Palace Car Company refused to arbitrate the difference between itself and its employes on the ground that the cars were built below cost and therefore there is nothing to arbitrate.

"But the Pullman Company goes further in its autocratic policy than a refusal to arbitrate. It has refused to join with the business men and board of aldermen of Chicago in a committee to discuss the question as to whether there is anything to arbitrate or not, and behind this autocratic policy stands the General Managers' Association of the railway corporations backed by the United States army as the aiders and abettors of this social crime.

"Mr. Pullman cries poverty to his starving employes and then retreats to his princely summer mansion on Pullman Island in the St. Lawrence River and wires the business men of Chicago that he has nothing to arbitrate. Like Nero he laughs in luxury while the devoted martyrs burn. If the present strike is lost to labor it will retard the progress of civilization and reduce the possibilities of labor to ever emancipate itself from the thraldom of greed. The dignity of labor and all the victories won in the past are at stake in this conflict.

"I beseech you to be true to your obligations in this hour of trial. Court the co operation of a generous public, stand firm and united in our common cause, and the victory will be one of peace and prosperity to the faithful. J. R. SOVEREIGN, General Master Workman."

Indictments Against Labor Chiefs.

The full list of the men indicted by the United States grand jury includes Eugene V. Debs, George W. Seward, Sylvester Keliher, L. W. Rogers, James Murwin, Lloyd Hotchkiss, A. Patzybak, H. Elfin, James Hammond, Wm. Smith, John Westerbrook, Edward O'Neil, Chas. Nailer, John Duffy, Wm. McMullen, E. Shelby, Fred Ketcham and John W. Doyle. They are indicted for conspiracy, which is punishable by a fine of from $1,000 to $10,000, or imprisonment for not more than two years, and also for hindering the execution of the laws of the United States, which is a much more serious offence, punishable by a fine of from $300 to $5,000 or imprisonment for not more than six years.

Eugene Debs' Arrest.

The grand jury brought in its report to Judge Grosscup's court at 4:30 p.m. Very few witnesses were examined. Warrants were at once issued, United States Marshall Arnold personally serving the ones for the arrest of Debs. Marshall Arnold found Debs in his room in the Leland Hotel. When Marshall Arnold was admitted Mr. Debs smiled and surmising the truth asked if Mr. Arnold had a warrant for him.

"You have guessed the truth the first time," said the Marshall, producing the necessary papers, "I have a warrant for your arrest."

"On what ground?" asked Mr. Debs.

"On the ground of conspiracy, unlawfully inciting riot against the citizens of the State of Illinois, interfering with the mails and on several other counts of minor importance."

"All right," said Mr. Debs, "Read them to me, if you please."

This Marshal Arnold proceeded to do. Mr. Debs listened in silence. At the conclusion of the reading the three proceeded to the side entrance of the hotel and were at once driven to the office of District Attorney Milchrist in the federal building. There was a brief discussion as to the amount of bond that would be satisfactory and it was finally fixed at $10,000 each, which was soon secured. In the meantime a subpœna duces tecum was issued for J. G. Haines, one of Debs' assistants, commanding him to produce all the official correspondence of the A. R. U. Deputy Marshal White and Inspector Stuart served the papers. On entering Room 423 of the Ashland Block, where the business office of the A. R. U. is conducted, the deputy read the subpœna and then the search began. The officers had a mail sack and they gathered everything in sight.

TWO MORE KILLED.

A Serious Conflict Between United States Regulars and Rioters.

LADD, Ill., July 11.—The first lives were lost in the Bureau county coal fields as an outcome of the present trouble. The record is two men killed and five injured. Killed—Domnick Barlmer, Italian, shot through the head by United States regulars and died instantly; John Salotti, Italian, shot through the breast and knee shattered by regulars; died four hours later. Injured—Walter Gregory, deputy; Lush Kolp, deputy; S. T. Powell, deputy; unknown Italian rioter shot by Powell; unknown rioter, hand and arm badly lacerated by bayonet while the militia was clearing the streets at Spring Valley.

The regulars were guarding a passenger train on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific road, being on their way through the city from Chicago to Bureau Junction. The mob gathered on the hill and commenced stoning the train as soon as it arrived in the depot. The depredations are being committed by non-English speaking men. Bureau county is in a state of intense excitement.

Destructive Fire in Ohio.

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, July 11.—The most destructive fire in the history of this town started yesterday, and as a result the entire business portion is in ashes. The blaze originated in Wilson's restaurant, but quickly spread to Umstead's hardware store, Rudmeyer's grocery, Alexander's drug store, Horner's meat market, Gillar's saloon, McMillen's jewelry store, Conekel's bakery and the Gazette office, all being totally destroyed. There being no means of fighting the fire it quit only when it had burned out. Loss, $50,000; insurance about two-thirds this amount.

Y. P. S. C. E. NOTES.

The following extracts are taken from a paper on "The Look-out Committee" which was recently read at a meeting in North Smith. We would like to give the paper in full, but space forbids: "No committee is of such importance as the Look-out, therefore its members should be carefully chosen, should be experienced, enthusiastic and possess the tact necessary in giving encouragement and reproof. It is of great importance that its duties be fully understood and faithfully discharged. The success or failure of the society may depend largely upon the faithfulness of this committee. The members of this committee should be filled with the spirit of Christ, their duty should be discharged faithfully, but with discretion. At times they may be discouraged, but should always lean upon the promise, 'Lo, I am with you alway.' When our actions are entirely misunderstood, when we see wrong motives imputed, when we hear harsh and unkind words spoken we are tempted to give up in despair and a sore temptation it is. But let us remember the disciple is not above his Master, nor the servant above his Lord."

One great mission of the Lookout Committee is to see that proper persons join the Society. If the door is opened too wide so that all who wish come into active membership, whether they are earnest Christians or not, the Society degenerates swiftly and surely. If in your term of office you admit some unfaithful members you will do the Society an injury which half a score of future committees may not be able to remedy.

Let all your work be seasoned with prayer. Look up before you look out. Look out, look up, look after, look around, ut never look over any one, or overlook anyone or anything.

In a small Society have every member on the Lookout Committee, and in a large Society do not leave all the work for the Lookout Committee. Before allowing anyone to join the Society great care must be taken that they fully understand what they are doing—and that they are ready to take the vows of service and confession.

The consecration service is one of the most important duties of this committee. One single absence from this meeting should be noticed and the absentee followed up if no response or excuse be sent. It is a mistaken kindness to the Active Member to keep him after he has violated his pledge, it is also very disastrous to the society. However, before dropping his or her name, let the Lookout Committee have a special prayer meeting to ask Divine guidance. One secret of success is to be possessed of the mind of Christ that we shall have a perfect passion for souls. If the members of the Lookout Committee had His spirit, before another year had passed we would see many of our young people saved from sin. Let all who are on the Lookout Committee be faithful and zealous, ever looking to Jesus for guidance and thei work will be blessed.

NORTH SMITH.

North Smith Y.P.S.C.E. held their consecration service on Thursday evening. A talk on the topic, "Christian Ideals," was given by Mr. Nelson. A paper on "No Pledge," was read by Mrs. J. H. Sanderson. Several members of the Selwyn Y. P.S.C.E. being present and taking part made the meeting a very enjoyable one.

The Selwyn Baptist Y.P.S.C.E. held their consecration service on Sunday evening. Owing to the excessive heat the meeting was small but the earnestness with which each member took part made it very interesting and instructive. Mr. James Nicholls read a paper on the topic "What has Christianity done for our country." Others contributed in various ways.

A union meeting of the North Smith and Selwyn Y.P.S.C.E. Societies will be held in the North Smith Presbyterian church on Sunday, July 15th. A good programme is being prepared and all are cordially invited to be present at our union meeting.

The county of Peterborough has sent a representative of about 25 to the great International C. E. Convention to be held in Cleveland from July 11 to 15.

ST. PAUL'S

St. Paul's society had a large number present at their meeting last Monday night. Mr. A. McCallum gave a splendid address on "The work of the Holy Spirit." This society intends holding its next regular meeting on Sunday evening at the same time as the great convention consecration service is being held.

The Heavy End of a Match.

"Mary," said Farmer Flint at the breakfast table as he asked for a second cup of coffee, "I've made a discovery."

"Well, Cyrus, you're about the last one I'd expect of such a thing, but what is it?"

"I have found that the heavy end of a match is its light end," responded Cyrus with a grin that would have adorned a skull.

Mary looked disgusted, but with an air of triumph quickly retorted, "I've got a discovery too, Cyrus. It was made by Dr. R. V. Pierce, and is called a 'Golden Medical Discovery.' It drives away blotches and pimples, purifies the blood, tones up the system and makes one feel brand-new. Why, it cured Cousin Ben who had Consumption and was reduced to a skeleton. Before his wife began to use it she was a pale, sickly thing, but look at her; she's rosy-cheeked and healthy, and weighs 165 pounds. That, Cyrus is a discovery that's worth mentioning."

Young or middle-aged men, suffering from premature decline of power, however induced, speedily and radically cured. Illustrated book sent securely sealed for 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, July 11, 1894.

A cable says that the cattle trade is much better in Britain at higher prices, owing to limited receipts. Choice are quoted at 12c.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Wheat nominal at 62c for white and at 61c for red. Oats firm, 300 bushels selling at 32c to 40c. Peas are quoted at 65c and barley at 41c to 43c. Hogs are quoted at $6 to $6 50.

The United States Government report this afternoon will probably suggest an enormous corn crop, but not much change from the June prospect on wheat, 415,000,000 bushels.

CHICAGO—Wheat was unsettled, closing a shade lower. Corn was firm with prices unchanged, Oats were firm and provisions showed more strength than of late, owing to prospects of a resumption of business. Receipts to day: Wheat 8 cars; corn 32 cars; oats 12 cars; hogs uncertain.

BUFFALO.—Cattle, 4 cars fresh, 27 held over, made 31 cars on sale, slow, a shade easier. Good handy steers $4 25 to $4 40. Sheep and lambs, 3 cars, not enough on sale to make a market. Hogs—The Chicago strike has so run up prices here that the Canadian live stock dealers have found it profitable to ship hogs to this market and the six cars on sale were from Canada, most of them being dairy fed.

The tendency of prices at the New York Stock Exchange was downward, notwithstanding advices that the roads were making some progress against the strikers in Chicago. The shorts paid particular attention to Chicago Gas and as the pool in the stock appears to have withdrawn its support they succeeded in bringing about a decline from 75⅜ to 72¼ with final transactions at the lowest point. Later the market displayed more steadiness, but toward the close the entire list was weak. Total sales were: Listed 78,000; unlisted 26,000 including Chicago Gas 22,000.

THAT FRENCH TREATY

Bill to Ratify it Discussed in the House of Commons.

COL. O'BRIEN'S AMENDMENT

Sir Richard Cartwright Claims the Treaty is More Favorable to France—Turcotte Exonerated in the Public Accounts Committee—The Thousand Islands.

OTTAWA, July 11.—Hon. Geo. Foster, Minister of Finance, moved in the House of Commons yesterday the second reading of the bill to ratify the French treaty. He supported it in a very short speech.

Sir Richard Cartwright did not very strongly oppose the treaty, but held that it was all in favor of France and against Canada. He showed that the prohibitionists and the wine growers were opposed to the treaty, and that it would reduce the revenue when Canada could ill-afford to lose it.

Mr. O'Brien, Conservative, moved in amendment: "While this House is willing at all times to sanction any treaty at which on fair and equitable terms will add to Canadian trade, it is unable to assent to the treaty that has been made with France on the ground that it will not prove reciprocal in its results, in that it gives to France greater advantages than Canada receives, being unfair and unequal, inasmuch as, according to one of its terms, France is entitled to the benefit of all commercial advantages which Canada may hereafter give to any other foreign country, and not merely in tariff matters, while Canada is only to participate in any reduction of duty granted any other power in any of the articles enumerated in the treaty. It is further unequal and unfair in this, that while any increase in the duties on the class of wines, which under it France is to have advantages in respect of entitles France to denounce the treaty. Canada is not placed in the minimum tariff which is to be enforced so far as Canadian products mentioned therein are concerned, and in the opinion of this House is unfair and unjust to the great mass of consumers that duties should be lowered as, by the treaty, they are to be on articles of luxury while high duties are to be maintained on many of the necessaries of life and this, too, at a time when, owing to the falling revenue, the duty can ill be spared."

The debate is likely to last some time, but the treaty will in the end be carried.

The Turcotte Charges.

At a meeting of the Committee of Privileges and Elections, Mr. Edgar made a long speech in reference to his amendment to Col. Amyot's motion exonerating A. J. Turcotte from participation in the Larose and Provost contract. This amendment declared that Turcotte had been guilty of a breach of the privileges of Parliament. Mr. Edgar wished to know why he (Turcotte) had not come to testify.

Hon. J. A. Ouimet said he was not compelled to.

Mr. Dickey thought it unjust that Turcotte should be tried twice on the same charges. He thought the committee should take no further action in the present case and moved an amendment to that effect. It could be dealt with next session. Mr. Edgar thought if Turcotte had established his innocence it was unjust to him to hold a charge over him. If he was guilty, Parliament and not a provincial court should punish him.

Mr. McCarthy said the committee in the execution of his instructions should report to Parliament. In his opinion there was no doubt as to Turcotte's having had to do with the contracts for the supply of goods to Quebec citadel.

Hon. David Mills claimed that it would be unjust both to Turcotte and his country to deny him a verdict. If a majority thought him guilty he should be pronounced so.

Sir John Thompson held that Turcotte's complicity had not been proved.

On a vote being taken Dickey's amendment was voted down by 6 to 18. Edgar's amendment was then voted upon, the vote being yeas 8, nays 16.

Amyot's motion exonerating Turcotte was then carried by 16 to 8.

Charges Against Col. Walker.

Col. Walker Powell has been furnished with a copy of the charges preferred against him by Major-General Herbert, and is now reading them. He will reply to them by a report to the Minister of Militia.

The Public Accounts Committee.

At a meeting of the Public Accounts Committee Overseer John Conway, in the Curran bridge investigation, said that Doheny, Government timekeeper, had checked men checked by St. Louis. Hon. John Haggart read a letter from Timekeeper Frigon, in which it was stated that the writer could prove that the Government had been victimized on Grand Trunk pay lists. Timekeeper Frigon went over the pay rolls and read names of over fifty men who had never been on the work, but in whose name St. Louis collected money.

The Thousand Islands.

Since July 2, the date at which Hon. Mr. Daly, Minister of the Interior, commenced to dispose of the Thousand Islands, over 200 applications have been received. The rule of the Government was that if only one application was received for any island the island should be allowed to go at the upset price, but that if two or more applications were received, the applicants should be asked for tenders. In the majority of the cases there were more than one application, and the islands concerned have not been allotted yet, but a considerable number of islands for which only single applications were in have been sold, and it may be said fairly that the pick of the islands are already gone and all the balance of the really desirable ones will speedily be allotted. The majority of the purchasers are said to be either Americans or residents of Gananoque, the latter of whom have purchased partly for residence but mostly for speculation.

A Child Burned to Death.

LONDON, Ont., July 11.—The three-year-old daughter of Lewis L. Richards, 85 Spruce street, met with a terrible accident which resulted in her death. Mrs. Richards heard the little one screaming in the back yard, and running to the back door she saw her daughter enveloped in flames. With the assistance of the servant girl she picked her up, and both tore her burning clothes off. In doing so both had their hands badly burned, and before they succeeded the unfortunate baby's body was almost burned to a crisp. The child set her clothes on fire while playing with matches.

Hamilton's Sabbath Observance.

HAMILTON, July 11.—At a meeting of the directors of the Hamilton Street Railway Company it was decided to continue the Sunday car service and a copy of the resolution to this effect, which was passed by the directors, was forwarded to Dr. Macdonald, president of the Hamilton Sabbath Observance Association. A meeting of the Sabbath Observance Association and others interested will be held to-day to decide what further steps shall be taken toward the prohibition of the running of Sunday cars and steamboat companies.

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please," an have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similiar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose to pay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH.

The Verdict of the Jury in the Frank Beaton Inquest—Mild Censure of Detective Murray.

The inquest into the death of Frank Beaton, whose body was found on the G. T. R. siding, near Stevenson's coal shed, was resumed last night by Coroner Bell.

The first witness examined was John Duncan, a G.T.R. locomotive fireman who testified that he rode in the van of McCarthy's train on the day of the circus. Was not firing that day. Had been sleeping in the van, but woke up. That train took a sleeping car next to the van. Overheard two men come into the sleeping car next the van, and he heard the words, "It's a pity we hadn't killed him before," or "It's a pity he hadn't been killed before." After he reached Lindsay he enquired if a man had been killed in Peterborough. Thinks the words used were, "That we hadn't killed him before." Couldn't fix the time, but thought it must have been near 12 o'clock.

Police Constable Stewart testified that he he was at the Grand Trunk station the morning Beaton's body was found. Witness produced a cloth cap found by Harry Edmison in the adjoining coal shed. Thes style on the cap inside was 'Regatta.' There was a name pencilled on the inside "W. Kingan."

Harry Edminson testified that he picked up the cap referred to and gave it to Constable Stewart. About 6 o'clock the night before he heard a man who resembled Frank Beaton's brother in town, having high words in a car opposite where the cap was found.

Dr. Bell reviewed the evidence presented and said that to his mind the evidence of medical witness demonstrated that deceased was crushed between a moving car and the coal shed, but he was not so clear whether he got into such a position accidentally or by the act of some other person. The coroner referred again to the condition of the body as the jury saw it and said that there were several things unexplained. The face of deceased showed that the blood had been wiped from his face, showing that some person must have seen and handled the body between the time of the accident and the time the jury saw the body. After thinking over all the circumstances, he (Dr. Bell) said he could not disabuse his mind of the idea that some person knew more about the body than the evidence had yet brought out.

In answer to a juror, the Coroner said that Detective Murray had discovered that Beaton did not belong to the circus.

The jury after consultation returned the following verdict:—

"That the said Frank Beaton came to his death on the morning of June 29th last, on the G.T.R. siding on Bethune street, near Charlotte street, in the town of Peterborough, being crushed between the railway cars and the coal sheds, but whether as the result of an accident or from personal violence we have no evidence to show. We are of the opinion that the case has not been sufficiently investigated by the detective furnished by the provincial authorities."

LACROSSE.

The large crowd who assembled on the P.A.A.A. grounds Tuesday witnessed one of the finest exhibitions of lacrosse ever given on the P. A. A. A. grounds, the championship match between the Shamrocks of Peterborough and the Ontarios of Port Hope, and at different stages of the game it was thought that victory would perch on the banners of the Shamrocks. The team that faced Port Hope yesterday was a purely local one, and many were under the impression before the game started that Port Hope would have a walk over, but after referee C. LeBrun had faced the ball and play had commenced it was noticed that every member of the Shamrocks went in to win. The first game was scored by Port Hops after 25 minutes hard play during which J. McDonough, Dixon, Phalen and McCabe distinguished themselves by brilliant playing.

The second game was undoubtedly the most stubbornly contested of the match, and every member of the home team held their checks down and played rings around their red guernsied opponents. Galley, Carrol and Bolan did some splendid work in this game, while McCabe, Jos. McDonough, T. McDonough and J. McMahon worked like Trojans and saved the flags from a number of attacks. After 35 minutes play the ball passed through the Shamrock's goal by a fluke.

Phelan, after the face-off for the third game, secured the ball and after three minutes sharp play made a pretty and successful shot on goal and secured the first game for the Shamrocks amidst loud cheering.

The Shamrocks went into the next game with renewed courage and were giving a good account of themselves, but Weir of Port Hope, scored again for Port Hope.

In the fifth game Port Hope seemed to lose courage, the Shamrocks having everything their own way and giving a fine exhibition of the game. Galley at centre secured the ball and scored by a pretty shot from the side of the flags.

Seven minutes more was left to play and the Shamrocks went into the fight to win the next goal, and would certainly have done so if more time had been placed at their disposal. Time was called at the end of the seven minutes and the game ended in favour of Port Hope by a score of 3 to 2. The following were the teams:—

| Shamrocks | | Port Hope. |
|---|---|---|
| Rogers | goal | Crowhurst |
| Boland | point | L White |
| McCabe | cover point | Patterson |
| Jno McDonough | 1st defence | J White |
| Jos McDonough | 2nd " | Misson |
| McMahon | 3rd " | Armstrong |
| T McDonough | centre | Tutton |
| Galley | 3rd home | Coleman |
| Dixon | 2nd " | Jennings |
| Phalen | 1st " | Tite |
| Carrol | outside home | Burt |
| Hickey | inside home | Weir |
| L LeBar | goal umpires | H LeBrun |
| J Begley | field captains | D Hoey |

DROP SHOTS.

Mr. "Jerry" Packenham, of Port Hope, was present during the game.

McGarry, the Port Hope baseballist, who was acting as umpire at the Port Hope flags during the game, was relieved by H. LeBrun, his decisions being questioned.

A number of the home players have a tendency to hold the ball too long and not throw it on goal at once. This often decides the fate of matches.

Rogers, the Shamrock goal keeper, defended the flags in good style yesterday.

Jennings, of the Port Hope team, played a magnificent game yesterday. His playing is entirely free from roughness and altogether he is a first-class lacrossist.

Tite did not play his old game yesterday but was held down in good style by his check.

The two White boys although they were watched closely yesterday, put up a good game. One regrettable feature of the game was the constant hooting at the two Indians by a certain portion of the crowd. They play gentlemanly lacrosse, and no home player has yet complained of rough treatment at their hands. This hooting was not confined to boys alone, but older heads were to blame. The most pleasant part of the incident, however, was the manner in which the Messrs. White recognized this treatment—a bright smile being visible on their faces at all times.

If the Shamrock home had been a little stronger yesterday, the result of the game would have been rather discouraging for the Port Hope team.

Manager Patterson of the Port Hope team refused the press the names of his players on the ground of harsh and unjust criticism on the part of the local press in reference to their importation of foreigners. Surely Mr. Patterson will not blame the papers for giving credit whenever it is due and if the criticisms of the Port Hope team has been at times severe, it has certainly been to the point. If the obliging(?) manager will ponder for a moment he will recollect the communications in the Toronto papers twe years ago over his name, in which he criticized the home team in an unsportsmanlike manner. In leaving the grounds it is to be hoped Mr. Patterson did not labour under the impression that he had stifled the press by his display of brief authority. It would indeed be disastrous for Port Hope if Manager Patterson would "fly off the handle" very often.

The Granites, a junior team from town, went to Millbrook yesterday to cross sticks with a junior team of that place. On the field they were pitted against a team composed largely of seniors. The result was that the game ended in a draw, both teams scoring four goals. However the Granites had the best of the play all through. A report of the game will be given to-morrow.

He is Keen to be Prosecuted.

TORONTO, July 11.—Alfred Buchanan, the young man who voluntarily surrendered to the police and accused himself of being an embezzler from a London firm to the extent of $1,000 has been discharged from custody on the refusal of the swindled firm to prosecute. Buchanan is disgusted. He says he will go back to England and be punished for his crime.

Suffocated by Gas.

TORONTO, July 11.—Wm. Tucker, a butcher on Yonge street, was suffocated by gas yesterday. When Ernest Alston, an employe, went into the shop he detected a strong smell of escaping gas, and on investigating found his employer sitting dead in his chair in the office with two gas jets turned on. There is no doubt that the death was purely accidental.

The Lewis Accident.

QUEBEC, July 11.—The verdict rendered at the coroner's inquest on the body of the woman who lost her life in Monday's accident at the G. T. R. landing at Levis was accidental death by drowning. Several other persons injured at the time are reported in a critical condition.

Commercial Traveller Suicides.

MONTREAL, July 11.—A commercial traveller named Alfred Francois, 35 years of age, lately in the employ of C. Alfred Choillon, of this city, committed suicide yesterday by jumping out of a third story window of the Brunswick Hotel at Sorel. He had been despondent for some days.

HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION.

St. John's and the Mission Sunday Schools Pass a Very Pleasant Day.

The excursion of the St. John's and Mission Sunday schools yesterday to Jubilee Point per steamer City of Peterborough, was a splendid success. Between four and five hundred passengers made a pleasant sail to the Point. The presence of Whalton's orchestra, which furnished excellent music, added greatly to the enjoyment. Arrived at Jubilee Point—shortly after 12—the afternoon was spent in the usual picnic style, the children being supplied with a bountiful dinner. The commissariat was in charge of Mrs. Best, and she performed her duties with the greatest satisfaction.

During the afternoon a programme of races was run off by Mr. Wm. Buller and Superintendent Walkey with the following results:

Infant class (girls)—1 Ella Byers, 2 Florence Robinson, 3 Katie Graham, 4 Emma Scott.

Infant class (boys)—1 Alfred Hodgson, 2 Charlie Lacheur, 3 Willie McMillan, 4 Jack Seymour.

Girls, 10 and under—1 Louisa Lacheur, 2 Mabel Seymour.

Boys, 10 and under—1 Arthur Graham, 2 Horace Walkey.

Sack race—1 Harold Hillier.

Ladies' race—1 Maud Byers, 2 Mary Lacheur.

Men's race—1 H. Morphet, 2 Rev. J. C. Davidson.

The point is a beautiful place for a picnic; well shaded with abundance of beautiful flowers that perfume the air. There were no mosquitoes yesterday. The sail home was as delightful as the downward journey. Everybody was well pleased and a smile of placid content brightened every face. It was generally declared the most delightful picnic ever held at the point. Rev. Mr. Davidson, rector of St. John's, was on board and made himself busy looking after the comfort of everybody and Capt. Ada and the officers and the crew did everything in their power to make it pleasant for the guests. The City of Peterborough won golden opinions from everybody.

The school officials wish to thank the congregations, whose liberality enabled them to give the pupils a free trip and a most delightful outing.

LEAD US NOT INTO TEMPTATION.

From the melancholy circumstances developed in connection with the Peterborough Post Office yesterday, it would seem that it becomes underpaid post office employes, occupying positions of great responsibility to repeat the above prayer with special unction every morning before going down to duty. Place a young man in a position of trust and grave responsibility; pay him a beggarly salary out of all proportion to the work performed and the responsibility assumed; given a temper soured by the reflection that he is underpaid, especially in contrast with the comparatively princely remuneration of his principal; add the perpetual sting of annoyance from the petty economies that he is compelled to practice and add to this the easy opportunity hourly presented to supplement his meagre income by appropriation of the moneys passing through his hands, and we have less reason to be surprised that the temptation is yielded to, as shown in the melancholy event of yesterday. Of course these circumstances do not extenuate the gravity of the crime; they do not excuse, much less justify it. But the Dominion Government should give practical attention to circumstances that tempt human nature, smarting under a sense of unjust and unequal treatment, to take justice into its own hands. The real function of law is to prevent, rather than punish, crime, and it is a plain duty of the Government to so equalize, within reasonable limits, the several salaries paid, as to remove any temptation from an employee to act dishonestly in his own interests, so far as that temptation consists in unjust and unfair proportion of and palpably inadequate salary.

The local incumbent of the Post Office in Peterborough, has a salary, as stated in the Postmaster-General's report of 1894, of $3,800. This is further increased by allowances of various kinds to $4,477.80; to this is to be added the rental of the boxes, etc., which is estimated at about $1,000, which increases the gross receipts of the present incumbent to nearly $5,500, and yet we have a young man of family occupying the responsible position of "head clerk" for the petty salary of $500 a year—a disparity of salary so great as to excite no surprise that a young man smarting under a sense of the injustice to which he was subjected and the cramped financial position resulting from insufficient pay to maintain appearances in keeping with the position of "head clerk" of the Peterborough post office, should have yielded to the temptation his surroundings presented.

The action of the Government in this connection is imperatively demanded. It is simply shameful that the disparity pointed out should exist. While it is proper that the responsible head of the post office should have an adequate salary, yet the respective salaries referred to are so unjustly unequal that no person can regard the disparity with anything but indignant disapproval, and failure on the part of the Postmaster General to take prompt action in meting out even-handed justice according to merit, will be strongly denounced in Peterborough. Public opinion is strongly excited upon the subject and the general feeling is that greater attention on the part of the Government to the management of the Peterborough post office is imperatively called for; the public hold the Government responsible in the matter. Now that the Postmaster-General, Sir Adolphe Caron, is not immediately busied with the distribution of election boodle he might find time to pay some attention to the matters to which his attention has been directed.

The making of the above comparisons suggests another. During the late Ontario election campaign the Conservative journals founded column upon column of vitriolic denunciation of the Ontario Government for the alleged disparity between the salaries of government officials and their subordinates, yet there was not a single case cited that is for a moment to be compared with the gap between subordinate and principal salaries as shown above. It is stated that in no place in the Dominion is there such inequality in salaries. In the city of Belleville, the salary of the postmaster is $1,400 and the salary of the assistant postmaster, (corresponding to ex-"head clerk" Tebb) is $1,200, the postmaster's salary being a third less than that in Peterborough and the head clerk's salary two and one-half times greater, and there are two other subordinates who get higher salaries than the late "head clerk." Here is certainly a little work cut out for Sir Adolphe Caron, a condition of disparity in salaries that calls for prompt action in the direction of simple justice, not to speak of increased efficiency and more satisfactory service. What a terrible uproar would have been created had such a state of things been disclosed in an office under the authority of the Ontario Government. What gallons of ink and reams of paper would have been used by the Empire and its confreres in denouncing the iniquitous injustice of such a condition of things. We shall now see whether the Peterborough post office, that furnishes such an excellent test, will be made the subject of some eloquent sermons on the question of reasonable equality between the remuneration of subordinates and principal.

MR. MORROW, registrar, has a net income of about $2,500 and paid his deputy, Mr. Grundy, $800. Mr. Rogers, postmaster, has a net income of about $4,000 and paid his deputy $500. Our Conservative friends may look on the former and then on the latter and wink their other eye as usual.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Miss Maggie Askey is visiting friends in London, Ont.

Miss Edna Waters is the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. Lees, St. Thomas.

Mrs. A. Calder, and family, of Toronto, are the guests of Mrs. J. B. Pearce. They leave this week to spend a few weeks at Rice Lake.

A number of Norwood's sons and daughters who have been abroad attending college or following other pursuits are spending their summer holidays at their homes here.

Mrs. W. H. Mullins and Masters Charlie and Edgar are renewing old acquaintances in town.

The meeting of the Board of Education for Monday evening was postponed as there were not enough members present to form a quorum.

Rev. Mr. Hudgins spent a few days here last week while on his way to Haliburton. On Sunday evening the reverend gentleman preached a fine sermon in the Methodist church.

The teachers and scholars of the Baptist Sunday school held a very enjoyable picnic at the Narrows on Monday.

Arrangements are being completed for a big day here on the 12th. A large number of lodges are expected and a very imposing procession will parade the principal streets early in the day, after which there will be speeches by prominent speakers. The streets are being very prettily decorated with arches, flags, etc., for the occasion.

The backs of the seats of the Presbyterian church have had all the old paint removed and have been re-stained. This will be a considerable improvement in comfort as well as in appearance, as the old paint was somewhat sticky.

Monday afternoon Mr. D. J. Ruttan of Peterborough was on his way to Havelock, where he has the contract for the carpenter work of Mr. Jeff's new block, via Norwood, on a bicycle. When descending Fife's hill, about two miles west of the village, the front tire burst and Mr. Ruttan was thrown a considerable distance. It is supposed that his head struck some logs lying near. Mr. Ruttan received a number of cuts and bruises on his head and body and was rendered unconscious for some time. Mr. Alfred Fife when driving past noticed the man lying at the side of the road, and brought him to the McGregor House, where his wounds were dressed.

A DIVIDED CONQUEST

"It may be, as far as sewing goes," she said, laughing at his earnestness of manner, "but there are other things, where necessity doesn't enter into the question. Mr. Clarke was telling me to-day of a man—he didn't say who—who writes the fashion page in one of the big daily papers in this very town. He makes his living by other newspaper work, but simply to add a little to his income he entrenches on a department of work that some woman must be much better fitted to do than he can ever be. Her place being taken, she is obliged to get what work she can and probably it is something which you would call a man's position. Where is a man's position, pray? And what do you think of one who would do such a thing, Mr. Ingram?"

"Beneath contempt, Miss Lovelace. But I have a circumstance which quite equals yours," he continued. "I heard it just yesterday. Old Morely—you don't know him, I suppose—was on the Times for ten years as theatrical and musical critic; he was one of the best men they ever had, but he made only a shabby-genteel living, though he was sober and as conscientious in his work as you can imagine. The other day some young woman came along and applied for his place, and, of course, the managing editor was as potter's clay in her 'independent' fingers, and inside of ten minutes the faithful servant of many years' standing was out of his position.

"Did she really do that—drive an old man out of work?"

"Exactly."

She was standing at the foot of the stairs, and as Ingram came forward to her side a queer little feeling came into her heart and unconsciously she put her hand over it.

"I should be very sorry to have the woman I love do such a thing as that," he went on, lowering his voice and looking into her eyes steadfastly, "and would you blame me Marian? I know she would not either, because you would not, and I—Marian, I love you!"

"Hush!" she cried, slipping past him as he held out his arms to her. "You must not speak to me like that. I—I am not worthy of it, indeed I am not."

"Why, Marian, what do you mean? Not worthy of my love?" he asked in surprise.

"Yes—no—oh, can't you understand? I am a wicked, hateful girl, and you despise me—you said so—or at least you meant to say so—and I—you would never forgive me. I——" She stopped, and the next minute had sank down upon the stairs, and had buried her head in her arms. But as she did so he heard the end of her sentence: "I am a wicked woman!"

The shadow of a smile flitted across his lips.

"You?" he said.

She nodded her head vigorously and began a trembling search for a dainty handkerchief to stay the tears.

"This is terrible," he said, coming a step closer, and striving hard to suppress the laugh in his voice, "and it pains me to think how deceived I have been. But, still, it will hardly change my love for you, dear, because—I am the Fashion's Foibles man!"

She raised her head and looked indignantly at him through her tears.

"I knew it all the time," she said, triumphantly, making way for him beside her.

The day following the Times' gray-haired old critic was peacefully reinstated in the place he had been so unceremoniously ejected from. The same day Miss Lovelace bought, with the last proceeds from her work a recently issued cook book.

In the afternoon Ingram dropped into the managing editor's private office and, for a moment, found him at leisure.

"Frank," said he, "I have a favor to ask of you. That fashion column is getting way beyond me, and I'd like to have you turn it over to some woman, if you've no objections.

"No—guess not. I'll see about it." Then, as Ingram closed the door behind him: "I'll bet you $10," said the managing editor to his blue pencil—a constant friend of his—"that he's going to be married. Lordy, lordy, what won't these women bring a man to?"

RAISING A FLAG STAFF.

Two Methods By Which the Difficult Work is Done.

Raising a long, heavy pole is a difficult and often a dangerous work, unless suitable provision is made for the operation. Two plans are shown in the illustrations, in either of which, by the aid of a dozen men, a pole from sixty to one hundred feet in length is readily placed in an upright position. The plan in Fig. 1 is intended for a pole not over eighty feet in length, and then it should be a slender one. The centre of the tripod of poles is about one foot to one side of the hole in which the pole is to stand. It is evident that the distance from the ground end of the pole to where the tackle rope is attached should be such that when the pole is pulled to the highest point it will swing clear of the ground when placed in an upright position, when it may be gradually lowered into the hole. Heavy weights may be fastened to near the bottom of the pole, allowing the tackle to be placed nearer the lower end, consequently shorter tripod poles may be used. In Fig. 2 the tripod is located eight or ten feet from the pole, which is dug in the form indicated by the dotted lines. An anchor rope, a, is secured to any tree, post or building, located within twenty to a hundred feet, as the length of available rope may permit. The lower end of the pole is placed in the trough-shaped hole and the small end elevated to an angle of about twenty degrees, when the rope and tackle will readily elevate it. In both cases, the pulley and flag rope are supposed to be in position. Guy ropes should also be placed about half way up the pole; if they are simply wound about the pole three or four times they will hold firmly, and when the pole is secured in an upright position, are easily taken down by simply walking around the pole with one of the ropes, unwinding the same. Use none but strong ropes, and attend to all details in a most careful manner. In the plan in Fig. 2, place a strong board upright in the holes for the end of the pole to press against, otherwise much earth will be loosened and, falling in, will partly fill the excavation.

PEN PICTURE OF A LEVEE

DESCRIPTION BY EX-SECRETARY OF THE PARLIAMENT OF RELIGIONS.

An Interesting Interview With a Canadian Who Lives in Chicago—The Functions of Her Majesty's Court in England—A World's Great Temperance Crusade.

Mr. William Pipe, ex-secretary of the World's Parliament of Religions, was seen at his uncle's residence at Guelph the other day. Mr. Pipe has returned from an enjoyable trip to England, where, among other distinctions, he had the honor to be presented by Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. The presentation took place at the levee held at St. James' Palace, February 21, by command of Her Majesty the Queen, on which occasion all presentations made to the Prince were tantamount to being made to Her Majesty.

"What about the levee, Mr. Pipe? I should like to hear it described."

"Oh yes, the levee. Well, as you know, a levee is a court function designed for the purpose of presenting men to the sovereign and other members of the royal family, and corresponds to a drawing-room. It is an extremely formal affair, all arrangements being according to cast-iron rules, from which there is no deviation. Those who are present at a levee are divided into two classes, viz.: those who have already been presented and "attend," and those who are presented for the first time. When it is announced from official sources that a levee is to be held all who desire to pay their respects and do homage to the Sovereign must make application to the Lord Chamberlain for the usual tickets. Those who have already been presented apply directly to the Lord Chamberlain's office, and receive from that official two tickets, on which must be written plainly the name of the holder, with rank, and such other facts as it is customary to state. It is usual to attend a levee after promotion in the army or navy, or in the diplomatic or civil service. Those who are presented receive their tickets through the party who stands as sponsor and makes the presentation. On each ticket must be written the holder's name, place of residence, and who presented by.

"For all classes who go to court certain costumes are prescribed. Officers of the army and navy go in full dress uniform; judges in wig and gown; ecclesiastics in full canonicals; members of the diplomatic corps in the special uniform worn by them, and civilians in Windsor uniform, consisting of black velvet knee breeches, and cut away coat, faced with silk and trimmed with cut steel buttons and buckles, black silk stockings, pumps with large buckles, sword and cocked hat.

"On arriving at the palace, capes, etc., are left in an ante room, and a move is at once made for the assembly room. At the door of this chamber is stationed one of the Queen's pages, to whom is presented one of the cards. Sharply at the appointed hour the line begins to move. For the great majority there is no order of precedence recognized. Previous to the general crowd being admitted to the presence, the high officers of state, cabinet officers and members of the diplomatic corps pay their respects. A barrier is placed along one side of the room to prevent crowding, and until the presence chamber is reached, the line approaches by twos. When the door is reached the second card is handed to one of the assistant court officials, who passes it along to the lord chamberlain, who standing next to the sovereign or the sovereign's representative, makes the announcement. The presented bends the right knee slightly, inclines the head, and passes sideway to the end of the line and then half backs out of the presence chamber through a door at the other side.

"On the occasion of the levee on Feb. 21st, H.R.H. the Prince of Wales was supported among others by the Duke of York, the Duke of Connaught, the Grand Duke of Hesse Darmstadt, Prince Christian, the Duke of Teck and Prince Henry of Battenburg. Everything moves with clock-work precision and although there may be many hundreds present, a levee rarely takes more than two hours' time. The whole scene is an exceedingly brilliant one. The diplomatic corps are resplendent in their gorgeous apparel, of great variety, representing as they do, all the nations on earth. Officers of the army and navy wear the full dress uniform of their calling, and all the decorations which they have from time to time received. In the case of veterans who have seen much service, some wear on their breasts as many as thirty medals and orders. The passages are kept clear by a guard from the Household Cavalry and by the historic Beefeaters.

"An hour before the time appointed for the levee the streets leading to the palace are kept clear by large numbers of police, the pick of the force. The crowd along the sidewalks is enormous and wonderfully good-natured. They openly criticise the occupants of the carriages as they stand in line awaiting their turn to draw up to the palace entrance. If some celebrated character is recognized, whose career has appealed to the masses of the people, he is given a generous and hearty cheer; on the other hand, if someone is recognized who is responsible for something which legislates against the people, the crowd is not sparing in its groans and hisses, although it is all done with the best of good nature. The royalties all arrive at the palace in state carriages drawn by generally four and six horses, with two servants on the box and four standing behind, wearing the court liveries, wigs, etc. A guard of honor from the Life Guards accompanies each carriage. Other guards of honor are stationed in the court yard, and a band plays the National Anthem and other patriotic music during the course of the levee. The whole scene from first to last is one of great brilliancy and once seen is not apt to be forgotten."

"You met other notables besides the Prince of Wales, of course?"

"Yes, while in England I met many ecclesiastics of various religions, and visited the venerable Prof. Max Muller, of Oxford, whose great learning in the world's historic faiths is known to every scholar throughout the world."

"What about your joint literary venture?"

"You have heard of that, have you?" said Mr. Pipe with some surprise.

"Well, I may say that in conjunction with Prof. Max Muller, I contemplated publishing simultaneously in Great Britain and the United States a Quarterly Review of Comparative Religion, in which will be recorded the various points of contact and contrast between the world's historic faiths, with the object in view of doing away with or at least alleviating rancorous religious bigotry, and emphasizing the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man. Prof. Max Muller will supervise all editorial matter, and will attract the most erudite [illegible] the religious world, irrespective of sectarian limitations. He has by reason of his fair and unbiased translations of the Buddhist Suttas, the Hindu Vidas and Upanishads, the Moslem Koran, and other sacred writings, won a place of absolute respect among people of all beliefs.

"Prof. Max Muller is a welcome guest at any Christian home; the Molsem Sultan of Turkey has entertained him; the Buddhists revere him; Hindus keep open house for him, and all recognize in him a human brother. He is in hope that the next century may be ushered in by another Parliament of Religions, such as was recently held at Chicago, at which shall be scholarly representatives of absolutely every known belief from Christianity to Fetishism."

A World's Temperance Crusade.

"And now a word about your proposed trip around the world and I have done."

"To explain the objects of the proposed trip," Mr. Pipe resumed, "I may say that during the last seven years the World's Woman's Christian Temperance Union has been preparing a monster polyglot petition against the traffic in alcohol, opium, and legalized vice, to be presented to all the Governments of the world. Lady Henry Somerset and Miss Willard have been appointed as the deputation to convey this petition to the different Governments. The petition itself has now reached the unprecedented length of over two million signatures, and with the attestation of certain great societies, not less than three millions. According to the forthcoming number of the Review of the Churches, Dr. Lunn has been requested by these ladies to organize a demonstration round the world. With this purpose in view a first-class steamer is to be immediately chartered and a party of one hundred will be organized to accompany Lady Henry Somerset and Miss Willard in this remarkable crusade. Dr. Lunn has arranged with me to act as managing secretary to this expedition, and to accompany the party round the world."

"The crusade will commence at the annual convention of the World's Women's Christian Temperance Union to be held in the United States next October The American delegation will then proceed to Washington, where the polyglot petition will be presented to the Government. Leaving New York on October 24, the American contingent will join the British contingent in the great demonstration at Exeter hall, on the 1st or 2nd of November. The crusaders' steamer will leave London on Saturday, November 3rd, arriving at Naples on Monday, November 12th. A visit will then be paid to Rome, where it is hoped that His Holiness the Pope and the King of Italy will each receive the delegation. The next capital to be visited will be Athens, where the King of Greece will be presented with the petition. Jerusalem will be the next point on the programme, and the petition is to be presented to the Patriarch of Jerusalem, after which the Khedive will be visited at Cairo. It is intended to reach India in time for the National Congress, and a six weeks' tour will be made through India in a special train, visiting all the principal towns of India and holding great meetings in each of them. From Calcutta the steamer will proceed to Ceylon and thence to Siam, with the object of presenting the petition to the King of Siam. Each Australian colony will then welcome the delegation, after which the course of the pilgrimage will be directed northward to China, where it is hoped that the Viceroy will receive the delegation. Japan will also be visited, and the petition will be presented to the Mikado. After this the eastward circuit of the world will be completed by a journey across the Pacific. It is intended at a later date to present the petition to the northern and central Governments of Europe."

LANSING, Mich., July 2.—A friend of William Langley, formerly of this city, now of London, Ont., received a letter a few months ago, stating that Mr. Langley had Bright's disease. Of course no hope of his recovery could be held out. Within a month, the same friend has received a letter from Mr. Langley stating that he is completely cured of the supposed fatal disorder. Mr. Langley says no medicine did him any good until he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. These helped him from the first and in the end restored him to perfect health.

Nothing Impossible.

Just now a mite of money is worth a mountain of stock.

Just now, nothing seems impossible in the line of economy. But the TRUTH about low values is hard to comprehend. Anything less than ALL the facts concerning OUR goods and their present values would be unjust to the public.

You cannot always buy so many kinds of goods at and below cost as we offer you now. Your best economy is to invest your money in wisely selected goods at present prices at this store. Listen:

DRESS GOODS
AT COST.

Just to liven things up these hot days we offer all our Summer Dress Goods at about cost. This will help to clear out our stock and save carrying anything over to another season.

WASH GOODS
AT COST.

Chambrays, Krinkles and Muslins all at cost. This is the chance of the season as the stock is all right and well bought.

PARASOLS
AT COST.

Not a fraction of a fib, fabrication or falsehood gets into our store talk. Truth is the best salesman. Parasols at cost just means what it says.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY

That's a sweeping reduction. Surely cost plays no part in this case. Half price takes everything we have in Trimmed Millinery.

POLICE COURT.

Wednesday, July 11.

At last night's special session of the police court, the police magistrate investigated charges of making light weight bread against two local bakers. As mentioned in yesterday's issue, the police made a visit to all the bakers in town and the result was the seizure of a large number of light weight loaves which were produced in the court room and presented the appearance of Pharoah's storehouse in the time of Joseph. The evidence disclosed that the bread of William Bates was light weight and a portion of the make of Thos. Williams. The magistrate imposed a fine of $2 and $2.10 costs on the two bakers and bread confiscated. There were eighty-three large loaves in all and there was a shortage on each loaf of an average of 3½ ounces.

A citizen appeared in court this morning to answer to the charge of non-support of his wife. He was allowed to go by the magistrate on agreeing to do better in future.

John Wilson, who hails from near Burleigh was charged with being drunk in a public place. He was discharged with a warning.

Mary Harrison, a married woman, whose home is in Omemee, and Annie Carson, of the same place, were arrested in the vicinity of the Court House last night. Both were, the chief said, under the influence of liquor and at this morning's session they were charged with having no home, no employment and no means of support. Mary stated that they had a home and had come to town with the intention of going to Toronto, but had fallen in with bad company. The magistrate asked if they would leave for Toronto at noon and they said they would. The chief was instructed to look them up until noon and escort them to the train. In case they did not leave town he would find out what the Central Prison would do for them. At noon the chief escorted them to the station and they boarded the train, but the chief had his watchful eye open and soon discovered a well known character of the town coaxing them off the train. They alighted and were again arrested together with the citizen who was interfering with them and marched to the police station. A special session was held at noon and after a severe reprimand, Magistrate Dumble gave them until five o'clock to leave town. Their gentleman friend was dismissed with a warning and ordered to watch his actions in future. It is stated that a well known young man in town was instrumental in bringing these characters to Peterborough.

CORPORATION EMPLOYEES.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I observe by the report of the council meeting on Monday evening that an effort is being made to appoint Mr. Jno. Montgomery, recently of Bridgenorth, to the position of driver at the fire hall, rendered vacant by the resignation of Mr. Murphy. As a workingman in Peterborough I most decidedly object to another foreigner being placed on the pay roll of the town, when we have so many capable young men in Peterborough, who are taxpayers, and who have always been so, are ready and willing to take the position. Our Peterborough young men were passed over when Mr. Stewart was appointed a constable from North Monaghan. If outsiders are going to get all the town positions we had better move out. The workingman's vote was looked for by those who are now anxious to pass him over. If the Council appoint Mr. Montgomery to the position and pass over long residents, our town will come to resent the continual insults to our own workingmen who are now walking the streets looking for work. Time will tell.

Yours truly,
WORKINGMAN.

A DAY OFF.

A Dainty Description of "a day off" and a day on the River.

Holidays are to some of us of rare occurrence and are, perhaps, for that very reason more thoroughly enjoyed than by those to whom "life is one perpetual holiday.

Friday, July 6th, is therefore a red letter day and it is with exuberant spirits the humble writer embarks on the trim and graceful craft, City of Peterborough. At 8 o'clock precisely, with easy grace Miss "City" nods adieu to the town for a period of 12 hours and glides softly and swiftly away, having aboard a large party of pleasure seekers, calling at Ashburnham to pick up several others, Commodore Calcutt being one of the number, whose genial presence adds much to the enjoyment of the day. It is a charming morning, bright and cool, with a fresh wind blowing, rendering a light wrap almost necessary. The deck presents a festive appearance, being very spacious, well equipped in respect to rocking chairs of a cheery vermillion hue and, judging by the expressions both pleasant and satisfied on the faces of their respective occupants, I am sure they are very comfortable. And now, after the small excitement of passing through the locks is over, it would be quite in order before settling down to the calm enjoyment of the scenery to go on a tour of investigation or inspection, rather. So, accordingly, to begin at the beginning; standing at the bow and looking upward we see that the boat is a genuine double decker, the upper being almost as large as the lower, the wheel house directly in front, as we suppose all well regulated wheel houses should be. A strong looking little iron ladder leads to the upper deck, and notwithstanding the fact that in the plainest largest letters, we read that "passengers are not allowed on the upper deck," we wonder what it would be like up there, and woman like, mentally resolved that upon the first favourable opportunity we would climb this little ladder and see for ourselves.

There we espy the captain in full uniform and for the instant it is the St. Lawrence we are sailing on instead of the Otonabee and indeed upon subsequent inquiry, we learn that this very captain was captain on one of the Richelieu and Ontario steamers for upwards of 20 years. Small wonder that he looks every inch a gallant captain and inspires confidence.

And now to see the cabin which is in the stern, and is in the form of a half circle. Upon entering one is dazzled and slightly bewildered by the reflection of one's own self in a series of mirrors, which, alternately with windows of a corresponding size, almost encircle the cabin, making it pleasant to either look out or look in. The inability of a member of the gentler sex to pass a mirror without trying to catch a glimpse of herself is a well known fact; and here are twelve snowy linen covers fastened over the cushions of the seats, and a slight uplifting of a corner of the same reveals the astounding fact that they are of crimson plush. Such luxury! Small tables and chairs are scattered about to be utilized at lunch time. And the thought of lunch suggests the idea of taking a peep into the kitchen, which to judge by the delicious aroma, must not be very far away—for we think pies must be cooking and the very nicest kind of pies—and are hungry at once. And such a neat little kitchen, with its bright range of granite saucepans, and all the usual kitchen paraphernalia, but so neatly arranged to economize space, and lastly, such a clean looking, white aproned, rosy-cheeked cook and her fresh row of custard pies.

We were called to the deck to have pointed out to us a pretty place on the bank of the river to the left, a comfortable looking red brick house, tastefully painted and sloping lawn and trim cedar hedge. We are surprised to hear that this pretty house has been acquired by the catching and sale of frogs,—just to think of it, and we can scarcely believe that we are already 18 miles from Peterborough. How lovely the country looks on either side of the river, waving fields of grain, and beautiful trees; as the boat pursues her winding course, an ever changing panorama is before us. After we leave Jubilee Point, we enter Rice Lake a broad expanse of water and we espy Idyl Wild in the distance, Harwood too, then Gore's Landing, and bye and bye we all wonder what little village that is nestling so comfortably among those hills to the left, and upon inquiry are told that it is Keene. Upon entering the river Trent we notice that the river banks are much higher than those of the Otonabee, also that the river is much wider.

Immediately upon passing through the swing bridge of the Grand Junction railway we see such a pretty summer cottage and we learn that it belongs to Harry Webb, the great Toronto caterer. In a few moments more Hastings is reached and we hurry to the hotel for dinner. After dinner a couple of hours are pleasantly spent and at 3 o'clock we turn homeward, reaching Peterborough at 8 p.m. all too soon.

July 10. EDMO.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

Dominion day was very much like a Sunday except the stores were open.

Rev. Mr. McKay, Messrs. J. D. Thornton and Lamb, of Omemee, were visitors in the village on Thursday.

Our Court of Foresters held a very entertaining picnic at Ida last Thursday. A baseball match opened the amusements followed by races, jumping, tea, dancing, "Dusty Miller," "Drop the Handkerchief," and various other games till "Old Sol" had hidden his face and sombre darkness held solemn sway. The amusements were so varied and carried on with so little intervening cessation, that from two o'clock until dark it was a continuous time of pleasure. The committee of Foresters are to be congratulated on having gotten up one of the best picnics of the season. A large crowd was present and the weather was simply sublime. We noticed people present from Peterborough, Omemee, Emily, Manvers, Smith and Cavanville.

Last Wednesday at tea time the house occupied by Mr. Robt. Wilson caught fire and with the contents was consumed in a few minutes. Mr. Wilson and family were at tea when the fire occurred and despite their prompt action of rescue and that of their friends, they saved only a sewing machine and a bed. A strong wind was blowing at the time which added fury to the devouring element. Mr. Wilson had a small insurance on the contents as also did Mr. James McCall, of Oxbow, on the dwelling. Sympathy is felt for Mr. Wilson in his misfortune.

Mrs. Robt. Thexton and Mrs. Samuel Patterson, of North Dakota, are visiting their father, the Rev. John Ewing. From the same clime arrived Mr. Richard Thexton last week. The many friends of these Dakotaites are glad to have them back again and to know they are enjoying life and pleasant homes in that prairie state.

ENGLAND TO FRANCE.

A Napoleonic Project to Join the Two Countries by Tubular Tunnel.

Another scheme to join England and France is receiving serious consideration in those countries. It is proposed to build a double tubular tunnel under the Straits of Dover. The old scheme of building a tunnel under the bed of the sea, which has been advocated by Sir Edward Watkins for years, never received the sanction of the British Parliament, because many conservative Englishmen believe such a construction would facilitate an invasion of the country by the vanquished of Waterloo.

It had also been proposed to bridge the straits. The latest plan has the support of Sir Edward Reed, who is a member of Parliament and has been Lord of the Treasury and Engineer-in-Chief of the Admiralty. It has been received with favor by a large number of members of Parliament, and therefore seems to have serious chances of success, and the more so that it avoids the difficulties and objections that were urged against its predecessors.

The project consists in simply submerging, between a point of the French coast situated in the vicinity of Cape Gris-Nez and another on the English coast located between Dover and Folkestone, two tubes that would constitute two absolutely separate tunnels, each serving for the passage in one direction of trains drawn by electric locomotives.

Referring to the map it will be seen that the configuration of the bottom in this part of the channel presents on each side a regular declivity that ends in a gentle slope at a line of greater depth. The soundings made at distances of a mile apart gave as successive depths, starting from the English coast, 82, 88, 88, 95, 98, 88, 98, 138, 160, 184, 174, 175, 160, 138, 98 and 82 feet. It will be seen, then, that the mean slope of each tunnel would not much exceed 0.08 inch to the foot. There would, therefore, be found excellent conditions for traction.

The tube would be of steel plate with double walls, and the intervening space would be reinforced by I beams and filled in with concrete. The putting in place would be effected by sections of 300 feet, hermetically sealed at each end and floated to the place where they were to be submerged.

One of the extremeties of the section having been fixed upon a sort of caisson that will afterward perform the functions of a pier, the caisson is weighted so as to cause it to sink. The other extremity continues to emerge, and receives the end of the following section, the junction being made by huge hinges. The caisson of this section is sunk, and so on. When all the sections are in place, the formation of the joints is begun.

Sir Edward prefers to sink the sections of the two tubes simultaneously in properly cross-bracing them, in order to form a sort of rigid girder that would present much greater resistance to transverse stresses.

The caissons forming piers are designed to support the tubes at a slight distance from the bottom of the sea. This arrangement possesses the double advantage of doing away with any preliminary dredging, since it will be possible to give the piers the height necessary to avoid the slight changes of level of the bottom and of assuring a free circulation of the marine currents beneath as well as above the tubes. It permits, besides, of so regulating the system that the upward thrust partially balances the weight of the trains in each section. The stresses to which the tube will be submitted by the fact of such passage will be diminished by so much, and, therefore, much better conditions of resistance will be obtained than in an ordinary bridge.

The use of two distinct tubes will prevent all chances of accidents, and will have the great advantage of realizing the important problem of the aeration of the tunnel, without any expense and in as satisfactory a manner as possible. In fact, each train will have somewhat the effect of a piston that forces the vitiated air before it and sucks in pure air behind it to take the place of the former.

The total cost of the installation of the tubes is estimated by Sir Edward at $75,000,000, which is less than half the cost anticipated by Messrs. Schneider and Hersent for the construction of a bridge across the channel.

Here's a Pointer.

Tea is an article about as much used as anything, yet very few understand the buying of it. Osh-K-Osh tea is about as well known as any tea on the market; regular price is 40 cents a pound and never been sold for less, but for the balance of this month Stroud Bros., 370 George street, are selling it at 28 cents a pound, five pounds for one dollar.

TWENTY TIMES A DAY.

Twenty times a day, dear,
Twenty times a day,
Your mother thinks about you,
At school, or else at play.
She's busy in the kitchen,
Or she's busy up the stair,
But like a song her heart within
Her love for you is there.

There's just a little thing, dear,
She wishes you to do,
I'll whisper, 'tis a secret,
Now mind, I tell it you.
Twenty times a day dear,
And more, I've heard you say,
"I'm coming in a minute,"
When you should at once obey.

At once, as soldiers, instant,
At the motion of command;
At once, as sailors, seeing
The captain's warning hand.
You could make the mother happy
By minding in this way,
Twenty times a day, dear,
Twenty times a day.

A PECULIAR CUSTOM.

THE HIGHEST DECORATION OF A CARIB BELLE.

The Strangest and Possibly the Most Cruel Feminine Adornment in the World is the Garter of the Guianans of South America—Proud of Their "Sapura."

Probably the strangest feminine adornment in the world is the garter of the Guianans of South America. The Caribs are one of the five tribes inhabiting that country, and are a fine race of people. The women are intelligent and uncomely. They wear very little clothing, and so, as is usual in such cases, they devote great pains to what they consider the highest decoration of their bodies and limbs. The garter, or sapura as they call it, is an ornament that can well be entered into a competition for ugliness with the compressed foot of China, or the wasp-like waist of a society belle. While the Carib girl is still young and her limbs have not attained their full development, a band of rattan is bound tightly just under the knee, and another is similarly placed just above the ankle. To give them an ornamental appearance they are dyed with a bright red dye obtained from berries, but they are, in fact, an instrument of torture beside which tight shoes pale in envy, and a twisted hairpin becomes a luxury. Deprived of its natural powers of extension the limb has to expand as it can, and in consequence is that it is obliged to develop itself in the comparatively narrow space between the two bandages. To obtain a correct idea of the accurate shape of the leg of a Carib belle, when the sapura is completed, take an ordinary broomstick, eighteen inches long, and push it through the middle of a small Stilton cheese. The cylindric shape of the cheese represents the shapeless calf of the leg, and the broomstick the attenuated part immediately above and below, where the bandages have cut and compressed the flesh. Wrap the stick round with red bandages, and trace blue varicose veins on the cheese, and the semblance is complete. The Carib women are inordinately fond of the sapura, and those who do not wear it are treated with even greater scorn and contumely by her own sex than is the Chinese woman who does not wear the "golden lilies."—Household.

Wives and Mothers-in-Law.

The blame for so much of the misunderstanding which exists between wives and the mothers of their husbands cannot be justly placed upon the mothers any more than it can upon the daughters. I fancy that in most cases "honors are easy." Concessions come as hard to the one as to the other, and yet in their hearts both desire to meet on equal terms. Things seem not exactly to come together. And as "Mecenas paid the freight" in Eugene Field's Horacian ode, so the husband stands the blows, and is asked to decide between his mother and his wife—in every respect the most trying position in which a man can be placed. I am inclined to believe one cause of discontent finds its roots in the unwillingness that is often present on the part of the mother to accept the daughter. Of course, mothers will differ with me in this statement. But it must not be forgotten that where the encouragement is not held out by the elder, the response cannot come from the younger. The happiest instance that I know where a wife love's her husband's mother almost as fondly as she does her own, is one where the mother unreservedly received the daughter into her life at the very start, and made her a part of herself. I fancy it is in this, as in a great many things in this world: much depends upon how we begin. But no matter what the relation or the cause of other feelings than those of true affection, there should never be any other attitude on the part of a wife toward her husband's mother, or from the husband to the wife's mother, than that which vouth owes to maturity: a respectful deference.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

Federal Laws to be Invoked Against the General Managers.

THE GENERAL TIE-UP DELAYED

Fatal Catastrophe at Sacramento, California—A Train Wrecked, Killing the Engineer and Three Soldiers—A Plot to Blow Up Car Shops.

CHICAGO, July 12.—The most important development in the labor situation is the announcement from the headquarters of the American Railway Union that a determined effort is to be made to invoke the Federal laws against the members of the General Managers Association and that with this end in view a conference will be held to-day between W. W. Irwin, of Minneapolis, the principal counsel for the men arrested for participation in the Homestead riots, and a number of local attorneys. Mr. Irwin, it is stated, is now on the way to Chicago in company with a prominent member of the Knights of Labor who was sent to enlist his services in behalf of the Union.

Counsel for the strikers as well as Mr. Debs and his colleagues are reticent concerning the grounds upon which process will be sought against the managers. In a general way, however, the claim is made that the obstruction of the United States mails and the interruption to inter-state commerce has been due quite as much to the general managers as to the men responsible for the ordering of the strike, and that while it is true that the boycott was ordered, it is also true that the general managers agreed among themselves that no trains should be run on any of the roads until all had gained the points in dispute. The indictments returned against the union men were, it is understood, based almost entirely upon the contents of certain telegrams that a telegraph company was compelled to produce, and that the charge is made that the enforcement of a similar order will bring to light telegrams sent out by the general managers which will establish their guilt.

Peace and quiet is maintained throughout the city. There were fewer white ribbons to be seen and ten times as many patriotic emblems. At the stock yards the blockade was effectually broken. Business was resumed on every road. The first incoming cattle train in two weeks steamed into the yards at daybreak and by four o'clock 69 cars of live stock were brought in by the Burlington and Quincy, 40 by the Northwestern and 50 by the Santa Fe. The military were on guard at every important point, but there was no need of their services.

The Tie-Up Did Not Materialize.

The anticipated tie-up of business as a result of the sympathetic strike order issued by the representatives of the allied trades, and the appeal to the Knights of Labor of Mr. Sovereign, did not materialize to any visible extent. The most radical reports kept the total that has so far responded within 15,000. It is claimed, however, that many of the unions are so situated that they cannot shut down at once and that the full effects of the tie-up will not be apparent before the end of the week.

Pullmans Refuse All Overtures.

The officials of the Pullman Company were afforded still another opportunity for asserting the position of the corporation. This was brought about through a visit on the part of Mayor Hopkins accompanied by Mayor Pingree, of Detroit. The object of the visit was to enable the latter to submit the telegrams he had received from the Mayors of some 40 large cities urging that the Pullman Company consent to a policy of conciliation and arbitration. In order that there should be no question concerning the exact tenor of their reply the Pullman officials summarized it in the official statement "That the question at issue which was simply that of reopening the works and carrying them on at a ruinous loss was not a proper subject for arbitration." The members of the delegation were considerably chagrined over the outcome, although no real hope had been entertained that the company would be induced to waver from its determination.

An Armed Truce.

The situation is that of an armed truce. The railroad men say that they are satisfied with the situation and that their policy is absolutely "no surrender." The union officers and directors also profess to be equally satisfied and adopt the same motto. Meanwhile with a sufficient force of military to command the situation immunity from serious riot or disorder may be regarded as assured.

The reported disaffection of the Illinois Central trainmen also did not materialize. More suburban trains were run than upon any day during the strike in anticipation of the threatened tie-up of the street car lines.

Electric Light Plants Need Fuel.

City Electrician Barrett says that the prospects of having to shut down the city electric light plants for lack of fuel was apparently certain. The four city plants have been burning hard coal, slabs and other kinds of fuel for the last week, and Mr. Barrett thinks that supply is about exhausted.

Funeral of a Striker.

The funeral of striker Annesley, who was shot by Deputy Marshal Sharp in the recent riot at Kensington, took place yesterday. Fully 1,500 men were in the funeral procession and the streets were lined with friends of the dead man. Much feeling was exhibited by the crowd, but beyond that no demonstration was made.

A Dynamite Plot Frustrated.

PULLMAN, Ill., July 12.—A plot to blow up the Illinois Central car shops at Burnside has just come to light. Everything was arranged to demolish the big buildings which are among the most extensive in the country. On Monday a private in the First Battalion found a bomb in one of the shops. It was in the form of a castiron tube, three inches in diameter and eighteen inches long and was tightly plugged at both ends with wooden stoppers. It contained enough dynamite to have destroyed the building and contents.

THROUGH A BROKEN BRIDGE.

Shocking Accident on the Southern Pacific—Four Men Killed.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 12. — The Southern Pacific Company broke the blockade at Sacramento yesterday and the engine that hauled the first train out lies on its back in a slough by the side of a broken bridge with three of the cars that made up the train.

Under the wreck in ooze and slime of stagnant water lie the bodies of the engineer who held the throttle and three soldiers who were guarding him.

The dead are: Engineer Samuel Clark and privates Byrne, Lubberden and Clarke.

Several other men were injured and one of them will probably die. This is Westley Dugan, also a private in battery L of the Fifth Artillery. One of his arms was torn from its socket and broken in three places and his jaw was broken.

The strikers deny responsibility for the disaster. Their leaders have expressed horror at it and hope that it will be the last act of violence in the strike. They say that they cautioned their men not to oppose the law and to avoid violence of every sort. The soldiers are raiding various sections of the city for strikers with arms. They have found many guns and other weapons.

BRITANNIA'S FIFTH RACE.

Again the British Cutter Outspeeds the American Sloop.

FIRTH OF CLYDE, July 12.—The fifth racing contest between the American sloop Vigilant and the British cutter Britannia opened yesterday with brighter prospects of victory for the former. The wind was very light, but the Vigilant got the best of the start and it was seen that the alterations made in her trim had increased her speed materially and the hopes of her supporters were proportionately raised.

This was the first of the two days racing of the regatta of the Royal Northern Yacht Club. The prize competed for by the Vigilant and the Britannia was £60 offered by the club.

The yachts finished thus: Britannia, 6.39.58; Vigilant, 7.01.19. The Britannia wins by 21 minute 21 seconds actual time and 24 minutes 21 seconds corrected time.

The Regattas at Bedford.

LONDON, July 12.—The approaching regattas at Bedford and Kingston-on-Thames are not creating any undue excitement in aquatic circles. The presence of Garaman Wright, of Toronto, at the former place causes a slight stir locally on the eve of the event, but that is all. There are five entries for the Senior Sculls at Bedford, where the regatta takes place to-day and where Wright has been for a few days. There are also five entries tor the Kingston Senior Sculls, the race for which comes off on Saturday and where the course is no stranger to Wright.

A St. John Bookkeeper in Trouble.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 12.—J. Fraser Gregory, son of George F. Gregory, Q.C., of Fredericton, a bookkeeper in this city, has been placed under arrest on a writ issued at the instance of Herbert G. Beeman, of Boston, charging him with alienating his wife's affections. The affidavit states that Beeman's wife came from Boston for the purpose of visiting her mother last summer, but instead of doing so spent her time with Gregory. The latter has been admitted to bail. Gregory is a leading member of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra.

Increase in Exports to Britain.

LONDON, July 12.—The British imports from Canada have increased 694,665 pounds or 40 per cent. in the past six months, as compared with the same period of 1893. The chief increases are: Sheep 18,000 pounds, bacon 57,000 pounds, hams 5,000 pounds, butter 3,000 pounds, cheese 38,000 pounds, eggs 11,500 pounds, fish 278,000 pounds. Exports from Great Britain to Canada during the same period decreased 28 per cent. For June alone the imports increased 25 per cent. and the exports decreased 37 per cent.

The Earthquake in Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 12.—Four fresh shocks of earthquake were felt here again yesterday. Many houses have fallen at Stamboul. At the Grand Bazaar the jewellers' quarter fell, occasioning the greatest confusion. The merchants fled in terror, leaving their valuables behind them. Many shopkeepers and passers-by were buried beneath the ruins. It is impossible as yet to give the number of people killed and injured, but it is known that over 150 people are buried beneath the debris.

Christian Endeavorers in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 12.—The city is resplendent in yellow and white in honor of the Christian Endeavor Convention. Notwithstanding the big railroad strike thousands have arrived during the past 24 hours, and incoming trains are still crowded with delegates. Secretary Boer estimates that before the convention is called to order 12,000 people will have arrived to attend.

Japan Takes a Bold Stand.

LONDON, July 12.—Advices from Tokio say that the Japanese Government has chartered sixteen steamers from the Yusen Kaisha Company and landed 10,000 troops in Corea and a strong body of troops will shortly reinforce them. The Japanese Government positively refuses to withdraw its troops from Corea except upon Japan's own terms.

Wales Receives a Scare.

LONDON, July 12.—While the Prince of Wales was driving in Bangor, Carnarvonshire a drunken man forced his way through the crowds which lined the roadway and was successful in reaching the Prince's carriage. The man assumed a menacing attitude and indulged in threatening language, but was quickly seized by detectives and prevented from doing anything worse.

FAST ATLANTIC SERVICE

The Finance Minister Moves the Granting of a Subsidy.

COST OF PROPOSED VESSELS

They Are to Be 16,000 Tons Register With a Speed of Twenty Knots an Hour—The Ports of Call—Foster's Resolution Adopted by the House.

OTTAWA, July 12.—The French treaty passed the committee in the House of Commons yesterday and stands for a third reading.

Hon. George Foster then moved: "That it is expedient to provide that the Governor-in-council may enter into a contract for a term not exceeding ten years with any individual or company for the performance of a fast weekly steamship service between Canada and the United Kingdom, making connection with a French port, on such terms and conditions as to the carriage of mails and otherwise as to the Governor in-council seems expedient, for a subsidy not exceeding the sum of $750,000 a year."

The Minister of Finance went on to explain that there would be four new vessels equipped with all the modern improvements of a first-class line of steamships. The speed is to be 20 knots an hour and the carrying capacity of the steamers is to be 10,000 tons register. The boats would give a freight and passenger service. They would carry 500 first-class and 1,000 steerage passengers. The cost of the vessels would be from £400,000 sterling to £500,000 sterling.

Sir Richard Cartwright, in criticizing the resolution, said that it was not possible to navigate the St. Lawrence at a rate of 20 knots. The river was too dangerous for that speed.

The resolution was adopted.

At the solicitation of New Brunswick members the Government has consented to accord St. John, N.B., advantages identical with those to be enjoyed by Halifax. This will make St. John as well as Halifax a port of call for freight purposes. New Brunswick members have been especially insistent upon having this concession given them, and although Government declined for some time to grant this request the New Brunswickers have scored a victory. Nova Scotians in the House are not satisfied at this action.

Destroyed His Books.

St. Louis, the big contractor, was put on the stand in the Public Accounts Committee, and questioned as to his books. He said he had destroyed them because they contained notes of money paid for elections.

Dillon Divorce Bill.

The Private Bills Committee has passed the Dillon divorce bill. There was strong opposition, and the majority was only two.

Colonel Powell's Case.

Colonel Walker Powell, Adjt.-General, has concluded his perusal of charges made against him by Major-General Herbert. Colonel Powell claims that as his appointment was a statutory one, no one but the Minister can suspend him, and that his dismissal could only be compassed by an Order-in-Council. There is in Colonel Powell's mind a firmly-grounded opinion that General Herbert's action was prompted by malice.

Where Robinette is in Error.

It is improbable that the Minister of Justice will grant a new trial to William Walter MacWherrell. It is stated that counsel for the condemned man labors under a misapprehension as to the clause of the criminal code giving the Minister discretion as to granting new trials. It is the opinion of the department that a correct interpretation of this provision is that the Minister may, of his own volition, recommend that a new trial be granted in cases in which he has reasonable doubt as to the guilt of the accused. It was not intended that the clause should be construed to mean that counsel for the criminal should appeal to the Minister for a new trial. On the contrary, the intention of the clause is that the Minister should make such decision of his own accord without having been approached regarding the matter. Sir John Thompson, who framed the clause, as he did the whole code, was careful to explain this point two years ago when the matter was before Parliament.

Larsen Secures His Child.

HAMILTON, July 12.—Charles Larsen, the Swede who has had trouble with his wife, was up in the police court yesterday. Larsen married Miss Hull some time ago, but they did not agree, and the couple moved to London. There Mrs. Larsen became too friendly with a man named Edgson, a partner of her husband, and recently left with him and came back to her mother's house here, bringing her child. She accuses her husband of cruelty and non-support. Larsen followed the pair to Hamilton and claims to have seen them sin at the house of his wife's mother. He managed to secure his child and has it now in safe keeping. He was tried by Magistrate Jelfs on a charge of larceny, his wife's relatives accusing him of breaking into their house and stealing money and valuables when he went for the child. They failed to establish their charge and Larsen was acquitted.

Serious Accident to a Farmer.

WINDSOR, July 12.—John Halford, a well-known farmer in Maidstone Township, was loading hay in his barn when he met with a serious accident. A large traveling hay fork being used to lift the hay became loosened from its fastenings while at the top of the loft. The forty pounds of steel fell to the floor, the big prongs striking Mr. Halford on the right side, passing through the groin and pinning him to the floor. Men working with Mr. Halford hurried to his assistance. One came to this city and the others removed the steel prongs from the bleeding form. Dr. Casgrain drove to the scene. The injuries were at first thought to be fatal, but the doctor thinks Mr. Halford will recover.

Custom Collections at London.

LONDON, Ont., July 12.—Custom collections for the port of London for year ending June 30, 1893, $569,993; for year ending June 30, 1894, $493,313. Decrease for 1894 $76,579. For month ending June 30, 1894, $34,250; for same period in 1893, $33,447. Increase, 1894, $803.

THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1894.

THE more the Curran Bridge scandal is stirred up the more rotten and foul-smelling the whole business appears. It is now easy to understand why the commissioners appointed by Mr. Haggart to investigate the bridge job only nibbled around the edges of the scandal, and did not press for too much information as to the persons really responsible for the robbery. Mr. Kennedy has made it clear that the unnecessary hiring of men was due, in part at least, to Minister Ouimet's anxiety to find places for his constituents, and Tuesday a witness named Frigon testified that Mr. St. Louis, the contractor who supplied the labour for the bridge, informed him that he had to make big profits because he had to contribute to election funds for the Tory party, and more particularly for the by election in Vaudreuil county. So it appears that the difference between what the Curran bridge actually cost and what it ought to have cost, represents Mr. St. Louis' contributions to the Tory campaign fund, less his ordinary profits on supplying labour.

THE revenue for 1893-4 was $35,382,898, as against $36,183,254 for the previous year. Nearly the whole of the reduction is attributable to the decline in customs duties from $20,707,970 to $19,119,629. This is the lowest figure reached since $1880. In 1885 the custom receipts were $19,133,556. There was then an almost continual increase until 1890, when the maximum of $24,014,908 was attained. The reduction of the sugar duties caused a considerable falling off of the receipts since 1891, and the average for the last three years has been about $20,270,000. The reduction in the sugar duties affected the national revenues only, and not the tax which the consumers pay to the protected refiners. Some part of the decrease for the year just expired may be caused by the reductions made by the present session, but in the main it was due to diminished imports. The Montreal Gazette, a carefully written Government journal, estimates that there will be a deficit of between a quarter and a half million dollars for the last fiscal year.

SOME interesting facts in connection with Chicago's population may be gleaned from the census returns made a few months ago. The population was stated to be 1,502,796, and of this number 949,092 were of American and 613,704 of foreign birth. It must be remembered, however, that a good percentage of the American-born are only the first generation born in the country, both parents in most cases having been born abroad, and that they still retain many of their foreign characteristics. Of the voters who registered in 1892 a fraction over one half, or 50.6 per cent., were native born. The foreigners are of all races and creeds, and many of them have been forced to leave the lands of their birth. There is therefore plenty of material for political demagogues and labour agitators to work upon.

Pope Leo XIII. is older than Bismarck and Gladstone, and although no serious change has been noted lately in his physical condition, there is no doubt that he is gradually yielding to the inevitable. Statesmen in Europe are, therefore, discussing the question as to who his successor will be, and the more conservative of them entertain the hope that it will be one who will follow the policy laid down. It is said that in Rome, Cardinal Rampolla, now Papal Secretary of State, is regarded as the best fitted to wear St. Peter's ring, but there are many other prelates who are prominent. Leo was not reckoned among the probabilities when Pius IX. died, but he became Pope, and has proved the ablest since Gregory the Great, and his successor may be as much an outsider as he was himself.—Exchange.

Apropos to the numerous drowning accidents that have occurred and are likely to occur during the course of the summer, the fact should be remembered that a large proportion of those who are apparently dead when taken from the water are really in a state of suspended animation, and if the directions for resuscitating are carefully and patiently followed, for hours if need be, the almost imperceptible spark of life may be fanned back into flame. Every person should study the directions, and many lives might be saved.

LIVE LAKEFIELD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Several loads of new hay has been offered for sale in the village.

The fine steamer, Columbia, came into the village wharf on Saturday afternoon and remained until Monday.

Every train now brings fresh additions to the population up the lakes; some 50 or 60 went up Tuesday.

Constable Doidge found an owner for the cattle he had in pound on Monday. They had come from back in Harvey. He still has a fine yearling bull, red and white, with one horn broken.

The band will play in the band stand, Town Hall square, every Wednesday night, weather permitting.

The Smith Council have at length woke up to the fact that diphtheria was on a rapid increase in the township and a few days ago appointed Dr. J. R. Fraser, of this village, Medicial Health Officer.

The vital statistics for the half year, are as follows:—Births, 9; deaths, 10; marriages, 14.

Mr. J. Sheldrake left for a visit to England on Monday. Mr. F. Lillicrap will join him in Montreal Friday and they will sail together on the Sardinian on Saturday.

W. McFarlane, of Young's Point, has captured a rare bird, unknown to that vicinity. Bill values it very highly and will have it stuffed and mounted.

The Lakefield planing mill, lately ran by Major Bellasis, has been bought by Messrs. Lillicrap and Moore, under whose energetic management a large and satisfactory business will no doubt be done.

Mr. Peter Baptie has secured the job of erecting Mr. J. F. Robbins' new hunting and fishing lodge on Jack's Lake. He will take up a large gang of hands and rush it up as Mr. Robbins and friends wish to come over from Pittsburg on the 1st of August.

A well known settler up the Burleigh road, "Ould Dick," has of late had trouble with bears destroying his crops. Last week he determined to try and put a stop to them. So he spent a day constructing a large dead-fall and setting two powerful bear traps. The following morning he was off bright and early. The dead-fall first visited held the remains of a yearling steer belonging to a neighbor, while the first trap held his own dog fast, and the second the dog of another friend. What between the wrath of his neighbours and the bears, poor "ould Dick" is in deep trouble.

A regular meeting of the village council was held in the town hall on Monday evening. Reeve Casement in the chair. Coun. Lillicrap, Hull and Dr. Burgess, present. After routine communications were read from Waterous Engine Co., Fire Underwriters and T. G. Haslitt, which were on motion received. Moved by Coun. Hull, seconded by Coun. Moore, that as Mr. T. G. Haslitt, managing director of the Dickson Co. has given the village the use of the saw mill bell as a curfew bell, the village constable be instructed to ring as per terms of by-law. Carried. On motion the communication of the Waterous Engine Co. was laid over until next night. The finance committee presented their report recommending payment of the following accounts:—

|---|---|
| W Sherin, rent poll No 2 | $ 2 00 |
| E A Tanner, supplies | 2 57 |
| J W Ridpath, printing | 6 60 |
| J S Simpson, teaming | 9 50 |
| A M Donald, plank | 3 12 |
| Total | $23 79 |

Report adopted. A by-law to borrow money for current expenditure was passed. Council then adjourned.

As will be noticed in the council proceedings, Curfew Bell will be rung on and after next Monday night at 9 p. m. in summer and 8 p.m. in winter, after which all children under 15 years of age must be off the streets. The saw mill bell will, through the kindness of Mr. T. G. Haslitt, be used for the present to give warning of the hour. Don't forget boys, 9 o'clock.

The Heavy End of a Match.

"Mary," said Farmer Flint at the breakfast table as he asked for a second cup of coffee, "I've made a discovery."

"Well, Cyrus, you're about the last one I'd expect of such a thing, but what is it?"

"I have found that the heavy end of a match is its light end." responded Cyrus with a grin that would have adorned a skull.

Mary looked disgusted, but with an air of triumph quickly retorted, "I've got a discovery too, Cyrus. It was made by Dr. R. V. Pierce, and is called a 'Golden Medical Discovery.' It drives away blotches and pimples, purifies the blood, tones up the system and makes one feel brand-new. Why, it cured Cousin Ben who had Consumption and was reduced to a skeleton. Before his wife began to use it she was a pale, sickly thing, but look at her; she's rosy-cheeked and healthy, and weighs 165 pounds. That, Cyrus is a discovery that's worth mentioning."

Young or middle-aged men, suffering from premature decline of power, however induced, speedily and radically cured. Illustrated book sent securely sealed for 10 cents in stamps. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Consumption—Low Condition

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

Said She Was Past All Help

and wanted me to send her to the 'Home for Incurables.' But I said as long as I could hold my hand up she should not go. We then began to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is getting strong, walks around, is out doors every day; has no trouble with her throat and no cough, and her heart seems to be all right again. She has a first class appetite. We regard her cure as nothing short of a miracle." W. WYATT, 29 Marion Street, Parkdale, Toronto, Ontario.

BRITISH DEATH DUTIES

Colonial Opposition to the Tax Proposed by Sir William Harcourt.

TUPPER WRITES TO LORD RIPON

The Attempt to Levy These Duties Would Raise Objectional Questions Between the Colonies and the Mother Land—Canada's Strong Position.

LONDON, July 12.—Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner, sent recently to the Marquis of Ripon, Colonial Secretary, a letter on the subject of Sir William Harcourt's proposed estate duty and modifications which the Chancellor of the Exchequer had allowed in deference to colonial opinion.

The proposed duty would be imposed on the colonial property of persons living in England. Sir Charles quoted from the reply made by the Canadian Premier, Sir John Thompson, when he received notice of the modifications contemplated by the Government. This reply is to the effect that the Ottawa council thinks the strongest opposition should be made to the proposed policy of levying death duties on property in Canada even after the modified plan of the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Sir Charles directed the Marquis of Ripon's attention to the fact that the approval of the Government's plan would result in an increase of the death duties in all the colonies. This increase would be equal to the proposed English estimate duties, he said, and when any colonial government should be asked the reason of the increase it would have to reply: "We have been forced to this by an Imperial Act."

This would raise the serious question of the right of the United Kingdom to enact legislation having the effect of taxing property in the colonies. Canada's case against such legislation was stronger than that of any other colony, because the Confederation Act assigned to the Dominion Government the exclusive power of imposing such taxation on the provinces. Finally, Sir Charles expresses the hope that Sir William Harcourt will abandon his proposal, "which," he says, "will absolutely fail of its object and will raise questions between Great Britain and her colonies which are to be deprecated."

Sydney Buxton, Liberal M.P., will lay this letter on the table of the House of Commons within a few days.

Unjust Accusation Against a Druggist.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 12.—A report from here published in certain Toronto newspapers connecting E. A. Kingston, a Buffalo druggist, with the smuggled phenacetine seized in Philadelphia is very incorrect. The report alleged that Kingston had disappeared. He was seen in his store on Main street yesterday and says he is the Buffalo agent of the Philadelphia manufacturing house, but that he had no connection whatever with the seized phenacetine and knew nothing about it. As Kingston is a Canadian and his family and connections are still living in Port Colborne, he feels keenly the aspersions on his character published in the Toronto papers.

Arraigned for Grand Larceny.

BUFFALO, July 12.—Andrew B. Cook, formerly of Toronto, now of this city, was arraigned in the police court on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree, preferred by Clifton C. W. Nobles. He pleaded not guilty, waived examination and was held for the Court of Oyer and Terminer.

RIVER AND LAKE RIPLETS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. James Leach, president of the Durham Lodge, No. 15, Sons of England, Port Hope, is on a visit to Jubilee Point Summer Resort Hotel, Rice Lake.

Mr. Geo. Stacey, fish exporter is here on a business as well as pleasure visit. He secured some 700 lbs of fish, principally bass and lunge, from Mr. Sid Beckett, Jubilee Point.

Mr. Edward Harris, grocer, Gores Landing, has had a telephone placed in his store and is doing quite a business.

Mr. Edminson, of Gores Landing, has purchased the steam launch "Hildarie." She is a little daisy and pipes the waters at the rate of 10 knots per hour.

Bob McCulloch and James Noble, of Peterborough, are registered at the Jubilee Point summer resort.

The steamer "Water Cress," of Port Hope, Capt. Geo. Stacey in command, and crew, paid the Point a visit Sunday.

Without doubt the greatest canoe race ever held in many respects took place at Jubilee Point on Monday. The weather was beautiful, barring one shower, and the water like a sheet of glass, which was more welcome than otherwise. The racing was keenly contested throughout and he time remarkably fast. To crown all, the attendance was most gratifying, showing that this sort of sport is supreme, on Rice Lake. The distance was one and one half miles. The contestants being Mr. Joseph Castle and Mr. Jack Sabin of Peterborough, with Billy Edmison as starter, and Mr. Frank H. Earle as time keeper. The race was a neck and neck one throughout, and it was finally won by Joseph Castle, who at once raised his paddle and gave a salute to his admirers, and the vanquished opponent on seeing that he was about to be defeated, did also, and at the same time took himself a header in aqua pura. However, he was not discouraged and arrived at the landing stage first, leaving his boots in the canoe in which he rode, and at the same time his backers issued another challenge for a three mile race, to take place not later than the 15th inst., which was duly accepted.

Mr. Leach, President of the Durham Lodge Sons of England, No. 15, of Port Hope, is arranging an excursion to Jubilee Point which will take place at an early date.

Messrs. Herald Brothers, canoe and skiff builders of Gore's Landing, have shipped four crates of white cedar canoes to Detroit, Michigan, and have an order for several more. They are at present building an elaborate duck boat, which will be shipped to St. Clair flats, the best duck shooting region in this country.

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please, I an have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose to pay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

Died at the Hospital.

Yesterday afternoon, Miss Katie Ross, nurse at Nicholls Hospital, died rather suddenly of paralysis of the heart. Miss Ross had recently had diphtheria, from which she was apparently convalescent but affection of the heart supervened, and caused her death as stated. The young lady has been on the staff of the hospital, as nurse in training, for nearly a year, and her sudden taking off is a great shock to her associate. Her home is in Bobcaygeon, to which her remains were removed in a hearse to-day.

Burleigh Falls! Stony Lake!

Out of the Old House Into the New.

The landlord has promised fresh decorations and the new tenant is told to choose such wall paper as pleases him best. Why then should he not lay the foundation for at least one year of happiness by securing decorations that will impart an air of cheer and comfort. We are in excellent shape to furnish just such decorations, preserving perfect harmony between them and the carpets, furniture and draperies, and introducing original features in wall papers that will make the rented house seem something more than a mere temporary abode. A. H. STRATAON & Co., Peterborough Bookstore.

An Enjoyable Outing.

The St. Andrew's Sunday School held a very successful and enjoyable excursion to Jacob's Island yesterday, which was attended by a large number of pupils and their parents. The train left the G. T. R. station at 9 o'clock and after a pleasant run to Chemong the palace steamer Columbian was boarded for Jacob's Island. The sail was a very pleasant one, and the weather was all that could be desired. At the island the excursionists enjoyed themselves by sailing and other amusements. During the afternoon the Columbian ran a free excursion to Bobcaygeon, which was taken advantage of by a large number. Rev. Mr. McWilliams, the popular pastor of St. Andrews, was present and did all in his power to add to the enjoyment of the excursionists. The return trip was made by the Columbian in good time and the train reached Peterborough early in the evening, all well pleased with the day's outing.

—A deputation of the Lindsay Board of Health waited on the council of that town Monday evening, and urged upon them the necessity for a proper system of sewerage. There are several cases of diphtheria in Lindsay and the board of health are tried by the want of a proper system of sewerage.

—The Chief received a postal card this morning which shows that the EXAMINER is not only widely, but well read. A Mr. F. A. Shepard, of Hamilton, wrote that he had read among the "news nuggets," in the news column of the EXAMINER, a paragraph relating to an air pump being found. The air pump proved to be Mr. Shepard's, and now he rejoices in the possession of his property.

—The water in the flume leading to the stone roller mill and saw mill, Asburnham, was run off this morning preparatory to re-building new approaches to the mill. A large gang of men with teams are to-day busy removing old material making room for new flumes, etc. When the water was run off this morning, the very unusual sight was plainly seen of large numbers of saw logs, which had been water soaked, lying in the bed of the race way.

—Lindsay citizens displayed their "liberality" to a remarkable extent on the occasion of the visit of Cook & Whitby's circus to that town, and were unusually generous to the smooth-tongued gentry connected with the show. A "paying business" was explained to a Lindsay citizen in such glowing colours that he dropped $350 on the concern, and is at present awaiting the result of his investment, which will no doubt be a salutary lesson to guide him in the future. As a result of the visit of the show, the Lindsay council at its meeting on Monday night passed a bylaw imposing a license of $500 on all circuses visiting the town, besides an additional fee of $100 on all side shows connected therewith. P. T. Barnum was not far astray when he stated that the American people liked to be fooled.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The old lock hotel, which for years has stood as a landmark on the banks of the locks, has been torn down by the Ontario Government. In its place has been erected a neat and artistic structure to be used by the lockmaster as a storeroom and office. It is very prettily painted on the outside, by Mr. Geo. Scrimgeur & Son, of Lakefield, in a very creditable manner.

Master John Lynch, who has been visiting his aunt here for two months, returned to his home in North Bay, on Tuesday. He was accompanied by Miss Emma Scollard, who is going to visit friends there for a couple of weeks.

Miss Annie Young, daughter of Mr. C. Young, returned home from Lindsay, on Saturday. She has been attending the convent in that town for the past two years, and at the closing examinations last week, passed very successfully, having secured a diploma for typewriting, bookkeeping and shorthand.

Miss Lottie Kearney, for the past three weeks, is visiting friends in Peterborough

The influx of campers has commenced and during the past few days quite a number have gone up to occupy their island homes for the summer.

Stony Lake is now looking its prettiest, the islands in their picturesque grandeur presenting to the view an enchanting appearance, which once seen cannot fail to be appreciated.

Among those who have already opened their cottages in the neighbourhood of Juniper Island for the summer may be mentioned Mr. Wm. Lech and family on Pompadour Island; Mr. Harry Grundy and family at Ivanhoe; Mr. George Cochrane and family at Point Rescue; Mr. Jno. Sawers and family at Eaglemount; Dr. Bell and family, of Lakefield, in their charming Elfin Nook; Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Stevenson in Mayetta cottage; Mr. Cole and family, and Mr. Colville, of Toronto, on Ottor Island; Mr. Gordon Smith, of Toronto, Shota cottage, and Sheriff Hall's family in their pretty house opposite Eaglemount.

At Boschink Mr. W. A. Sanderson and family are occupying their cottage which is situated on one of the prettiest points of the lake; also Mr. Hopkins and family of New York, Mr. D. Breeze and family at Glenwood, and the families of Mr. D. W. Dumble, Mr. D. H. Moore, at Ojai, and Mr. P. Connal at Syndicate Island. Above Boschink we find the families of Mr. Harry LeBrun, at Grand View; Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, at Rocklands, Mr. J. A. Davidson, M. A., of Norwood, Messrs. Bennett, Mr. H. P. Gould, of Castleton, at Woodseat; Mrs. Jos. Craig, of Belleville, Mrs. Pope and Harry on the Isle of Ely, and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Lundy at their new cottage, one of the handsomest on the lake. Rounding from the store towards Burleigh all the cottages, without exception, are occupied by families and their friends. Burleigh Falls Hotel is full to overflowing with American tourists and other visitors, and Mine Host John Holmes is a very busy man attending to the wants of his guests.

The steamers are now running daily trips, and also making their popular Saturday night trips, returning on Monday morning to connect with the early train. The captains report business very good, and expect a large increase in traffic should the warm weather continue.

The thirty-first annual excursion and picnic of the Methodist Church Sunday School, from Lakefield, was held in our beautiful grove here, on Wednesday, July 4th, the steamer, Golden City and palace scow bringing the excursionists. Over three hundred were on board and all returned home in the evening much delighted with their day's outing.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, July 12, 1894.

Grand Trunk earnings for week ending July 7, are $318,000, a decrease of $94,612.

The earnings of the Canadian Pacific for the first week of July are $347,000, a decrease of $84,000 as compared with same week of last year.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Wheat dull and nominal at 62c for white, 61c for red. Oats firm, 300 bushels selling at 39½ to 40c. Peas are quoted at 65c and barley at 41 to 43c.

In spite of bullish crop reports wheat was weak in Chicago closing ½c lower. Corn advanced on the efforts of shorts to cover, closing ½c higher. Oats were weak and nothing was done in provisions. Receipts to-day: Wheat, 6 cars; corn, 48 cars; oats, 23 cars; hogs, uncertain. Some wheat was taken for Buffalo and some for Kingston. The rate by lake on the former was 1c and on the latter 2½c.

Buffalo.—Cattle—Forty cars on sale. Not much doing. Cattle arrivals principally western, indicating the resumption of traffic. Buyers here were offering 25 and 40c below current prices of Monday. Good handy steers $3.90 to $4.25. Hogs—Six cars on sale. Quiet, and if run had been heavy would have sold lower. A number of common Canadian sows sold at $5.40, and some pigs and dairy fed at $5.90 to $6.10. Sheeps and lambs—Two cars, not enough to make a market, peddled out in bunches. Good and fancy lambs $5 to $5.75.

A sharp drive was made on Chicago Gas at the opening of business in the New York Stock Exchange, and the stock fell ¾ per cent., the general list yielding ¼ to ½ per cent. in sympathy. The decline was due to the fears that the Chicago Knights of Labor would follow Grand Master Sovereign's suggestion and further complicate the labor situation in the west. When it was seen that Sovereign's request was having but little influence there was a decided change for the better. Sugar scored the heaviest gain among the industrial, rising from 96 to 99c on Washington advices that the Conference Committee will agree to a protective duty on refined sugar. Pullman Palace was in better demand, and advanced 5 per cent. to 158, closing at 157 bid. The railroad list, after the fractional decline noted at opening, became strong and continued so till the close.

PETERBOROUGH POST OFFICE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I, with a great many others in Peterborough, was astonished to learn of the great difference that existed between the salaries of the head clerk in the Peterborough post office and Mr. Rogers, the postmaster himself. All citizens must sympathize with the half-paid officials in the post office, compared with the extravagantly over-paid chief. It is quite evident the recent difficulty has brought to the attention of the public the fact that a gross injustice has been permitted in our midst for some years past. I am of the opinion, and I think it is concurred in by a large number of our citizens, that if the post master received a salary of $2,000 a year, he would be receiving a very liberal remuneration for the work performed, and a portion of the balance which has been going into his pockets for years, distributed among the under-paid officials in his employ, and the balance which would be a couple of thousand dollars, might go towards lessening the burdens of our citizens in the way of reduced taxation. I am informed that the allowance of the postmaster here is greater than that of any other in the Dominion of Canada. Does any one think that the duties of that official in Peterborough are more onerous and burdensome than those of the postmaster of Toronto? Yet a larger amount is allowed to Peterborough postmaster than to that of Toronto. It is a well-known fact to business men that the staff employed are doing the work, and why should they not be awarded a fairly sufficient amount to live decently upon. Chicago is witnessing the greatest strike on record. If the officials were to adopt similar measures to rectify the wrong being perpetrated, would our citizens not be in sympathy with them? I think they would. I am not in sympathy with strikes, but my sympathy goes out to those who have to eke an existence, while he with his thousands is going about "Lord of all he surveys." The recent disclosure has brought to the public notice a wrong that has been permitted in our midst for years—and Messrs. Burnham and Stevenson have now an excellent opportunity of giving effect to the public sentiment, with regard to the exorbitant allowance given some government officials. The public will no longer tolerate their officers being paid salaries out of all proportion to the work performed. $2,000 is sufficient to my mind for the service of the Postmaster, and many capable men will be glad to accept the office on these terms. I hope the public who are interested in this matter will continue to agitate until some re-arrangement takes place more in keeping with justice and right. A system or a law that permits such a state of affairs to exist is wrong and must be remedied. Any other person in Mr. Rogers' position would, naturally, secure his help on terms most advantageous to himself, and it is the government or law that permits it that should be condemned.

Yours truly,
FAIR PLAY CITIZEN.

July 12th, 1894.

A REPLY TO "WORKINGMAN."

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—There appeared in yesterday's issue of the EXAMINER a communication from a gentleman signing himself "Workingman." Now, Mr. Editor, in answer to his charges, I might state right here that I have always considered Peterborough my home, always spent my money in town, and in fact am as much a citizen as this gentleman who will not sign his own name, and is in a cowardly manner trying to deprive an honest citizen of making an honest living.

Yours truly,
JOHN MONTGOMERY.

THE LANGLEY CASE.

Lansing People Hear of his Illness and Subsequent Cure While in London, Ont.—Much Pleasure Manifested over the News.

LANSING, Mich., July 2.—A friend of William Langley, formerly of this city, now of London, Ont., received a letter a few months ago, stating that Mr. Langley had Bright's diserse. Of course no hope of his recovery could be held out. Within a month, the same friend has received a letter from Mr. Langley stating that he is completely cured of the supposed fatal disorder. Mr. Langley says no medicine did him any good until he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. These helped him from the first and in the end restored him to perfect health.

The Schenectady Board of Trade evidently believes in the Cæsarian motto, fas est ab hoste doceri, for they have paid the Peterborough Board of Trade the compliment of imitating the booklet "Fifty Facts about Peterborough," issued and circulated by the local board. Mr. Robt. Fair, of the Golden Lion, president of the Board of Trade, Peterborough, has received from his cousin, Mr. T. W. McCamus, who is also a member of the Schenectady Board, a copy of a booklet "Fifty Facts about Schenectady," a very faithful copy, mutatis mutandis, of the Peterborough booklet.

PROHIBITION BY COMMISSION.

The burning interest taken in the promotion of prohibition and temperance by the Dominion Government is exhibited by the speed with which the Government has urged on the labours of the venerable prohibition Commission which has grown gray in the good cause. Notwithstanding the untiring energy with which the commission has pushed its labours, so anxious has it been to reach the bottom facts, so anxious to elicit everything that would redound to the advantage of the liquor interest, that it has not yet made its report. In the House of Commons a day or two ago, Sir John Thompson in answer to a question, explained in a very apologetic manner, that the Prohibition Commission appointed in the dim past by his government for the purpose of shelving prohibition had not yet reported, and said he expected their report in a few days; but he was unable at the moment to say in answer to another question whether any of the members of the Prohibition Commission had been superannuated or had died of old age. The cost of the prohibition farce up to the present has been $100,000, and the supplementary estimates will show us how much the total cash cost of this precious commission is. If the Government is disappointed, as Sir John says it is, at not receiving the report of the Commission sooner, that disappointment is not shared by the public. It was anticipated, when the Commission was appointed, that the result would be just what it has been—delay and obstruction. The appointment of the Commission was a cunning political expedient to stave off the necessity of the government dealing practically with the subject, and the Commission by dragging along its pretended investigation and delaying its report for years, was acting just as the government intended it should act. This ponderous trifling with the question of prohibition is in striking contrast with the prompt action of the Ontario Government in procuring a plebiscite and demonstrating that public opinion was ripe for prohibition. The whole course of the Dominion Government has been unmistakably hostile to the temperance cause, and their whole course was crystallized into the discouraging snub given by Sir John Thompson to the temperance deputation that recently waited upon him to get a promise in relation to prohibitionary legislation. Under the circumstances it is to be expected that those Conservative organs which showed such an ardent interest in the promotion of the temperance cause in the recent elections will deal with the question in relation to the Dominion Government in the light of recent events. How we shall enjoy their denunciation of the quibbling, double dealing and delay of the Dominion Government in connection with the prohibition question. How many of the enthusiastic temperance men, here, who have been losing sleep in the endeavour to promote temperance, by the election of the Opposition candidate, will raise their voice against the attiture of the Government, or when the time comes, poll a vote in condemnation of the trifling that has been meted out to prohibition by the Dominion government? Will they urge the temperance issue against the Dominion Government with the same venomous insistence with which they urged it against the Ontario Government in the recent election? In a word, will they be honest?

THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH.

The Orangemen of Peterborough and District Celebrate the Day at Lindsay.

To-day is the anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne and the loyal Orangemen of Peterborough and district are celebrating the day in Lindsay. At an early hour this morning the members of the different lodges began to assemble at their respective lodge rooms, and preceded by the Fire Brigade Band at 8:30 marched to Ashburnham to meet the Lakefield and other brethren. At 9:15 the procession marched through the streets to the station. The following was the order of procession :

Representatives of different Bobcaygeon Orange Lodges, and [illegible] Blues.

There was a marked [illegible] of life and drum bands, so famil[illegible] an element in processions. Several of the new banners gotten up by Messrs. Fairweather & Co. were conspicuous in the procession, and as usual the Nassau lodge stalwarts, the largest lodge both numerically and physically, in the district, were admired for their fine appearance.

The procession after leaving Ashburnham proceeded up Water to McDonel, thence across to George street, down George to Charlotte, and thence to the station.

At the station the Orangemen, together with a large number of their friends, boarded the train for Lindsay, and it is expected that the resources of that town will be severely taxed to accommodate the large number which it is anticipated will pour into it to-day.

LACROSSE.

The following are the names of the players as they lined up on the field in the match, at Millbrook, Tuesday, between the team of that village, and the Granites, of Peterborough, who are the undisputed junior champions of the town :—

| Millbrook. | | Granite. |
|---|---|---|
| W Handley | goal | H King |
| W Pickup | point | W Knapp |
| A Irwin | cover point | H Stenson |
| H Duncan | 1st defence | C Pousette |
| J Cochrane | 2nd " | P Kelly |
| F Merritt | 3rd " | M Green |
| N Armstrong | centre | L Savigny |
| J Scott | 3rd home | F MacPherson |
| W Gravely | 2nd " | B Belleghem |
| C Homan | 1st " | K Sawyers |
| F Leach | outside home | D Costello |
| T Natrass | inside home | T Lannin |
| E Clarry | field captain | W Crossley |
| J Carveth | goal umpires | K Dolan |

Referee, T B McMahon.

First game,—Savigny drew and passed to Sawyers, who shot, but Handley caught and made a long throw, and in this way the ball travelled from end to end. This game was characterized by Handley's many difficult stops. After 15 minutes play Leach scored from a scrimmage.

Second game,—Savigny secured the ball at centre and passed to Lannin, who scored. Time ½ minute.

Third game,—Pickup and Duncan seemed to carry everything before them, their speed showing to great advantage. Leach on home showed himself a wonder in this game. Homan scored by a shot from centre in 3 minutes.

Fourth game,—In this game Sawyers, Green and Belleghem worked things pretty much as they pleased, playing combinations that would surprise people who have not seen them play. Shot after shot was made on Millbrook goal, but Pickup was too fast and time and again saved; but it was a matter of time and Costello scored after 16 minutes play.

Fifth game,—This was but a repetion of the first, Costello and Lannin each trying to best the other in the number of shots he made, but in 25 minutes' play Savigny scored.

Sixth game,—Savigny drew, carried it up, and scored from a difficult side shot. Time, ½ minute.

Seventh game,—This was the best of all. The spectators were wondering if there were any sprinters on the Granites, when suddenly Knapp showed them he was capable of doing anything on the field.

Eighth game,—Millbrook was winded, but scored by a mistake in passing by Stenson.

There remained 8 minutes to play and this was completed without either team scoring.

The boys want it strictly understood that it is impossible for anybody to be better treated than they were, and they look forward to acting toward Millbrook in the same manner upon their return match.

The game was void of that disagreeable wrangling which characterizes most games of lacrosse.

All Granites played well, and Duncan, Handley, Vickup, Leach and Malnam did good work for Millbrook.

Belleville now has two separate lacrosse organizations. The Belleville lacrosse club, formed at the beginning of the season, has been highly successful, and the citizens are generally well-disposed and are giving it their hearty support. The dissenters from the first team have formed what will hereafter be known as the Shamrock lacrosse club, and have taken with them some of the best players in Belleville's first team.

The following paragraph in reference to the recent lacrosse match is taken from the Port Hope Times :

"Peterborough played their usual rowdy game, cutting and slashing and banging their opponents up against the fence at every opportunity. The referee seemed to be blind to fouling, or else McCabe and McDonough would have been ordered off the field before the ball had been in play five minutes. The game seemed to be an exhibition of brute force against science, and every stranger present was in sympathy with Port Hope. The audience seemed to be almost as brutal as the players, and encouraged and applauded the slugging. Insults were the only encouragement Port Hope received from the grand stand.'

This statement is an absolute falsehood. Peterborough players came out of the tussle in worse shape than the visitors, and could be noticed during the game—one with a handkerchief tied over a cut, and others showing the effect of rough playing by bruised limbs. The referee was forced to call time only on two occasions during the game, on account of accident, Messrs. Dixon and McDonough of the home team, receiving severe knockout blows from their opponents. Mr. Patterson, who seems to take a pride in press censorship, has now an opportunity to practice it on the Port Hope papers.

Orillia defeated Bradford, yesterday, at lacrosse by four goals to one. Barrie and Orillia cross sticks Wednesday.

POSTPONED PYROTECHNICS.

A Large Gathering at the Splendid Fireworks Display Last Evening.

The postponed Dominion Day fireworks display was run off in the Driving Park last evening and was an unqualified success in every way. There was a large attendance of citizens, including a great many ladies. The Fire Brigade band was present and contributed a well selected programme which was thoroughly enjoyed and which added much to the enjoyment of the evening. The committee in charge, in order to fill in the time until dark, provided a programme of bicycle races, which were successfully run off under the management of Mr. G. J. Horkins. The first event was a quarter mile bicycle race, in heats, which resulted as follows :

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| M G Walkee | 1 | 1 |
| O Shortly | 2 | 2 |
| T Lush | 3 | 3 |

The half mile dash was next run off and resulted as follows :—

|---|---|
| M G Walkee | 1 |
| O Shortly | 2 |
| T Lush | 3 |

Shortly after 9 o'clock the display of fireworks was introduced by an agent of Prof. Hand, of Hamilton, and it is needless to say it was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The many rockets and roman candles as they shot into the sky with their variegated colours presented a grand sight, and the emblematic displays bearing appropriate mottoes were the finest ever witnessed in town. The pyrotechnics were kept up until nearly ten o'clock. The committee in charge are to be congratulated on the successful presentation of a display which was a fitting termination to a successfully managed Dominion Day demonstration.

—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are known. Pills of American manufacture easily lead. Why? Because they're smaller; the vegetable extracts are concentrated. There are many liver pills, yet there must be a reason why Dr. Pierce's Pellets give the best satisfaction. Probably because they're sugar-coated, small as grains of mustard seed, therefore, easily swallowed. Most of all—they act in a natural way, and are effective in result. Then, too, after they're taken they can't be felt—so different from the old-fashioned pills, with their griping and violence.

For indigestion, pain in stomach, costiveness and habitual constipation, as well as sick and bilious headaches, these "Pellets" bring such a lasting cure, that they can be guaranteed. Your money is returned, if they do not give satisfaction.

A SCIENTIFIC PASTIME

IS THE GREAT DOMINION OF CANADA'S NATIONAL GAME.

Many Lacrosse Clubs Attest Its Growing Popularity—Formerly Only a Test of Strength and Endurance the Modern Sport Has Added Science to Its Charm.

Science is something boasted of by the followers of all sports in our category of outdoor pastimes, and the baseball player and cricketer, the tennis expert and football devotee, all lay claim to their particular game being the most scientific of all. It must be admitted that football, as played under the rules of the Intercollegiate Association, has been brought down to a nicety so far as scientific plays are concerned, but outside this it is doubted if any game affords so many opportunities for the display of science as the Indian and Canadian game, lacrosse.

Of course, when the Indian tribes played bagutaway, it was merely a question of strength and endurance, and the contests, lasting sometimes for a week, were more of the nature of a pitched battle than a pastime for pleasure. But about the year 1850 Dr. W. G. Beers, of Montreal, laid down the rules which govern the game, and made the first step in the advancement which has brought lacrosse to its high standing to-day.

It was perfectly natural that Montreal should take the initial move in adopting the game, for the Caughnawagas, of the Iroquois nation, whose reservation is at the head of the Lachine Rapids in close proximity to Montreal, were at that time the greatest experts at the game. The small beginning in Montreal has had a most wonderful growth, for in a little more than thirty years the game has not alone become the national pastime of Canada, but it has spread throughout the United States and obtained a foothold in England, Ireland and Scotland, planted itself firmly in Australia and New Zealand and even succeeded in obtaining followers in India and South Africa.

In the United States the Canadian element wherever located have always got together to form their clubs, and brought their influence to bear upon the locals to join with them in what they consider the king of all pastimes. And now in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston; in Chicago, Pittsburg, Detroit and St. Louis, are team awhich can give first-class exhibitions of the game. The colleges, too, have looked kindly on the sport.

The spectator has not much to learn in witnessing a game, for the object to get the ball through the goal posts is plain to all.

In the manner of play the game somewhat resembles Association football. It is decided by the number of goals scored in a certain time—one hour or one hour and a half. The goal keeper is the only player allowed to use anything but his "crosse" in keeping the ball from going between the posts, while point and cover point resemble the full backs in getting the ball out of their territory.

The game is played with an L-shaped stick, with a network of horsehair or catgut strung upon half its length. The surface of this network should be flat, although the "crosses" sometimes become bagged. The ball is of solid rubber, about two and a half inches in diameter. The length of the field may be anywhere between 150 and 200 yards and the goal posts stand six feet out of the ground and six feet apart. The teams are composed of twelve players, as follows: Goal keeper, point, cover point, first defence, second defence, third defence, centre, third attack, second attack, first attack, home and inside home.

At the commencement of the game the ball is placed in the centre of the field between the sticks of the centre men, who endeavor to obtain possession of it in their "crosses," or pass it to one of their men. The whole object of the game is to get the ball through the goal posts, and in order to accomplish this considerable passing and throwing have to be done. Throwing is one of the important branches of the game, in which some men excel, while others fail. The longest throw on record is 497 feet 7½ inches, which feat was accomplished by Bernard Quinn in Ottawa in 1892. Every man of the team, with the exception of the goal keeper, is covered by an opponent, and these two contend for the possession of the sphere when passed. When the ball is in the possession of one side all the men of that team endeavor to get away from their checkers, and vice versa. Each side is allowed a captain in the field, who need not be an active participant in the game. Should they not be playing, however, they are not allowed to dress in uniform, nor interfere in any manner with their opponents. They have to decide all disputes arising over the game, and they can choose one member of the team to assist them in this.

Two umpires are appointed by the contending teams, and also a referee, who is generally a disinterested person or a member of some other club than those contesting. He has the power to suspend any player infringing the rules, and his decision in all matters relating to the match is final. The umpires are placed behind each goal to decide if the ball has passed through fairly, and their decision cannot be questioned.

To the spectator lacrosse offers an exciting game, full of fine plays and individual feats. The dodging and checking, catching, passing and throwing are all interesting to watch, and the interest never flags from the moment of "the face" until the umpire calls "Game!" The player is taught many useful lessons—he has to keep cool and collected, he has to decide and reach conclusions with rapidity, learn to see everything around him and preserve his temper in the most trying situations. The exercise derived is of the best, for all muscles of the body are called into activity during the progress of the game and the lacrosse player can always feel a better man for his participation in the game.

Child Drowned at Owen Sound.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., July 11.—Gurdy Clark, a child of about 5 years of age, son of Wm. Clark, plasterer, fell off the dock yesterday while playing with several other children and was drowned. Several attempts were made to rescue him, but they were unsuccessful. The body was brought out of the water after being in about ten minutes, by Arthur Foote. The child fell between the dock and a lumber scow, which made the recovery difficult as he did not come to the surface a second time.

MONTREAL, July 11.—The strike situation across the line is exciting great interest in railway circles here, and the outcome is egarly awaited. The situation is especially exciting discussion amongst the members of the American Flint Glass Blowers Association now in convention here. The convention, when it comes down to business to-day, is expected to take important action if a general strike is ordered. It is not at all impossible that a strike may be the result, although the officials deny that it will be done.

MAKING BLIND EYES SEE

THE OPERATION FOR CATARACT AS PERFORMED ON MR. GLADSTONE.

How It Was Accomplished—Sharp Punctures With Sharp Knives—An Extremely Delicate Work in Which the Percentage of Deaths is Very Small.

The operation for cataract Mr. Gladstone, England's Grand Old Man, has just undergone represents one of the highest triumphs of surgery. It requires a precision and delicacy of touch which no other operation calls for, and it necessitates the employment of instruments so fine that a hair's breadth differentiates one from the other.

Of all the human organs the eye in its structure and functions is the most wonderful as well as the most delicate. Within the compass of less than an inch this organ embodies tissues which enable the mind to see and a lens which adjusts itself to every focus by an instinctive and unconscious process. The only result of the operation for a cataract which Mr. Gladstone has just undergone is the loss of this little lens in the eye. That loss will now be supplied by eye-glasses of varying strength, but they are clumsy and awkward compared with the marvellously perfect lens which Nature puts into the eye of every man.

Although the lens is imbedded deep in the eye it has nothing whatever to do with the delicate adjustment of sensitive nerves less than an inch away that enable a man to see. The faculties of sight are not at all impaired or in any way affected by the operation for cataract, although the latter involves very deep cutting into the eye and the removal of one of the parts which go to make it a perfect seeing organ.

The operation upon Mr. Gladstone did not take longer than fifteen minutes. There have been many occasions when the operation for cataract has been performed twice upon the same person in less than an hour when both eyes were affected. In very old people a cataract in one eye is generally followed by a cataract in the other. Oculists now believe that Mr. Gladstone will again have to undergo this operation, and perhaps he may do so within a month.

The operation for cataract has become almost painless since the introduction of cocaine, and no anaesthetic was used in the case of Mr. Gladstone. The greatest inconvenience of the patient, however, comes from the enforced incarceration in a dark room for several weeks following the operation. This is to enable the tissues of the eye to heal before any work is thrown upon that organ. The light is gradually let into the darkened room, and the patient, at the end of about three weeks, is released fully cured.

It would be almost impossible for any one but an experienced oculist to tell that the eye had been operated upon. It is apparently natural and unimpaired in every respect, being full and round, of good color, and exactly like its fellow. Similarly, it is very difficult to detect the presence of a cataract in the eye for any non-professional. Many people think that they can tell when a man has a cataract, and that they can pick out the victims of this disease when walking along the streets. Oculists know that this is a fallacy, and what is regarded as a cataract is not that at all, but some other affection of the eye. A curious thing about this disease is that it is not confined to human beings, and that cataracts are frequently found in the eyes of animals.

Another curious fact about the cataract is that no one knows what causes it. The men of science have not failed to advance theories and speculations as to the cause of the disease, but there is no unanimity of opinion among them on this subject. Attempts have also been made to cure the cataract without resort to the knife, but these are regarded as unsuccessful, and the surgical and scientific world agrees that an operation—which is the last resort of science—is in every case necessary.

The idea of operating surgically upon the human eye is one that is appalling when first presented to the mind. He was a bold man who ate the first oyster, but he was bolder yet who made the first operation for cataract. It is believed that the ancients were familiar with the operation. There are passages in Galen and Pliny which are thought to refer to the removal of cataract. These, however, could not have been highly successful. The practice fell into disuse among physicians and surgeons until the middle of the eighteenth century. Even then it was attended with great risk and difficulty and the percentage of failure was very high.

Now, however, while the operation for cataract requires the utmost skill, the chances of losing the eye are only three out of 100. Statistics are accurately kept of the operations for cataract, and every case of failure and success is noted.

There are only two cuts of the knife made in the operation, although a multitude of beautiful and delicate instruments are manufactured for the purpose. One of these cuts almost slices off the front of the eye, but it is a singular thing that, although it severs the delicate covering and goes deep into the interior of the organ, it heals up perfectly and leaves almost no mark. A cataract grows on the inside of the eye. It is not on the outside of the eye, as is generally supposed. The sufferer becomes conscious of its existence generally by a gradual diminution of the power of sight. This is not because the organs of sight in the back of the eye are affected, but because the cataract affects only the little crystalline lens which intervenes.

This lens is affected by losing its crystalline quality and becoming somewhat opaque. It acquires a whitish color, and the power of sight is gradually lost as the lens becomes more and more opaque. A singular thing about this lens must here be explained. While it is really a little sac of liquid, shaped like the ordinary convex lens, it yet contains in the centre an actual lens of clear gristle that is hard and strong. This is surrounded by clear liquid. The shape of the entire lens is constantly changing in daily life. When you look at a mountain ten miles off the lens in your eye is of one shape, but when you look at the ground at your feet it instantly changes its shape so as to bring the subject looked at into focus.

As the whole of the lens is affected in a cataract its entire removal from the eye is necessary. If it were not for the little hard lens in its centre the entire lens might be taken out through a small opening made with an instrument, being run out like so much water. But the little hard lens is more than a quarter of an inch across its face and an eighth to a sixteenth of an inch in thickness. It can only be removed through a slit cut down to the centre. This is the first cut which is made.

In performing the operation it is necessary that the eye should be kept immovable. The patient could not do this himself. The oculist inserts a speculum, which keeps the eyelids far apart and the eye wide open. The patient might, however, move his eye with the speculum in place. This is prevented by the use of a forceps, which grasps the skin of the eye below the eyeball and holds it firmly. This is generally held by an assistant of the operator. Another assistant holds a large magnifying glass which concentrates the light on the eye and illumines its interior.

The patient always undergoes the operation after having had a rest. That is the reason the operation on Mr. Gladstone was performed early in the morning. This is the time of day invariably selected by oculists, because the patient is fresh from his bed and thoroughly rested. Oculists also prefer to perform the operation by artificial light, which seems to be softer and more congenial to the eye than the light of day.

An eye-witness of the operation upon the distinguished patient says: it was apparent when the first cut was made that the operator requires strong hand and fingers. The knife was run into the eye horizontally from the outside. After the first puncture it was pressed steadily through the centre of the eye towards the nose, until it came out upon the other side. The coverings of the eye which were being cut seemed to be of the consistency of India rubber. The knife was inserted with its edge upward. Then the upward cut was made from this position, the knife being worked backward and forward until it came out at the top of the eye. This left a sort of flap.

The patient always reclines on his back and the flap remains in a natural position until the next instrument is inserted. This is really a long needle with a slight elbow, on the end of which is a minute point projecting inward with a knife edge on its upper surface. The little knife which this instrument carries on its point is so small as almost to be invisible to the naked eye. Its purpose is to cut the sac containing the lens, which has thus far escaped the knife. This instrument is inserted through the cut which has just been made from the top and at an angle projecting outward. When its end has passed the centre of the eye the operator changes the angle and gives the instrument a slight turn between his fingers so as to bring the little pointed knife inward. He now presses the latter into the lower part of the sac containing the lens and draws it sharply upward with his fingers.

The result of this is to sever the envelope of the lens and the liquid immediately begins to run out. A pressure of the finger on the outside of the eyeball is now all that is required to bring the little hard lens to the surface. It slips out through the opening made in the transparent filmy covering of the lens, and pressure on the bottom of the eyeball then makes it come out at the top. That is all the surgery that constitutes the operation for cataract, divested of the multitude of scientific terms employed in the profession.

A natural question at this point is, "What takes the place of the lens? Doesn't it leave a hole in the eye?" The cavity in the eye occupied by the lens fills up with vitreous humor within less than three minutes after the removal of the lens. This substance is supplied to the eye in abundance by nature, and is being constantly replenished. The place in the eye that was occupied by the lens fills with this transparent substance, and the whole organ retains its original shape and form. The transparent film which had formerly been the envelope of the lens folds back out of the way of its own accord, leaving the field clear and unobstructed from the retina at the extreme back of the eye through the iris, the anterior chamber and the cornea. Thus the intervening obstruction formed by the affected lens and called the cataract, has been removed and the eye can see with its former vigor and clearness.

A Curious Effect.

Since the repeal of British navigation laws in 1819 British shipping has increased seven times faster than the population.

It is important to keep the liver and kidneys in good condition. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the remedy for invigorating these organs.

Nothing Impossible.

Just now a mite of money is worth a mountain of stock.

Just now, nothing seems impossible in the line of economy. But the TRUTH about low values is hard to comprehend. Anything less than ALL the facts concerning OUR goods and their present values would be unjust to the public.

You cannot always buy so many kinds of goods at and below cost as we offer you now. Your best economy is to invest your money in wisely selected goods at present prices at this store. Listen:

DRESS GOODS
AT COST.

Just to liven things up these hot days we offer all our Summer Dress Goods at about cost. This will help to clear out our stock and save carrying anything over to another season.

WASH GOODS
AT COST.

Chambrays, Krinkles and Muslins all at cost. This is the chance of the season as the stock is all right and well bought.

PARASOLS
AT COST.

Not a fraction of a fib, fabrication or falsehood gets into our store talk. Truth is the best salesman. Parasols at cost just means what it says.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY
AT HALF PRICE.

That's a sweeping reduction. Surely cost plays no part in this case. Half price takes everything we have in Trimmed Millinery.

MANTLES AND CAPES

At interesting figures.

DELAINES
AT ABOUT COST.

We can accommodate these beautiful goods to those who come for them. Their bargain story has new life to-day.

BLOUSES, SHIRT WAISTS
AT COST.

DELEGATES PLEASED WITH CANADA.

They Express Some Flattering Opinions—An Object Lesson in Federation.

OTTAWA, July 12.—The Evening Journal publishes a page of letters from or interviews with the delegates to the Intercolonial Conference, giving their impressions of the Dominion and its people.

The Earl of Jersey says what has most impressed him is the uniform kindness of the people and their enterprise.

Hon. H. Fitzgerald, of Victoria, writes that he will carry from the Dominion a deep consciousness of its growing greatness and a life long sense of gratitude for the kindness and hospitality met everywhere he has visited. He says that after what he has seen of Canada he fervently hopes Australia will not much longer lay behind in its march towards federation, for Canada is a magnificent object lesson.

Sir Henry Wrixon and Hon. Simon Fraser, also of Victoria, expressed similar sentiments.

Hon. Mr. Forest, of Queensland, writes: "The natural wealth of the Dominion seems unbounded and I am simply amazed at its development. I am not only pleased but delighted with everything I have seen and above all with its people. I consider them the healthiest, the most energetic and enterprising that I have ever met."

HON. J. H. HOFMEYR, M.L.A.

Hon. Mr. Suttor, of New South Wales, says: "Canada, as much as I have seen of it, is a fine country. No where in Europe have I found scenery to equal that in the Rocky Mountains. As to the people they seem thoroughly energetic. Their kindness must ever remain green in our memories."

Sir Henry De Villiers, South Africa, echoes the sentiments and he adds that the delegates had framed a joint letter to the Canadian Premier, expressing their appreciation of their hospitable treatment in this country.

At Ontario's Capital.

TORONTO, July 12.—The delegates to the Colonial Conference arrived in the city yesterday. The day was spent by a trip to Niagara Falls. They arrived in the evening in time to attend the banquet given by the Toronto Board of Trade. The banquet was a splendid affair, those who were privileged to attend entering into the spirit of the occasion with a hearty good will. Enthusiastic speeches relative to the good effects to be expected from the conference at Ottawa were given by the delegates and others. To-day the city entertained the delegates to a dinner at the Queen's.

Hon. Mr. Hofmeyr, the South African delegate, left for the east yesterday on the steamer Corsican.

As Old as Antiquity.

Either by acquired taint or heredity those old foes Scrofula and Consumption, must be faced generation after generation; but you may meet them with the odds in your favour by the help of Scott's Emulsion.

Two Castaways Rescued.

HALIFAX, July 12.—Two seamen named Mackenzie and Davidson arrived in Halifax yesterday, to be sent home to Portland. They are castaways. They belonged to the fishing schooner Fairy Queen. Hauling trawls, the men were lost in a fog. For three days they floated just as caprice of wind and sea ordained. The third day was very hot, the sun fairly blistering them. Having no food and no water, it made the heat of the sun seem more intense. They were picked up that day by the Schooner George V. Jordan and landed at Bridgewater. They left for Portland last evening by rail.

Desperate Attempt at Suicide.

MONTREAL, July 12. — Marie Louise Lavallee, wife of Joseph Duphanais, of Sorel, a young French-Canadian woman, made a desperate attempt last night to take her own life. About nine o'clock she walked into Royenette's saloon on Bonsecours street, and obtaining a glass of beer poured in a large quantity of paris green and drank it down. She was seized and emetics administered, and it is expected she will recover. Family troubles is supposed to have caused her to commit the rash act.

Damage by Lightning.

EGANVILLE, Ont., July 12.—During a heavy storm of thunder and lightning several buildings in Eganville sustained considerable damage. A bolt of lightning struck the flagpole of the well-known Foy hotel, igniting the roof and walls, and was extinguished only after considerable difficulty. The roof of the City hotel was also struck; also the grocery store of J. A. Smith and the kitchen of R. Reeves. Fortunately the storm was only a few moments duration.

Found Dead in His Berth.

NORTH SYDNEY, C. B., July 12.—The Schooner Marion, of St. John, N. B., from Boston, for St. Pierre, with general cargo, arrived in port yesterday with her flag at half mast, in charge of the mate, who reported the death of her captain, Ambrose Record, of heart disease on Tuesday morning. The deceased was found dead in his berth.

Drowned in Yarmouth Harbor.

YARMOUTH, N.S., July 12.—Yesterday two boys, Charles Mahan and Malcolm Andrews, 12 years old, were on the harbor in a canoe. The canoe upset and the boys were left struggling in the water. The accident was witnessed from the shore and a boat was put off and succeeded in grasping Andrews by the hair as he was sinking. Mahan was drowned.

Fell Under a Train.

GUELPH, Ont., July 12.—Martin Murphy, of this city, who was going to England in charge of a shipment of cattle from this place, in trying to board the front end of the van of a moving train at the passenger station, missed the step, and fell under the train, the wheel severing his leg above the knee.

A Pickpocket Gets Nine Months.

HAMILTON, July 12.—Charles E. Kramer was sentenced by Judge Senkler here to nine months in the Central prison on a charge of pocket-picking. Kramer was detected in the act of stealing $25 from the pocket of Mrs. Hoodless at the Beach.

When the Nerve Centres Need Nutrition.

A Wonderful Recovery, Illustrating the Quick Response of a Depleted Nerve System to a Treatment Which Replenishes Exhausted Nerve Forces.

MR. FRANK BAUER, BERLIN, ONT.

Perhaps you know him? In Waterloo he is known as one of the most popular and successful business men of that enterprising town. As managing executor of the Kuntz estate, he is at the head of a vast business, representing an investment of many thousands of dollars, and known to many people throughout the Province. Solid financially, Mr. Frank Bauer also has the good fortune of enjoying solid good health, and if appearances indicate anything, it is safe to predict that there's a full half century of active life still ahead for him. But it's only a few months since, while nursed as an invalid at the Mt. Clemens sanitary resort, when his friends in Waterloo were dismayed with a report that he was at the point of death.

"There's no telling where I would have been had I kept on the old treatment," said Mr. Bauer, with a merry laugh, the other day, while recounting his experiences as a very sick man. "Mt. Clemens," he continued, "was the last resort in my case. For months previous I had been suffering indescribable tortures. I began with a loss of appetite and sleepless nights. Then, as the trouble kept growing, I was getting weaker, and began losing flesh and strength rapidly. My stomach refused to retain food of any kind. During all this time I was under medical treatment, and took everything prescribed, but without relief. Just about when my condition seemed most hopeless, I heard of a wonderful cure effected in a case somewhat similar to mine, by the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and I finally tried that. On the first day of its use I began to feel that it was doing what no other medicine had done. The first dose relieved the distress completely. Before night I actually felt hungry and ate with an appetite such as I had not known for months. I began to pick up in strength with surprising rapidity, slept well nights, and before I knew it I was eating three square meals regularly every day, with as much relish as ever. I have no hesitation whatever in saying that the South American Nervine Tonic cured me when all other remedies failed. I have recovered my old weight—over 200 ponnds—and never felt better in my life."

Mr. Frank Bauer's experience is that of all others who have used the South American Nervine Tonic. Its instantaneous action in relieving distress and pain is due to the direct effect of this great remedy upon the nerve centres, whose fagged vitality is energized instantly by the very first dose. It is a great, a wondrous cure for all nervous diseases, as well as indigestion and dyspepsia. It goes to the real source of trouble direct, and the sick always feel its marvellous sustaining and restorative power at once, on the very first day of its use.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

General Managers Consider All the Tronble at an End.

LABOR LETTER TO CLEVELAND

The American Federation Asks His Cooperation in Averting a Crisis—Attempt to Assassinate a Pullman Official—Rioting at Oakland, Cal.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Whatever trouble the Chicago railroads are now having seems so trivial in comparison with the conditions which existed a week ago as to be unworthy of mention, and the steadily improving situation gives promise that a normal state of affairs on all lines will be restored within a day or two. Reports of railroads to the General Managers' Association are all in one strain and indicate that the strike is over so far as the railroads are concerned. So confident are they that the tronble is over that they have decided to close the bureau of information connected with the institution this evening.

The Briggs House was the centre of labor interests yesterday. President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and a large number of leaders of the various branches of that order are here to discuss the advisability of declaring a general strike. The only action taken at the afternoon session of the conference was the sending of a telegram to President Cleveland, urging him to come here in person or send a representative. The telegram was as follows:

"To the President of the United States: The gravity of the industrial situation of the country demands extraordinary and exceptional action of a conciliatory character at the hands of all men.

"Recognizing this fact the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and the undersigned executive officers of the National and International Trades Unions and Brotherhoods of railroad organizations of America are in conference in this city. We ask you in the name of the working people and the entire citizenship of our country to lend your influence and give us your aid so that the present industrial crisis may be brought to an end, alike to the advantage of the people of our country and the institutions under which we live.

"We, therefore, ask you to come to Chicago, or if the state of public business does not warrent such a course, that you will deputize someone as your representative."

This telegram was signed by Samuel Gompers and all the other executive officers of National and International unions, brotherhoods and associations present.

The managers of the Western Union Telegraph and the Postal Telegraph and Cable Companies have been subpoenaed at Chicago, Milwaukee and various other cities to appear and produce the telegraphic correspondence of Debs and other parties connected with the Pullman boycott and strike.

It is the opinion of careful and conservative observers that the labor troubles, so far as Chicago is concerned, are dying by inches. There may be a few more manifestations of their continued existence in the form of minor walkouts and similar demonstrations, but these will be but the spasms that precede final dissolution. In this opinion the authorities at army headquarters, at the government building and at the police department are practically unanimous. Business of all kinds, which has been in a state of paralysis for over a week, commences to show signs of returning vitality. Everywhere there are indications that even if the trouble is not over the worst has been seen.

From the Strikers' Standpoint.

At the headquarters of the American Railway Union there was no falling off in the enthusiasm or in the claims of ultimate victory. The officers insist that the strikers were standing firm and that they were being reinforced. The reports received from the officers of the various local trade organizations placed the number of men that had gone out in response to the call at 15,000 to 20,000, but no authentic figures were produced to prove this statement. The officers and directors of the union held a brief conference with W. W. Erwin, who has been retained as special counsel, but no definite line of policy was mapped out.

In the Stock Yards.

Everything was quiet throughout the city except at the stock yards, where a few hundred striking butchers attacked an incoming train of cattle, and by tampering with a switch derailed the engine. Two companies of militia were brought to the scene and scattered the mob. Several heavy trains were sent in and out during the day. Of the 5,000 butchers in the yards less than 500 went out in compliance with the appeal of Grand Master Workman Sovereign.

Before the Federal Grand Jury.

The Federal Grand Jury examined a large number of witnesses concerning the sayings and doings of the officers and directors of the Railway Union. Some of these were newspaper reporters. In one case a reporter declined to affirm an interview which he had written on the ground that it had been mangled by the blue pencil of the copy readers, while two others refused to respond to the interrogatories on the ground that the statements made to them in the reportorial capacity were privileged. The correspondents have been ordered to reappear before the Grand Jury to-day and in the event of their continued refusal to answer, the body will report the fact to Judge Grosscup.

In labor circles a report gained currency that George M. Pullman had weakened and was willing to submit his side of the trouble to arbitration. Vice-President Wickes promptly nailed the story with the official announcement that the Pullman Company stood by every declaration that it had previously made on the subject.

Dock Hands Go to Work.

PITTSBURG, July 13.—A report was received at the office of the Pennsylvania Company that all the striking hands of the Ashtabula, Ohio, docks went to work yesterday. After docking an hour they again went out, parading the city streets with a large red flag at the head of the column. After the parade all quieted down.

A Switchman Fired On.

TOLEDO, July 13.—While Lewis Potts, one of the new Lake Shore switchmen, was running a pony engine in the yards at noon, he was fired on by some unknown person from behind some empty freight cars. Five shots were fired, one grazing his neck but not wounding him severely. The would-be assassin escaped.

All Over at Port Huron.

PORT HURON, Mich., July 13.—The long-shoremen who struck in sympathy with the American Railway Union have returned to work at the Grand Trunk sheds on the advice of American Railway Union leaders as they could no longer be of any assistance. The strike is practically over here and railroad men who went out have received decidedly the worst of it.

Depredations at Oakland, Cal.

OAKLAND, Cal., July 13.—Yesterday about 150 strikers emerged from their headquarters and repaired to the vicinity of Cedar avenue and Seventh street, where a few nights ago they derailed a flat car at the crossing. A long Oakland local train lay a short distance down the Mole in the same place where it has been stalled since one week ago. The strikers ran up Seventh street, uncoupled the passenger coach and started with it up the Mole, sending it with terrific force against the derailed flat car. The coach rebounded fully 40 feet down the track, the rear wheels were derailed and the platform slightly sprung. The strikers returned to the stalled train, uncoupled two more coaches and rushed them down toward the town. Just before reaching the first coach they placed obstructions on the rails and derailed the car trucks of both coaches. They went down the Mole to the head of the train and detached the engine. Dividing into two gangs on each side of the engine they threw the switch open and ran the engine into it. The forward truck was derailed. The morning's work effectually disposed of any attempt to run locals to day. Strikers demolished a small railroad bridge on the Narrow Gauge Road and flung it into the creek.

Quiet at Sacramento.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 13.—There was no change in the situation here except that the strikers were less conspicuous on the streets than heretofore. The people feel that the soldiers are not to be trifled with. The crowd of spectators around the picket lines that bound the depot is very small and the sentries are treated with marked courtesy. The body of Private Dugan, who died from injuries received in the railroad wreck, was removed from the depot to the pier for transportation to San Francisco.

Attempt to Assassinate a Pullman Officer.

PULLMAN, Ill., July 13.—Superintendent of Works Middleton had a narrow escape from being assassinated by thugs last night. He was standing at the Pullman depot talking to a friend when his companion turned and grappled with a man who could be but dimly seen in the darkness. A short struggle ensued, but before Mr. Middleton had time to act the man escaped. Mr. Middleton has entire charge of the big Pullman works, and says he has several times been followed by suspicious characters, and he thinks his life may be in danger.

Reward Offered for Train Wreckers.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 13. — Gov. Markham has offered a reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the persons implicated in the wrecking of the train at the trestle. Evidence connecting Warden, one of the men arrested in connection with the tragedy, is becoming very definite.

What the Strike Costs Uncle Sam.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—The cost to the United States of putting down the railroad strike in the west is estimated by Government officials at fully $1,000,000.

Its Effect in Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 13.—The big Chicago strike is making itself felt here in different ways. The railroads and steamships are profiting by it, while the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company are feeling it by a heavy falling off in their passenger traffic. The Canadian Pacific trains for the west are the heaviest yet known. The paralysing of the freight traffic from the American west has given a boom to the European markets and the steamship lines are beginning to reap a benefit. The boom is being felt most distinctly in the cattle trade.

Christian Endeavor at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, July 13.—The first regular session of the Christian Endeavor convention was held yesterday. The attendance was unexpectedly large, and overflow meetings were arranged for at Epworth Memorial Methodist church and at Woodward avenue Methodist church. The meetings began with praise and prayer service, after which Rev. J. S. Tyler, chairman of the local committee, delivered an address of welcome. This was followed by an address by Governor McKinley, welcoming the delegates to the State. The response was made by Rev. Wm. R. Pattison, of Canada, Secretary Baer then presented his annual report.

Crofter Settlement in Canada.

LONDON, July 13.—The Daily News says in a leader on the Crofters in Canada: "We regret that the reports on the Crofters settlements in Canada have necessarily been so apologetic. The emigration of Crofters is not such an easy problem as it originally looked."

Jabez Balfour is Safe.

BUENOS AYRES, July 13.—The federal court has given the opinion that Argentine's understanding with Great Britain does not cover the case of Jabez Spencer Balfour, the chief swindler in the Liberator Building Society frauds in London.

The scrofulous taint which may have been in your blood for years, may be thoroughly expelled by giving Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial.

WIMAN GAINS A POINT

Judge Barrett Grants a Certificate of Reasonable Doubt.

HE WILL BE RELEASED ON BAIL

Mr. Wiman is Greatly Pleased on Receiving the News—An Effort to Find Bail Failed and He Spent Another Night in the Tombs.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Judge Barrett, of the Supreme Court, has granted a certificate of reasonable doubt pending an application for a new trial in the case of Erastus Wiman. Mr. Wiman's release on bail is now possible. When a United Press representative told Mr. Wiman of Judge Barrett's action he exclaimed, "Good news: that is the best news I have heard since I have been here. It means freedom. I thank you for your promptness in informing me of the judge's decision. I have not yet heard from counsel and cannot tell what the next move will be."

Justice Barrett's opinion bases the reasonable doubt on Justice Ingraham's charge to the jury and on the interruption of Gen. Tracy's plea to the jury by Justice Ingraham. Assistant District Attorney Wellman stated to a reporter that there would be no obstacles placed in the way of Boardman and Tracy if they desired to offer bail for Wiman. Albert B. Boardman, of Mr. Wiman's counsel, said: "Of course we are jubilant over the decision. We may give bail before any justice of the Supreme Court. The stay acts while we are appealing the case to the general term and until it is decided by the general term. As to the question of bail, it would be a physical impossibility to produce $25,000 bail this afternoon."

Mr. Clark, of the firm of Tracy, Boardman & Platt, called on Mr. Wiman at the Tombs police court and after a short consultation sent a telegram to Charles H. Deere, asking him if he would furnish the $25,000 bail for Mr. Wiman.

Bail was not forthcoming for Mr. Wiman and he was compelled to spend another night in the Tombs. Application for his release on bail will be made to-day.

U. S. Naval Appointments.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Two important assignments of naval officers have been made by Secretary Herbert. He designated Rear Admiral Kirkland as commander of the European naval station and ordered Commodore C. C. Carpender to assume command of the Asiatic station. The latter will relieve Rear Admiral Skerrett, who has just been retired, and while in command of the Asiatic station will have the rank of rear admiral.

The Moose Head Disaster.

GREENVILLE, Me., July 13.—The railroad commissioner's investigation into the cause of the Canadian Pacific Railroad disaster has been adjourned to await improvement in the condition of the fireman, McDonald, the only living person who could know anything in regard to the cause of the wreck. He is not in condition to give any information, being unable to be removed to his home in Montreal. The tramp arrested for alleged complicity in causing the wreck has been released.

Fatal Collision on the Wisconsin Central.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Through the carelessness of an engineer a head on collision occurred on the Wisconsin Central Road near Brown and Fifteenth streets. J. B. Bristol, a newly appointed special officer of the Wisconsin Central, was instantly killed. Wm. Bross, a deputy martial, sustained injuries which proved fatal a few hours afterwards. Andrew Blass, a deputy marshall, had his leg crushed and W. Broughton was run over by an engine.

An Orange and Green Fracas.

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—The Orangemen returning from a picnic were attacked by a mob of green ribbon men and a lively riot ensued in which two members of the attacking party were seriously injured and twenty others slightly hurt. The police restored order and locked up a score of brawlers.

Anarchists in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 13.—A mysterious explosion was heard in the vicinity of Ashland avenue and 47th street at midnight. The police are of the opinion that the explosions were the result of experiments on the use of explosives by anarchists.

A Chicago Editor Suicides.

CHICAGO, July 13.—H. A. Bischoff, 33 years old, shot and killed himself yesterday. He was manager and editor of the Black Diamond, a journal devoted to coal interests. No cause can be assigned for the suicide.

Burning Frick Company's Tenements.

UNIONTOWN, July 13.—Two more of the Frick Company's tenement houses at Youngstown have been burned by incendiaries. The places destroyed were houses from which strikers were recently evicted.

Duncan McIntyre's Will.

MONTREAL, July 13.—The will of the late Duncan McIntyre, millionaire, has been filed. The entire fortune is left to the widow, and at her death it is to be divided among the family. There was nothing left to charities. The estate is worth about $3,000,000.

Killed by a Fall From a Chair.

MADOC, July 13. — John Bateman, a retired farmer, living in this village for the past year, fell off a chair and broke his neck while whitewashing a room in his house. He died in a few minutes.

An Unknown Man Suicides.

MONTREAL, July 13.—An unknown man shot and killed himself at Fletcher's field, near the city, last night. The body was removed to the morgue, but has not yet been identified.

Martin Murphy Dead.

GUELPH, July 13.—Martin Murphy, who was injured here by the cattle train, died at the hospitable yesterday. He leaves a wife and several children.

A Schooner to be Sold.

CHURCH MUSIC.

Its Function in Public Worship—Considered in Relation to Congregation, Organist and Choir.

The following sermon on "Church Music" was delivered by Rev. E. H. Holden, pastor of the Olivet Congregational church, Bridgeport, Conn. Mr. C. Richardson of that city, wishing to have his friends in Peterborough read the sermon, kindly sent the EXAMINER a copy. The sermon is well worth careful reading:

"Praise ye the Lord."—Psalm cl.

This is the season of the year when there is a general breaking up of the choirs throughout our city churches. Reorganization and changes will take place in many instances. It becomes, therefore, a most appropriate time to consider the general subject of church music, its character, and its place in Divine service.

This consideration becames advisable because of the study that has been given to the subject in the last few years, and the consequent advancement made in an intelligent and right appreciation of this great and important factor in our Christian life in general, and in our church work in particular.

We come to a study of it this morning for the purpose of emphasizing certain principles that are now well defined and established.

Church music, or sacred music, is differentiated from secular music by its character and aim.

Its character is distinctly religious. This fact is so self-evident that we need not take but a moment to consider it. Of course every exercise connected with this hour of service must be religious.

The Greek word, h u m n o s, means a song of praise.

St. Augustine's definition of a hymn is this, "Praise to God with song." Says Dr. Duffield, the author of English Hymns, "Hymns are preeminently the utterance of spiritual life." This correspondes with the words of Rist, an early German composer, who said on the publication of six hundred hymns, that they were "pressed out of him by the Cross." The hymn book, therefore, is something quite different from the book of poems. All hymns are poems in that they are compositions in metrical verse; but all poems are not hymns.

Hymns are poems which

in his relation to God. Thus from an unassorted collection of poems one could easily classify every hymn. While all church music does not consist in the singing of hymns, but includes all the music, instrumental and vocal, yet all is marked by this distinguishing characteristic, it must be religious. To sound a secular note betrays a want of spiritual discernment and offends the soul in its worship.

Its aim. Its aim is three-fold.

First and primarily church music is the soul's expression of praise to God. It was never designed as a means of entertainment. When man has been born again through the atoning blood of Christ, his soul begins to go out in wonderful gratitude. And like St. Paul he finds himself saying, "Thanks be to God for His unspeakable gift."

That gratitude is naturally expressed in song.

David said, (Ps. xl.), "I waited patiently for the Lord and he inclined unto me and heard my cry. He brought me up out of an horrible pit, out of the miry clay, and set my feet upon a rock, and established my goings." And having said that, he naturally adds, "And he hath put a new song into my mouth, even praise unto our God."

Sacred song is as old as the worship of God. The book of Psalms was the hymn, book of the Jews. And if you will study them at all carefully you will see how they are expressions of praise and thanksgiving treated to God.

Take the last Psalm of the book which we read this morning. "Praise ye the Lord" it begins, that is, praise the Lord with your voices. Then he passes to the instruments. By them they are to praise God. "Praise him with the cornet, with the harp, with the pipe, with the stringed instruments, with the organ, and with the cymbals. All the voices, the whole orchestra is to be brought to the praise of God, "for his mighty acts, and for his excellent greatness."

THAT IS CHURCH MUSIC,

rendering "praise and honour and glory and power unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever.

Now put beside that, one of the modern weak, silly, and twaddling so called anthems, written, not with a view of assisting and developing the aspirations and praises of the soul, but with a view to a performance on the part of one or more voices. A sort of vocal gymnastics, and you easily understand what we mean by asserting that church music is primarily the soul expression of praise and adoration to God.

A good illustration of this is found in the hymn with which we begin our service after the organ, "Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty. God ever glorious, blessed Trinity." Or in another hymn we sung,

"Come thou Almighty King,
Help us Thy name to sing.
Help us to praise
Father all glorious,
O'er all victorious,
Come and reign over us,
Ancient of days."

You notice that the tune is not written for its own sake, but to give expression to the sentiment of the hymn.

There is scarcely any greater act of prostitution than when the words of some beautiful hymn like this are made a sort frame-work on which to setoff a series of vocal fire-works without any reference to the giving utterance to the soul of the hymn.

But if the praise to God is the FUNDAMENTAL AIM OF CHURCH MUSIC,

it has secondary aims and one is to exercise and assist the soul in its reflections, emotions and attitudes, what Professor Blackie, the enthusiastic Scotch hymnist calls, "stirring up the whole soul;" what John Milton had in mind when he wrote these words more than two hundred and fifty years ago:

"There let the pealing organ blow
To the full voiced choir below
In service high, and anthems clear,
As may with sweetness through mine ear
Dissolve me into ecstacies,
And bring all heaven before mine eyes."

How often we come to the church Sunday morning depressed, and weary, after a hard week's work; so tired that if you had yielded to your own inclinations perhaps you would not have come out at all, your mental and spiritual vitality very low. But if the service of song, the organ, the singing, is tuned to the soul's need, how soon you begin to feel refreshed and renewed and quickened. You are stimulated and made ready for all that follows. And when the service closes you are so thankful that you did not yield to your weariness of the morning, whereby you would have lost such a blessing.

An illustration of hymns of this character is found in that restful hymn by Anne Steele, written for her sick room entitled, "Desiring resignation and thankfulness." The tune was written by Lowell Mason to accompany these words, and as one has said, "To sing them to any other would seem almost like sacrilege."

"Father whate'er of earthly bliss, etc."
"Give me a calm, a thoughtful heart, etc."
"Let the sweet hope that thou art mine."

There is another class of

HYMNS WITH A LITTLE DIFFERENT AIM,

namely, to reach the heart of the unconverted. They are what we might designate as the evangelistic hymns. And many a man has been touched by them, and turned to Christ.

Such hyms as "To-day the Saviour calls," "Why do you wait, dear brother," "Almost persuaded," and "Come unto me and be ye saved."

I remember hearing Mr. Sankey tell how his singing in open air the hymn, "There were ninety and nine," reached the heart of an impenitent sinner out on the hillside and led to his conversion.

Mr. Sankey and Mr. Stebbins sing just as Mr. Moody preaches, with a view to conversion. And many are the souls that have been sung away from their sins, and back to the father's house.

Having thus pointed out that church music is distinctly religious in character; that it always serves a religious purpose, as expressing praise unto God; as expressing the soul in its emotions, aspirations and attitudes and as an evangelizing agency, we are now prepared to speak of something concerning the organist, the choir, and the congregation that follow very naturally.

In speaking of the organist I can do no better than to quote from a paper read before one of our state associations by an organist himself, for twenty years the organist of one of the largest congregational choirs in this state. He says, "I speak strongly for I feel deeply. A church should no more think of having an unchristian man for an organist, than such a man for a pastor or teacher. An organist has been rightly described as

and the term ought to fit every man who sits at the organ desk in divine service.

Yet there was an organist in a certain city who was taken at a raid made on the questionable houses. At the police station he gave a fictitious name and forfeited his bond—that is the aristocratic way you know—of passing through the police court. But the fictitious name happened to be the name of a gentleman, who resented it, and going to the forger demanded satisfaction. It was settled by the payment of fifty dollars, and the organist appeared at his place the following Sunday to lead the people in their devotions as usual. This is but one example of the lack of an intelligent appreciation on the part of the churches and their committees of this important part of divine worship, which has prevailed in the past, and to some extent in the present. But we are coming to a truer understanding of the place this noble instrument holds in the service, and are demanding that those who officiate at its desk shall be baptized by the Holy Spirit into a consecrated life.

We want the best musician we can get, but always putting piety before technical knowledge, and consecration before execution, and good taste before brilliancy.

We have all felt the power of the organ voluntary when the melody has been suited to the occasion, and the heart of the organist was full of sympathetic response, as when at a funeral the sound of the feet of the bearers upon the threshold is met by the solemn dirge from the organ. How it hushes every heart. But is there not a very strong tendency to regard the organ voluntaries as thrown in to fill an otherwise awkward break? "The prelude, as so much entertainment, thrown in to pass away the time pleasantly for those who happen to come early to church; and the postlude as a certain quantity of music usually loud and brilliant, to cover up the noise of the departing congregation."

The consecrated organist will not so regard his voluntaries, and that they are often so regarded by the congregation is not altogether his fault as we shall see later.

[CONTIUED AND CONCLUDED TO-MORROW.]

The Heavy End of a Match.

"Mary," said Farmer Flint at the breakfast table as he asked for a second cup of coffee, "I've made a discovery."

"Well, Cyrus, you're about the last one I'd expect of such a thing, but what is it?"

"I have found that the heavy end of a match is its light end," responded Cyrus with a grin that would have adorned a skull.

Mary looked disgusted, but with an air of triumph quickly retorted, "I've got a discovery too, Cyrus. It was made by Dr. R. V. Pierce, and is called a 'Golden Medical Discovery.' It drives away blotches and pimples, purifies the blood, tones up the system and makes one feel brand-new. Why, it cured Cousin Ben who had 'Consumption and was reduced to a skeleton. Before his wife began to use it she was a pale, sickly thing, but look at her; she's rosy-cheeked and healthy, and weighs 165 pounds. That, Cyrus is a discovery that's worth mentioning."

SMALL OBLIGATIONS.

A WARPED MORALITY IS THE RESULT OF LAXITY.

Carelessness in Paying What One Owes Very Often Causes Inconvenience, Embarrassment and Even Misery—Avoid Debt as You Would Disgrace.

Few women, let us hope, are intentionally dishonest. The majority of women are fastidious in the conduct of their finances, shrinking from debt as from disgrace, and preferring to pay fully and honorably as they go. Yet, now and then one hears a wail of complaint from people who suffer needlessly because of the heedless manner in which other people keep them waiting for money which they have earned. A dressmaker said, recently, to one of her patrons: "I am nearly frantic when I think how hard I worked and how late I sat up to finish Miss ——'s graduation gown, and now I am afraid I will never be paid. I have waited six months for that bill, and I cannot get one cent, though I have almost begged for it, even offering to take it in instalments. I am distressed in these hard times, when everybody is retrenching, because people do not have so many new things, and others who have had them put off paying me."

On her way home the sympathetic customer thought about it, happening to know that there were no indications of want or strained means in the family of the delinquent debtor, inferring that the thing was due to an ingrained indifference to paying for work when done. Probably there was at first a temporary inconvenience in settling the bill, and it was postponed for a day or two, and then the period lengthened insensibly, other creditors brought their bills, large amounts were paid, and still the poor dressmaker waited and wondered, and grew frantic with worry, poor thing?

To defer even for one day the paying of the laundress who has acceptably finished her day's work in your kitchen is, it may be, to force her to ask credit, grudgingly given to such as she, at the grocer's shop where she deals, or else to send her children meagerly fed to their beds. People who have a comfortable balance in bank do not comprehend the strained circumstances of the people who live from hand to month.

Coal-bins filled to the overflow are a different thing from coal purchased in the dearest way, by the pailful at a time, yet thousands of poor women can buy their coal only in very small quantities or go without. Think of being calmly told to wait till to-morrow for one's wages, when neither stick of wood nor ounce of coal was on hand for the family fire!

Apart from the inconvenience, embarrassment, and misery entailed by laxity in paying what one owes, especially when the creditors are the poor, and the debts are small, there is evident a serious lack of principle in persons who can comfortably continue in debt.

Any lapse in the rigid honor which insists on meeting each demand and paying it in full at the moment of its maturity involves a loss of self-respect, and brings in its train a warped morality.

There are few things more important in the education of children than the fostering in them the right estimate of personal obligation. The child should be enjoined against borrowing and begging in his small transactions. Let him be held to strict account and responsibility as to his management of his allowance. Fidelity here will tell in years to come, when his dealings are no longer small, but affect great commercial interests.—Harper's Bazar.

Collision on the O. A. and P. S. Railway.

OTTAWA, July 13.—A special train conveying 1,000 local excursionists to the Orange demonstration at Arprior while standing on a siding at Kinburn on the O. A. and P. S. Sir Charles has also accepted the invitation of the Scotish Geographical Society to deliver an address on the progress of the Dominion on the occasion of the opening of the November session of the society.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, July 13, 1894.

The clearings of the local banks this week were $6,543,261, as compared with $4,810,774 last week, and $6,186,473 the corresponding week of last year.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—Wheat dull and nominal at 62c for white, 61c for red and 58c for goose. Oats quiet, 200 bushels selling at 39c to 40c. Peas are quoted at 65c and barley at 41c to 43c.

BUFFALO.—Cattle—50 cars on sale. The market ruled dull, hardly any trading. Sheep and Lambs—6 cars. Good to fancy lambs $5 to $5.50; fair to good mixed sheep $3.15 to $3.50. Hogs—21 cars on sale.

A quiet condition of affairs prevailed at the New York Stock Exchange. Early transactions in the general railway list were at concessions of ⅛ to ½ per cent., due to the announcement of a strike on the St. Paul road, but the reports of the strike not being confirmed the shorts began to cover and the fractional loss noted was recovered. After the morning hour the railway list was quiet and firm throughout. The feature of the day was the activity of American Sugar. In the final dealings the general list held tolerably firm. The total sales were: Listed, 56,000; unlisted, 58,000; including Chicago Gas, 18,000, and American Sugar, 55,000.

After a strong opening wheat in Chicago declined on crop reports and lower cables, closing ½c lower. Corn was firm, closing ⅜ to ½c higher. Oats advanced ½c on unfavorable reports of the growing crop. Receipts—Wheat, 6 cars; corn, 91 cars; oats, 4 cars. Hogs, 11,000. Wheat and corn to Buffalo one per cent. per bushel.

Corns! Corns! Corns!

Discovered at last—a remedy that is sure, safe, and painless. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor never fails, never causes pain, nor even the slightest discomfort. Buy Putnam's Corn Extractor, and beware of the many cheap, dangerous, flesh-eating substitutes in the market. See that it is made by Polson & Co., Kingston.

TARTE MAKES CHARGES

Against Three Judges of the Judiciary of Quebec Province.

INVESTIGATION TO BE MADE

Mr. Tarte Offers No Resolution, But Leaves the Matter to the Government—Mr. Foster Introduces a Bill Respecting the Atlantic Fast Line.

OTTAWA, July 13.—Mr. Tarte yesterday afternoon made his long-expected charges against the judiciary of the Province of Quebec. He declared that for the past twenty years there had been a veritable regime of terror in Quebec on account of the judges having been chosen exclusively from one political party. His charges were against Judges Bosse, Ouimet and Tellier. Judge Bosse he accused of partisanship, particularly in connection with the McGreevy litigation. Judge Ouimet he charged did not reside in Sorel, as the judge of the District of Richelieu was by statute required to do. Moreover, though living in Montreal, he had charged the Government for travelling fees when he held court in the District of Montreal. Judge Tellier he charged with partizanship in forcing litigants to insert their legal advertisements in certain Conservative newspapers, to the detriment of Liberal papers.

Mr. Tarte proposed no resolution, but left the case in the hands of the Government.

Sir John Thompson complained of the vagueness of Mr. Tarte's charges, but asked the House to let him reserve his decision as to parliamentary investigation for a short time. He promises an investigation into the charges of illegal collection of travelling expenses by Judge Ouimet.

No Election This Year.

The Government has decided not to push through this session the bill amending the Franchise Act. This is an indication that there will be no general election in the near future.

The French treaty passed the House of Commons yesterday.

Mr. Foster has introduced a bill founded on the Atlantic fast line resolution.

Clarke Wallace to Sail for England.

Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, Controller of Customs, sails to-morrow on the Sardinian for England. He goes to attend the triennual meeting of the Grand Orange Council, which will be held this year in London. The meeting will be held under the presidency of the Earl of Erin. It is expected that there will be delegates present from all parts of the British empire.

Banquet to Aberdeen in Halifax.

Lord Aberdeen has accepted an invitation to be present at a banquet to be given in his honor by the three national societies of Halifax. The banquet will be given about August 8. His Excellency will arrive there July 28.

Farmers' Picnics.

Arrangements are now being made for holding picnics at various points at which farmers will be present and will be addressed by Lord Aberdeen. Hon. W. D. Hoard, ex-Governor of Wisconsin, a well-known authority on agriculture, has been invited by Prof. Robertson, of the Experimental Farm, to accompany the party and to deliver addresses.

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please, I am have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose to pay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

A Tea Ad.

"Have you ever tried Osh-Kosh Tea?" asked one lady of another. "It is the best 40c. tea sold, and I notice that Stroud is selling it for the balance of this month at twenth eight cents a pound; and what is more, they give you four pounds for one dollar." Only 25 cents for a pound of 40c. tea. Their Peterborough store is 370 George street.

Tolls the Knell of Parting Day.

Lakefield has at last procured a curfew bell, and on Monday evening, July 16th, it will ring out a warning to the youth of Lakefield, under the age of 15 years, to hie to their homes. Instead of purchasing a bell for the purpose, the council obtained permission from the Dickson Company to use the bell on the saw mill, for the purpose. The bell will be rung at the following hours: At seven o'clock during the months of November, December, January and February; at 8 o'clock during March, April, May and October; at 9 o'clock during June, July, August and September. The bell will also be rung each week day and Sunday evenings.

Out of the Old House Into the New.

The landlord has promised fresh decorations and the new tenant is told to choose such wall paper as pleases him best. Why then should he not lay the foundation for at least one year of happiness by securing decorations that will impart an air of cheer and comfort. We are in excellent shape to furnish just such decorations, preserving perfect harmony between them and the carpets, furniture and draperies, and introducing original features in wall papers that will make the rented house seem something more than a mere temporary abode. A. H. STRATAON & Co., Peterborough Bookstore.

Death of Joseph Milligan.

Mr. Joseph Milligan, an old and respected resident of Ashburnham, died at his residence, Elizabeth street, last evening after a lingering illness of some months, at the age of 62 years. The deceased was for a number of years in the employ of the Dickson Company, and was a hard working and industrious man. About four months ago he was attacked with inflammation, which gradually developed into a complication of other diseases, and despite the best medical attendance he grew worse, and quietly passed away at 12 o'clock last night. He leaves behind him a wife and five children—three sons and two daughters. The funeral will take place on Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to Little Lake Cemetery.

To destroy worms and expel them from children and adults use Dr. Low's Worm Syrup.

A Doctor's View.

One of the most noted physicians of modern times says:—"When the system is surcharged with bile and the liver needs a powerful stimulus to excite it to duty, then it is that we use powerful cathartics to obtain the necessary relief, often attended, however, with prostrating effects," and he might also add, "often causing by their re-action worse constipation and biliousness than before." Now this is not the case with Eseljay's Liver Lozenges. They do not prostrate nor re-act. They act gently yet powerfully. Those troubled with chronic constipation or a bilious habit that has lasted for years must continue their use for some time; but they do their work and permanently cure those thus afflicted.

SPRIGHTLY SUMMER SPORTS.

On the Lacrosse Field, the Crease and the Diamond—Triple A. Topics—The Bicycle and Football.

LACROSSE.

We clip the following from the Millbrook Reporter:—"The respective staffs of the EXAMINER and Review, Peterborough, crossed sticks in a lacrosse match on Saturday evening last, the like of which, says the EXAM., was never seen in the heavens above or the earth beneath, while the Review jubilantly remarks, 'the other fellows were not in it, although they tried the sneak act to perfection.' The Review scored by one to nothing. It seems to be a toss-up between the two estimable journals, both of which we are always glad to greet, which takes the cake in running over the result of the match. We think, however, if the looser's will EXAMINER Gould and Stratt-on up a bit, at the next Review they may be able to Heap less injury and Dobb-on the paint of defeat sure. They are Bent-on victory. We would indeed have pawned our old office T. D. to have seen this original game."

In its report of the lacrosse match at Millbrook between the Granites, of Peterborough, and a team of that village, the Reporter says: "A very friendly and well-played game was put up. One who was on the grounds informs us that the more scientific lacrosse."

Here is a chance for the membeas of the Review lacrosse club, who have been doing considerable crowing over their late victory. The Granites, a junior lacrosse team, challenges the Review to play a friendly match on the P.A.A.A. grounds at a date to be arranged between the two clubs. The Granites wish it understood that none but legitimate employees of the Review office will be allowed to play, and would like to hear from the manager of that team as soon as possible.

Millbrook will likely play the return match with the Granites on the P.A.A.A. grounds some day next week.

Mr. T. Lannin, secretary of the Granite lacrosse club, issues a challenge to any junior team in town under the average age of fifteen years, to play for the junior championship of the town. This challenge is also extended to any junior team in the Midland district of that age. The Granites are desirous of proving that they are not only the best junior team in Peterborough, but also in the Midland district, and any junior team wishing to wrest that honour from them will please communicate with Mr. T. Lannin, Peterborough.

Norwood Lacrosse Club is endeavouring to arrange a match with the Perth club for July 24th.

CRICKET.

The town and bankers' elevens will play a scratch cricket match on the P. A. A. A. grounds to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock. The following are the teams:—Bankers' eleven: R. Leefe, Capt., W. J. Montgomery, Richie, Thompson, Crane, A. St. A. Smith, Billett, Vernon McGill, H. J. Shireff, H. Wonham, Houldsworth (pro.) Town eleven: Sam Ray, Capt., G. Horkins, C. Halliday, P. Goldsmith, D. Rogers, W. Stocker, L. Dunsford, H. Burnham, T. Adams, E. Rogers, C. Dumble.

An eleven of the Peterborough cricket club will go to Cobourg next week to play a team of that town. Arrangements have also been made with Toronto for a game here July 20th, and also with East Toronto on the home grounds on the 27th. Peterborough will play two days in Toronto, on the 1st and second of August, playing the return matches with the above named clubs. The Secretary has written to Campbellford, Belleville and other places, endeavouring to arrange matches with the clubs of those towns. If the members of the home club would only show that practical interest in the game by turning out to practice, cricket would boom in town as it did in years past. The club's pro., Mr. Houldsworth, is a first-class, all-round cricketer from Nottingham, Eng., and under his coaching the players are showing marked improvement, not only in the handling of the bat but also in the field.

BASEBALL.

Port Hope baseballists will probably play the local club here to-morrow afternoon.

The Maroons, of Toronto, leaders in the Toronto Amateur League, will play Peterborough on July 21st.

Oshawa and Port Hope will play ball on Monday, July 16th.

Bert Pearse, the star second baseman of the Cobourgs, has been forced to retire from the diamond on account of an attack of rheumatism. This will be a severe loss to the team.

GUN CLUB.

The gun club held their regular weekly shoot yesterday afternoon, on Riverside Park, in a fifteen bird match. Following is the score:—

QUOITS.

Some evil disposed individual carried off two pair of quiots from St. Joseph's Hospital grounds, the evening of the garden party, belonging to Mr. G. H. Giroux. As the culprit is known, it would be advisable for him to return them at once and thus avoid future trouble.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL OUTING

A Pleasant Day Spent by Pupils and Friends at Idyl Wild.

The Sunday school of the Murray street Baptist church and Park street Mission held a very successful excursion to Idyl Wild yesterday, which was attended by a large number of pupils and their friends. Although the weather in the morning was not very bright, Sol made his appearance in the early part of the forenoon and put the excursionists in the best of spirits. The trip down the river was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and Idyl Wild was reached in good time. After dinner had been partaken of the excursionists enjoyed themselves by fishing, boating and many other amusements. A programme of sports was ran off in which the children participated, prizes being offered for each event. A tug of war also took place between the married and single men, in which the former were victorious. The trip home was made in good time, the excursionists arriving at the wharf a few minutes after nine o'clock. Capt. Ada and crew were very obliging and courteous to the passengers on board, and did all in their power to add to the success and enjoyment of the occasion.

THE PETERBOROUGH POST OFFICE.

Owing to the narrow gauge view of the post office matter taken by our evening contemporary, the Review, the EXAMINER finds it necessary to advert again to the subject. The EXAMINER did not as the Review charges, seek to make political capital out of the matter. We discharged what we considered a duty to the public in the most dispassionate manner possible; in fact in our estimate of the figures when an estimate was all that could be made, we kept far under the mark, estimating the receipts from the rental of post office boxes at $1000, when, as has since been learned, $2000 would have been nearer the mark. Of course we placed the responsibility of the matter upon the government, (which should, if its duty had been done, know all the circumstances) as the only body which has the power to deal with and remedy a state of things that calls loudly for an amendment. We observe that the Review cannot avoid agreeing with the course we took, which, considering its relation to the government is an emphatic endorsation. Our contemporary admits that the condition of things in the local post office is an "isolated case in the Dominion offices," which is so much less excuse for the government's culpable inaction in dealing with an "isolated case." The EXAMINER has aimed to deal with the matter as moderately as was consistent with calling attention to the facts of the case, though we have reason to know that in the present state of public sentiment, a severe and scathing line of denunciation would not have been objected to.

THE TWELFTH OF JULY AT LINDSAY AND NORWOOD.

A Gala Day at Scugog City—Thousands of Orangemen Present—A Monster Demonstration.

Lindsay was en fete yesterday, the occasion being the 204th celebration of the Battle of the Boyne, in that town, by the Orangemen of the Midland district. It is estimated that over fifteen thousand people assembled in Lindsay and the demonstration was the most successful ever held in this district. Every train and boat brought in large contingents from all quarters, and the hotels and other public houses of the town were unable to accomodate them.

The Orangemen and citizens, of Lnidsay, spared no pains in the line of decorations, a number of beautiful arches being erected at different points on Kent street, not to mention the display of flags and bunting from the stores and residences of the merchants and citizens. In the market building as many as seven hundred crowded at one time for dinner.

The procession started about noon and was the largest ever seen in the memory of the oldest Orangemen in this district, over 9,000 men being in the parade, which was three miles and a half long, and it took one hour and a half to pass a given point.

The Orangemen of Peterborough and district carried off the palm for their fine appearance, steady marching and neat uniforms. The Peterborough Fire Brigade Band, which accompanied them had the honour of leading the procession and was the finest band in Lindsay that day.

After dinner the ten acres of Agricultural Park was literally covered with a moving mass of humanity. A huge platform had been erected for the prominent speakers. Mayor Sam Hughes, M.P., occupied the chair, and speeches were delivered by the following prominent members of the order: Chas. Fairbairn, M.P., Past County Master; J. H. Delamere, Past Grand Master, Ontario East; Rev. M. L. Pearson, of Brampton; Wm. Johnston, Belleville, P.G.M., Ontario East, and Robt. Weir, Peterborough, Grand Master Royal Black Knights of Ireland, Chapter of British America.

The Peterborough Orangemen reached home between seven and eight o'clock, and immediately formed in procession and escorted the Lakefield brethren to the Ashburnham station, after which they marched back to their respective lodge rooms and dispersed.

One of the most pleasing features of the demonstration were the entire absence of a disturbance of any kind, and hardly a single person could be noticed on the streets under the influence of liquor.

An effort will be made to have the Orangemen of the district celebrate the 12th of July in Peterborough next year and if those who are directly benefitted by such demonstrations will assist the local lodges, the next 12th of July will see the largest gathering of Orangemen ever assembled together in any place in the Midland district.

EAST PETERBOROUGH ORANGEMEN CELEBRATE.

Norwood, July 12.—The 12th of July was celebrated here to-day under the auspices of the local Orangemen. The following lodges had well filled ranks in the procession, which paraded the principal streets in the afternoon:—Norwood L.O.L., No. 34, Richard Ennis, W.M.; Enniskillen L.O.L., No. 522, Stewart W. Scott, W.M.; Warsaw L.O.L., No. 284, Fred Calder, W.M.; North Dummer L.O.L., No. 281, Wm. Battan, W.M.; Belmont L.O.L., No. 277, James Burgess, W.M.; Havelock L.O.L., No. 326, E. Williams, W.M.; Harrows L.O.L., No. 1,369, Fred Brown, W.M. The procession filed up in Grover's Woods and the large crowd assembled there was addressed by Rev. S. Anderson, Weaver of Norwood Dr. McLelland of Havelock, McGinnis of Hastings and Hyde of Warsaw. Geo. Robinson of Norwood was the only layman to address the gathering, which was kept in good order under the efficient chairmanship of A. R. Anderson of Norwood. One of the peculiar features of the speaking was the praise bestowed upon the men who took part in the American war of independence, claiming most of them as Orangemen, though in the next breath the speakers, Messrs. McLelland and Hyde, urged Orangemen to be loyal. They did not explain how the rebels of 1776 were loyal or why they deserved their praise.

TRIED IN THE FURNACE.

Evidence of Corruption Contributions Destroyed—The Bridge Scandal—The Government Profited by the Stealing.

(Montreal Star.)

Mr. Emmanuel St. Louis is one of Canada's moft modest as well as most influential sons. He is one of those patriots who serve their country by stealth, "and blush to find it fame." He has actually had to burn his account books in order to conceal the amount and the details (especially the details) of his subscriptions to the Cynservative party during the last twenty-five years. The books being burnt, and Mr. St. Louis' memory for such benevolences being bad, the whole truth about the money he had squeezed out of the country in order to help his friends in Parliament may never be known; but enough is known to convince the public that, whatever faults Mr. St. Louis may have, he is not ungrateful to the public men who have secured him such profitable public contracts. His gratitude is shown not only by his subscriptions, but by his thoughtfulness in using the books to light the furnace fire. If those books had had not been fired, possibly some of Mr. St. Louis' political friends might have been "fired." But we doubt the practicability of burying the Curran Bridge scandal forever under the ashes of Mr. St. Louis' furnace. The shame and the will cling to the skirts of the Government until the guilt is brought right home to the men who directly profited by the stuffed pay rolls and other extortions of the bridge contract. The government has not realized this or it would never have obstructed the examination of witnesses on oath by the Public Accounts Committee and the case would not be dragging along during the last days of the session. Mr. St. Louis' character as a public contractor and a political boss was well-known before he got the bridge contract. His methods were notorious. The government knew the kind of a man it was dealing with, and directly or indirectly the government profited by the huge job perpetrated in connection with the contract. Do the Ministers imagine that Canadians will forever be content to be bribed with their own money? If the Conservative party can only live by such means it is time for decent men to wash their hands of the party.

ONTARIO OPPOSITION.

ITS LEADER IS AN ABLE AND DISTINGUISHED LAWYER.

Interesting Sketch of William Ralph Meredith, Q.C., M.P.P.—Of Irish Extraction He is a Native of Middlesex, Ont.—His Rise to One of the Finest Places His Profession Affords.

The able and distinguished leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition in the Legislative Assembly of Ontario, the Hon. William Ralph Meredith, Q.C., M.P.P., has for many years popularly been said to be "the handsomest man in the House." This was even more pronounced by the verdict of visitors to the various galleries in the days when the Provincial Parliament was housed in the historic old barracks on Front street, Toronto, than now, when it has for its home the splendid and substantial structure in the Queen's park. Not that Mr. Meredith is yet by any means a picturesque ruin in personality, but the inevitable changes of time have brought into the membership of the Legislature younger men who may be claimed to dispute with him in this regard the conceded supremacy he enjoyed in former parliaments.

He was found seated at his desk in the comfortable office which the Government thoughtfully provided for the convenience of the Opposition leader in planning the new parliament buildings.

Mr. Meredith's office is at the extreme southerly end of the Opposition lobby and is the south-west corner room on the second floor of the main building which is devoted to the grand chamber of the Legislature. It exactly corresponds in size and very much in furnishings to the Speaker's office, off the Government lobby. There, during the session, was to be found Mr. Scott Griffin, the affable young man who acts as private secretary for Mr. Meredith. It was in enquiring of the Government, while the estimates were before the House one afternoon, about Mr. Griffin's allowance as it appeared in the public accounts, that Mr. Sol White, the member for North Essex, ingenuously perpetrated the best joke of the Session.

Mr. Meredith was born in Westminster township, Middlesex county, March 31, 1840, his parents being John Cooke Meredith and his wife Sarah, whose maiden name was Pegler. Mr. Meredith, sr., was a native of Dublin, Ireland, where he received his education, graduating in arts at Trinity College. Thence proceeding to London, England, he entered upon the study of the law, but, after a time abandoning that profession came to Canada to seek his fortune. Finally, settling in Westminster, where he secured a grant of land, he took to farming. Shortly thereafter he met and married Miss Pegler and the result of their union was a family of twelve children, eight sons and four daughters, all of whom are still living, the subject of this sketch being the eldest of the sons.

Receiving his primary education in the institutions of his native township, the youth, who has since won such high distinction in the province, was sent to the London grammar school, where he remained for some years under the late Rev. Benjamin Bayley. Leaving school, he commenced the study of law in the office of the late Thomas Scatcherd, of London, a gentleman well-known not only professionally but as a prominent politician, he having sat in the old parliament of Canada for a number of years prior to confederation as well as at a later date in the Dominion House of Commons.

From the outset young Meredith was an enthusiastic, hard-working student and before long those who watched his career saw that he had a brilliant future before him.

Entering Toronto University in 1859 he distinguished himself by carrying off a scholarship in law at his matriculation examination. During the remainder of his university course he made rapid progress and in 1861 was called to the bar.

Returning to London he once more entered the office of Mr. Scatcherd, this time however as a partner and the connection thus formed was maintained until the death of the latter gentleman in 1876. Mr. Meredith in the meantime had climbed to a leading position in his profession and the death of his partner but gave additional scope for the development of his talents—his practice grew steadily and became more remunerative. The thorough care he bestowed to cases entrusted to him no doubt contributed to the success he achieved. To this has to be added the fact that he possesses fine natural abilities as shown by his practice in both the civil and criminal courts, that he is an eloquent and powerful pleader and withal a man of singularly honorable record.

Hence it is that Mr. Meredith has attained high rank as one of the foremost legal practitioners in Ontario. Indeed, his appointment lately as city solicitor of Toronto, with the salary of $13,500, is fair proof of his recognized ability and character.

He first became identified with Toronto when, in November, 1888, on the death of W. G. Foster, Q.C., of the firm of Foster, Clarke & Bowes, Mr. Meredith came to the provincial capital to assume the premier position in the firm of Meredith, Clarke, Bowes and Hilton, with which firm he is still connected.

As an evidence of his popularity among fellow professionals there is strong testimony in the fact that he has been a bencher of the Law Society ever since the elective system was inaugurated in 1870.

In March 1876 he was appointed a Queen's Counsel by the Ontario Government and in October, 1880, he received a like honor from the Dominion Government.

The degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by the University of Toronto in May, 1889.

In municipal law he is an acknowledged authority and the Ontario Government recognizing his attainments in this branch of the profession appointed him honorary lecturer of the law faculty of the University of Toronto.

Mr. Meredith has long been looked upon as one who will surely attain to a high position in the Canadian judiciary but hitherto he has declined all overtures in that direction.

In 1872, on the abolition of dual representation, Hon. John Carling, who had represented London both in the House of Commons and the Assembly, elected to sit for the former.

Mr. Meredith was chosen to succeed him in the latter and at every general election since he has been re-elected.

In 1878, on the elevation to the bench of the late Sir Matthew Crooks Cameron, he was unanimously chosen as that gentleman's successor in the leadership of the Conservatives in the Legislature, a post which his popularity among his supporters and his thorough knowledge of political affairs have enabled him to fill with great acceptance to his followers and to the advantage of the country generally.

In the House Mr. Meredith is distinguished for his fine keenness and brilliancy in debate as well as for his fine presence.

Personally he is a modest and unassuming gentleman whom it is a pleasure to meet.

Since taking up his residence in Toronto several years ago, Mr. Meredith has built a beautiful home on Lamport avenue in Rosedale. He married Mary, daughter Marcus J. Holmes, Esq., of London, in 1862, by whom he has had four children, three of whom are living.

FAVORING CREMATION.

STRONG VIEWS BY EMINENT WRITERS, PHYSICIANS AND DIVINES.

Popularity of Incineration—Evidences of a Great Change in Public Opinion Both in and Out of the Church—Methods of the Ancients.

The question of what disposition to make of the dead is one that all peoples have had to answer, and the answer has varied with the different times and civilizations. Among the ancients and until the establishment of Christianity cremation was the general practice, though there were some notable exceptions.

The Egyptians embalmed, and their dead have been preserved to this day for the delight of the archaeologist, the decorating of our museums and for use (as fuel) by the modern Arabs. The Chinese bury in the earth, and in ancient Judea interments were made in sepulchres, though in times of plagues the Hebrews burned their dead, as in the vale of Tophet.

In Greece and Rome cremation was the custom. In fact, in Greece it was a mark of ignominy for a body not to be burned. Burial was the disgracing fate of the suicide.

At the beginning of the Christian era, at the time of the revival of the ancient doctrine of the resurrection of the original body, a change set in, and the custom of burial of the dead became almost universal. The good old fathers did not realize the scientific fact that the result to the body from burial or cremation was the same, and that the only difference was in time. In either event the result is decomposition, only one requires minutes, while the other may occupy years.

The great change after all was only one of method. The ancients wrapped the dead form in a pall, laid it on a funeral pyre, and the friends stood by and saw it burned in a few minutes, while the moderns encase the body in a coffin, stand by until it is hid in the earth and then leave it to slow decomposition.

For many years there had been an effort made to return to the old way of disposing of the dead, but not until 1881 was there the beginning of a radical change in public opinion on this subject. Since then the plan of cremation has grown rapidly in favor, and notably so among the leading, the thinking and educated classes.

So far as I can influence the matter I shall be cremated myself at the proper time.—WILLIAM A. HAMMOND.

Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, son of Dr. Hammond, who has received his father's New York mantle since the removal of the elder to Washington, also expresses himself as favoring cremation, on the ground of it being not only rational and appropriate, but being the better hygiene.

Believing thoroughly in a life to come, I have not the slightest notion of that higher life being conditioned in any possible way by the way in which we get into it. Nothing but the stupid prejudice of a blind orthodoxy could allow any notion of this kind to have weight. In as far as it does have weight it ought to be exposed and ridiculed. I have for years had the intensest horror of thinking of any one dear to me undergoing the noxious process of decomposition, as we have made sure that it shall be made noxious by our whole mode of interment. I want those I love to pass from this life to a higher life without any such abhorrent decomposition of the form once dear to me. On every hand cremation has commended itself to my judgment, and I am sure that it is destined to prevail in the future. I expect to be disposed of thus myself, and do not know of any expression of opinion which I could offer that would have any more weight than this.—R. HEBER NEWTON.

The Right Rev. William Stevens Perry, Bishop of Iowa, recently, when I was in his company at a funeral, said: It is too bad that we cannot at once return to the better way of incineration.

I am a cremationist because earth burial poisons earth, air and water, and consequently breeds disease among the living. Much of what is called malaria is nothing more nor less than the result of cemetery gases generated in the vicinity. Many a New England town is now subject to zymotic diseases, because the inhabitants are drinking up their ancestors' remains in the sparkling well water, which is considered healthy merely because it is clear.

This is no indication whatever of purity. Cremation is not only the healthiest and cleanest, but the most poetical way of disposing of the dead. Whoever prefers loathsome worms to ashes possesses a strange imagination.—KATE FIELD.

I have the purpose to help forward progressive movements, even in my latest hours, and hence hereby decree that the earthly mantle which I shall drop ere long when my real self passes onward into the world unseen, shall be swiftly unfolded in flames and rendered powerless harmfully to affect the health of the living. Let no friend of mine say aught to prevent the cremation of my cast-off body. The fact that the popular mind has not come to this decision renders it all the more my duty, who have seen the light, to stand for it in death, as I have sincerely meant in life to stand by the great cause of the poor, oppressed humanity. There must be explorers along pathways, scouts in all armies. This has been my "call" from the beginning, both by nature and by nurture; let me be true to its inspiring and cheery mandate even unto the last.—FRANCES E. WILLARD.

It is my judgment that cremation is the most rational and appropriate manner of disposing of the dead.—CHARLES A. DANA.

Among the recently departed ones who were outspoken in favor of cremation were Phillips Brooks, George William Curtis and Professor Joseph Leidy, though the latter was the only one of the three incinerated. This was done at his request.

The modern cremation is a very different affair from the old plan, when the body was placed on the funeral pyre. The old was a veritable cremation, while the new is an incineration. Now, not the fire but only the heat comes in contact with the body. After the burial service the coffin is taken to the cremation room and placed on the catafalque, which is held by a light sliding traveler, resting on the top of a carriage that runs on rails leading to the retort.

It is covered by a cloth saturated in a solution of alum to prevent burning while being placed in the retort. The retort having been previously heated, its door is opened, the carriage with the body moved quietly inside, the carriage withdrawn and the door closed. About three hours are allowed to elapse, when the door is again opened. The coffin is reduced to charcoal. A few white ashes are all that remain of the body, and these are placed in a temporary receptacle and disposed of as determined by the relatives of the deceased.

The ashes are frequently deposited in urns prepared for the purpose and left in a room provided at the crematory, or in a vault elsewhere. Sometimes the ashes are buried, and occasionally disposed of in some eccentric manner, as were those of the man whose ashes were, according to his wish, scattered to the winds from the top of the Statue of Liberty.

In 1885, when the cemetery at Fresh Pond, L. I., was put in operation the matter attracted much attention and comment, but now a cremation awakens but little more attention than an interment. Such has been the growth of popular opinion in favor of the sudden disposition of the dead by heat that there are now in the country eighteen incorporated cremation societies, and during the past ten years about three thousand cremations have taken place.—New York Herald.

ITCHING PILES AND PIN WORMS.

No More Misery.

Gives Instant Relief.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—bloody and turned form, spreading moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause than Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

BUSY SPRING.

Such a flurry, such a scurry,
Such a hurry in the trees;
Such a whirling and a stirring,
Birds as brisk as busy bees;
Nests are building, 'tis important,
If you please!

Such a tripping, such a skipping,
Such a slipping o'er the stones;
Such a flashing and a dashing,
Such a melody of tones;
Brooks are hasting to the ocean,
Where it moans.

So much learning, so much earning,
So much tracing note and bound;
So much telling, counting, spelling,
Till the dizzy head turns round;
Patience, child, it is important;
So is knowledge found.

Robbed a Hotel of $1,000.

OWEN SOUND, June 8.—A daring robbery has been committed at the Queen's hotel. Someone entered the room in which the safe was kept, turned down the light and took $870 in cash and over $200 in notes and escaped through a window. Mr. McCutcheon, the proprietor, says this will be a serious loss to him as he has recently taken possession of the premises. There is not the slightest clue as to the guilty one.

The Patent Medicine Habit.

"The cologne habit is rather common, especially among women, the Jamaica ginger habit is heard from occasionally, and cases of even the vinegar habit are reported once in a awhile. But I can tell you of one that is more absurd, and yet much more common." The speaker was a Buffalo druggist.

"What is it?"

"It's the patent medicine habit. Men have it a little oftener than woman, and one rarely recovers from it, so far as my observation goes. Try one kind of patent medicine and that's all right. Try another kind and maybe that's all right. Try a third and you're a goner. In all my experience of many years I never knew of a person who had tried three different patent remedies, one right after the other, who had not by that time become a confirmed patent medicine fiend, given to reading newspaper advertisements in search of new remedies and diseases to fit them. In time the habit wipes out its victim, same as morphine or drink would. It is a fact, though—I speak as a friend and not as a druggist—that a few of the patent medicines really contain valuable ingredients and effect wonderful cures. They are carefully prepared on a scientific basis, but most of them are frauds, containing cheap, harmless, useless drugs, and sold at high prices. But people insist on buying them, and we have to sell them. What is more, some insist on being cured by them, whereas they wouldn't be helped a bit if they knew what the medicine was made of. That's patent faith cure."—Buffalo Express.

A Princess' Accomplishment.

The Princess of Wales has one accomplishment which has commended her warmly to her royal father. He says with pride that she can concoct a more tempting Welsh rarebit than any other woman in England. She is an excellent housekeeper and her mother's right hand in such household management as falls to the lot of Her Royal Highness.

Baker to the Queen.

There is at Perth, in Scotland, an old woman who might use the sign "Baker to the Queen" in a much more literal sense than those dignified words usually have. She can make shortbread to Her Majesty's liking, and no one else can. Consequently, 365 days in the year she makes, bakes, packs and sends to the Queen a loaf of that dainty.

Boarding-House Item.

"Did you notice how our new boarder is always looking lovingly at me at the dinner table," said the landlady's daughter to her mother.

"Yes; I noticed how he winks at you when you are cutting the pie. He is hinting for a big piece.

A Suitable Epitaph.

It is related that a chronic office-seeker died a few years ago, and his friends asked a well-known journalist for an epitaph for his tombstone. The journalist suggested the following, which was not, however, adopted: "Here lies John Jones in the only place for which he never applied!"

THE LANGLEY CASE.

Lansing People Hear of his Illness and Subsequent Cure While in London, Ont.—Much Pleasure Manifested over the News.

LANSING, Mich., July 2.—A friend of William Langley, formerly of this city, now of London, Ont., received a letter a few months ago, stating that Mr. Langley had Bright's disease. Of course no hope of his recovery could be held out. Within a month, the same friend has received a letter from Mr. Langley stating that he is completely cured of the supposed fatal disorder. Mr. Langley says no medicine did him any good until he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. These helped him from the first and in the end restored him to perfect health.

For Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum Cramps, Colic, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, and Summer Complaint. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is a prompt, safe and sure cure that has been a popular favorite for over 40 years.

Nothing Impossible.

Just now a mite of money is worth a mountain of stock.

Just now, nothing seems impossible in the line of economy. But the TRUTH about low values is hard to comprehend. Anything less than ALL the facts concerning OUR goods and their present values would be unjust to the public.

You cannot always buy so many kinds of goods at and below cost as we offer you now. Your best economy is to invest your money in wisely selected goods at present prices at this store. Listen:

DRESS GOODS
AT COST.

Just to liven things up these hot days we offer all our Summer Dress Goods at about cost. This will help to clear out our stock and save carrying anything over to another season.

WASH GOODS
AT COST.

Chambrays, Krinkles and Muslins all at cost. This is the chance of the season as the stock is all right and well bought.

PARASOLS
AT COST.

Not a fraction of a fib, fabrication or falsehood gets into our store talk. Truth is the best salesman. Parasols at cost just means what it says.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY
AT HALF PRICE.

That's a sweeping reduction. Surely cost plays no part in this case. Half price takes everything we have in Trimmed Millinery.

MANTLES AND CAPES

At interesting figures.

DELAINES
AT ABOUT COST.

We can accommodate these beautiful goods to those who come for them. Their bargain story has new life to-day.

BLOUSES, SHIRT WAISTS

FIRE IN A SUMMER HOTEL.

The Guests Escape With Their Lives—An Ontario Lady's Heavy Loss.

MONTREAL, July 13.—While fifty or sixty guests were soundly sleeping in the Albert Springs hotel, Missisquoi bay, fire broke out in the building. As the hotel was a wooden structure it flamed up, and there being no appliances to fight it, it soon spread over the house devouring everything in its path. Every guest escaped with life, but not a few are mourning other losses.

There was an Ontario lady who, though escaping safe and sound, is bitterly lamenting the loss of her diamonds, which were valued at several thousand dollars. She had them sewn in her corsets and she had the corsets under her pillow, but in the excitement of fire it was life and not diamonds which seems to have been of prime moment, and the latter were lost.

When the fire broke out the landlord at once had four barrels of coal oil removed from the cellar to the open field, and this alone prevented a holocaust. All the furniture and fittings, except the safe, was destroyed.

BRITANNIA'S SIXTH VICTORY.

The Vigilant Beaten in the Final of the Clyde Regattas.

ROTHESAY, July 13.—The last of the Clyde regattas was sailed yesterday over the quadrangular course of the Royal Northern Yacht Club, where the Vigilant was badly worsted on Wednesday, largely on account of baffling winds and calms. The length of the cruise is about 50 miles. The race closed the Clyde regattas, leaving the Vigilant with a record of six consecutive defeats. Although the American yacht had a better chance to win in the strong wind than she has had in any race in which she has contested since her arrival on this side, it was plainly evident that she was not in trim and in fact not by any means the boat she was last year when she beat the Valkyrie in American waters. Official time of finish: Britannia, 4.00.20; Vigilant, 4.02.20.

The Earthquake in Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 13. — Though there were slight manifestations of earthquake throughout the night the city has resumed something like its normal aspect, the shops opening and the inhabitants returning to their homes. The ruins of the Bazaar have been cleared away and several dead bodies and a number of injured persons were found buried beneath the debris. The latest official estimate of the killed places the number at 120, but as the Seismic disturbances extended over a vast area it is believed that the death roll will be largely increased.

Scotch Strikers Become Riotous.

GLASGOW, July 13.—The striking miners at Blantyre, eight miles from this city, have become riotous. The local authorities, being unable to check the disorder, have appealed to the Glasgow police for assistance.

Destructive Fires in Hamilton.

HAMILTON, July 13.—Yesterday a fire broke out in the fine stone residence of Mr. Charles E. Newberry, corner of Robert and Mary streets. The house was badly damaged and a big portion of the furniture was destroyed. The loss will probably exceed $8,000, on which there is some insurance. The wind carried burning brands of wood to adjacent dwellings. A couple of two story brick dwellings on Mary street were considerably damaged and three small frame dwellings on Elgin street were almost totally destroyed.

Lincoln Paper Mills Destroyed.

MERRITTON, Ont., July 13.—The Lincoln Paper Mills at Merritton were struck by lightning and damage to the extent of $47,000 was done. The stock room, printing and bagging departments, with several small buildings, were destroyed and much valuable machinery was injured. The steamer from St. Catharines was called into action. The loss is covered by insurance in the Hartford and six other companies. It will be at least three months before the mills will be in full operation again.

Killed by a Fall From a Bicycle.

HALIFAX, July 13.—Charles Donovan, 15-year old son of W. H. Donovan, proprietor of the Halifax Mineral Works, died yesterday as the result of a bicycle accident. The deceased, while going at a rapid rate, was thrown violently from his wheel. The toe of one of his boots caught in the wire spokes and he was thrown head-first over the forward wheel, his stomach being seriously hurt by striking the handle-bar. He was fatally injured internally.

Fatal Accident at Paris.

PARIS, Ont., July 13.—A young man named James Crawford, a carpenter, while cutting logs with a steam sawing machine, met with a terrible accident, which resulted in instant death. It appears he was placing a plank on the table which feeds the saw and was caught by the belt and hurled across the saw, which severed his head from his body, at the same time cutting one of his legs and arms off. He leaves a wife and four children.

Dastardly Attempt at Incendiarism.

MONTREAL, July 13.—A dastardly attempt to fire a dwelling house while the inmates were asleep was discovered by the firemen at Bourgeois street. On reaching the scene the firemen discovered a lot of rags, fibre and cotton waste, saturated in coal oil, tied against the beams of the cellar, burning fiercely. The fire was soon got under control with slight damage.

Cotton Mills Close Down.

HAMILTON, July 13. — The Canadian Colored Cotton Company's 300 employes started an eight weeks' enforced idleness to day, notice having been posted in the mills to shut down for that period. When work is resumed on September 10 it will be at a reduction, Manager Dexter alleging that this is necessary owing to business depression and overstocked markets.

She reports that from January 29 to February 3 she experienced a hurricane which threw her on her beam end, smashed her boats, flooding her cabins, partly flooding her main hold and otherwise damaging her.

The Estate Duties Confirmed.

LONDON, July 13.—The House of Commons has passed and confirmed the committee report of Sir William Vernon Harcourt's compromise regarding the estate duty upon colonial property. Sir William Vernon Harcourt maintains, despite the further colonial protest, that he has dealt generously in deducting the colonial duty from the amount of taxes payable here.

Wright Wins at Bedford.

LONDON, July 13.—It was easy rowing for Joe Wright, the Toronto oarsman, at the Bedford regatta yesterday. Of the entries for senior sculls first heat only himself pulled out to the starter. He rowed leisurely over the course and won the heat. The second heat was also an easy victory for the Canadian.

Flint Glass Workers' Association.

MONTREAL, July 13.—Nearly all of yesterday's session of the American Flint Glass Worker's Association was occupied in the consideration of reports from the committees. The reports dealt with matters of considerable interest to the trade, but of very little interest to the public at large.

Young Woman Drowned While Bathing.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 13.—A sad drowning accident occurred opposite the summer resort of Hugh J. McCormickon, resulting in the drowning of Miss Lucy Beer, aged 17, daughter of W. H. Beer. With several companions she was bathing and got beyond her depth.

WILL THE SAFETY BE SUPPLANTED?

A Unicycle Which the Inventor Claims Can Beat All Wheel Records.

A novelty in the cycling line which has been attracting considerable attention is a unicycle most ingeniously contrived to run along by its own momentum after it has been fairly set going by the usual pedalling method. A forward inclination of the rider's body keeps the wheel revolving, and it is said it can be easily stopped by leaning backward. The same simple law of gravitation causes it to spin unerringly round any curve toward which the rider leans on either side.

The machine has no steering gear and is said to require none beyond the tendency given to its direction by the poise of the rider's body. The motion is generated as in a safety bicycle until the small inner wheels set the outer or traveling wheel spinning. It does the rest and covers so much ground at each revolution as would enable an average rider to compass a mile well under two minutes. The inventor thinks a record of half that time within the possibilities with an expert in the saddle, and is at present engaged on improvements which he claims will obtain universal recognition for the contrivance.

The inventor's brain has been revolving in cycles since he conceived the idea of a bicycle thirty years ago. Some four years ago it occurred to him to electrify the wheel world by introducing a unicycle, and the present machine is the result.

He completed it a year ago and had it tried with satisfactory results at the Syracuse armory. As the wheel now stands it measure six feet in diameter and weighs 185 pounds. It cost all told about $600.

The more modern types which the inventor is preparing to produce will be built on a much lighter scale. In fact, he thinks he can get the weight down to fifty pounds and reduce the cost of output to $200.

The unicycle is not so difficult to mount as appears at a first glance. In fact, the same graceful method which secures a seat on a lady's safety helps the rider to take control and set the pedals going. The seat is a capacious affair, protected by handles on either side, which afford a sure grip when the rider is mounted. A few evenings ago a curious visitor mastered the requisite preliminaries in a few moments and then took a jaunt around the block to the ecstatic surprise of the local small boys. It would be interesting to see what an expert could do around a track.

Bicycle Printing Press.

A patent has been issued in the United States for the most novel attachment yet devised for the wheel since it was invented. The illustration which is herewith presented will enable the reader to understand the principle and satisfy the curiosity that has been aroused by the former article.

As explained by the patentee the purpose of the apparatus is to enable one to print short advertisements on sidewalks and pavements as he rides along on the bicycle. The apparatus consists of a tank or ink fountain, in which is situated a train of wheels that convey ink or paint from the fountain to the tire of the rear wheel of the bicycle.

The fountain is suspended from the frame between the wheels of the bicycle. One of the wheels in the train has letters on its periphery spelling the word or sentence which is to be printed on the walk. By pressing on a handle the type wheel is forced against the bicycle wheel and the latter takes the paint from the type and transfers it to the walk on which the wheel is running. By keeping the type-wheel in contact with the pneumatic tire a continuous line of words can be printed on the path of the wheel. The rider can curve the line at will and print the matter in any shape he can form on the machine.

The letters on the type-wheel are to be made by "setting up" the words in ordinary type of suitable size and taking an impression from them by stereotype process. The matrix so formed can be placed in a circular mould and typemetal poured in it. Or a thin flat casting can be taken from the matrix and attached to the face of the type-wheel, bending it to fit the pneumatic tire. The attachment will weigh but a trifle and is inexpensive. It will work on a snow-covered walk as well as in dry weather, and an advertisement can be put on a wheel by the plan in half an hour. It can be applied to any safety bicycle.

His Religious Status.

Cohen—Have you heard that Rosenblatt has repudiated his conversion to Christianity?

Isaacs—Yes. But I wonder if he still publishes that paper called "The Converted Jew?"

Cohen—Oh, no! He now publishes one called "The Converted Christian."

Pure Cussedness.

Brown—Pick out the cannon you like best.

Little Johnnie—Buy me this one, dad. It has a flaw in it.

Horse Strength and Pavements.

A horse can draw on metal rails one and two-third times as much as on asphalt pavement, three and one-third times as much as on good Belgian blocks, five times as much as on good cobble-stones, twenty times as much as on good earth road and forty times as much as on sand.

An Interesting Garden.

Lady Brooke has a Shakespearean garden at Warwick Castle, containing nearly every flower named in Shakespeare's works.

Egyptian.

THE STRIKE STILL ON

President Debs Denies That it Has Been Declared Off.

NO ARBITRATION COMMISSION

The Commission Appointed by President Cleveland Has No Power Beyond Investigating the Strike—The Proposition Sent to the General Managers.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Eugene V. Debs, who ordered the great railroad strike, made one more ineffectual attempt looking to a settlement yesterday. He drew up a formal proposition to the general managers agreeing to have the men return to work at once provided they be reinstated without prejudice. This proposition was taken to Mayor Hopkins who presented it to Chairman St. John of the General Managers Association. The association was not in session, but after individual members had been consulted it was returned to Mayor Hopkins without answer and with the information that no communication whatever from Debs, Howard and Kolliher conld be received or considered by the managers association.

The refusal of the general managers to consider the proposition was a decided setback to the union. Following it came the result of the two days' deliberation of the labor leaders called by Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor. The leaders of all the big organizations outside of the American Railway Union and the Knights of Labor decided not to involve the men they represent in any local or general strike. They expressed sympathy with the Pullman employes, but declared a strike at this time of general business depression an act of folly.

The Proposition.

Following is the text of the proposition to the railroad managers:

"To the Railway Managers:

"Gentlemen.—The existing troubles growing out of the Pullman strike having assumed continental proportions and there being no indication of relief from the widespread business demoralization and distress incident thereto, the railway employes, through the board of directors of the American Railway Union, respectfully make the following proposition as a basis of settlement:

"They agree to return to work in a body at once provided they shall be restored to their former places without prejudice, except in cases, if any there be, where any have been convicted of crime. This proposition, looking to an immediate settlement of the existing strike on all lines of railways, is inspired by a purpose to subserve the public good. The strike, small and comparatively unimportant in its inception, has extended in every direction until it now involves or threatens not only every public interest, but the peace, security and prosperity of our common country. The contest has waged fiercely. It has extended far beyond the limits of interests originally involved, and has laid hold of a vast number of industries and enterprises in no wise responsible for the differences and disagreements that led to the trouble. Factory, mill, mine and shops have been silenced. Widespread demoralization has sway. The interests of multiplied thousands of innocent people are suffering. The common welfare is seriously menaced. The public peace and tranquility are imperilled. Grave apprehension of the future prevails. This being true, and the statement will not be controverted, we consider it to be our duty as citizens and as men to make extraordinary efforts to end the existing strike and avert approaching calamities whose shadows are even now upon us.

"If ended now, the contest, however serious in its consequences, will not have been in vain. Sacrifices have been made but they will have their compensations. Indeed if lessons shall be taught by experience the troubles now deplored will prove a blessing of incalculable value in the months and years to come. The differences that led up to the present complications need not now be discussed. At this supreme juncture every consideration of duty and patriotism demands that a remedy for existing troubles be found and applied. The employes propose to do their part by meeting their employers half way. Let it be stated that they do not impose any condition of settlement except that they be restored to their former positions. They do not ask the recognition of their organization or of any organization. Believing this proposition to be fair, reasonable and just, it is respectfully submitted with the belief that its acceptance will result in the prombt resumption of traffic, the revival of industry and the restoration of peace and order. Respectfully Eugene V. Debs, president; G. W. Howard, Vice-President; V. Sylvester Kelliher, Secretary American Railway Union."

The Strike Still On.

Early in the day the action of President Cleveland had been hailed by the labor men as a victory for organized workingmen as they claim to have obtained for the first time a recognition of the principle of arbitration by the President of the United States. The strike leaders then looked for a settlement. The failure of their offer to the managers left them only the alternatives of unconditional surrender or a fight to the bitter end. They chose the latter and claim the strike is on as strong as ever in spite of what the railroad managers say. They claim to be able to make it still more effective here and declare that the action of the managers will solidify their men who are out and send out many who have been undecided.

Scores of telegrams were received at the headquarters of the American Railway Union from all the unions and railroad centres in the west asking if the strike had been declared off. To all these telegrams replies were sent disclaiming any responsibility for the statement about the strike being off, and telling all strikers to stay out and remain firm.

President Debs' Denial.

President Debs was asked by a reporter if he had said the strike was off. He replied: "That statement is a pure fabrication and has caused harm to our cause. I told no one that the strike has been declared off, or anything which could be twisted into that meaning. All I said was that a proposition had been made to the railway managers looking towards a settlement of the strike."

As to the rejection of the proposition to settle the strike he said: "The executive board of the American Railway Union will meet and consider the action of the railway managers. While I am not authorized to say what action will be taken by the board of directors, I suppose this rejection of our proposition means war to the death. We have done all we could and all I am in favor of doing to end this strike. We are stronger to-day than we ever were, and the fight from this time will be waged relentlessly in every state where there is organized labor to make a stand-up fight."

Chicago A. R. U. Men to Go Out.

A strike of all the A. R. U. men employed on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Chicago and Northwestern railroads is threatened. It may be ordered today. The cause is the summary dismissal from the service of the Northwestern company of thirty-two union switchmen and seven engineers and one fireman and seven brakesmen on the St. Paul road.

Not a Commission of Arbitration.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The President was somewhat annoyed yesterday by the persistent attempts in some quarters to make it appear that he had appointed an arbitration board at the request of the labor leaders. Nothing is further from the truth. The commission which he has agreed to appoint, under the law, has no power beyond that of making a general investigation of the strike on the railroads which led to his proclamation. It will have no authority to investigate the differences between the Pullman Company and its employes.

Special Telegraph Wire Destroyed.

PULLMAN, Ill., July 14.—Unknown persons grounded the special telegraph wire to the headquarters of the First Regiment in Kensington last night, and all telegraphic communication with the new camp has been cut off.

Another Tragedy at Sacramento.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 14.—In a conflict between regulars here, Frank Buckley, a sailor, was fatally shot, and a man named John Stewart was badly wounded. Martial law has been proclaimed.

A Striker Sent to Jail.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., July 14.—Charles Wagg, an engineer on the Atlantic and Pacific railroad, who refused to go out on his engine when ordered to do so, was sent to the county jail for fifteen days by Judge Collins, who held he was in contempt of court.

INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS.

Arising Out of Uncle Sam's Actions in the Indian Reserves.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—International complications have arisen between the United States on the one hand and Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium on the other, in regard to the recommendation of Governor Jones, of the Choctaw Nation in the Indian territory, for the removal of certain intruders among the miners there, who have been on strike and committing all kinds of lawless actions in their fight against the Atoka Coal and Mining Company. Among these miners are subjects of Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium, and their representatives in the United States have called upon Secretary Gresham and the officials of the Interior Department to protest against the action of the United States in removing them from the Indian country.

Foiled in an Attempted Outrage.

DUBLIN, July 14.—The Freeman's Journal asserts that a number of military officers attached to the garrison of Birr, Ireland, forced an entrance into the female quarters and succeeded in getting into the bedrooms of the female domestics attached to the garrison. The officers were masked to conceal their identity. They attempted to assault the servant girls, but the screams of the latter attracted the attention of the sentry, who suddenly appeared upon the scene. The officers attempted to escape, but one of them was severely bayonetted by the sentry and captured. In the morning the others were arrested.

A Brutal Fight.

CHICAGO, July 14.—"Jimmy" Kennard, the St. Paul Kid, met "Gene" Flanagan, a feather-weight from the stock yards, in a battle with four ounce gloves early yesterday in a saloon on West Harrison street. In the fourth round a right hand swing on the point of Flanagan's jaw sent him to the ground in a heap, his head striking the hard floor. Flanagan lay there unconscious. Referee Upton became frightened and summoned a doctor, who said Flanagan's skull had been fractured. He was taken away in a cab and is now being secluded. Kennard is also in hiding.

Mangled by a Vicious Horse.

VARYSBURG, N.Y., July 14.—Orin Larance, of this town, undertook to chastise a stallion which had been behaving badly, when the animal turned upon him. The horse, after biting the man two or three times, got a firm hold on the left arm below the shoulder. He then swung and shook the man like a cat would a mouse. The horse maintained his hold of the man's arm under heavy blows from stones and sticks until a heavy blow with a club stunned him. Larance is in a critical condition.

English-Made Bombs in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 14.—The police of Kirpitschnaga recently arrested a Polish student who was suspected of being a member of a Nihilist society. Upon searching his lodgings an English made bomb was found. Further investigation enabled the police to arrest another student and the latter's sister. The judicial inquiry which followed revealed an extensive plot against the life of the Czar.

DIED ON THE GALLOWS

Eugene Prendergast Hanged for the Murder of Carter Harrison.

HE TAKES HIS FATE QUIETLY

He Was Dissuaded From Making His Intended Speech—His Neck Broken by the Drop—The Crime for Which He Paid the Penalty.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Prendergast, the assassin of Mayor Carter Harrison, was hanged yesterday. He seemed to be indifferent to his fate and died game.

The execution was devoid of incident, for the assassin went to his death like an ox going to the shambles. Up to the last moment the hope of interposition from some source or another did not desert him. The drop fell at 11.42. Prendergast's neck was apparently broken. The prisoner was a trifle weak and unsteady when his arms were being pinioned. He looked calmly out at the assembled crowd below him.

At 11.57, nine minutes after the trigger was sprung, Prendergast was announced dead.

The assassin made no audible sound from the time he left his cell. He was dissuaded by Shiriff Gilberts from making a speech.

Eugene Prendergast's Crime.

The murder of Carter Harrison was one of the most dastardly on record. The Mayor had returned home from attending the closing ceremonies of the World's Fair about six on the evening of Saturday, October 31, last year. It was near 9 o'clock when Prendergast, who had been hanging around the premises, approached the house and rang the bell. A girl answered the ring and was asked if the Mayor was at home. On receiving a reply in the affirmati[illegible] Prendergast pushed his way in, saying at the same time that he must see Mr. Harrison. The Mayor, hearing the noise, entered from the dining room to the hallway, and the girl then took her departure.

"Well, what do you want with me?" asked the Mayor.

Then the assassin drew a revolver from his pocket and without a word of warning commenced firing. The first shot was fatal in itself, entering the Mayor's right breast and penetrating the lung. The wounded man attempted to retreat to the dining room, but was followed by Prendergast, still firing. Three shots in all were fired, two having fatal effect.

The shots came quickly, though Prendergast took careful aim and tried to strike the Mayor in a vital spot. Preston Harrison, who had been reading in his room upstairs, came bounding down the stairs. Before he could get near his father, the coachman, Charles Parth, had dashed from the servants' dining room into the private dining room. Prendergast fired at the coachman, but missed. Then the murderer turned and left the house. Parth rushed to the barn, got his own revolver and followed the murderer for some distance, firing as he ran. After committing the crime, the murderer went to Desplaines street station and informed the officers that he had shot the Mayor, and gave himself up.

The Murdered Mayor.

Carter H. Harrison was five times elected Mayor of Chicago—1879, 1881, 1883, 1885 and 1893. He was born in Kentucky in 1825. When he was eight months old his father died, but the circumstances of the family were left in an unusually promising condition. At the time of his death he was a widower, but was engaged to be married to a Miss Annie Howard, whom he called for constantly while he was dying. The lady, however, did not arrive until the murdered Mayor had breathed his last.

Said to Have Been a Canadian.

Patrick Eugene Prendergast came originally, it is said, from Canada. Of his origin nothing is known further than the fact that he was born near Kingston, Ont. Soon after his arrival in Chicago he obtained a position on the police force. As a constable his career lasted about twelve years. He was discharged for misconduct and his efforts to regain his position failed.

After Mayor Harrison was elected he began to pester him for the position of corporation counsel. He had not the first qualification for the position. The Mayor's refusal to give it to him, however, led to the crime.

CHURCH MUSIC.

Its Function in Public Worship—Considered in Relation to Congregation, Organist and Choir.

We now make a few observations respecting choirs. All that has been said touching the religious character of the organist, applies with equal fitness to the choir, regarded as leaders of the singing in the church.

I quote this same organist of 20 years experience. He says: "It is a burning shame that it needs to be said, but it does, and I hold it a crying evil in our churches, that there is such laxity and carelessness in regard to the personal and religious character of those who are selected to lead the people in the praise of God." That they should be Christians follows from the fact that they are leaders of the congregation in their worship of God. It is a sacred service. Says Dr. Lyman Abbott in the March number of the Ladies' Home Journal: "If this fundamental principle is to be regarded, and the church music is to be made to contribute to the spiritual life, those who conduct must themselves have spiritual life." "The highest experiences of prayer and praise should not be rendered by those whose hearts are ungodly, and whose lives are worldly if not immoral." Please notice that Dr. Abbott does not say, neither do I by any means mean to say, that no one who is not a member of the church should lead us in the church singing, but we do affirm that no one who is not a Christian should lead us. Unfortunately all Christians are not members of the church. And it is quite as unfortunate that all members of the church are not Christians. I used to attend church in a neighboring city, a wealthy church, able to have the best to be had. It was reported that the two male singers were not only thoroughly worldly and without spiritual life, but immoral. I used to sit in the gallery; I remember well how my sense of the fitness of things was grieved. After some beautiful anthem, in itself beautiful, they would withdraw, and sitting in one chair with their feet in another, and their head bolstered up, they would give themselves up to sleep.

I have heard of a singer in this city who after he had performed his part would go out and smoke his cigar, until it was time for him to appear again, and perform the part for which he was paid.

Now, I do not believe, that as Christians we are satisfied to be led in our praises by such. Already the churches are correcting this crying evil.

One of our churches in Hartford, has set apart its choir master by the laying on of hands, and by a service similar to that used in the setting apart a minister to the services of the master.

Other churches, by their committees, are exercising the greatest care in the selection of the organist and choir.

In the selection of a choir, as with the organist, piety, consecration, and good taste are the first requisites before all else. A cultivated voice, though it possesses all the finest qualities, if it has not been baptized by the spirit, has no place in leading a service of sacred song. It may have the right of leadership in the concert hall, but certainly not here.

I was speaking directly to choir leaders, I would say again in the words of Dr. Abbott, "Sacred music is simply the expression of a devout religious experience." If it is not that it is not anything that belongs to a church.

We do not come to church to be musically entertained, but to be lifted up and to be brought into fellowship with God. We come that we may be brought and God brought down into our lives and into our hearts. Give all the training you may and can give to your voices, that you may afford these experiences a sweet and blessed expression; but do not forget this, that after all it is not the voice that the worshippers want, but that soul inspiration which the voice gives expression to. And when you bring us the true message of song, inspiration, hope, peace and aspiration, you have rendered a service which the preacher cannot render so well, and which you cannot fully render unless there be faith and hope and love in your hearts.

Certainly a congregation would not choose as its leader in its devotion of song, one who sung just for wages, no more than it would choose for its pastor one preached for the money there was in it; we would want some constraining joy of love in our heart, as a reason for leadership. Since I wrote this, it has been said to me that musical instructors counsel their pupils not to sing in churches except for money.

A friend was telling me the other day of a friend of his who had sung for years in the church but never asked remuneration. He said that others could do things for the church which he could not do, but he could sing and, therefore, he had always done it joyfully. I do not mention this as an argument against paying singers, but to show the spirit we want to see. If the church can remunerate and thereby enable them to better cultivate their gifts for the Lord and His service, it is right and the churches gain. But any way not for money, but for the love of God.

WE WANT THE SPIRIT THAT SINGS

Thus the service of song is placed as a part of the spiritual ministry of the church, and every consideration that makes it fitting that the minister should come to the pulpit with a sense of dependence upon God, with a sense of responsibility of ministering to the needs of the congregation, and with a prayer upon his heart for the blessing of the Holy Spirit upon himself, and the message also make it incumbent upon the organist and the choir to come in the same spirit.

A few words now respecting the congregation. The choirs of our churches are by no means to blame for this false position which is often given to the music in our churches; the congregation is quite as much to blame. As touching the ministrations of the choir I place myself with the congregation, as this is the part of the service that particularly ministers to me, and I assure that I deem it no mean ministry. Oh, how my soul has been lifted up and sustained by this part of the service again and again.

Somebody says that musicians have the reputations of being the most cantankerous people in the world, but I do not think it so. I heard sometime ago of a choir leader for forty years, who said that not a year had passed that there had not been more or less trouble with their choirs. Of course, we do hear about troubles which churches have with their choirs, but I do not think that the blame is to be altogether laid at the door of the choir, but a good part of it at the door of the congregation.

I had taken this position when I found it was substantiated by Dr. Abbott in these words:—

"Put four or forty, that is a quartette or a chorus, worldly people in the choir gallery,

WITH NO OTHER IDEAL

before them than to exhibit their musical ability, earn their salary, or at best produce a pleasant musical effect, and there is certain to rise sooner or later serious friction.

Now dear friends, here is a grevious complaint against the congregation.

They have made false demands upon the choir. They have not regarded it as they have regarded the pastor, demanding spiritual qualifications. Often it is not looked on as a spiritual and consecrated part of the service, but more as an entertainment. The singer, not as a minister, in the spirit but as a performer. Hence when one goes into the church he often goes with that ideal before him. And so often, no matter what a man's character may be he has no compunctions about standing in the choir gallery and singing the praises of God, for have not the people not only asked him, but hired him? Of course he has the impression that he is not standing in so sacred a place as the minister, and all the congregation wants is just the singing, the fine voice.

But he would never think of standing in the pulpit to stir the peoples' soul though he be as eloquent a speaker as he is a cultivated singer, but why not?

And you let a devoted Christian go up from the pews to the choir gallery, he begins to assume the roll of a performer, a role constituted by the congregation. We look upon him not as one who is going to lead us as best he can in our devotions of song, but we begin to criticise; and no matter how consecrated he may be he feels it, and is influenced by it. He knows that now he is looked upon as in no other place in the church, and he will unconsciously to a certain extent begin to be thinking more about effect and whether he sings as finely as the one who sang last, rather than rendering a service of love.

When the churches shall accord to the choir the same reverence, the same sacredness of office as it does to its deacons and its pastor, they will have less trouble with choirs.

Why if our deacons were highly cultivated singers, and we were to form them into a quartette with the same ideals that are put before choirs, and the same demands put upon them, the congregation would have trouble with them.

So our congregations too often appear as listeners to the choir rather than worshippers.

Like many people who never go to church except at Christmas and Easter and then they come to hear the music. Not to worship God, not to render any service, but to hear the music.

There are people you know who go about from church to church to hear the music. I think it was St. James who said, "Be ye not hearers of the word only but doers of the word." Some people would never think of sitting down with some little mission to see how much good they could do, how much service they could render.

You sometimes hear how fine music will build up a church. It may or it may not. Fine music of the entertainment order that simply fills a church for a little while with a multitude of hearers, does not build up a church.

Hearers are like birds of flight, they come and go with the heat and cold, so in singing or the latest comer in preaching. But fine music that assists in filling a church with a multitude of worshippers and workers does wonderfully help to build up a church.

THEY RUN AFTER THE LATEST FAD

If churches regard the position of the choir more as they regard the position of their pastor, they would be more considerate in dealing with them.

Often now choirs are dismissed with as little consideration, as the manager of an opera troupe would dismiss a member of his company, instead of regarding them as they are, servants with us in the church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Now, congregations ought to keep in mind two things: First, that congregational singing is the basis of all church music; whatever is done in solos, duets, quartettes, should be done upon congregational singing as a basis.

Some one has suggested, rather humorously, that the ancient Psalm is not improved by the fashionable rendering of it: "Let the people praise thee, O God; yea let four people in the gallery praise thee."

That is, the choir is to be a leader of the congregation. It is to sing its anthems and solos, but as leaders of the entire congregation a part of the larger chorus which is always the congregation.

So different has been the practice in some churches that the choir has not sung with the congregation at all, but that practice can be regarded as only pernicious and wholly false.

In the second place, the smaller churches should not be impatient or discouraged because they cannot command as cultivated talent as the larger churches.

All churches cannot have a Spurgeon, but they get the best man they can and work with him in love. So regard the organist and choir, and if the choirs are not up to the ideal let us believe that our delegated committee will secure for us the best choir they can, and let us have them understand that we regard them as our consecrated leaders in song, and hold up their hands and encourage them to grow.

And when we have but congregational singing let us feel that we can have good singing, for enthusiastic, harmonious, and congregational singing is good singing. It is the kind of singing that St. John heard beyond the veil when he said; "And a voice came out of the throne saying, Praise our God all ye his servants, and ye that hear him both small and great, and I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings saying, 'Praise ye the Lord.'"

She Didn't Take With the Gentlemen.

She was refined, intelligent, and not bad looking, but somehow she never seemed to take with the gentlemen. They didn't like her listless ways; they said she hadn't any "snap" about her. Poor girl! she was suffering from functional irregularities, and it was actually impossible for her to take much interest in anything. But a change came. One day she heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. She procured a bottle, and she had not taken half its contents when she felt like another woman. Now she is in the enjoyment of perfect health, and has suitors by the score. No woman need suffer from functional irregularities and weaknesses. The "Favorite Prescription" is a safe and certain cure for all the weaknesses to which women are peculiarly subject.

A QUEEN CITY BABY.

ITS LIFE SAVEED BY LACTATED FOOD.

BABY BODDINGTON.

The mothers of Canada who use Lactated Food for their babies, are always delighted with the grand results. During the hot summer weather it "saves babies' lives."

Mrs. Boddington, of Toronto, says: "I used cow's milk for my baby, but it did not thrive. I then commenced to use Lactated Food, and I found that the baby soon improved, and has remained contented and well."

Mr. Andrew P. Stirrett, the popular chemist, corner of Dundas St. and Brock Ave., Toronto, says: "I endorse the above testimony, and would say, that when Mrs. Boddington found it necessary to feed her baby from the bottle, every device was tried to obtain pure milk, even to securing the milk of one particular cow. After all this, the baby continued to fret and cry. Finally, Mrs. Boddington was induced to use Lactated Food, and from the very first feeding the baby began to improve; and (as you see by the photo) is now a picture of health and contentment. Ever since, I have most heartily recommended Lactated Food to my customers."

OPIUM SMUGGLER CAUGHT.

George W. Coulson, a New Yorker, Run Down by the Police.

MONTREAL, July 14.—The arrest of Geo. W. Coulson at Bangor, New York, on a charge of opium smuggling has caused a sensation in local circles.

Coulson, although for years past a resident of Toronto, is a New Yorker, and has been for years in the opium smuggling business. Until a few months ago he worked the Niagara frontier, but it being made too hot for him there he transferred his work to the eastern frontier. He appeared in Montreal four months ago and became a guest at the Osborne House. He used to make a trip to New York regularly every week and every time that he went he carried with him from 100 to 200 pounds of prepared opium.

On this occasion he started on one of his regular trips. He first took his ticket to White Station, a small place on the Grand Trunk. From there he teamed his trunk across the line to Bangor, N. Y., a few miles this side of Fort Covington. There Mr. Stokes and Mr. Jenkinson, special agent at Ogdensburg, received him, to his great surprise and disgust. He was taken to Plattsburg jail to await examination, and the trunk, which was found to contain 150 pounds of the drug, placed in safe keeping.

The maximum punishment for the offence is five years in jail and a fine of double the value of the drug seized. Thus Coulson, who is very wealthy and owns a lot of property in Canada, will have to pay a fine of at least $10,000.

A Supposed Leprosy Case Diagnosed.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 14.—Dr. Smith, the resident doctor of the Dominion lazaretto at Tracadie, Nova Scotia, arrived here to diagnose the case of the supposed leper, Thomas Sheehan, who has been quarantined in a pest house on the outskirts of the town the past three weeks. The doctor, after fully examining the man, diagnosed his case not to be that of leprosy. He considers the case to be incurable syphilis. The man's flesh is actually dropping from his bones in pieces. No doubt after Dr. Smith makes his report to the Dominion Government the Provincial Government will be called upon to make some disposition of the man. He will no doubt be placed in some institution for incurables and there meet his fast approaching end.

Canadian Review of Trade.

TORONTO, July 14.—Trade is quiet; farmers throughout Ontario are busy harvesting. The price of export cattle is higher. Fall orders for dry goods at Montreal have improved somewhat, but other staple lines are dull. Crop prospects in Quebec are reported good. General trade at Halifax is very quiet, but the feeling with reference to fall trade in New Brunswick is more encouraging, owing to the outlook for good crops. There are 34 business failures reported in the Dominion against 39 last week, 26 in the week a year ago and 24 in the week two years ago. Bank clearings at Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax aggregate $19,653,000 this week, 20 per cent. more than last week, but 2½ per cent. less than in the like week last year.

Young Colored Man Drowned.

WINDSOR, July 14.—Yesterday as a rowboat was starting to ferry some passengers across the river, a young colored man named William Bartley was standing on the wharf watching the proceedings. Those in the boat saw him start to turn around, when his feet slipped and he fell headfirst into the water. Night ferryman Forbes, who had charge of the boat, immediately rowed back to the landing and searched in that vicinity for some time, but all he could find was the coat and hat of the unfortunate young man. Bartley was 28 years of age.

Governor O'Brien in Court.

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., July 14.—An unusual sight, that of seeing a governor in the witness box testifying, was witnessed in the Trinity Bay election case. The case was under trial when it was contended by the counsel that if the Whitewayites were guilty of corrupt practices the governor was fully cognizant of them. Governor O'Brien appeared and swore positively he knew of no corrupt acts practiced by the late Government. The affair has created a sensation.

A Mangled Man Identified.

PORT DALHOUSIE, July 14.—Isaac Brown, the man mangled by a locomotive in Toronto on Wednesday night, was well acquainted among lake men here, having been a sailor in his younger days. He arrived here Wednesday afternoon from St. Catharines on his way to Whitby, and left in the evening on steamer Garden City for Toronto, where a short time after he was killed. He said he had been acting as a pedlar through the country for some time.

Delegates Going to Quebec.

QUEBEC, July 14.—The Imperial and Colonial delegates will spend Tuesday here. During the day they will be the guests of the city. Mr. R. R. Dobell will entertain the delegates to luncheon at his beautiful residence, Beaumanoir, and in the afternoon they will be taken on a trip round the harbor on board the Vela by the Harbor Commission. In the evening they will be banqueted at the Frontenac and will probably go to the Saguenay on Wednesday morning.

Three Loggers Drowned.

ST. JOHN, N.B., July 14.—A boat was found bottom up in the falls yesterday and it was identified as a boat in which Edward Logan, Daniel Logan and John McKay started out in to catch logs in the falls. It was thought that the men had gone off on a spree and that they would turn up, but thorough investigation leaves little doubt that the men have met watery graves. The three men leave eleven children.

That Tired Feeling

Is a dangerous condition directly due to depleted or impure blood. It should not be allowed to continue, as in its debility the system is especially liable to serious attacks of illness. Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, carefully prepared from the best ingredients. 25 cents.

Enforcing the Alien Labor Law.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Superintendent Stump has ordered three immigrant inspectors from interior cities to the Canadian border to assist inspectors there in preventing alien contract laborers from Canada from entering the United States and taking the places of strikers on the railroads. Inspectors will go to Port Huron, Detroit and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

At the Convention of Endeavorers.

CLEVELAND, July 14.—At the evening session of the Christian Endeavor convention it was decided to meet in San Francisco in 1895 if a lower rate of transportation could be secured than at present offered. At the convention in the evening Rev. John Potts, D.D., of Toronto delivered an address upon the theme "Christ the Worker—a Model for all Endeavorers."

Burglary at Brantford.

BRANTFORD, July 14.—The residence of Mr. Finch, Park avenue, was entered by burglars, who carried off a lady's gold watch, a diamond ring, earings and a sum of money. The thieves in their hurried search overlooked some fifty dollars in money. The case was given to the police, but as yet there is no clue to the thieves.

Prominent Journalist Dead.

ORANGE, N.Y., July 14.—George R. Graham, the founder of "Graham's Magazine," died yesterday. "Graham's Magazine" was the first published in America to obtain any literary prominence, and he was one of the first editors to recognize the genius of Edgar Allen Poe.

"Be sure you get Ayer's" is an important caution to all in search of a thoroughly reliable blood-purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla being the one on which there can be no manner of doubt. It has stood the test of nearly half a century, and has long been considered the standard.

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please, I am have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similiar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose to pay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

A Beautiful Work.

The EXAMINER has to thank the Toronto Printing Pressman's Union No. 10, for a copy of the splendid souvenir of the sixth annual convention of the International Printing Pressman's Union of North America held at Toronto in June. It is a large quarto, whose every page of its fifty contains the most beautiful specimens of artistic press work conceivable, all done in the words of the stereotyped phrase—which in this case is no poetical fiction or exaggeration—"in the highest style of the art." This beautiful reminder indicates that the art preservative keep pace with, if it does not lead, every other branch of art. In looking over the pages of the souvenir one can hardly realize that mechanical appliances even when aided by human skill and the suggestions of human taste, can accomplish such wonderfully exquisite results.

Smiff on a Fishing Jaunt.

That old reprobate Smiff came into the office the other evening, the Independent says, an eighteen foot bamboo rod over his shoulder, a great straw hat bound around with artificial flies, and a face like a boiled lobster. Ah! my dear boy, he said, where 'toxication is bliss 'tis folly to be sober. then he jabbed one end of his bamboo through the window, and upset the stove drum with the other, dropped a tin can on the floor, and in two seconds the office was a combination of menagerie and aquarium with crawfish, and Smiff, and the bamboo and devils, and green frogs, and Smiff, and the various editors, and grasshoppers and Smiff, all inextricably mixed, mussed up and dreadfully excited. This journal particularly requests that when fishing friends take Smiff out for the day, they carefully put him on ice when they return, or at any rate keep him away from this office.

Mr. Frank Arnoldi, wife and family, Miss Hammer, Miss Burrows and O. A. Howland, M.P.P., South Toronto, all of Toronto, were registered at the Grand Central yesterday. The party left this morning for Stony Lake.

Miss Alma Hogle, assistant lady superintendent of the Boston City Hospital, and daughter of Mr. Wm. Hogle, a prominent Liberal of Ernesttown, Lennox county, returned home this morning after a few days visit with Mrs. (Rev.) W. R. Young, an intimate friend of her school girl days. Miss Hogle visited the Nicholls Hospital during her stay in town and was very favourably impressed with its equipment and management.

Fatal Accident at Castleton, N. Y.

A few days ago, Mr. and Mrs. Telford, Albert street, received the intelligence through a telegram, of the accidental death of their son-in-law, John Arnink, at Castleton, N. Y. Since then they received full particulars concerning the accident. for several years he had charge of the ice house of a large shipping and forwarding company in that town. One morning, as usual, he went in to open the window and the men at the door, hearing a noise, ran in and found him dead, a slide of ice lighting on his head and breaking one of his legs, causing instant death. He was only a few minutes from the house when his lifeless remains were again brought home. The deceased leaves a family to mourn his loss, without even a mother's care, his wife having died seven years ago.

The Late Miss Kate Ross.

Messrs. W. and Alex. Ross, Bobcaygeon, the Independent says, received the sad intelligence, on Wednesday evening, of the sudden death of their sister, Miss Kate Ross. The young lady was engaged at the Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, studying as a professional nurse. During an extended period she had successfully nursed a number of diphtheria patients, but some few weeks ago unfortunately contracted the treacherous and dread disease herself. She was apparently progressing favourably, when she suddenly dropped off by heart failure, always one of the great dangers in diptheria. The young lady was of a most amiable disposition, and, no doubt, had she lived, would have accomplished great good in the self-sacrificing work she had chosen. Her sad death will be a grievous blow to her relatives, and a loss to afflicted humanity.

Saturday's Market.

There was an unusally small market this morning, and articles were selling very slow. Spring and fall wheat is selling at 60c., oats 38c. white, black 37c.; no hay or straw on sale, new potatoes sold at 30 and 35c. per peck, old potatoes 70c. per bag; lamb 80c. for fore quarter, and $1.00 for hind quarter, veal 8c., chickens 50c. per pair and butter 20c. per pound. Garden products were on the market in abundance and were selling as follows:—Black currents, 12c. per quart; red currants, 9 and 10c.; gooseberries, 9c.; cherries, 11c.; raspberries, 90c. per pail. No other commodities offering. In conversation with a well known farmer, it was learned that the recent rains have had a most beneficial effect upon the crops in the country. With the exception of peas, barley and hay, which will be a short crop, the outlook on the whole is encouraging, and yield will be up to the average of former years.

Chemong Park Steamer Afloat.

The trim and fleet new steamer, "Idle Hour," built by Messrs. Moffat & Kinch, of the Ontario foundry, for service between the Chemong Park railway station and Chemong Park, was fully inspected on Friday, received her credentials, and is now ready for public service. By reference to advertisement in another column, her programme is already pretty well cut out for the season. During three days of the week the "Idle Hour" will make direct connections with the Chemong railway station and the park; the other three days, and in between-times she can be chartered by the hour for private parties of 22 and under, who may wish to go "excurting," fishing, bunting or for pleasure. "She is a dandy," and is likely to be kept on the hustle until the closing of navigation. Chemong Park and the hotel can now be reached by rail and water direct and the connection thus secured should give a decided boom to these popular summer resorts.

How to Get a "Sunlight" Picture.

Send 25 "Sunlight" Soap wrappers (the wrapper bearing the words "Why Does a Woman Look Old Sooner Than a Man") to LEVER BROS., L't'd, 43 Scott street, Toronto, and you will receive by post, a pretty picture free from advertising and well worth framing. This is an easy way to decorate your home. The soap is the best in the market, and it will only cost 1c. postage to send in the wrappers, if you leave the ends open. Write your address carefully.

—Chamberlain is spending three years in the Penitentiary for his share in the crookedness by which the Dominion Government hoped to defeat Martin in Winnipeg. The courts have finally decided, too, that Jake Holman, a deputy returning officer who allowed bogus votes to be polled in the same contest, must pay a fine of $500. It will be a long time, as a result of these salutary lessons, before there is again a general resort to fraud in Prairie City elections.

—Mr. Wm. Gainer, of Ailsaw, formerly reeve of Minden township, lost the two first fingers of the right hand about the 1st of May in his own saw mill. A few days later, in parting two fighting stallions, he received a bad kick on the left hand. In dressing the wound he removed the bandages from the injured fingers of the right hand, with the result that erysipelas set in in both arms. Dr. Giles, who was his physician, took him to the Nicholls hospital, Peterborough, on May 18th, where he remained under treatment until Monday last, when he passed through to the north. Both arms are still badly swollen, but he will be all right in a few days.—Lindsay Post.

LIGHT-WEIGHT BUTTER IN COURT.

Chief Roszel Seizes Sixty-four Pounds on the Market.

JULY 14.

There was a sudden activity on the butter market this morning altogether unconnected with the law of supply and demand. Chief Roszel appeared on the scene like an allegorical emblem of justice (in trousers), with a pair of scales in his arms, and immediately began his search for light-weight butter. As a result of his visit three ladies with their butter were invited to appear before Police Magistrate Dumble to-day noon. The butter was produced and weighed. One basket was supposed to contain twenty-eight pounds in rolls, but upon being weighed it lacked one pound and three-quarters of an ounce. There was a shortage in another basket, alleged to contain seven and a half pounds of nine ounces, while a third parcel, which was claimed to contain twenty-nine pounds, was four pounds nine ounces short of that amount. The police magistrate in addressing the ladies stated that the result of the shortage of butter was no doubt caused by oversight on their part, but the bylaw called for the imposing of a fine as high as $50. In this case the shortage was so small that instead of imposing a fine he would forfeit the butter which would be distributed to the charitable institutions of the town. The three ladies are wives of respectable and highly succesful farmers of this district and are regular sellers on the market. There was, it is evident, no intention on their part to defraud the public. They claimed their butter was correctly weighed on their scales, and the customer was invariably requested to check their weght in order to verify it.

The administration of our police department is not what it might be. The chief does appear to live up to his opportunities. If he had anything of the gift of prophecy he would have arranged that the farmers, wives who contributed 64½ lbs. of butter for confiscation this morning had brought in their light weight butter the same day that two town bakers furnished 84 light weight loaves for confiscation. If this had been arranged what a picnic they might have had in the police court! What a feast of bread—good "light" bread—and butter! Golden butter fresh from the depths of the sweet depths of the dairy cellar. But, for the enjoyment of the feast the food would have required to be bolted with a rapidity that would have threatened the digestive integrity of a goat. Butter kept any length of time in the graveolent air of the hall of justice would be exposed to a rank compound of villainous smell that would contaminate soap grease. The police magistrate spoke feelingly when he directed that the confiscated butter should be removed from the pestilential air of the justice mill as speedily as possible.

CRICKET.

The Bankers vs. Town match which was to have been played to-day has been postponed because of the baseball match which is taking place.

Houlds worth, the cricket club's professional, is without doubt one of the best men Peterborough has been fortunate to secure for some years. Not only does he thoroughly understand the game in all its branches, but he is exceptionally capable of imparting his knowledge to the players.

The practices are being splendidly attended and Peterborough will again take her proper position among the best cricket towns in Ontario.

Cobourg and Peterborough will probably play some day next week in Cobourg. Toronto sends a team here on the 20th inst. East Toronto will play here on the 27th.

"Charlie" Attewell, who for two years coached Peterborough cricketers is playing with East Toronto and is giving splendid satisfaction.

It is quite probable that the home team will play in Toronto on the 1st and 2nd of August.

AQUATIC.

ADDRESS AND PRESENTATION.

Miss Grundy Remembered by Her Fellow Teachers.

Last night a very pleasant event took place in the school room of the George Street Methodist Church, in the presence of quite a large gathering of the teachers and friends of the Sunday school, the occasion being the presentation of an address to Miss Grundy, who has been connected with the school for thirteen years as Superintendent of the primary department.

Rev. Mr. Young, pastor, occupied the chair, and, after the usual devotional exercises, Mr. A. E. Dixon read an address, expressing the high appreciation of Miss Grundy's long, faithful and effective services and wishing her prosperity and happiness in her new home.

Miss Grundy made a very appropriate and appreciative reply.

Brief addresses referring to Miss Grundy's faithful services, were made by Mr. S. R. Armstrong, (who also read a letter from Mr. Superintendent Jeffries sympathizing with the occasion), Mrs. McIntyre, Mr. Parker, Mrs. Kendry, Mr. Dixon, Mr. W. J. Green, Miss Elwin, Mr. Knapman and Miss Sanderson. The remarks were interspersed by musical selections consisting of a duet by the Misses Lumsden, and a solo by Miss Mark. Wholton's orchestra also contributed selections in a pleasing manner.

After the foregoing proceedings refreshments were served and a brief time spent in social intercourse.

Miss Grundy leaves next week to take residence in New York city. In her removal the school loses a worker, to whom a successor embodying the same extraordinary zeal in and aptitude for her work, will be exceedingly difficult to find.

NECESSITY OF EXPENDITURE.

The supplementary estimates, brought down in the House of Commons, make an appropriation of $130,000, for the construction of the Trent Valley Canal. It is gratifying that the Government has at length recognised the importance of this work and made a business attempt to prosecute the undertaking. It is to be assumed that a portion of this will be expended upon the Peterborough-Lakefield section, though the amount is quite insufficient to do more than make a good beginning. Is unfortunate that such an appropriation was not made earlier, so that work could have been begun at present, when so many men are out of employment. It is plain that no construction work can be done this year. The survey is just begun and the plans to be based on this survey will require considerable time for preparation; then there is the time consumed in advertising for tenders and the time consumed in awarding and settling details of contracts, in addition to the time required for a contractor to get his plant in readiness. It is possible and probable that even by this time next year there will be no actual work begun. The circumstance which will most hasten work will be a general election. This is not to say that the fact of an election is absolutely necessary to the prosecution of work. But it has been observed that great activity upon Dominion government public works is coincident with a general election. It is to be hoped that the survey will be pushed with the utmost possible expedition. An advertisement in the local papers over the name of a Trent Valley contractor, "Labourers Wanted!" would be a vast boon to the unemployed of Peterborough and vicinity. But by the time such an advertisement is called for, times may have changed and work may become more plentiful.

The Brockville Times says: "It is difficult for the Dominion Government which has to deal with the tariff as a whole, to put an export duty on saw logs without subjecting the country to reprisal in articles of commerce equally vital to some other portion of the people. The Provincial Government, however, is in a different position. The whole matter, could be solved in the interest of the Georgian Bay saw mills by making it a condition of the sale of timber limits that the logs should be cut in Ontario." This being the silly season perhaps accounts for the Times not remembering that the Ontario elections are over and presents some excuse for the nonsense the Times indulges in in order to get a rap at the Ontario Government. Is our contemporary innocent enough to think that if the Americans wish to retaliate they will draw any fine distinctions between an export duty on logs and an action like the condition as to cut, which might be imposed? The Americans object to any restriction of the lumber trade with Canada, and they would'nt pause a moment to consider whether the restriction took the shape of an export duty or a condition of purchase regarding logs to be cut in Canada. Or, if that effect were not the result, we should not have the benefit of their competition and we should realize very much smaller prices for our limits; which would be a comfort, no doubt, to the Times, for it would render less conspicuous the action of its Ottawa friends in selling timber at prices below anything like even approximate value. The Times should remember that the elections are over and that the weather is too sultry to talk buncombe. It should take to the lumber woods a few days to cool off.

As was expected the supplementary estimates contain an appropriation of $30,000 additional to meet the expense of the royal commission on prohibition, making the total cost of this royal business $130,000; something like a thousand dollars a sitting, and if all the sittings were of the immense value the sitting in Peterborough was, some idea can be found of the amount of value received for the entire investigation.

The Summer Death-rate.

The greatest evidence of the dangers of cholera morbus, diarrhœa, and dysentery, is the increase in the death-rate during the summer months, in all the leading cities. Men and women can not be to careful of their habits of life during the heated term, and particular attention should be paid to the diet of children. A supply of Perry Davis' Pain-Killer should always be at hand, for it is the only medicine that can be relied on at all times as a safe, sure, and speedy. A teaspoonful will cure any ordinary case; but in severe attacks it is occasionally necessary to bathe the sufferer's stomach with the Pain-Killer. All reputable druggists have it for sale. 25c. price per large bottle.

Well, the reason is that a disagreement arose between a firm of clothiers in British Columbia and a big wholesale house in Montreal, and Gough Bros. came in as the dark horse and took over the stock, on the understanding that it must be turned into cash utterly regardless of cost or value. That explains the TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER which is giving to the people Men's and Boys' Tailor-Made Clothing, stylish Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods, and Men's, Women's and Children's Shoes, Slippers, &c., at ONE-HALF their actual value. No man will be doing justice to himself if he invests one dollar in Clothing, Hats, Shoes or Furnishings before looking through this stock. Come here first and get posted. These Prices are but a sample of over 10,000 other Bargains:—

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL OUTING.

St. Paul's Sunday School Spend the Day at Idyl Wild.

One of the most successful excursions of the season was that held by St. Paul's church Sunday School yesterday, to that popular summer resort, Idyl Wild. When the boat steamed from Wolfe street wharf in the morning, it had a large crowd of excursionists on board, and the weather being all that could be desired, the trip down the river was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Rev. E. F. Torrance and the teaching staff of the Sunday School were also on board, and Idyl Wild was reached in good time.

After dinner had been partaken of by the excursionists, a large number spent the afternoon by boating and fishing. Messrs. J. A. Fife and Wm. Madill during the day run off the following programme of sports, for which prizes had been offered. Each event was hotly contested:

Boys' race (6 and under),—1 G. Gilchrist, 2 Russell Thompson, 3 Roy Turner.

Boys' race (10 and under),—1 Kenneth Simpson, 2 Reg. Thompson, 3 Hammond Lee.

Boys' race (14 and under),—1 Percy White, 2 Richard Lee, 3 Chester Lang.

Boys' race (16 and under),—1 Benj. Simpson, 2 W. Moncrief, 3 Rolly Lee.

Obstacle race (10 and under),—1 Hammond Lee, 2 Richard Lee, 3 Percy White.

Obstacle race (14 and under),—1 Benj. Simpson, 2 Charles Brodigan, 3 Fred. Pollard.

Egg race,—1 Percy White, 2 Hammond Lee, 3 Bert Thompson.

Three legged race—1 Joe Sharpe and Chester Lang, 2 Kenneth Simpson and Percy White, 3 Harold Brown and Hammond Lee.

Running jump, (12 and under)—1 Chester Lang, 2 Richard Lee, 3 Bert Thompson.

Running jump (16 and under)—1 Benj. Simpson, 2 Chas. Brodigan.

Hop, step and jump (12 and under)—1 Percy White. 2 Richard Lee, 3 Chester Lang.

Girls race (16 and under)—1 Sybl White, 2 Alice Lech, 3 Ethel McClelland, 4 Alice Hamilton.

Girls race (10 and under) –1 Jennie Simpson, 2 Mabel White, 3 Katie Gardiner, 4 Ethel Munro.

The trip home was a delightful one, the steamer reaching the wharf at an early hour, and all who had the pleasure of taking in the trip voted it the most successful excursion of the many held by St. Paul's Sunday school.

WOMEN IN SOCIETY

—often need the strengthening support of a general tonic and nervine. They're tired out or "run-down." This is frequently the result of "weakness," and it makes life miserable.

Are you weak, nervous, or ailing? Then Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription brings you special help. It's a remedy prescribed for delicate women, for all the derangements, disorders, and diseases of the sex.

For regulating and promoting all the proper functions, building up and invigorating the entire system, and restoring health and strength, this is the only remedy that can be guaranteed to benefit or cure, or the money will be refunded.

For every case of Catarrh which they cannot cure, the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy agree to pay $500 in cash. You're cured by its mild, soothing, cleansing, and healing properties, or you're paid.

Truth and Deception Compared.

Paine's Celery Compound Cured Mrs. Geo. H. Parker, Winona, Ont., After Every Other Medicine Failed.

Deceptive and Worthless Medicines Gave No Help or Relief.

A Warning That All Should Heed.

The people of Canada can hardly have better or stronger proof of the great value of Paine's Celery Compound, and its power over disease and suffering, than is furnished in the testimony of Mrs. Geo. H. Parker, of Winona, Ont. This strong and convincing testimony holds up the danger signal of warning to all afflicted ones. It shows the folly of using any of the many boasted medicines now so freely advertised. Tho majority of these worthless nostrums had been tried by Mrs. Parker, but all proved useless and deceptive. How different the result when that medicine of truth and power was used—Paine's Celery Compound. The pains, sufferings, agonies and miseries of eighteen years were swept away, and the afflicted lady was completely cured. Mrs. Parker, who now enjoys the blessings of health, writes as follows:—

"I have been a great sufferer from neuralgia for nearly eighteen years; these sufferings at times were so bad that words would fail to describe them. After having tried every known remedy, and different physicians, and receiving no help, I was persuaded to try your Paine's Celery Compound, which I have been using for the past four months. I am happy to say that I am now a different woman and completely cured. I can recommend your Paine's Celery Compound to all my friends, for it has been worth hundreds of dollars to me."

Mr. G. W. Spackman, one of Hamilton's prominent druggists, says:—

"This is to certify that Mrs. Parker, of Winona, has, during the past four months, purchased one dozen bottles of Celery Compound, and claims that it has been worth hundreds of dollars to her."

World's Fair Esquimaux Stranded.

HALIFAX, July 14.—Two cars of Esquimaux arrived here and are at deep water terminus. They were ticketed to Halifax only and they understood they were to be sent to Labrador. One of them has saved considerable money, it is said, but not the others.

A Section Man's Death.

FAST ATLANTIC SERVICE BILL

The Second Reading Passes the House—Changes in the Mounted Police Force—A Customs Clerk Superannuated—General Cameron's Resignation.

OTTAWA, July 14.—The case of A. J. Turcotte, M.P., was discussed in the House yesterday. It was brought up on a motion of Mr. Giroud (Jacques Cartier) to adopt the report of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, which exonerated Mr. Turcotte from the charges preferred against him.

These charges were that he was a Government contractor, or rather holding a contract from the Government with the Militia Department through a third party. This is a violation of the Independence of Parliament Act. The case was ventilated before the Privileges and Elections Committee and by a majority the committee decided that the charges were not proven.

On the motion to adopt the report Mr. Edgar proposed an amendment to the effect that the charges were proven.

The resolution adopting the report and exonerating Mr. Turcotte was carried by 82 yeas to 58 nays, a majority for the Government of 29. Messrs. McCarthy and O'Brien, and Messrs. McNeill, Dickey and Weldon, Conservatives, voted against the Government.

The fast Atlantic steamship bill was read a second time. The House adjourned at 12.30 a.m.

A Customs Clerk Superannuated.

Michael Joseph Maddigan, for seventeen years a clerk in the customs house at Kingston, has received notice from the department at Ottawa that he has been superannuated. No reason is given.

Curran Bridge Affair.

The Curran bridge affair is still before the Public Accounts Committee, and it is liable to be a subject of investigation till the close of the session. The Agricultural Committee also met and practically closed up its work for the session.

Burlington Swing Bridge.

In the final supplementary estimates there appears an item of $5,000 for a swing bridge over the Burlington canal.

The Mounted Police.

There is to be during the coming summer a reorganization of the mounted police. The rifles with which they are at present equipped are to be replaced by more modern weapons, and it is also intended to form three batteries of artillery, to be stationed at central points, each battery supplied with three guns. In this way it is believed the effectiveness of the force can be greatly increased, while at the same time the number of men can be reduced.

Major-General Cameron to Resign.

Major-General Cameron, commandant of the Royal Military College, will very shortly resign on account of ill-health. His successor will be Col. Bramley Ridout, who was born in Toronto and who is a graduate of the Royal Military College. Col. Ridout is at present a member of the Cameronian Highlanders. He served with distinction in Egypt, taking part in the battles of Tel-el-Kebir and Abu Klea and in India and Burmah. He has the Burmese and Egyptian war medals and the Khedive's medal for distinguished service. The resignation of Major-General Cameron will reach Ottawa next week.

Allan Stewart, of Springton, Suffers all This Time—At Last Confined to Bed—Story of His Happy Release from Pain.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., July 9.—Allan Stewart, of Springton, near here, says that Dodd's Kidney Pills saved his life and he wants the fact to be known. For thirty years he has had kidney disease and gravel. Hundreds of dollars spent on doctors and medicine failed to do any good. On July 14 last, Mr. Stewart had to take to his bed and everybody considered his case a hopeless one. He heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and began using them. He says he noticed an improvement from the first and ten boxes cured him. He is now free from all pain and enjoys excellent health.

Dear Sirs,—I write you to say that for some time I had been suffering from acute indigestion or dyspepsia, and of course felt very great inconvenience from same in my general business. MYSTERIES OF THE DEEP REVEALED BY PHOTOGRAPHY.

Wonderful Results of Experiments by Prof. Boutan Off the Southern Coast of France—Fiction of the Coral Palaces Not Equal to the Truth.

Wonderful preparations are being made this year both by professional and amateur photographers for taking submarine pictures. Dr. L. Boutan, professor in zoology at the Sarbonne University, has illustrated the possibility of taking pictures many feet under water and the world of science is greatly indebted to him for the interesting discovery. He made some successful experiments last fall on the southern coast of France and began operations again as early as March. In the intervening time he was busy working on certain improvements in his apparatus, which makes him quite sure of being able to attain remarkable results during the coming summer. Of course, all photographers are watching his movements with intense interest.

Through Boutan's process photography

can be utilized at any depth of water, from a shallow river bed to several thousand feet below the surface of the ocean. During the spring he experimented in the waters of the Mediterranean, opposite Banyuls-sur-Mer, which is one of the French zoological stations near the Spanish frontier.

For the benefit of those who are eagerly waiting the time and opportunity for a successful descent Prof. Boutan gives some good advice. The beginner should first ascertain if his photographic outfit is waterproof, and next accustom himself to the diver's costume. He should descend many times before he thinks of taking a picture. He would do well not to venture into too deep water at first, but select some moderately deep spot where he can wade in or out without assistance. If he will wade in the water until his head is covered he will soon become accustomed to the sensation experienced when under deep water. When this is accomplished he can then think of carrying his kodak with him. Of course the beginner should select pure streams with clear water for his initial experiments.

Boutan wears the regular diver's suit and extra heavy leaden shoes so as to get a good foothold and steady his gait on the bottom of the sea. He uses the ordinary outfit of a photographer, with the exception that he has it all protected by waterproof coverings against the dampness and water. He places his Leyden jars in a barrel, which is surmounted by a bell glass provided with the necessary lamp. The latter is a spirit lamp, to which is attached a receptacle for the magnesium powder connected with the usual pneumatic ball and tube. The photographs are taken by the instantaneous flash which follows the scattering of powdered magnesium into the flame. He has a branch tube connected with the pneumatic ball which forces a puff of air into the powder and carries it into the flame, exposing the lens at the moment of maximum light.

The pictures taken at the bottom of the sea by this process show no material difference from those produced in the ordinary way by the instantaneous method with one exception, that the negatives have a peculiarly soft tone. As Boutan predicted, the plates have created a great sensation in scientific circles, being regarded as forerunners of a new era of development of the deep water researches.

Prof. Boutan writes entertainingly of the discoveries he made through the experiments at Banyuls-sur-Mer. It was this immediate neighborhood that was inhabited by the ancient Romans of the imperial era, and the ruins of the many splendid structures that once stood on the shore of the sea have now found a place of rest at the bottom where they have remained buried under the waters perhaps a thousand years or more. He describes a beautifully sculptured palace niche, partly covered by blue mud and prettily colored shells, in which he discovered a gigantic cuttlefish. Quick as a flash he snapped his camera and the picture was taken notwithstanding master cuttlefish's resentment which exhibited itself in a stream of dark liquid which he ejected toward the camera.

"When once down," says Boutan, "you are loath to return. When the novelty wears off and one becomes a little accustomed to his surroundings he can then enjoy the beauties of the deep. He is then apt to stay under water longer than he realizes. So many strange objects attract the eye and they must all be investigated and reproduced for the benefit of those who have laughed at the possibility of taking pictures at the bottom of the sea."

Prof. Boutan has several plates showing those extremely peculiar little animals, the sea mice. These little queer creatures are about five inches long and one or two broad; their backs are covered with thick, silky hair, brilliantly iridescent, that looks something like matted felt. Their eyes are luminous, and as they creep through the dark caverns or appear suddenly from a crevice in the rocks the effect is startling.

The architecture of the deep is artistic and picturesque. The coral palaces which one reads of in fiction are not half so beautiful as those which really exist. The designs are so delicate and artistic and the coloring marvelously beautiful. Here a tint that is merely a suggestion of the pink flash that precedes a sunrise and further on the tone is deeper, till finally there is an infinite mingling of gold and pink which is indescribable. In these fairy palaces are a multitude of small red and blue bodied fishes having peculiarly elongated snouts.

The crabs are interesting as they crawl along the bottom of the sea. One surprised Boutan by crawling out of its house and swimming toward him on a tour of investigation. He kept still and the Spider Crab, after swimming around and viewing him from all sides, returned to his shell. Boutan noticed that the last pair of legs expanded at the extremity into a broad blade for swimming. The spider crab suggested "daddy longlegs," but they did not get over the ground quite so quickly, but once frighten them and you will see they can make pretty good time.

During the later expeditions to the bottom of the sea the professor has devoted considerable time to making pictures of the submarine plants. He says that few people can imagine the exquisite grace and brilliant hue which most of these aquatic plants possess. "I was much astonished," says Mr. Boutan, "on one occasion while wandering around the bottom of the sea to see a number of what happened to be brightly colored sponges deliberately come up to my camera as if to examine it and its proprietor. I had always regarded sponges as unable to indulge in any perambulations and hence my amazement. However, the mystery was soon solved. What at first sight appeared to be sponges were a number of vain little crabs who, like the lamented McGinty, were dressed in their best suit of clothes, which consisted of many-colored sea anemone which was deftly fastened to their shell.

Some of these sea "landscape" views shown in Prof. Boutan's collection are the most exquisite effects artistically, and are really a revelation of the beautiful things that may be seen in the realms of the mermaids. What the submarine dredge has failed to accomplish the submarine camera will do with ease. The great objection to the dredge was that most all specimens brought to the surface were more or less damaged or hopelessly entangled with one another. No really good idea could thus be obtained of the actual appearance of the plant when growing. All these objections are entirely done away with by using the deep sea camera.

When asked if he had had any exciting adventures with sharks or other ferocious monsters of the deep, Prof. Boutan laughed and said that after his experience in the deep blue sea he was inclined to look upon the stories of sharks, etc., that divers are so ready with, as being flimsy in the matter of truth. "The trouble is," says the professor, "that on account of the magnifying properties of the glass with which the helmet of the diver is fixed everything appears, especially in the water, of gigantic proportions. Thus an inoffensive minnow which happens to swim up to the eyes of the diver is magnified into a really amazing size. What the effect will be if, for instance, a gandy, gamy, mackerel chances to be inquisitive may well be imagined. His appearance, aided by the diver's more or less fertile imagination, will be absolutely monstrous and correspondingly fierce."

Aside from great scientific value Prof. Boutan's discovery promises to be equally important from the practical application to which it can be put. The submarine camera and electric pump combined were of invaluable assistance for divers when engaged in locating wrecks or in search for lost property. Should the diver find his vessel he does not need to descend an infinite number of times to ascertain the amount of damage done to the craft. He simply brings his camera down and takes half a dozen or more plates from whichever points he desires, and this done the rest is simple. With the aid of the developed plates he can easily determine on what course to pursue to enable him to raise the sunken vessel.

The portable electric lamp is of almost as much importance as the camera and can be used as a search light in hunting for smaller articles lost in the water. Some wide awake Italian merchants are talking of introducing this method in their extensive coral fisheries. It has been tried a few times with great success, and it is claimed that it would save fully half the time now spent in bringing this product to the surface.

All fun-loving people and novelty seekers will hail the advent of the submarine kodak with delight, and the electric lamp as well. In a short time no surprise will be felt upon being invited to accompany a few friends on a ramble beneath the waves. Bou will don your diver's costume and with lamp in hand start for a "pleasant stroll." One of the party may carry a kodak and all can have their pictures taken at the bottom of the sea. The less fortunate, who have not been invited to join the party, can be seen as they swim around over head, and a laughable picture they will make.

Prof. Boutan claims that the cost for making these submarine photographs is not any more than for the ordinary ones.

LANSING, Mich., July 2.—A friend of William Langley, formerly of this city, now of London, Ont., received a letter a few months ago, stating that Mr. Langley had Bright's disease. Of course no hope of his recovery could be held out. Within a month, the same friend has received a letter from Mr. Langley stating that he is completely cured of the supposed fatal disorder. Mr. Langley says no medicine did him any good until he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills. These helped him from the first and in the end restored him to perfect health.

RIVER AND LAKE RIPLETS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The steam launch, "West of India" is registered at Port Jubilee. Among the party we notice, Mr. and Mrs. Bosworth, London, England; Mr. and Mrs. Vandyke, Liverpool, accompanied by the Misses Violet and Jeanette Thompson, of the latter place. After spending a few hours on the grounds, the party left for Hastings, where they will take the G. T. R. for New York, at which place they will spend a few days, whence they will embark on board "S. S. Prince Bismark," of the American Hamburg Packet Company's line of steamers for England.

The steam launch "Inlet King" is registered at port Jubilee, to-day, from Peterborough.

Messrs. Robert Irwin, John Irwin and John Logan are the guests at Hotel Jubilee.

Mr. Wm. Thompson, one of the veteran guides, of Rice Lake, River Otonabee and Trent, is registered at the hotel, and is well equipped with fishermen's outfits, as, in general, sportsmen require. Mr. Thompson is in readiness at all times to accomodate those desirous of a good day's fishing, boating, hunting, &c.

Mr. Edward Blanchard is sojourning at the Point hotel and is taking "snap shots." The views which he took were considerably in demand, being readily disposed of.

Miss Jennie McIlwaine, of Lakefield, is on an extended visit to friends and relatives at the Point.

Master A. H. Richardson is spending a few days at the Point for the benefit of his health.

Messrs. A. H. Robinson and R. B. Evans of Orillia, are recruiting at the Point hotel. They are on a paddling expedition from Orillia via Peterborough, Otonabee, Trent and Moria rivers to Belleville thence to Quebec. They are using a single hunting canoe and anticipate reaching the ancient capital Monday next and will explore the Lake St. John region, returning late in the fall

The steamer Daisy appeared in port to-day. She has been fitted up handsomely in the way of a new coat of paint throughout. Her after cabin is oil-clothed and cushioned. She is called the Daisy, which is very appropriate. Captain Charles Calcutt is considered class "G."

The first day of the Jubilee Point monthly regetta opened auspiciously yesterday, the weather being beautiful and the water like a mirror. The banks were crowded with sightseers. The preliminary heats for the Harry Lane Tankard are the day's events, and create much speculation. The race being open to Americans as well as Canadians, the latter being in fine rowing condition are much fancied. The hurry scurry race, one half mile with turn, was exciting and was finally won by Mr. Joe Castle, of Peterborough (supposing he did take a header) with ease, coming in three lengths ahead.—Time, 9 min. 43 sec. The day's sport was marred owing to a bursting cloud, and the referee, Mr. Jackson, deemed it necessary to postpone the balance of the programme of events till a future date.

The Baptist picnic, per steamer City of Peterborough from Peterborough to Idyl Wild, was well patronized, some three or four hundred passengers being aboard.

Nothing Strange.

Intelligent people, who realize the important part the blood holds in keeping the body in a normal condition, find nothing strange in the number of diseases Hood's Sarsaparilla is able to cure. So many troubles result from impure blood that the best way to treat them is through the blood, and it is far better to use only harmless vegetable compounds than to dose to excess with quinine, calomel and other drugs. By treating the blood, with Hood's Sarsaparilla, scrofula, salt rheum and what are commonly called "humors;" dyspepsia, catarrh, rheumatism, neuralgia, consumption and other troubles that originate in impurities of the blood or impaired circulation, can all be cured.

A GLASGOW MIRACLE.

A SCOTCH LASSIE RESCUED BY A CANADIAN.

Her Life Was Despaired of—Subject to Fainting Spells and Heart Trouble—Doctors Said Recovery was Impossible—A Wonderful Story.

From the Glasgow Echo.

The case of "Little Nell," whose miraculous cure was reported in the newspapers, with a subsequent letter from the Rev. Samuel Harding, is but one in a series of similar cases in Glasgow. The latest is that of Miss Lizzie Duncan, a young woman who has been snatched back to life. She was in what is termed a "decline"—wasting away by inches before the eyes of her parents, and her sad condition seems to have been known to a number of people. Consequently when she was found to have escaped the threatened death, and to be, apparently, as well as anyone in Glasgow, a tremendous impetus was given to the prevalent talk, and an Echo reporter was directed to make a searching investigation, with the result that this strange story was entirely confirmed.

Arriving at 208 Stirling Road, the reporter was conducted into the presence of Mrs. Duncan by a rosy-cheeked young woman, who proved to be Miss Duncan, who looked in no way like an invalid.

"This is the lassie," said the mother. Heaven knows that a miracle has been wrought upon her. Eighteen months ago Lizzie began to pine away. The colour left her entirely, and she appeared to be as weak as water. One Sunday morning she said, "Oh, mother, I canna rise to-day," and before she had got out the words her whiteness became like that of a corpse, and she fell away into a faint. I sent for the doctor, who said she had heart disease. When he saw her again she had grown worse and the doctor said, "The poor lassie is very far through." We expected that poor Lizzie would not live long. There was no colour in her face. She was wasting away, her cheeks bones sticking through as if they would break the skin. Her arms and legs were just bones. The doctor said, "Lizzie may stand the winter, but if she does, that will be all." One day, however, I chanced to read of several cases in which dying persons had been restored to life in a new scientific method—some pills, not like other medicine, but altogether of extraordinary virtue, called Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I said to my husband, "In the name of God let us try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." Well, before the first box was empty there was an improvement. She persevered and when she had finished her fifth box she was perfectly well, and there is not a stronger young woman in the townhead of Glasgow, though at one time she was a living skeleton. You ask any of the neighbours, said Mrs. Duncan in conclusion, "or any person in the street and they will confirm my story."

"I am stronger than ever I was in my life," added the daughter, "yet I can hardly describe how ill I was. I was certainly dying. I could neither go up or down stairs; I was afraid to walk on account of the fluttering sensation at my heart. I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as my mother has described, and feel that they saved my life."

Miss Wood, the lady who drew the reporter's attention to the case, said the parents had their daughter's photograph taken, for they thought that she would soon be sleeping in her grave. Lizzie once visited her and was so weak that she had to carry her back to the house. The change," said Miss Wood in conclusion, has been wonderful. She is now a sonsie lass, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been an instrument in God's own hands.

A POINTER FOR OUR BOARD OF HEALTH.

The Toronto News says that smallpox has broken out at Spanish River, a lumbering village on the north shore of Georgian Bay. This outbreak is beyond question due to contagion carried over from Saginaw or Bay City by some of the American lumbermen who are continually passing to and fro.

The appearance of the disease in Northern Ontario is a clear indication of what would have taken place at Windsor, Sarnia or Niagara, but for the precautions adopted by the Provincial Board of Health for the guarding of the southern and western frontiers. It shows, too, how necessary it is that these precautions should be extended to all parts of the Province not now protected.

ANOTHER LIE NAILED.

The character of another member of the American Senate has been cleared from the foul aspersions cast upon it by malignant detractors. Infamous slander, it is plain, cannot always triumph, and the coward tongue of base-born scandal will at times fail to slay its selected victim. We take the following from an exchange, and its speaks for itself:

UNITED STATES SENATE, Washington, D.C.—We occupy seats in the Senate near Senator Call, where he is within our observation all the time. We were present on the day of the newspaper statement of his exposure of his feet without shoes on his desk The statement is untrue, and nothing of the kind occurred.

No one in the Senate is more decorous and observant of propriety in his conduct than Senator Call. We believe every member of the Senate would make this statement.

"Sockless Jerry" is now a devotee of hosiery. Senator Call never puts his feet on his desk without previously taking pains to pull his gaiters on. Next scandal!

Monument to Northwest Heroes.

TORONTO, July 14.—The Dominion Government has placed in the supplementary estimates $1,000 towards the erection of a monument in Queen's park here to the volunteers who fell in the Northwest. This grant nets the committee $2,000, as Sir Oliver Mowat promised a similar sum if the Dominion made the grant. The committee has collected from other sources $1,400, so that they have now secured $3,400 of the $5,000 required. It is expected that the City Council will at least be as liberal as the two Governments, seeing the monument is to be located here.

Farmer Patten Discharged.

BRANTFORD, July 14.—The case of Thos. Patten, a farmer from near Paris, for seduction of Annie Newman, was heard at the police court yesterday. After hearing the witnesses the magistrate dismissed the case on the grounds that the girl was not a ward of the defendant and the agreement between Mr. Patten and the home was merely a master and man agreement. The girl could have left at any time. Doubt existed as to the age of plaintiff.

One of the most noted physicians of modern times says:—"When the system is surcharged with bile and the liver needs a powerful stimulus to excite it to duty, then it is that we use powerful cathartics to obtain the necessary relief, often attended, however, with prostrating effects," and he might also add, "often causing by their re-action worse constipation and billiousness than before." Now this is not the case with Ecclejay's Liver Lozenges. They do not prostrate nor re-act. They act gently yet powerfully. Those troubled with chronic constipation or a billious habit that has lasted for years must continue their use for some time; but they do their work and permanently cure those thus afflicted.

CHICAGO QUIET AND ORDERLY

The Name of Cleveland Hissed at a Meeting of Chicago Trades Unions—Enormous Loss Sustained by the Railways—Reports From Other Centres.

CHICAGO, July 16.—Yesterday was the quietest day in the history of the railroad strike, admitting the claims of President Debs and his colleagues that the strike is in force and effect as much as ever. The leaders of the American Railway Union devoted the day mainly to encouraging their followers to stand firm, and appealing to those not in the ranks of the strikers to join in the movement. The railroad men, employed and unemployed, attended the meetings in large numbers, and there was no lack of enthusiasm. The confidence of the men who are out in the ability of A. R. U. executive officers to win the strike, and their faithfulness to the rank and file does not appear to have waned in the least.

A brief and unimportant meeting of the executive board was held at the Uhlrich hall headquarters in the morning, in accordance with the plan to have a meeting of the board every morning to hear reports from the committees of the two representing their respective roads as to the condition of the strike and organization. This was an off day at headquarters and only a few committees reported. They claimed accessions to the ranks of the strikers and many new members enrolled who were at work, but could be relied to go out when ordered.

In the afternoon the strikers of the stock yards district gathered over 1,000 strong at Forty-seventh and Halstead streets to hear President Debs. Many workingmen who are not strikers were also present and shouted their sympathy for the A. R. U. and approval of the decision not to declare the strike off. The biggest mass meeting of the day was held at Bricklayers' hall, on the west side, Mr. Debs being the chief attraction. The army of state and national troops, the deputy marshals of the United States and the city police had little to do. The telegrams received by the railway union officers from their organizers and strike leaders in the Western States indicated that there was more of a railroad strike on the trans-continental lines outside of Chicago than here, and the strength of the union is expected to be concentrated at those points.

The Loss to the Railways.

The total loss to the railroad companies by the strike is estimated at from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000. Counsel for many of the railroads are already at work drawing up claims for damages from the County of Cook and the city of Chicago. The losses of produce dealers and commission men will foot up $1,500,000. The effect on the California fruit trade has been most disastrous. The first car of California fruit to move east in twelve days started on Saturday. A vast amount of perishable freight spoiled en route.

The Lives Lost in Chicago.

While the list of casualties resulting in the loss of life chargeable to the strike is not so extensive as a casual reader of the newspapers would suppose, the number of victims is large enough to make a very serious showing. In Chicago and vicinity including Hammond 8 and indirectly 10 lives were lost, the victims being killed outright or afterwards dying of their injuries, while the number of wounded, as far as reported, was 41. Two railroad accidents occurred, probably chargeable to incompetency of green men employed to take the places of strikers by which two lives were lost and four persons injured.

At least nine and probably ten lives have been lost throughout the west outside of Chicago.

Labor Stands by the A.R.U.

At a conference of the labor organizations on Saturday, all the affiliating orders agreed to go out on strike and to stand by the A.R.U. to the end. It was resolved that in view of the rejection by the General Managers Association of the proposition for peace, that a muster of forces at once be held, and the strike vigorously prosecuted without regard to time or consequences. Six new men were sent into the field to work among the doubtful and hesitating, and as fast as possible others of the executive board will take the field. The meeting authorized President Debs to send the following despatch to Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Cleveland: "The newspapers quote you as having issued an official order to your members requiring them to work with scab firemen, or anyone the companies might employ. It is also reported to us, on what seems reliable authority, that you are issuing letters of recommendation to engineers for the purpose of filling positions vacated by the strikers. In other words, that you are supplying scabs to take the place of striking engineers. We desire to do you no injustice, but wish to be advised of the facts in the case. We are not making history and do not wish to put any man on record improperly. An early answer will much [illegible]—By order of the BOARD OF DIRECTORS A. R. U.

Trades Unions Will [illegible] Out.

The decision of the American Federation of Labor that no support would be given the American Railway Union strike was annulled so far as the local trades unions are concerned by meetings held yesterday afternoon and evening at the Bricklayers' Hall. The Trades and Labor Assembly, which controls all labor organizations in Cook County, affiliated with the Federation together with several other outside organizations, resolved to support the American Railway Union under all circumstances. The unions were pledged to support the strike with financial assistance and by all other means in their power. It was the sense of the meeting that to strike at present would do no good and no action in this respect was taken. The proposition submitted by Debs to the General Managers has undoubtedly weakened the cause with the trades unions so far as striking is concerned and it is believed that the majority of the men now out will return to work as soon as possible. The name of President Cleveland was jeered and hissed at this meeting.

Attempted Dynamite Outrage.

WICHITA, Kas., July 16.—Another outrage was attempted on the Rock Island road at South Enid shortly before daybreak by some unknown men exploding a charge of dynamite under the bridge just north of the town. Not much damage was done. A number of deputy marshals were chased out of town in the morning. A large body of citizens attacked them with clubs. Several citizens of South Enid have been ordered to leave town on point of death because of their opposition to the strikers.

On the Northern Pacific.

FARGO, N.D., July 16,—The Northern Pacific strike situation is more complicated than for the past week. The members of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Society, who had returned to work, have again struck. The report of the shooting of Engineer Martin, a non-union man, and his fireman, in the Bad Lands, Montana, was confirmed by private telegrams. A lone cowboy rode up to the train and shot both dead. Telegrams from main points west to the coast on the Northern Pacific indicate everything tied up west of Mandan, N.D. East of there to St. Paul traffic has been resumed mostly with new men.

Outrages at Terre Haute.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 16.—Strikers or their sympathizers made another attempt to ditch the Evansville and Terre Haute northbound passenger train here by tampering with a switch, but the misplaced switch was discovered before the passenger train arrived. An assault was made on the Evansville and Terre Haute yard operator by four men. The operator drew his revolver and the men ran. A Big Four freight train was run through an open switch but not wrecked. The trainmen were stoned.

Farmers Suffer From the Strike.

ST. PAUL, July 16.—The farmers fear they will suffer from a sympathetic strike growing out of the Pullman boycott. On account of the strike shipments of binding twine have been few and the wheat crop is suffering because it cannot be harvested promptly. Much of the twine already shipped has gone over the roads that have been boycotted because of the Pullman strike, and a boycott on the twine is threatened on account of such shipments.

A Strike Leader Arrested.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 16.—Harry A. Knox, the strike leader, was arrested at noon yesterday. He is charged with complicity in the murder of the men who lost their lives in last Wednesday's train wreck.

From Other Centres.

DUNSMUIR, Cal., July 16.—An attempt was made here by the railroad officers to move the train which was tied up on June 29. An engine was fired up and run on to the turn table. Strikers, however, formed themselves around the turn-table and would not allow the engine to be turned and it was finally returned to the round house.

FORT WAYNE, July 16.—The strike troubles at Brazil are becoming more serious hourly and Governor Matthews has ordered troops to be ready to proceed to Brazil to quell riots.

TOLEDO, July 16.—Many strikers are returning to work. All the roads are operating both passenger and freight trains except the Wheeling and Lake Erie, where only passenger trains are running.

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 16.—The strikers burned a railroad bridge near Mayfield this morning. The bridge was subsequently repaired.

CONSTANTINOPLE PANIC-STRICKEN.

Families Seeking Refuge From the Earthquakes—Business Stagnant.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 16.—The panic caused by the earthquake does not abate. The families in the parks, cemeteries and smaller open spaces are preparing to camp out for several days more, and all who can are replacing their tents with little wooden huts. The rich families have sought refuge on the upper Bosphorus. Business is virtually stagnant. Prayers have been offered in all the churches.

Every day shows that the disaster was more serious than at first supposed. The number of deaths certainly exceed two hundred, and the loss of property is immense. Thousands of houses have been damaged. The Mosque of St. Sophia was damaged, but can be repaired. The city walls were much injured.

A Mysterious Case of Assault.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., July 16.—What promises to be another Barrowcliff case has come to light. Policeman Henry found a well-dressed looking woman wandering about the neighborhood where Miss Barrowcliff was found in a dazed condition. She could give no account of herself and he locked her up on a charge of drunkenness. The judge committed her to jail for 30 days for drunkenness. On Saturday J. W. Bolton, a well-known citizen, identified her at the jail as his sister. She was hysterical when her brother took her home, but she quieted down and said that she was on her way to her room from her brother's at night after supper when a man wearing a white straw hat struck her on the back of the head with a sharp instrument. She remembered nothing more until her brother found her in jail. Miss Bolton is now in a precarious condition. Her brother is indignant at her arrest and proposes to investigate the matter.

The Shooting at Bisley.

LONDON, July 16.—At the meeting of the National Rifle Association at Bisley Rifle Camp, the McKinnon Challenge Cup was won by the English team. This cup was competed for by teams of ten men who fired five volleys at 400 yards. The target represented guns and gunners. The score was as follows: England, 123 points; Scotland, 120 points; Canada, 114 points; Wales, 89 points. In the contest for the Elcho Shield, at 800 yards, England and Scotland tied with 567 points. The Irish team scored 564 points.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

The Fast Atlantic Service Bill Goes Through the Committee.

FRENCH TREATY AND SURTAX

Government Questioned as to the Liability of Goods Shipped to English Ports and Re-shipped to France Being Subjected to the Extra Tax.

OTTAWA, July 16.—The bill extending a subvention of $750,000 for a fast Atlantic service went through the committee stage in the House on Saturday. There was a long discussion.

Mr. Foster, in reply to Sir Richard Cartwright, said he did not think the merchandise shipped in the fast steamers to England, re-shipped by a cross line to France would be admitted into that country under the French treaty free of the surtax dentrepot. Neither he or the Premier would give any assurance that goods shipped in steamers which called at an English port en route to France would escape the surtax.

Mr. Amyot, however, read the French customs law to show there was no doubt that goods shipped to France in a steamer which called at English port en route would not have to pay the surtax.

Sir Richard Cartwright pointed out that while the provisional contract with Mr. Huddart for the service contained a provision for a second ten years after the expiry of the first ten-year contract. The bill before the House did not extend any power to the Government to incorporate such a provision in the final contract.

Sir John Thompson replied that the aid to be given in the second ten-year period would be in the form of payment for service rendered, in the carriage of mails. It would total $300,000 being a guarantee of 3½ per cent. on the capital of the company, £1,500,000.

Before the orders of the day were called Mr. Laurier asked the Speaker why a writ had not been issued for an election in Quebec West. The Speaker replied he had not been formally and directly informed of the vacancy by any member from his place in the House.

Mr. Laurier immediately offered a formal notification.

Railway subsidies amounting to $1,525,000 were brought down. All are re-votes.

The Delegates at Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 16.—The inter-colonial delegates were given a grand reception here Saturday. They were received on the exchange by W. W. Ogilvie, president of the Board of Trade, and a large number of members and given an enthusiastic reception. The delegates present were: Hon. F. B. Suttor, New South Wales; Sir Henry De Villiers, Cape of Good Hope; Alfred Smith, New Zealand; Sir Henry John Wrixon, Victoria. Mr. Ogilvie welcomed the guests in the name of the Montreal Board of Trade. He called upon Mr. Suttor, as the senior member of the conference, to say a few words "to the boys." Mr. Suttor paid flattering tribute to the people of this country. The delegates were tendered a grand dinner at the Windsor Hotel in the evening. W. W. Ogilvie presided and 300 or 400 representative business men were present. The delegates went to Quebec to-day.

Dispute Over a Separate School Plot.

OTTAWA, July 16.—The Public school supporters of section 18, in the Township of Gloucester, near Ottawa, are in no small difficulty just now, for they find that the school-house door is locked and the trustees are defied to open it again. The lot on which the school stands was over fifty years ago set apart by a man named Johnston for religious and educational purposes. The school trustees recently offered the lot for sale, and Mr. Johnston, jr., who had fallen heir to his father's farm surrounding the school, thereupon took possession of the property. A considerable portion of the community think Johnston has no right to pursue such a course, and as the claims setting apart the site in dispute for school or church purposes did not name any person or persons by whom the property was to be held. There is to be an interesting time over it.

Robbed the Safe of $2,000.

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que., July 16.—Two explosions in quick succession were heard by the residents in the vicinity of the Drummondville County Railway Station on Saturday morning. It was discovered that burglars had effected an entrance in the secretary's office of the Drummond County Railroad, which is in the station, and had blown open the two safes therein. Something over $2,000 was carried off. The robbery was committed by three masked men, who previously overpowered the two night watchmen and locked them up in a box car.

The Green Goods Man Again Heard From.

ST. JOHN, N. B., July 16.—Geo. G. Corey, who ten years ago got into trouble on account of his proclivities for swindling and "shoving the queer," is again locked up on similar charges. He bargained with Henry J. Albright, Queens County, for supplying $4,000 in valueless money for $900. Albright agreed to go into partnership with Corey, but afterwards got scared and pesohed. It is believed the authorities have a clear case against Corey. Albright is out $100, as he paid that sum to Corey at the opening of the negotiations.

Two Drowned While Bathing.

CHARLOTTETOWN, July 16.—Two Philadelphians, Mr. Shelmerdine, aged 19, and Miss Wilcox, aged 40, were drowned while bathing at Brackley Point. It is supposed they went beyond their depth. Some others, bathing a distance away, saw them floating on their backs and heard screams, but suspected nothing as such scenes are of common occurrence. Soon after they saw Miss Hill, another Philadelphian, also bathing, holding up the lifeless body of Miss Wilcox. The body of Shelmerdine has not been found.

Death From a Fall From a Barn.

HAMILTON, July 16.—Theo Vipond, a carpenter and contractor, fell from the roof of a barn which he was erecting for Mr. Holstein, a farmer on the third concession of Ancaster, and sustained injuries of a fatal nature from which he died a short time after.

Mr. Marter claims that the people are now reaching a thorough comprehension of the Conservative policy in Ontario, and that if a general election were now held his party would sweep the Province. It is unfortunate for him that the election records bear no trace of Mr. Meredith's growth in the grace of the people of Ontario. The general election of 1883 gave the Opposition leader 35 supporters in a House of 83 members. Since then his tendency has been downward, until now he has 27 followers out of 94 elected members. Mr. Marter may feel that the darkest hour of the night is that which precedes the dawn. He had a chance to observe the phenomenon during the debate on the registration bill. Or he may hold that his leader's policy has so often varied that the people have never been able to rightly interpret it. It has been like the farmer's little chicken, which hopped round so lively he could not count it. But it is not for us to explain Mr. Marter's position. That is his affair.—Globe.

THE blindness and perversity of political partizans, says the Bobcaygeon Independent, is astonishing. In the last Assembly Toronto was represented by two Conservatives and one Liberal, a reasonably fair representation according to the numbers of each. By the change made last session Toronto has four Conservatives, and the thousands of Liberals are unrepresented. And yet otherwise sane men will talk about the iniquity of minority representation, of its being dishonest, and high handed tyranny. Could any system of "representation" be a greater iniquity, that is of greater inequality, than one which gives the Conservatives of Toronto four members and the Liberals et al. no representation whatever. The mule perversity of partizans is a marvel.

The Ottawa Government, says the Toronto News, is sacrificing the people's heritage in the Thousand Islands in order to gratify the constituents of Mr. Taylor, the Conservative whip. And it proposes to spend $25,000 for the purpose of making safe the bald-headed bard of the party in West Assiniboia. The country pays a high price for the maintenance of Sir John Thompson's majority in the House.

She Didn't Take With the Gentlemen.

She was refined, intelligent, and not bad looking, but somehow she never seemed to take with the gentlemen. They didn't like her listless ways; they said she hadn't any "snap" about her. Poor girl! she was suffering from functional irregularities, and it was actually impossible for her to take much interest in anything. But change came. One day she heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. She procured a bottle, and she had not taken half its contents when she felt like another woman. Now she is in the enjoyment of perfect health, and has suitors by the score. No woman need suffer from functional irregularities and weaknesses. The "Favorite Prescription" is a safe and certain cure for all the weaknesses to which women are peculiarly subject.

THE CHEESE MARKETS.

There is no change of importance in the situation. There has been a good deal of speculative buying in the country, and this has kept the markets steady. The June make seems to be pretty well cleaned up now and buyers have been making more liberal offers lately for the finest July makes to fill orders for prompt shipment. The exports so far this season have been largely in excess of those for the same time last year, being over 900,000 boxes against some 600,000 for the same period in 1893, for Montreal and New York. It is estimated that upwards of $3,000,000 has already been paid for cheese in Canada for export this season, and the great bulk of the season's make is yet to be moved.

The London Grocer reports the situation in that market up to June 30, as follows:—The arrival of new Cheshire cheese is still delayed, as the state of the market in general is not quite tempting enough for makers of English to push sales of their produce while any of the old (last year's) cheese is in stock, and the trade wears a quiet aspect throughout. Cheddar is about the only kind of old cheese that is left, and it is taken at 70s to 74s for fine, at 60s to 64s for good, and at 50s to 56s for common. Choice new double Glosters have been realised at 56s to 58, medium at 46s to 50s and half-skims at 36s to 44s; with new Wiltshire and Somerset loaf (coloured white) at 60s to 62, and new factory Derbys as follows:—Finest at 46s to 50s, and fine at 45s to 46s per cwt. The market for Canadian and American continues to betray a weakness, which is evident in the rather lower prices that have again been submitted to, and 45s to 47s are the nearest figures for choicest qualities on the spot, with undergraded stuff at 40s to 44s. The market for Dutch cheese has been almost inanimate, and it has been difficult to promote sales except at a slight giving away in prices now and then. New Zealand cheese has been disposable at 52s to 56s for fine, but Australian, being seriously out of condition, has been neglected.

WORSE THAN GRUNDY.

Here is a Fine Opportunity For Our Tory Contemporaries to Become Indignant.

(Belleville Ontario.)

The Peterborough EXAMINER moralizes at some length on the crime of chief clerk Tebb, who stole letters passing through the post office there, and it shows that a very great and very disgraceful disparity exists between his salary and the salary and emoluments of the postmaster. The gross receipts of the Peterborough postmaster last year were about $6,500, while Tebb, the head clerk, who did most of the work, got the beggarly salary of $500, though a married man. During the election the Tory papers devoted [illegible] of their space to denouncing the disparity in the Peterborough registry office, where Mr. Morrow, the registrar, got $2,500 and paid Grundy $900. Yet in the post office of at the same place, the postmaster gets a net income of $5,000, and paid his clerk only $500. And not one Tory paper has had a word to say about this. Yet they would like their readers to believe that in all they said about the Grundy matter their indignation was honest, and they were actuated by a sincere desire to promote public interests. The same papers had a lot to say also about the excessive quantity of eggs and sauce used at the Central Prison, but are silent as ghosts about the shameful waste in connection with the Curran Bridge. Professions of an honest desire for the public good made by such papers is sufficient to make a really honest man very sick.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., July 9.—Allan Stewart, of Springton, near here, says that Dodd's Kidney Pills saved his life and he wants the fact to be known. For thirty years he has had kidney disease and gravel. Hundreds of dollars spent on doctors and medicine failed to do any good. On July 14 last, Mr. Stewart had to take to his bed and everybody considered his case a hopeless one. He heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and began using them. He says he noticed an improvement from the first and ten boxes cured him. He is now free from all pain and enjoys excellent health.

THE ENDEAVOURERS' CONVENTION.

Rev. Dr. John Potts Delivers an Eloquent Address Upon 'Christ the Worker, a Model for All Endeavourers.'

Cleveland, July 13.—At the Christian Endeavor Convention this evening Rev. John Potts, D.D., of Toronto delivered an address upon the theme "Christ the worker, a model for all Endeavourers." Dr. Potts is one of the most eloquent Methodist preachers in Canada.

Dr. Potts in his address said:—It seems fitting that at a convention of the Christian Endeavour Society the example of Christ as the model worker for all disciples should be made prominent, and especially as the Sunday School world has begun a year of study of the life of Christ. This July should begin a great year in the study of the life of our Blessed Lord. The study of the life of Christ should enlarge our knowledge of Christ, our faith in Christ and our resemblance to Christ. The gospel of work must be preached. Christ and His disciples lived it and preached it. In extolling the doctrine justification by faith we seem to have belittled works—works, the faith of faith. Paul and James are reconcilable. Christian work is Christ's way of saving sinners. Work is Christ's way of blessing the church. It is by work that Christ makes the church healthy and strong and happy. Christ's greatest apostle was constantly exhorting disciples of Christ to consecrated service, saying "Let us not be weary in well doing, for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." How many there are who call Christ Master, and yet in the church, and yet living selfish lives, professing to believe the word of God and yet doing nothing to save men from impending ruin. How refreshing to contemplate Christ the worker as a model for all Christian workers. An inspired apostle afterwards gave them the brief but beautiful description of Christ, "who went about doing good." That was the very description of the man Christ Jesus. It is something worth remembering that Christian work can be done anywhere, everywhere and always. If we would imitate Christ the worker we must have His spirit of prayerfullness and of zeal for the glory of God. Jesus was found in the temple. Many have found Jesus in the temple since then. What a picture—Jesus in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them and asking them questions. It would be good for the teaching doctors now to have Jesus in their midst. Jesus in the midst of our theological schools. Endeavour Societies and in the midst of all church work.

Take Christ's thought of religion. How impressive it is. Religion, a business, religion the business of life. Let young people get this Jesus idea of religion—that it is a business. It should be a lifelong business, no retiring from it. In the ordinary affairs of life it is well for a man, when able to do so, to lessen the business cares and burdens, and take life most quietly in old age than in early and middle manhood, but in the great business of religion he should cease at once to work and live. His knowledge and experience should be of great value to the cause of God and to the young people. Contemplate religion as the great business of life. Let me ask, when should a business be learned! When should a musician learn music, or an artist painting, or a lawyer law, or a doctor medicine, or a merchant commerce? Is it in old age? Is it in middle life? Is is not rather in the days of youth? So of

THE GREAT BUSINESS OF RELIGION.

It should be begun in childhood. Remember Jesus and His declaration of consecration to His Father's business. How beautiful is this early consecration. How desirable it is in the light of prevention. With a young person it is not religion or nothing; it is plants of grace or weeds of sin. It is habits of godliness or habits of sinfulness. How desirable is the life of usefulness. Two men — one begins Christian life at 50, and works until he reaches four score years; the other begins Christian life at 20 and works till 80. The one has thirty years of service for Christ, the other twice thirty. An ideal life of consecrated service would be to begin in childhood and to render an uninterrupted, a Holy Spirit directed service, until at the close of life's long day the whisper is heard from the Master, "Come up higher." Young people, learn the lesson of early consecration to the work of God from the childhood consecration of Jesus. Begin early, and be sent about your Father's business until the end shall come. Let parents and teachers give all diligence to win children for the service of the Lord.

Shall Christianity or infidelity have the young people? Infidelity is catering for the young. In the sugar-coated but poisonous periodical literature of the age there is the most persistent determination to alienate the intelligent and educated young people away from the Bible and from the salvation therein revealed. Infidelity cares little for grey hairs and old age; it is after the balmy young people of the 19th century. Let the church of Christ and all societies in harmony with the church of Christ, give unceasing attention to the shepherding of the lambs and to the people. Work is the law of success. This is true in all departments of life, in professional and commercial life. Take the eminently successful man and in every instance work has been the royal road to success. Great lawyers are great workers; great doctors are great workers; great merchants are great workers. Christian work is the law of spiritual life, and it is the law of spiritual prosperity. Christian work is the law of Christianity. Character and Christian work shall be the test of the judgment day. Excuses are made by men who are members of the church, and who doubtless are Christians, that they cannot spare time to engage in Christian work. It is a very familiar kind of excuse. No Christian man has any right to be so busy as to be unable to work for God and his fellows. There is a rule of proportion to be observed—time for business and also time for Christ. There is work to be done in our families. How shall we stand in the presence of God with that neglected? There is work to be done in our places of business by employers or employed. There is work to be done in our circle of influence in the community. There is work at hand and all around. Lift up your eyes—lift up your eyes from the counter, from the desk, from the bench. Lift up your eyes and look on the fields, on the family field, on the Sunday School field, on the temperance field, on the home mission rescue field and on the foreign missionary field, for they are white unto harvest. "Say not there are four months and then cometh harvest." The devil is as well pleased with a four months' postponement of work as with a four years' postponement, so long as Christian work is postponed.

WARLIKE MANOEUVRES IN COREA.

Japan and China Preparing for Battle—Massacre of Christians.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 16.—News comes by the steamer Victoria that while she was at Yokohama active preparations for war were being pressed forward off Moji, on the Japanese coast. She passed a warship and eight troop ships, carrying 10,000 Japanese soldiers to Corea. The latter action was taken by the Japanese Government after a report that China was going to send 12,000 men. On June 26 Li Hung Chang ordered a fleet of five Chinese warships to the north for service. The whole orient is on the qui vive. Every telegram, every mail, every move by officials aids in keeping up the tension of feeling among the people. The Chinese troops are quartered at Assan, levying a forced tribute on the people and committing many indignities.

LONDON, July 16.—A despatch from Shanghai to the Times says that the tumult in Corea has been renewed and that in the last outbreak several Christians were killed.

Trouble Over the Soo Canal.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., July 16.—Considerable excitement exists in both of the Soo's because of the crib work at the head of the new Canadian ship canal proving inefficient, necessitating the tearing out and rebuilding of 260 feet of it. The trouble arose from the pressure of the heavy material at the back of the crib and can only be removed by rebuilding, which is now in progress. The opening of the canal, which is set for the first week in August, will be delayed for six weeks at least. A gentleman who professes to know says that owing to a blunder the whole of the crib work will have to be replaced within two years at a cost to the Government of over $100,000. Engineers from this side of the river are loud in their condemnation of the work.

Disappeared With the League's Funds.

LOCKPORT, N.Y., July 16.—William Longloft, grand secretary of the Independent League of Glass Blowers of the United States and Canada, left his home here on July 3 to attend the annual convention at Atlantic City. His wife received a despatch from him dated New York, July 5, and that is the last heard of or from him. He was said to have the custody of the league's funds, some $50,000 or $60,000, but it is not known whether this is impaired. Longloft is a Canadian by birth and 48 years old.

A Great Northern Brakeman Murdered.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 16.—Charles Luth was killed in a boarding house in St. Paul on Saturday evening. He was a brakeman on the Great Northern road. A clerk in the Omaha freight office, named Charles Leonard, went to the boarding house with a man named Nash to make arrangements for boarding some non-union men. Luth called Leonard a "scab" and knocked both Nash and Leonard down. Leonard then fired four times at Luth who died within five minutes. Leonard is under arrest.

Valuable Herd of Jerseys Lost.

MONCTON, N. B., July 16.—Over a deep cutting on the Halifax branch, half a mile from Moncton, was a very high overhead fifty-foot span bridge connecting the farm of A. E. Killen, M.P.P. Yesterday a few minutes after the Halifax express passed, the bridge, without warning, fell to the track below, carrying a very valuable herd of Jerseys. Three cows were instantly killed, others severely injured. Loss estimated at $400.

---

Miners Returning to Work.

CORNING, July 16.—The miners at Arnot, Morris Run, Fall Brook and Antrim, Tioga county, Pa., have decided to resume work. They have been on strike since April 19, when ordered out by President McBride, of the United Mine Workers' Union. The loss entailed by the miners falls the heaviest on the miners. There must have been 4,000 or 5,000 persons affected by the strike who have lost about three months' pay.

---

Robbed and Deserted His Wife.

TORONTO, July 16.—Chief Wills, of Windsor, arrived in the city on Saturday evening to take charge of a man named Thackeray, with many aliases, who is wanted for deserting his wife after robbing her of $850, her rings and her watch and chain. After leaving his wife Thackeray came to Toronto, where he was placed in arrest by a Detroit detective who located him here.

A Shocking Crime in Tennesee.

JACKSON, Tenn., July 16.—Miss Portia Wellington was murdered near Pinson in this county. She was about 16 years of age, the daughter of W. T. Wellington, a prominent planter of Pinson. The throat of the dead girl was black as though she had been choked and her dress was torn. The condition of the body leaves no doubt that the murder was committed in an attempt to outrage the victim.

A Fatal Railway Collision.

LOUISVILLE, July 16.—Passenger train No. 7, on the Louisville & Nashville, and freight train No. 24 came together in a head-end collision at Colesburg, Ky. Both engines were wrecked, and Engineer Frank Dudley of this city was killed and Fireman McCormick slightly injured. None of the passengers were hurt. The accident was the result of a misunderstanding of orders by the engineer who lost his life.

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please, and am I have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similiar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose to pay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. J. Hay, B. D., Cobourg, conducted the morning and evening services in St. Paul's church, yesterday, preaching at both services. His sermons were scholarly and eloquent.

At the evening service in the George street Methodist church, while the collection was being taken up, Miss Hagerman sang a solo in excellent voice.

At the morning service in the Mark street Methodist church, yesterday, Miss Annie Smith and Miss Eva Kindred sang a duet with excellent taste and expression.

CHARLOTTE STREET METHODIST CHURCH.

The Rev. J. J. Rae occupied his own pulpit and preached morning and evening to large congregations. His pulpit ministrations are earnest, practical and full of energy and fervor. The morning sermon was based on Christ's words found in St. Matthew's gospel, "Be ye therefore perfect as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." The Rev. preacher exhorted his hearers to follow the divine model, the Lord Jesus Christ. The text was illustrated by anecdotes and examples of the apostles and others, and closed with an earnest appeal to his hearers to put the text to practical use. The evening text was taken from the words found in St. John's gospel, "And he brought him to Jesus." The illustrations and exhortations were earnest and faithfully delivered to a large congregation, who gave the closest attention to the service, and at the close many expressions were heard of pleasure and profit having been derived from the day's services. The singing of the choir was inspiring.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

Last night in the George street Methodist church the pastor, Rev. Mr. Young, preached a special sermon from the text found in the 19th verse of the 1st chapter of the Epistle of St. James, "Be swift to hear, slow to speak and slow to wrath." The lesson was the third chapter of the same epistle in which the apostle, according to the argument prefixed to the chapter enjoins the brethren "rather to bridle the tongue, a little member but a powerful instrument of much good and great harm." The reverend gentleman referred to the ten commandments, a code of law that never had been or would be repealed, and pointed out how the commandments forbade bearing false witness against one's neighbour. The sermon was a direct, vigorous and pungent denunciation of the great evil of circulating slander and was a straight pointer to the malicious gossips that roll a slanderous story against their neighbour under their tongues as a sweet morsel.

UNION EXCURSION.

Buckhorn and Bridgenorth True Blues Amalgamate for the Day.

On July 12th one of the most pleasant and successful excursions of the season was run by Beaver Lodge No. 60, L.T.B., of Buckhorn, and No. 56, L.T.B., of Bridgenorth, to take part in the celebration at Lindsay.

The steamer Golden City, of Lakefield, was chartered for the occasion, and despite the heavy downpour of rain, 120 True Blues and their friends embarked at Buckhorn at 6.30 a.m., and proceeded to the Indian Village and Chemong station, where the number was considerably augmented. On their arrival at Bridgenorth they were joined by the True Blues of that place and their friends, and the number was swelled to about 200.

During the long sail to Lindsay the well-trained fife and drum bands discoursed sweet music suitable to the occasion, and Mr. David Miller's orchestra was in constant demand by the younger members of the party.

About nine o'clock a fresh breeze sprang up, the leaden clouds were dispersed, and Old Sol smiled down upon the scene. Dinner was supplied by the lady friends of the True Blues on the boat, so that upon arrival in Lindsay the lodges immediately joined the procession, which was already formed, and took part in the exercises of the day.

Beaver Lodge, numbering forty, was marshalled by Mr. Wm. Simpson, and Bridgenorth Lodge, of about the same strength, was marshalled by Mr. John Morrison. Both lodges presented a very creditable appearance, and were much admired by the throngs of people which had assembled to do honor to the memory of King William.

After the party had enjoyed several hours in Lindsay, the warning whistle of the steamer summoned all to the wharf, where they embarked for the homeward voyage. After a speedy run all were safely landed at their various homes, somewhat tired after their hundred-mile trip, but well pleased with their outing, which was very satisfactory both financially and otherwise.

The courtesy of the genial Captain Reynolds and his obliging crew was much appreciated, as was attested by the hearty cheers given by the excursionists upon arrival at the various landing places, and no doubt the services of the staunch, comfortable and speedy steamer Golden City will be in constant demand during the excursion season.

A special prize for the oldest Orangemen present that day will be given. A number of prominent speakers will be present to deliver addresses on the occasion. ## THE CIRCUS FAKIRS SCATTER.

Government Detectives Appear in Their Midst—The Gang Broken Up.

The smooth-tongued gentry in connection with Cook & Whitby's circus, who operated so successfully in Peterborough, Lindsay and other towns in the district, and who found many willing dupes in all these towns, have suddenly retired from the business.

Government Detectives Greer and Rogers paid the circus a visit at Listowel, but the gang getting wind of their coming, as they did in this town when they learned Chief Roszel was on their tracks, pulled up stakes and "silently stole away."

The nut shell fakirs were not so easily subdued, and were surrounded by a large crowd of townspeople, who were anxious to be relieved of their cash, but they were forced to decamp and it is said the circus is now entirely free from those objectionable characters.

On the Lacrosse Field, the Crease and the Diamond—Triple A. Topics—The Bicycle and Football.

BASEBALL.

A fair sized crowd witnessed the baseball match on the P.A.A.A. grounds Saturday afternoon between the local nine and the Cobourg champions of Canada, which resulted in a victory for Cobourg by a score of 17 to 9. The Peterborough's, with few exceptions, put up a ragged game and showed their lack of practice. King, on first, put up a good game and made some splendid catches, while Dolan in left field played good ball, as also Drain, who played second base. O'Brien in the box showed up well during the game, and is improving every day. Owing to the hard condition of the ground it was very difficult to successfully handle the "grounders" which were forced along the diamond like a shot. The batting of the home team was on the whole very good, as their score will show. The home team claim that their score of Saturday is the highest that has been made off Cobourg this season.

LINERS.

The members of the Cobourg team are a gentlemanly lot of young fellows. Manager Fairbanks is a general favourite among them.

"Pat" Mulhall, late of Buffalo, was on Saturday's team, playing left field for the champions.

An effort is being made to bring Lindsay here next Friday.

Peterborough will play the Maroons of Toronto, on the home grounds next Saturday.

If certain members of the local baseball nine would put in an appearance at practice occasionally, they would give a better account of themselves than they did in Saturday's match.

Cobourg will play Canton, N. Y., at the railway gathering in Cobourg on July 24th.

"Jimmy" McCracken, late of the Cobourgs, is putting up a great game this season with the Maple Leafs of Guelph.

Cobourg defeated Newcastle in an exhibition game last Thursday by the score of 20 to 7.

Oshawa and Port Hope play ball to-day.

Bowmanville defeated Oshawa 17 to 6 at Bowmanville, on Saturday.

Markham and Uxbridge played lacrosse at the latter place, on Saturday, Markham winning by four straight games. Both teams had unbeaten records before Saturday's game.

CRICKET.

Owing to the temporary closing of Dickson's mill and the removal of the water from the race way, the cricketers will suffer not a little from want of water on the wicket.

It is particularly desired that those who are unable to practice during the afternoons will do so in the evenings. The nets are up Tuesday, Thursdays and Saturdays from 6.30 till dark.

The match between Cobourg and Campbellford did not take place owing to the inability of the former to materialize.

It is expected that the Bankers' Town match will take place this week. The coin counters need not pray for rain or anything else that will stop the game as the natives of this burg are determined to show their superiority in a very decisive way.

LACROSSE.

A team of the Peterborough's will go to Perth on Tuesday, July 24th, to play the club of that town. The railway picnic is held there the same day.

The Granites and Millbrooks will likely cross sticks here on Thursday, July 26th.

A Kingston paper states that the lacrosse club of that city is practising steadily, and will beat the best of them in the district. Peterborough would like to arrange a match with the Limestones.

Following is the standing of the Midland League:

| Port Hope | 1 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Peterborough | 1 | 1 | 1 | 1 |

The Ontario's of Port Hope, will play the Georgetown team, the champions of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, on Wednesday, July 18th.

THE WHEEL.

A bicycle had collided with a coal carters dray and lay a tangled mass of ruins upon the road. The various parts of the machine soon began an animated discussion as to what particular part was to blame for the disaster.

"You lost your bearings," grumbled the handle bar to the wheel.

"And you are not fit to be pedaled," retorted the wheel.

"I'm sorry I spoke," was the courteous reply.

"You two tire me to death," put in the chain.

"Well, the handle bar was trying to saddle the affair onto me," remarked the wheel, with a trifle of resentiment in its tone.

"Be quiet, you rubberneck," chirped in the handle bar.

"Was your headlight," responded the wheel, viciously.

"It may have been, but there are no wheels in it."

"May I axle little question?" meekly inquired the chain.

"I'll cog-itate upon the matter," replied the handle bar, and the stillness of the night was broken only by the wind as it whistled through the pneumatic tube.

SPRINTING.

At the driving park, Peterborough, on July 2nd, a W. McColl, said to be from Pembroke, challenged Mr. M. Bird to a five mile race—in fact a race of any number of miles. Mr. M. Bird accepted his challenge, a notice to that effect appearing in the sporting columns of the EXAMINER. McColl was to arrive in town either Saturday night or to-day noon to complete final arrangements for the race; which was to take place in Lindsay on Peterborough's civic holiday, that gentleman claiming to be working in that town. He failed to show up to-day, and Mr. Bird states that the race is off, and that he will retire from the track for the present. The race was for a purse of $50, and Mr. Bird says he would cover the five mile in twenty-seven minutes, which is remarkably good time.

MISCELLANEOUS.

It is very discouraging to all lovers of manly sport in town to occupy a grandstand seat in the P. A. A. A. grounds and witness an athletic club go to pieces on the field for want of practice and the lack of interest in the game they are playing. It has often been stated, with a good deal of truth, that the citizens of Peterborough take no practical interest in the different clubs in town, and it is not to be wondered at, when we consider the fact that on the practice nights of the respective clubs, only two or three of its members turn out to practice, and show an interest in the club, and when a match is arranged and the club takes the field, their playing is a parody on the superior playing of their opponents, whose individual playing show the result of careful practice, and besides their manager knows what to expect from them, and places them on the field accordingly. Peterborough possesses the material for first class cricket and baseball clubs, and if the members of these clubs would only come to the conclusion and realize the fact that only constant and combined practice wins the day, the practical interest and sympathy of all lovers of the sport will be forthcoming. Practice makes perfect.

JUNE WEATHER NOTES.

Lovely June of '94 has said good-bye and it is only a question of time when all who have seen its 30th fade away, shall say farewell to all things earthly; all of us shall close our 30th and be ushered into the great unknown. The month came in fine and moderate, continuing up to the 9th, when a decided change took place and continuing with little variation from the 9th to the 30th both inclusive, having 17 days at and between 80 and 90 degrees, and having 3 days over 90 degrees, namely at 2 p.m. on the 16th at 92 degrees; the 17th at 93 degrees, and the 22nd again at 92 degrees, with only 2 days below 80 degrees; the coldest at 2 p.m. being 38 degrees at sunrise on the morning of the 2nd, our hottest at the morning observation being 66 degrees on the 23rd, and our coldest on the 6th coming down to 32 degrees, with sharp frost and considerable ice; then having it 9 times 50 degrees or below and 21 time over 50 degrees, leaving the mean temperature of the month at 66 6-30 degrees. Rain fell on 15 days to the depth of 1 inch and 83-100—nothing out of the way for June. Twelve times thunder although no very severe storms; once hail and one awful gale; but one noticable thing was the absence of phenomena. During the month the following are the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise respectiveiy, namely, northeast 1 day, southwest 10 days, northwest 14 days, north 1 day, west 2 days, southwest 1 day, and south 1 day.

THE STEWART CASE.

Mr. Stewart Pays a Visit to Pictou—Congratulated by His Many Friends on His Restoration to Health.

PICTOU, N.S., July 16.—Good news sometimes travels as fast as bad news, which is proverbially fast. Many people here knew that Mr. Allan Stewart, of Springton, P.E.I., had been for many years afflicted with kidney disease and gravel. It was known, too, that last year he was so bad that public opinion put him down as likely to die soon. Mr. Stewart fooled public opinion though, for he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills and ten boxes of them completely cured him. When he paid a flying visit to this city a few days ago, he received many hearty congratulations on restoration to health and improved appearance. Dodd's Kidney Pills have never yet failed to cure in this part of the Dominion.

IN SELF DEFENCE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Would you kindly allow me space to refer to the fire at which David Scollie lost his life, as Thomas Gray, with whom the unfortunate man lived, has been circulating false reports in reference to myself. I understand that he reports that I could have saved Mr. Scollie if I had wished, which is a false statement. It was impossible for me to render any assistance on account of the delay in giving the alarm. There were some remarks made in reference to me at the inquest which I could have replied to then, if I had not in compliance with Gray's wishes kept silent till after he had secured his insurance. He said he would reply to those remarks himself after he had got settled up, but up to the present he has not been man enough to do so. I did not hear the report till now. I must also state that I have some grouud for suspicion, from what I knew before the accident, and from what I have heard and seen since. This is the only opportunity I have had of defending myself from the results such a report would bring upon me and my family in the way of disgrace.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for so much of your space, I remain, yours truly.

W. J. MCGREGOR.

These conditions aggravate one another. Your bad temper is likewise aggravating to your friends. No need to go further, the rest is easy. ## MONTREAL'S LATEST SENSATION.

An Abortion Case in Which Will Figure a Prominent Member of Parliament.

MONTREAL, July 14. — A sensational abortion case will come before the courts shortly. Judge Dugas, the police magistrate, was called to the police court to take the dying deposition of Louise Davis, a young French Canadian woman, who confessed to having undergone an abortion. The authorities refuse to disclose the facts of the confession until further proceedings are taken. The party implicated is said to be a prominent member of Parliament, and sensational developments are expected.

A Wretch Receives the Cat.

MONTREAL, July 14.—The Montreal jail was the scene of a thrashing yesterday, when Narcisse Planto, alias Pacand, received fifteen lashes of the cat-of-nine-tails for an indecent assault on a young girl. Apparently the most unconcerned of all was the prisoner. He uttered no sound, not a word of appeal for mercy, not even a groan. As the lash fell the blood showed itself until the skin was a dark purple, but there was no abrasion; the work of the lasher was well done. Planto was led away to the doctor's care, and thence to his cell. He will receive fifteen more strokes shortly before his liberation. As he left the room he turned his head and said: "That's quite a diversion."

Gored to Death by a Bull.

HAMILTON, July 14.—A Beverly township farmer, named John Rutherford, was gored to death by a vicious bull on his farm. The bull was known to be vicious and was tied up, but it broke loose and attacked the old man, goring him in the abdomen and mutilating him in a fearful manner. Two sons of Mr. Rutherford, who were in an adjoining field, rushed to the rescue of their father and drove the animal off, but too late to prevent fatal results. Mr. Rutherford died to death in a few minutes. Deceased was 80 years of age, well-known and highly respected. He leaves a widow and a grown-up family of five.

Cobra Poison as Medicine.

Dried and pulverized, the poison is almost as deadly as when injected by the live cobra. Native doctors use it medicinally in microscopic doses, and have a barbarous method of extracting it. They put a cobra into an earthen pot, and drop a banana in after it. They then tie down the lid and heat the pot over the fire. The wretched snake is soon tortured into a rage in its baking prison, and bites the banana in its paroxysms. The fruit is afterward carefully dried and is then ready for use. It is pronounced under some circumstances to be a wonderfully powerful stimulant, but it is only used in extreme cases, and even then probably does infinitely more harm than good.

Eighty Cent Gas.

The city authorities of Chicago produce figures to show that they can make and deliver gas to the citizens at eighty cents, and cover into the City Treasury $2,000,000 a year in the transaction. By and by those who dwell in cities will find out what great frauds the gas companies really are. Taken at an average, the residents of cities in this country are paying twice as much for gas as they should pay, yet when anything is said against such extortion it is called "howling" or something equivalent. —American Machinist.

THE PLAGUE IN CHINA.

IT RESEMBLES IN CHARACTER THAT OF LONDON IN 1665.

More Fatal, However, It Now Rages in Hong-Kong and Canton—60,000 Dead in the Latter City and Forty a Day in the Former.

The special correspondent of the New York Herald says the telegraph is inadequate to convey an idea of the clear character and extent of the visitation which is ravaging Canton, Pakhoi and Hong-Kong and throwing that part of the world generally into a state of terror and panic almost without parallel.

The disease has long been raging in the two first named places and it has carried off tens of thousands of victims in the last few weeks, but so long as it was confined to Canton very little was said about it in print. The moment it reached Hong-Kong, however, the alarm became great and threw the colonists and the government of that island, as well as the foreign and native residents of the coast ports, into a state of terror and alarm. Even in Hong-Kong an effort seems to have been made at first to keep the existence of the pestilence secret, but it spread so fast and was so horribly fatal in its effects that it was found impossible to conceal the dead truth for more than a few days.

The plague, which is described by medical men as almost exactly similar in appearance and symptoms to "the great plague of London," which devastated that city in 1665, was noticed first in Canton about the end of April, prior to which date there had been a period of prolonged drought.

The first sign observed was the appearance of thousands of rats, swollen and evidently dying, crawling up from the open sewers and the houses of that abominably filthy city. These vermin are invariably the precursors of all such visitations in Southern China, and every year they give notice of the appearance of the plague in Pakhoi, where it appears to be almost epidemic. The disease is of a bubonic character, with purpulish or black swellings in the glandular regions, in the groin, armpit, under the knees and in the neck, accompanied by terrific fever, the temperature going at a bound up to 105 and over 106.

It is frightfully rapid in its course. Purging diarrhœa at once sets in and a state of delirium followed by coma is reached in three or four hours in bad cases, death ensuing and the body turning black, putrid and swollen to thrice its size in the course of twelve to twenty-four hours. Very strong men have resisted the attack for two days and then succumbed, but as many as eighty per cent of those attacked in Canton died in one day. Those who held out for three or four days generally recovered, but they were very few. Six thousand fatal cases are known to have occurred in one district in Canton—in the old Mohammedan quarter of the city—within a week, these figures being checked by the number of coffins given out for the burial of the dead by one charitable institution.

A foreign missionary resident in Canton made systematic inquiries, which he avers show that up to the 8th June, at least 60,000 people have been carried off. All the immense business of the city was at a standstill, and the inhabitants who could do so were fleeing into the country. Several medical and other experts were despatched from Hong-Kong to inquire into the case of the plague, and they all agreed that it was due primarily to the incredible filth, the abominable habits and the poverty of the Cantonese, aided no doubt by the prolonged drought, which caused the filth in the open sewers to germinate into hideous forms of life.

Some people believe that the fondness of the Cantonese for rats as an article of food is largely accountable for the pestilence, which the rats caught first from eating the festering contents of the sewers. There may be something in this, for it is a fact that none of the European residents of Canton or Hong-Kong has been attacked by the plague, which is entirely confined to the Chinese. Nor in one hospital where over four hundred patients lay, three hundred of whom died in a few hours, were any of the attendants attacked. I myself saw, however, one case of a European being carried off by an exactly similar plague in Pakhir in 1887, when the Chinese there were dying at the rate of over one hundred a day. This man lived as a Chinese, dwelling among them and eating their food. So far as I can learn this is the only instance on record of the bubonic plague in Pakhir, Canton or Hong-Kong affecting others than natives.

The doctors describe the symptoms as follows:

"With or without premonitory warning in the shape of malaise or chill there is a sudden onset of fever, rising to 105 or over. There is much headache and cerebral disturbance, accompanied by stupor. In from twelve to twenty-four hours a glandular swelling occurs in the neck, armpits or groin, rapidly enlarging to the size of a fowl's egg. It is hard and exceedingly tender. With or without a decline of the fever the patient sinks deeper into a condition of coma and dies, usually at the end of forty-eight hours or sooner. If six days are reached recovery is hopeful. The glandular swelling shows no sign of suppuration. In some cases epistaxis or vomiting of blood occurs; petechiæ appear in a few, but no regular eruption. Such are, briefly, the symptoms at the beginning of the disease."

A Good Appetite

Always accompanies good health, and an absence of appetite is an indication of something wrong. The universal testimony given by those who have used Hood's Sarsaparilla, as to its merits in restoring the appetite, and as a purifier of the blood, constitutes the strongest recommendation that can be urged for any medicine.

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

S. P. SMITH, of Towanda, Pa., whose constitution was completely broken down, is cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He writes:

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 159 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."

BLACK DEATH IN CHINA

THE TERRIBLE PLAGUE RAGING IN CANTON AND HONG KONG.

It is the Black Plague of History—Its Symptoms and Its Terrors—Chinese Coffins Fewer Than the Occupants Ready for Them—The Lepers.

PEKING, June.—All China and the far east are much excited over the terrible plague which has recently broken out in the southern provinces of this empire. It came originally from the interior, but it has reached Canton and Hong Kong, and the people are dying at the rate of hundreds per day. The big steamship lines which sail from China to Europe are now refusing to stop at Hong Kong, or take passengers from South China, and the papers of the countries surrounding this part of the world are full of rumors and fears that the plague will be carried to Japan and elsewhere. The disease is practically an unknown one to the physicians of to day, but it is said to be the same as that which devastated Europe during the middle ages, and which was so awful in its ravages that it got the title of "the black death." It ran over Europe again and again from the sixth to the eighteenth centuries, and it is said to have caused more deaths than any of the great epidemics which human flesh has been heir to. It is the pest which Daniel Defoe describes in his story of the great plague of London of 1665 and 1666, and it has done terrible damage in Arabia and Persia within the past generation. It came a few years ago from China to Southern Russia, and the Czar stationed troops about the infected districts and in this way kept it from the rest of Europe. The plague that ravaged Europe in the fourteenth century came from China, and it has been known to have existed for some years past in one of the Chinese provinces above the Burmese frontier.

CHINESE DOCTOR.

The black death broke out in Canton during the last week in February, and for a time the average of those who died from it was about 200 per day. This average steadily increased, until in March and April it was 500 per day, and the mortality at the present time is very large. It is said that the Pearl river, which flows past the city, and upon which hundreds of thousands of people live, contains many floating corpses, and that the undertakers are unable to make coffins enough to supply the demand. To-day the dead in Canton are carried out and disposed in all sorts of ways, and the greatest trouble is found in getting rid of them. Often the pall-bearers, who are paid to carry the coffins to the grave, are stricken with the dread disease on the way, and of the four who start out with the body only one or two return.

There are not coffins enough for the grown persons, and the children are being buried in baskets or wrapped up in pieces of matting. In some places the babies are not buried at all, and the baby towers are full. These baby towers you find all over China. They are little buildings, with windows high up near the roof. The babies are laid on the windows and are pushed inside to decompose as they will. I saw, near Shanghai, the bodies of babies thrown out upon the roadside, and such corpses are often left by the poor for the dogs to eat. To-day many of the dead at Canton have not a burial plot, and their coffins are left on the top of the ground. This, in the case of such an infectious disease as the black plague, cannot but be of great danger to the rest of the people, and the plague is said to be steadily spreading over the surrounding country. Some of the coffins are hermetically sealed by varnishing them again and again with a sort of lacquer varnish, and as the wood is often four inches thick, in ordinary times they do not cause much trouble from their offensive smell. Now, however, the haste with which the dead are disposed of does not admit of such treatment, and the very air about Canton is leaden with the pestilence.

The sanitary board of Hong Kong visited the plague-stricken parts of Canton some weeks ago, and made a report on the disease and its symptoms. It comes upon one without warning in the shape of a fever, which raises the temperature of the patient in a short time to 105 degrees and upward. There is no chill and no other premonitory symptoms. The patient has a severe headache, and he shows signs of stupor. After 12 hours the glands of the neck, the armpits or the groin begin to swell, and they soon become as big as a hen's egg. These swellings are hard and exceedingly tender, but they do not suppurate. In some cases a vomiting of blood occurs, and within a few hours the man dies. Some few recover after having been attacked, and if they can keep themselves alive for more than six days after their exposure there is a chance for them. The disease seems to be infectious, and in those quarters where it is raging it has more than decimated the population. In one small street the sanitary board of Hong Kong found thirty deaths, and in another out of 170 people only forty have survived. At one of the gates of Canton a man took a box the other day and dropped a cash into it every time a coffin was carried out. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon he counted the cash and found he had 170 in the box.

The disease is very sudden in its attacks, and the only safety from it seems to be to get out of its range. For weeks the people have been flying from Canton, and a letter which I saw the other day states that every house seems to have its dead. A few days ago a thief entered a house in which the whole family had died of the plague, expecting to have an easy haul. He was stricken while in the act of robbing the dead, and a day or two later the body, with the booty upon it, was found lying in the house. A curious thing about the plague is that it affects some kinds of animals as well as men, and in Canton it attacked the rats of the city first. Dead rats were found in the drains of the infected quarters, and the rats ran from such places almost as fast as the human species. In every house where dead rats were found it was seen that the people had taken the black plague and the sign of a dead rat will now cause a family to fly.

The Hong Kong doctors said at first that the disease was not of a parasitic nature, and that it could not be carried to any great distance; but this is thought by many to be a mistake, and it is now said that its germs can be transported in clothing and in other ways, and the Japan Mail is advising the most rigid sanitary precautions against all of the Hong Kong steamers. In one editorial it asserts that even a shotgun quarantine would be justifiable against it, and when it is remembered that every ten days a big steam-ship from Hong Kong lands at San Francisco and Vancouver, it would seem advisable that the greatest care be taken to keep it out of America. It is thought here that the disease cannot get a firm hold of any quarter which has good sanitary arrangements, and so far, I believe, only Asiatics have been afflicted with it. It has attacked Hong Kong, and on May 15 thirty-four deaths were then reported. The Japanese papers had reports that there were one or two deaths in different parts of Japan, but these reports have since been denied. The Japanese are much better prepared to suppress such a plague, should it break out, than is China. They are the cleanliest people in the world in regard to their persons, and their towns and houses are models of neatness. China is the filthiest and nastiest country on the face of the globe, and outside of the treaty ports there are no means of enforcing sanitary measures. At different points along the most crowded of the streets you will find cesspools in which the vilest of slops are poured and left to ferment, even in the hottest of weather. There are drains in some of the cities, but these are flushed only by the rains, and it is said that the one cause of the rapid spread of the plague in Canton was the prolonged drought which has afflicted the city this spring.

The fact that the plague exists in Canton makes its danger greater than it would be had it broken out in any other city of China. Canton is the commercial metropolis of the empire. It is the biggest of the Chinese business cities, and it contains something like 3,000,000 of people. Its boat population is said to number more than 300,000, and many people are born, live and die upon its waters. Its people are the brightest in China, and they are the best traders and the best workers among the celestials. They will command higher wages than the Chinese from any other cities, and you find Canton men engaged in business all over China.

The black plague, on account of the poor diet of the people and their poverty, will last longer in Canton than it would in an American city. There are practically no facilities for taking care of the sick, and Chinese medicine is worse than no medicine. The missionary hospital will do much. It is one of the best hospitals in the East, and it does a great deal of good. The chief Chinese charitable institutions of Canton are a blind asylum, from which blind beggars go out day after day over the city; a foundling asylum, supported out of the salt tax, and a leper asylum. This last is in a banyan grove two miles from the gate of the city. It contains about 500 inmates, and more horrible creatures do not exist on the face of the earth. Many of them have their fingers and toes eaten off by the disease. Some have lost their noses and others have skeleton-like bodies, half of the bones and flesh of which has rotted away. Just now these lepers are an important element of the black plague. They blackmail the funeral processions and levy a tribute on the mourners. If they are not paid they raise a hue and cry and threaten to split open the coffins and exhume the dead. There is not much danger of their doing this as to the black plague corpses, for to touch one is almost sure death, but the people fear them all the same, and the leper fees are a legitimate part of the Chinese funeral expenses. As it is, leprosy seems to be on the increase. There are more lepers in Canton than can be accommodated in the asylum.

There are no more superstitious people than the Chinese, and such an occasion as this brings out all of the witches and soothsayers. I hear that the streets of Canton are now filled with priests exorcising the devils of the plague, and that the people go through the city in bands beating gongs and drums to drive the demons away. At the head of one band was a boy who had on a hideous dragon mask, and the dragon boats which are kept for the annual dragon-boat festival have been brought out. All sorts of praying go on before the different joss and the ancestral tablets, and every one connected with the burial of the dead are making money. A large class of merchants sell nothing else but silver and gold paper, which is bought by the families of the dead and is burned by them over their graves, with the idea that this will supply them with funds for their travels in the next world. Paper and wooden cows and horses are manufactured to be burned in the same way, and the dealers in white goods will be getting rich. White is the color of mourning in China, and the family when they repair to the cemetery wear clothes of white, tied on with coarse rope. They leave food at the graves, and generally send an extra suit of paper clothes along to keep the corpse warm when it becomes a ghost.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—ulcers and tumors form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

Gives Instant Relief.

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause than Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

Nothing Impossible.

Just now a mite of money is worth a mountain of stock.

Just now, nothing seems impossible in the line of economy. But the TRUTH about low values is hard to comprehend. Anything less than ALL the facts concerning OUR goods and their present values would be unjust to the public.

You cannot always buy so many kinds of goods at and below cost as we offer you now. Your best economy is to invest your money in wisely selected goods at present prices at this store. Listen:

DRESS GOODS
AT COST.

Just to liven things up these hot days we offer all our Summer Dress Goods at about cost. This will help to clear out our stock and save carrying anything over to another season.

WASH GOODS
AT COST.

Chambrays, Krinkles and Muslins all at cost. This is the chance of the season as the stock is all right and well bought.

PARASOLS
AT COST.

Not a fraction of a fib, fabrication or falsehood gets into our store talk. Truth is the best salesman. Parasols at cost just means what it says.

ALL TRIMMED MILLINERY
AT HALF PRICE.

That's a sweeping reduction. Surely cost plays no part in this case. Half price takes everything we have in Trimmed Millinery.

MANTLES AND CAPES
At interesting figures.

DELAINES
AT ABOUT COST.

We can accommodate these beautiful goods to those who come for them. Their bargain story has new life to-day.

BLOUSES, SHIRT WAISTS

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

Electric pianos, which play themselves, the keys being depressed as though by some unseen hand, are now being manufactured.

M. Wilde says that a temperature of one hundred and fifty-seven degrees below zero was registed at Werckojansk, Eastern Siberia, in February, 1892. This is the lowest temperature ever registered on the face of the earth.

Tests recently made in Japan of the hauling powers of American and English locomotives on the Tokaido railway, resulted decidedly in favor of the English engines, and preference will be given to them in future.

We are told by Prof. Oliver Dodge, the celebrated physicist, that at the absolute zero of temperature (three hundred and seventy degrees C. or four hudred and fifty-nine degrees Fahrenheit) the molecules of a perfect gas would lie so inert that they could be swept together in piles on the floor.

The average weight of the brain of an adult male is three pounds eight ounces; of a female two pounds four ounces. The nerves are all connected with it directly or by the spinal marrow. These nerves, with all their branches and minute ramifications, probably exceed ten million in number.

It costs about forty-seven hundred and fifty dollars per shot to fire one of Krupp's one hundred and thirty-ton steel guns. The gun cost one hundred and ninety-five thousand dollars, and it can only be fired, at the most, sixty times. The gun has a range of fifteen miles, and the projectiles weigh twenty-six hundred pounds.

A Hanoverian botanist named Wehmer, it is reported, has discovered a microbe in the atmosphere, pure cultures of which will convert sugar into an acid identical with that of the lemon. This discovery is expected to revolutionize the citric acid industry and injure the lemon growers. Eleven parts of sugar by the new process, with very little effort, give six parts of acid.

MUSICAL MATTERS.

The musical service in St. Paul's, in London, is said to be the finest in the world.

Master Bronislaw Huberman, the new ten-year-old violin prodigy, who is now astonishing London, is a Pole, four feet high.

Mascagni is said to have made ninety thousand dollars in profits from "Cavalleria Rusticana" down to the end of last year.

It may not be generally known that Mr. J. L. Molloy, the popular song-writer, is an English barrister. His work is the law; his recreation, music.

The London stock exchange has an orchestra, composed of members of the exchange, accounted one of the finest amateur musical organizations in that city.

The jewels of Mme. Tetrazzine, the most famous prima donna in South America, were recently seized for debt, when it was found that all the gems were made of paste.

Miss Frances Crosby, author of "Safe in the Arms of Jesus" and other widely-sung hymns, is sixty-one years of age, and has been blind since she was six weeks old.

Australia is sending another gifted singer to England. She is Miss Ada Crossley, a native of Gippsland, Victoria. She is young, vigorous in physique, and has a magnificent contralto voice.

The secret of Paderewski's long hair has just been casually disclosed by some persons not remotely connected with his enterprising managers. He has weak eyes, and his physician thinks that cutting his hair would tend to make them weaker.

Have you tried Derby Plug Smoking Tobacco 5 10 and 20 cent plugs.

FARMING IN FOREIGN LANDS.

Lucerne (alfalfa) growing has proved eminently successful in the dry districts of Australia.

The Hessian fly is reported to have done great damage to the wheat fields of New Zealand last season.

India ranks third among the countries of the world for wheat production. Its total wheat crop last year was 208,000,000 bushels.

An Australian farmer reports a crop of 750 bushels of Algerian oats from ten acres of land. Another one eclipses this by a crop of eighty bushels to the acre.

The British chief secretary for Ireland has been urged to establish a department of agriculture in Ireland. His reply is very encouraging to the friends of the projects.

The American trotting horse is becoming popular in Italy. Of the 893 private stallions in that country which were approved by the official inspectors seventeen were American.

The French have introduced coffee culture in Tonquin with good prospects of success. Both the Liberian and Arabian varieties of coffee trees are in cultivation, and all are reported as doing well.

New Zealand flax, Phormium tenax, is a plant of the lily family, and it is calculated that not less than eighty varieties of it are grown in New Zealand. It is also grown, to some extent, in the Chatham and Norfolk islands.

The dairy industry has grown rapidly in New Zealand. The exports of dairy products advanced in twenty years from $45,000 in 1872 to $1,590,000 in 1892. The colony now has 174 establishments of all kinds for the manufacture of butter and cheese.

JEWELRY AND SILVERWARE.

The return of the pendants is conspicuous.

A pretty new slide is a lyre set with gems.

Tiny alcohol lamps with ivory handles are seen everywhere.

A curious novelty is a street lamp in silver gilt and enamel.

There is a sudden influx of match safes of silver in raised relief.

Long silver brooches are of blue enamel with broken edges of silver.

Ice cream sets are oblong salvers with broken edges, and trowel-like knives.

The mania abroad for paste in millinery, brooches and slides is commented upon on every side.

Almost every woman now wears a long slim chain of silver if not of gold. The silver chains punctuated with enameled beads are very pretty.

New silver brooches are in foliated forms with bulbs of enamel set in the interstices. These are intended to look like torquoise, catseyes and pearls.

Ornaments of frosted gold are seen. The tortoise and the lizard are in the lead. The lizard has a green olivine streak down his back. The tortoise is spotted with jewels.

The silver vases that are now brought out are the most artistic yet seen. They are intended for single flowers. A new form is a copy of the shape known as the pilgrim vase.

FUR AND FEATHERS.

A bald eagle carried off a bottle of hair restorer from Perryville, Pa.

Seldon Spencer, of Essex, Conn., has a hen which lately astonished him by laying an egg that weighs twenty ounces and measures eight and one half inches in circumference.

There's a dog at Southwest Harbor, Me., which has trotted from Somesville to the Harbor and back, twelve miles a day, six days in the week, for four years. Thus he has traveled nearly 15,000 miles.

Bob Mawsley, of Jacksonville, Fla., has a pair of young eagles which he has trained to carry through the air a basket containing his seven-year-old boy. His only regret is that he can't enjoy a trip himself till he has caught a few more of the birds.

A cat owned by Daniel E. Rowe, of Belfast, Me., disappeared and was not seen for three weeks. It was finally found imprisoned in a lobster trap, in a very weak condition, where she is believed to have been all the time, without nourishment of any kind. She has now fully recovered.

MUCH IN LITTLE.

When real nobleness accompanies the imaginary one of birth, the imaginary seems to mix with the real and become real, too.—Greville.

Posthumous charities are the very essence of selfishness, when bequeathed by those who, when alive, would part with nothing.—Colton.

What sad faces one always sees in the asylum for orphans! It is more fatal to neglect the heart than the head.—Theodore Parker.

Probable Fate in Store for the Evicted Tenants Bill.

RADICALS WATCH HARCOURT

Indication of His Stand on the Lords Question Awaited—Colonial Agents-General Not Over Sanguine of the Results of the Colonial Conference.

LONDON, July 16.—On Thursday Mr. John Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland, will move the second reading of the evicted tenants' bill in the House of Commons. Neither Mr. Chamberlain nor Mr. Balfour have the courage to lead the opposition against the bill, but between them they have drafted an amendment, which some Conservative member little known will introduce, to the effect that, in view of the fact that important English legislation has been sorely neglected, it is undesirable at so late a period in the session to press forward any measure drafted in the interest of an undeserving class. After this amendment is defeated, as it certainly will be, a measure will be proposed in committee providing that the operation of the clauses relating to compensation be voluntary, otherwise landlords shall have the power to do as they may please with the claims of tenants. After the land owners' proposal has been rejected, as of course it will be, interest in the struggle will be transferred to the House of Lords, where Lord Salisbury will assent to the second reading of the bill, but under his direction it will be so mutilated in committee as to make it impossible for the House of Commons to accept it.

The Government's Programme.

Sir Wm. Harcourt promises to make a full statement of the programme of the Government for the remainder of the session after the House of Commons has completed its consideration of the budget. This will probably be done to-morrow. If at that time the Chancellor of the Exchequer fails to announce to the representative body that the Cabinet has decided to give effect to the recommendation of the Leeds conference, Mr. Labouchere, or some other leading Radical, will demand to know the intentions of the Government in regard to the questions foremost in the Radical programme, the attitude of the ministry toward the hereditary body.

The Corean Dispute.

No special mediation on the part of Great Britain is contemplated in the Corean dispute between China and Japan. The Earl of Kimberley, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, acting in concert with the governments at St. Petersburg and Washington, has been urging the Japanese and Chinese governments to resort to peaceful measures to settle their differences, but neither of the disputing governments has asked for formal mediation, nor has the British government offered to undertake such offices. The new Chinese Minister, Kimg La Jen, has arrived in London. He avows in his representative capacity the desire of the Chinese government to avoid a conflict with Japan.

Salisbury's Alien-Anarchist Bill.

Lord Salisbury will not press his alien anarchist bill. It is expected to be read a second time in the Lords, then dropped, the Government have come out dead against it. Board of Trade statistics show that destitute alien immigration has much decreased in the last two years, and last year most of all. They omit to explain that Russia has suspended her persecution of the Jews. Admitting this, it is not clear why anarchists should have continued immunity or right of asylum in England. The French Government is doing what it can. England shrugs her shoulders.

The Colonial Conference.

The colonial agents-general in London are not enthusiastic over the results of the intercolonial conference in Ottawa. The policy of a United Empire Trade League is considered crude and doubtful. The officials of the Colonial Office also are incredulous as to the possibility of an effective scheme of imposing differential duties on British and colonial goods throughout the United Kingdom. If the policy were adopted the customs staff at all ports would require to be quadrupled and buildings would have to be extended at an immense cost. The league policy would also greatly embarrass the Foreign Office in maintaining commercial treaties with foreign countries. On the whole the chances of the colonial legislatures accepting the suggestions of the Ottawa conference are considered remote.

The Baptism of the Royal Infant.

The Archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishops of Winchester and Rochester will officiate at the baptism of the Duke of York's son at the White Lodge to-day. The Queen will be present. The small boy's name is to be Albert Edward George Nicholas. The choice of names for the royal infant definitely revives Edward again as an English dynastic. It is tacitly understood that the present heir apparent will drop Albert promptly on his mother's death and ascend the throne as Edward VII., and now after an interregnum of George V. there is Edward VIII. in view. Dr. John Williams, who attended the Duchess of York, has been made a baronet.

Gladstone's Letter to Russell.

Mr. Gladstone's letter of retirement, addressed to the chairman of his Midlothian committee, drew from his former supporters in the press a rather perfunctory expression of regret and then was forgotten. It is not in his best style and the note of humility is too marked, but the letter is none the less a landmark. Mr. Gladstone's friends all say that he has almost entirely ceased to interest himself in current politics. They are no longer his politics. Mr. Gladstone, still never mentioning Rosebery's name in his letters or in his few conversations, has suddenly become a very old man. A message from him to Sir Charles Russell, son of his old friend, Lord Charles Russell, who has just died, shows with infinite pathos that his thoughts are all on things of another world. "With growing years," he says to the young politician, "you will feel more and more that here everything is but a rent and that it is death alone which integrates."

Two Children Burned to Death.

AMSTERDAM, July 16.—Two children, aged five and three years respectively, of Luigi Spadacci, an Italian of this city, were burned to death yesterday. The accident was caused by the children playing with matches. The house caught fire and the father escaped with another child, an infant.

The Explosion Took Place While the Artillery Men Were on a Practice March—Two of the Killed Terribly Mangled—Several Badly Wounded.

CHICAGO, July 17.—A powder wagon belonging to a Hotchkiss gun exploded here yesterday.

The following is a complete list of the killed and injured by the explosion:

Joseph Galler, farrier, Troop B Seventh Cavalry, head blown off; Cannoneer Donovan, Battery F, Second Artillery, Fort Riley, Kas., killed: Jeremiah Doyle, cannoneer, Battery F, Second Artillery, Fort Riley, Kas., killed; Herbert Anfres, trumpeter, Troop B, Seventh Cavalry, fatally wounded, taken to Mercy hospital.

Injured—Sergeant King, Sergeant Liner, Private O'Donnell, Private Stolz, Private Enke and Private Urquhart.

All of the above named were of Battery F, Second Artillery, Fort Riley, and were all struck by a projectile and seriously wounded. Several others were made deaf by the explosion.

A lady in the house of Frank Devil, at the corner of Grand Boulevard and Fourth street, was struck with a projectile and badly wounded. She was taken to a hospital. Seven horses were killed and three wounded. The battery was making a practice march down Grand Boulevard when the explosion occurred.

The cause of the explosion is supposed to have been a fuse of the caisson which became ignited by getting under a loose screw. The wagon had just rattled across the Lake Shore Railroad tracks on Fortieth street when the shell exploded throwing bullets in all directions. Every pane of glass within two blocks was broken.

At least $25,000 worth of damage was done to the property of the residents on both sides of the Grand Boulevard for half a block north of Oakwood Boulevard. Houses in adjoining streets were also damaged.

The ill-fated body of troops were proceeding south from the lake front camp along Grand Boulevard. When within 100 feet of Oakwood Boulevard there crashed on the ears of the soldiers and civilians, a roar like a mighty burst of thunder followed in an instant by a succession of sharp explosions. The half dazed soldiers in the rear of the first caissons saw smoke and flames belch from the receptacle for the death dealing missiles. The exploding powder and shot inclined to the rear, which accounts for the escape of the Third and Sixth Cavalry. The artillery men received the brunt of the explosion, being directly in the rear of the caisson.

Donovan and Doyle were sitting on the caisson which exploded. Donovan was blown through the air, over the trees 50 feet high, a distance of 500 feet across a vacant lot, dropping on the Union Stock Yards railroad tracks. His companion, Doyle, was hurled 300 feet across the intersection of Oakwood Boulevard on the opposite side of Grand Boulevard. Both bodies were terribly mangled. Galler, the farrier of the Seventh Cavalry Mroop, was riding in the second column behind the artillery. The shot and shell which hurled him to the ground a bleeding corpse entered his head over the heads of the troopers in the front ranks. Part of the leaden load which tore through Galler's head took off half of Kane's ear. All the eight artillery horses are dead.

MANIGAT THREATENS HAYTI.

Communication With Jamaica Shut Off by President Hippolyte.

KINGSTON, Ja., July 17.—President Hippolyte has shut off all communication between Hayti and Jamaica. No person is allowed to leave the republic except they depart for New York or Europe. All mails are most carefully scrutinized by the government authorities. Hippolyte's action is no doubt due to the fact that General Manigat is suspected to be ready to attempt another descent on Hayti. General Legitime has also refused to make peace with Hippolyte and is still in Kingston. Hippolyte has quarrelled with the whole of his Ministers and with one exception they have been dismissed from office.

Charged With Smuggling Wool.

BENNINGTON, Vt., July 17. — United States Marshal Harris has arrested E. A. Matthews, of Fort Coventry, N. Y., on a charge of smuggling wool. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Johnson and was held in $2,500 bail. Matthews is a wealthy farmer and has been in the wool business for years. Matthews says that his arrest is a scheme of those employed by him to buy wool in Canada; that one of these wool buyers was caught this side of the line recently and was made to settle a disputed claim and in revenge this action and arrest was taken.

Three Desperadoes Killed.

ST. LOUIS, July 17.—A special to the Post-Despatch from Dallas, Texas, says: Advices from the posse of deputy United States marshals, who have been in pursuit of the Longview (Tex.) bank robbers near Clarksville, state that the posse came upon four of the band, and in a battle following an attempt to arrest the bandits three robbers were killed and the fourth captured. The bodies of the dead will be taken to Paris, Tex., by the posse. The band, it is reported, was en route to Detroit, Tex., to rob a bank there.

COLLAPSE OF THE STRIKE.

Pullman's Men Asking for Work at the Reduced Wages.

CHICAGO, July 17.—The announcement that the strikers at Pullman were on the point of surrendering and asking for employment in the palace car works at the reduced wages, is confirmed. Thomas Heathcote, leader of the Pullman strikers, admits that all his influence and that of the other labor leaders was required to prevent a general stampede of the workmen, and officials of the Pullman Company say they expect orders from headquarters any day to open the car shops, which have been closed more than eight weeks.

Cheyenne Men Hold Out.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 11.—The members of the A. R. U. here and at Laramie have voted almost unanimously not to return to work. The following telegram was received from Debs: "Roads in the hands of receivers occupy the same position as all others in this strike. The proposition was made to the General Managers and has been refused; our position is doubly strong in consequence. Renew every effort and carry it out to a finish. There is nothing to be afraid of. We must and will win. (Signed) E. V. Debs."

Sixty Strike Leaders Indicted.

WASHINGTON, July 17—Advices received by Attorney-General Olney from United States marshals and deputy sheriffs say that between fifty and sixty strike leaders in different states are under arrest or indictment, and before the week is ended it is expected that this number will be largely increased. E. V. Debs, president of the A. R. U., is already indicted in Illinois and temporarily released on $1,000 bail. He and his aides, Vice-President Howard, Secretary Keliher and Dr. R. Rogers, have also been indicted in Indiana, and it is said indictments will be presented against them in other states for overt acts committed by them since the President's proclamation of July 8 and 9. J. R. Sovereign, grand master of the K. of L., it is understood, has brought himself within the terms of the law and is liable to be indicted and arrested any day. It is said that the officers of the department of justice in every state affected by the strike have been instructed to enforce the laws with the utmost rigor.

Fatal Dynamite Explosion.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 17.—An attempt was made to blow up the Lockhart mines in Walker county, where negroes had taken the places of the strikers. Two explosions of dynamite were fired simultaneously in different places in the mine. Jas. Kelley, a colored driver, and his mules were instantly killed. There is no clue to the guilty parties.

A Train-Wrecker Confesses.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., July 17.—Edward Holloway, charged with wrecking a Big Four passenger train at Fontanet on Friday morning, killing two persons, has confessed. He reached Fontanet on Friday morning as a non-union man to go to work, but deserted and joined the strikers. With seven others, all strangers, he broke the switch lock and threw the switch.

Italy's Disposal of Anarchists.

ROME, July 17.—In the Senate yesterday the Government's anti-anarchist bill was approved without debate. Premier Crispi announced that the most dangerous of the anarchists under conviction and those subsequently convicted would be sent to an island in the Red Sea to be confined. Some anarchist prisoners, he said, had already been sent there. He added that government agents had started for England to assist the authorities in identifying anarchists and keeping them under surveillance.

The French Anti-Anarchist Bill.

PARIS, July 17.—M. Guerin, Minister of Justice, told the parliamentary committee, who have in hand the anti-anarchist bill, that the government could not assent to the proposed amendment providing for the limitation of the law to a certain period. The government's object was to modify permanently the penal code. The committee rejected the amendment.

Birr Officers Summoned for Trial.

DUBLIN, July 17.—The officers of the Birr garrison, who forced their way into the maid servants' quarters on Thursday night, have been summoned to trial in a police court on Friday. They are Lieut. Gibson, Moore, Saunders, Weldon, Smith and Captain Armstrong, all of the Third Leinster Regiment. One of the girls whom they tried to assault is seriously ill.

In Reward for Bravery.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Mr. McCreary (Dem., Ky.,) introduced in the House yesterday a bill authorizing E. C. Hadley and A. L. Whitten, keepers of the Cape Ann, Mass., light-station, to accept watches awarded them by the Canadian Government, in recognition of their services to the ship-wrecked crew of the schooner Lottie B.

Canadian Canoeists at Croton Point.

CROTON POINT, N. Y., July 17.—Recent arrivals at the camp of the American Canoe Association include E. L. French, of the Buffalo Canoe Club; R. Darcy Scott and William Scott, of the Ottawa Canoe Club, of Ottawa, Canada. The racing will not begin until Monday next, in order that the racing men may have a chance for preparation.

Utah Created a State.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The final touch to the Act for the admission of Uthah as a state, so far as the two Houses of Congress are concerned, was applied by the Vice-President when he announced his signature to that Act. It was immediately afterwards sent to the President for his approval.

The Prince is Generous.

LONDON, July 17.—The intention of the authorities in Bangor to prosecute as drunk and disorderly the man who threatened the Prince of Wales there on July 11, has been abandoned at the Prince's request. The Prince thought the man was sufficiently punished by the rough treatment he received from the crowd.

Disastrous Cyclone in Bavaria.

MUNICH, July 17.—The cyclone which swept upper Bavaria on Saturday did great damage. Scores of houses and barns were wrecked, domestic animals killed and crops injured. The village of Forstinning was almost obliterated, several inhabitants were killed.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

McCarthy Moves His Amendment to the Northwest Territories Act.

TWENTY-ONE VOTE FOR IT

Mr. Sam Hughes' Amendment to Do Away With Separate Schools Receives Two Votes—Death of Senator Chaffers — Prorogation Not Yet Fixed.

OTTAWA, July 17.—In the House last night, on the motion of Sir John Thompson that the Northwest Territories Act be read a third time, Mr. McCarthy moved an amendment that the Territories be granted full power to deal with the question of education. This means the abolition of Separate schools in the Northwest. The Territories are composed of 66,000 people, 18,000 of whom are Catholics. Mr. McCarthy argued that it was preposterous to have a separate system for so small a minority of the population.

Mr. Sam Hughes moved an amendment that all theological teaching be done away with in schools. The amendment of Mr. McCarthy, he said, allowed Separate schools if the province wished it, but he wished to see all Separate schools wiped off the face of the earth. He attributed the strikes and anarchistic outbreaks in the United States to the offscouring of Europe who got their education where theological institutions had control of education.

The amendment to the amendment only got two votes, Mr. Hughes himself and MacDonald, Assiniboia.

The bill was read a third time, Mr. McCarthy's amendment being defeated by 114 nays to 21 yeas.

The Tariff Bill.

The tariff bill has yet to pass through its final stages. It was introduced on March 27 and on July 12 Minister Foster is found bringing down further amendments. The importance of the measure may, however, be sufficient justification for the Government's delay in giving it effect at an earlier date.

Another Senator Dead.

Senator Chaffers died yesterday at St. Cesaire, Que. This makes the fourth death in the Senate during the progress of this session, Messrs. Botsford, Flint and Glasier being others who have gone over to the majority. Hon. William Henry Chaffers was called to the Senate by Royal proclamation in 1867. He was a prominent merchant of Rouville, Quebec, was a lieutenant-colonel of militia, and sat for Rouville in Canada Assembly of 1856, and Rougemont from 1864 to 1867. He was 67 years of age.

The Herbert-Powell Trouble.

All of the correspondence in respect of the Herbert-Powell trouble is now in the hands of the Minister of Militia, who said that the explanations given by both of the gentlemen were acceptable. At the most, Colonel Walker Powell's fault was a misconstruction of rules that are not often strictly adhered to.

Prorogation.

The invitation cards for the prorogation ceremony in the Senate have been distributed. There is no date on them, but it shows the day is not far off.

Mr. T. P. Gorman, editor of the Free Press, is very low and is not expected to recover.

PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED.

The Fireman Killed and Several Wounded —The Work of Train Wreckers.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., July 17.—Passenger train No. 6 on the Chicago and Grand Trunk was wrecked yesterday morning at this point. Fireman Thomas Crow was instantly killed. Engineer Miller, Brakesman Mitchell, Conductor Bishop and and a baggageman were all out and badly bruised.

A man named Roberts, of Chicago, was badly cut about the head and face and was also injured internally. Several more of the passengers were badly cut and bruised, but none of them were fatally hurt. The wreck was the work of train wreckers.

Sergeant Blames the Strikers.

MONTREAL, July 17.—The General Manager of the Grand Trunk, Mr. L. J. Seargeant, in speaking of the wrecking at Battle Creek, says there is not the slightest doubt, but that the outrage was the outcome of the strike. The official despatch from the scene of the wreck stated that the track walker had just passed the point where the wreck took place and everything was all right then. This goes to show that the wreckers set themselves deliberately to wreck the train just before it passed. A reward of $500 has been offered by the company for the capture of the wreckers and a crowd of Grand Trunk detectives are scouring the country on both sides of the line in hopes to make arrests.

Ontario Rifle Association.

TORONTO, July 17.—The council of the Ontario Rifle Association was held yesterday at the Canadian Military Institute, Lt.-Col. Jones, one of the vice-presidents, in the chair. Arrangements were made for holding the annual matches on August 21 and following days at the Long Branch rifle ranges, near Toronto. A good programme of prizes has been prepared, and the rules and regulations for conducting the shooting have been carefully revised.

The New Hospital at Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 17.—The corner stone of the new hospital to be built by the Carmelite Fathers at a cost of $80,000 on the Canadian side, near Loretto convent, was laid yesterday. Soleman high mass began at 10 o'clock and Archbishop Walsh of Toronto made an address. Archbishop Walsh blessed the stone and as the choir chanted it was lowered into place and set in cement, the Archbishop using a little silver trowel tied with white ribbon.

Denies the Charge of Bigamy.

HAMILTON, July 17.—Rev. R. Hatchett, the colored Baptist minister accused of bigamy, vigorously denies the charge, maintaining that the woman he married in Elmira, N. Y., had then and has a husband living, consequently there was no legal marriage to her. He proposes to stay here and fight any proceedings that may be taken against him.

TUESDAY, JULY 17, 1894.

THE SESSION AT OTTAWA.

THE 1894 session of the Dominion Parliament may shine in history as that in which the capacity of the Government for inconsistency and "wobbling" was seen at its best. It was expected that the great work of the year would be the reform of the tariff. This measure was first announced in the winter of 1892-3, just after the revenue-tariff men in the United States had obtained a sweeping victory at the polls. The announcement was made in terms of oracular vagueness and mystery. The people were given to understand that there would be no unseemly haste about the work, that its foundations would be laid broad and deep, and that when it was finished it would be a monument to the skill of the builders and to their paternal care for the interests of the people. Ministers and Comptrollers traversed the country, absorbing information and opinions, and in a fatherly way checking and lecturing those who spoke their minds too freely. At last early in the present year the people were invited to gaze upon the finished edifice. That a great amount of labour had been expended upon it there could be no reasonable doubt. It embraced many changes. The whole tariff had been pulled down and rebuilt from the ground, but the scoffers said that the new structure bore a marvellous resemblance to the old National Policy, and every subsequent change was in the direction of restoring some old familiar feature of the temple that Tilley had reared and Tupper had magnified. No doubt it will stand for a little while as a monument of human effort, but human effort wasted and misdirected, the labour of to-day destroying the labour of yesterday. On the other side the Senate has been engaged for many weeks in undoing the work of tariff reform accomplished by the House of Representatives. Here the intervention of a second chamber is unnecessary, the majority of the House of Commons cheerfully undertaking the work of pulling down and re-building, and being thoroughly competent to "check 'its own' hasty legislation," to use the phrase of the defenders of the Senate. The speech from the throne mentioned the proposed subsidy to a fast line of Atlantic steamers, and the proposal was not inconsistent with a promise of tariff reform which would tend to increase our foreign trade; but when the subsidy resolutions came down, the House of Commons had been occupied for some time in devising measures for depriving the new steamers of return freights.

In the session of 1893 the Minister of Finance made a speech extremely unfavourable to the proposed French treaty, and declared that with the information then at his command he did not see his way clear to asking the House to ratify it. Most people on this side of the water agreed with him; but from across the Atlantic came chorus of indignation, consisting mainly of the thundering bass of Sir Charles Tupper, declaring that the honour of Canada was irrevocably pledged to the admission of wines, sparkling and non-sparkling, nuts and raisins and other components of a first-class annual dinner, not to speak of Castile soap. It was also said that Canada had been teasing and worrying for a treaty of some sort for many years, and that if she now rejected this one upon the frivolous ground that it was no good, the diplomatic world would come to regard Canada as impossible to satisfy. The vocal effort was not in vain. In the present session the Minister of Finance made another speech not much more favourable to the treaty, but embodying a motion for its ratification. In the course of the debate which followed, the chief arguments used, besides the honour-of-Canada one, were that the treaty was a small affair and could do no great harm, and that if it did not prove satisfactory it could be abrogated. The extreme mildness and moderation of statement had its reward in an abnormal majority for the treaty, probably the largest of the session,

The honour of Canada was not quite so well vindicated by the result of the debate on Mr. Edgar's motion, relating to the Quebec bribery fund, and the contributions made thereto from the treasury of Canada through the medium of railway subsidies. The Minister who assisted the company to get the subsidies and administer the fund rose in his place and boldly maintained that the thing was all right, and that he would do it again upon a like occasion; and his words were heartily cheered by the majority, who evidently wanted to leave the impression that their approval of corruption was not of the half-hearted, French Treaty variety. Sir Charles Tupper, if he had been in the House, would have made just such a ringing utterance in favour of his new title. The two Knights will probably agree that when a thoroughly unjustifiable course is to be forced upon the House, there is nothing like making a bold stand.

It is not to be supposed that because Parliament refused to censure Sir Adolphe and Sir Hector, or to insist upon the resignation of a minor offender who sold groceries to the Government, it was altogether unmindful of its own dignity and independence. Mr. Corby saved it from that reproach. Mr. Corby's firm had had some dealing with the Government in regard to methylated spirits. He had been unaware of the fact, and it is probable that no substantial breach of the independence of Parliament act had been committed. But he was willing to resign, and when he consulted the Premier, Sir John informed him with Roman firmness that the thing must be done. So Mr. Corby resigned, and was promptly re-elected without opposition, as everyone expected. A very simple act but likely to have far-reaching consequences. When the Conservative stumper is confronted with the Quebec bribery fund affair, Mr. Corby's action will supply him with a crushing retort. The scoffer who hints at railway subsidies will be abashed and confounded by methylated spirits. The course of dealing with the two transactions shows a good deal of political sagacity. If the opposite, and, as one might suppose, the natural course had been followed; if Mr. Corby had been excused and Sir Adolphe Caron condemned there would have been no end of trouble. The Corby affair, if not very serious, would have involved some bother in the way of defence or explanation; and Sir Adolphe Caron would have kicked up a row the noise whereof would have been heard even from Halifax to Vancouver. Henceforth straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel must not be regarded as conclusive evidence of folly.

A public which has grown accustomed to revelations of blundering and plundering in Federal works was nevertheless aroused to a certain interest by the discovery that the Montreal bridges had cost the country rather more than twice the amount for which they could have been built at a fair profit, and by such details as the charging of 5,500 days' work where 2,193 had been done. Mr. Haggart we are told, is going to treat the offenders with exemplary severity. Some such announcement was made after the revelations of the session of 1891. If the analogy is completed we shall find that some offenders of the third class will be dismissed, some offenders of the second class sent to prison and released after three months, and some offenders of the first class glorified. Such is Ottawa justice.—Globe.

She Didn't Take With the Gentlemen.

She was refined, intelligent, and not bad looking, but somehow she never seemed to take with the gentlemen. They didn't like her listless ways; they said she hadn't any "snap" about her. Poor girl! she was suffering from functional irregularities, and it was actually impossible for her to take much interest in anything. But a change came. One day she heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. She procured a bottle, and she had not taken half its contents when she felt like another woman. Now she is in the enjoyment of perfect health, and has suitors by the score. No woman need suffer from functional irregularities and weaknesses. The "Favorite Prescription" is a safe and certain cure for all the weaknesses to which women are peculiarly subject.

EX-MEMBER of PARLIAMENT
REUBEN E. TRUAX

Hon. Reuben E. Truax, one of Canada's ablest thinkers and statesmen, a man so highly esteemed by the people of his district that he was honored with a seat in Parliament, kindly furnishes us for publication the following statement, which will be most welcome to the public, inasmuch as it is one in which all will place implicit confidence. Mr. Truax says:

"I have been for about ten years very much troubled with Indigestion and Dyspepsia, have tried a great many different kinds of patent medicines, and have been treated by a number of physicians and found no benefit from them. I was recommended to try the Great South American Nervine Tonic. I obtained a bottle, and I must say I found very great relief, and have since taken two more bottles, and now feel that I am entirely free from Indigestion, and would strongly recommend all my fellow-sufferers from the disease to give South American Nervine an immediate trial. It will cure you.

"REUBEN E. TRUAX,
"Walkerton, Ont."

It has lately been discovered that certain Nerve Centres, located near the base of the brain, control and supply the stomach with the necessary nerve force to properly digest the food. When these Nerve Centres are in any way deranged the supply of nerve force is at once diminished, and as a result the food taken into the stomach is only partially digested, and Chronic Indigestion and Dyspepsia soon make their appearance.

South American Nervine is so prepared that it acts directly on the nerves. It will absolutely cure every case of Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and is an absolute specific for all nervous diseases and ailments. It usually gives relief in one day.

Its powers to build up the whole system are wonderful in the extreme. It cures the old, the young, and the middle-aged. It is a great friend to the aged and infirm. Do not neglect to use this precious boon; if you do, you may neglect the only remedy which will restore you to health. South American Nervine is perfectly safe, and very pleasant to the taste. Delicate ladies, do not fail to use this great cure, because it will put the bloom of freshness and beauty upon your lips and in your cheeks, and quickly drive away your disabilities and weaknesses.

Dr. W. Washburn, of New Richmond, Indiana, writes: "I have used South American Nervine in my family and prescribed it in my practice. It is a most excellent remedy."

OXFORD DEFEATS YALE

Tourney Between the College Champions of England and America.

THE SPORTS SPOILED BY RAIN

Fry, the Holder of the World's Record for the Broad Jump, Beaten by the American—The English Athletes Come Off Best by Two Events.

LONDON, July 17.—The crack athletes of Oxford triumphed over the champions of Yale at the Queen's club, West Kensington, yesterday, after a sensational tournament, in which the Yale boys, although beaten, were by no means disgraced. Rain poured down almost unceasingly from noon until the programme was more than half decided and the sodded condition of the track and infield played havoc with the form of the men. Had Jupiter Pluvius held aloof the indications are that the result would have been a winner at the worst a tie for the Americans.

As a prelude to the day's sport the band struck up "Rule Britannia," and when the Americans appeared it played "Yankee Doodle" to an accompaniment of war whoops very suggestive of the campus at New Haven.

Oxford drew first blood in the 100 yard dash, which Ashley Pond, jr., of Yale, was thought to have at his mercy. On the soft track he could not live at the pace set by G. Jordan and C. B. Fry, of Oxford. The jubilation of Oxford was short lived, as W. O. Hickok and A. J. Broon, of Yale, outclassed G. W. Robertson, the English inter-collegiate crack, in the hammer-throwing event. Hickok favored his weak knee so much that he fouled the circle three times, but made ample amends soon after by hurling the missile 110 feet 5 inches. The Yale second (A. J. Brown) beat Robertson a yard for second place.

Yale colors fluttered uneasily as the hurdle racers crossed the infield to the starting point on the back stretch. Taking time as a standard, E. A. Cady had the pace of his rivals and some fancy odds were laid on the American inter-collegiate champion. He flattered his admirers for a time, but could not shake off Oakley, of Oxford. The latter got away slowly, but came with a rush half way through and won cleverly by a yard.

This event was the turning point of the contest, but Yale men struggled on relying on the effect of dogged perseverance, which is sometimes miscalled "Yale luck." Sanford went for all he was worth to capture the quarter-mile, but he had not speed enough to stall off Jordan's challenge in the stretch, and the English inter-collegiate champion won by two yards.

Fresh courage fired the American contingent when L. P. Sheldon, of Yale, beat G. B. Fry, part holder of the world's record for the broad jump. The defeat of Fry is probably the greatest upset of the day, particularly as his sprinting in the dash had shown him to be in exceptional form. Sheldon's jump was a little short of marvellous under the circumstances. He went within a quarter of an inch of tieing the American inter-collegiate record.

The shot-putting further increased the Yale score as A. F. Maling, the Oxford champion, had not a ghost of a chance against such a pair as Hickok and Brown. Then came the crucial test. With two events remaining Yale had scored three wins to Oxford's four and the American colony could not figure anybody but Woodhull, winner of the 880 yard run. But he was hopelessly beaten, and the Oxford pair, W. H. Greenhow, Exeter, and F. W. Rathbun, New, had the finish between them. This gave Oxford her fifth run and settled the question at issue.

Sheldon was again a tower of strength in the high jump and went within a most tantalizing margin of winning, without actually doing the trick. E. D. Swanwick, the English inter-collegiate champion was said to fear no one but Cady. The latter was in difficulties after clearing 5 feet 7½ inches. Sheldon got an inch higher, but there he and Swanwick stuck. Extra jumps failed to solve the problem and as Oxford's win of the half mile had taken away Yale's last chance the tie was allowed to stand. The consensus of opinion among the experts was that the Yale men were insufficiently trained,

A dinner was tendered the Americans after the games.

AFTER THIRTY YEARS.

Allan Stewart, of Springton, Suffers all This Time—At Last Confined to Bed—Story of His Happy Release from Pain.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., July 9.—Allan Stewart, of Springton, near here, says that Dodd's Kidney Pills saved his life and he wants the fact to be known. For thirty years he has had kidney disease and gravel. Hundreds of dollars spent on doctors and medicine failed to do any good. On July 14 last, Mr. Stewart had to take to his bed and everybody considered his case a hopeless one. He heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and began using them. He says he noticed an improvement from the first and ten boxes cured him. He is now free from all pain and enjoys excellent health.

The little girl's clothes became ignited from one of the cigarettes and before aid could come to her she was so badly burned as to result in her death.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, July 17, 1894.

The amount of wheat afloat to Europe is 33,696,000 bushels, a decrease of 1,182,000 for the week.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—The only receipts were 200 bushels of oats, which sold at 39c to 40. Wheat steady and nominal at 62c for white: red quoted at 61c and goose at 58c. Peas are quoted at 65c and barley at 41c to 43c.

The Mark Lane Express says in its weekly review of the grain trade: English wheats have been firmer and it was held that the rain was injuring the prospects of the harvest; in some markets prices rose a sixpence. Foreign wheats were steady. Corn was firm and American advanced a sixpence under the decrease of supplies due to the strike. The sales of wheat are slow although values are maintained.

In Chicago wheat opened strong and higher, but declined on lower cables and reports of a heavy crop, closing ½ to ¾c higher. Corn showed an upward tendency all day, showing a net gain of ½ to 1c. Oats followed wheat in its fluctuations, closing ½c higher than Saturday. Receipts —Wheat, 910 cars; corn, 380 cars; oats, 195 cars. Hogs, 13,000.

BUFFALO.—Cattle—One hundred and eighty cars on sale. Market very dull and values fully 50c to 75c per cwt below last Monday. Exporters $4.15 to $4.75; medium butchers and shippers $3.65 to $4.10; choice light fat butchers $3.25 to $3.50. Sheep and lambs—Forty cars, slow; butchers stock firmer; wethers $3.40 to $4; fair to good mixed $2.75 to $3.25; good to fancy lambs $4 to $4.75; fair to good $3.25 to $3.75. Hogs—Forty-five cars, active, higher; Yorkers pigs $5.25 to $5.40; mediums and heavies $5.40 to $5.50.

Speculation at the New York Stock Exchange was more active, and the undertone of the market was firmer. The bulls had in their favor the gradual return of the railroads to a normal condition, and rumors from Washington on probable early action on the tariff matter. American Sugar was again the feature, selling up from 99 to 102, to 100½, to 101. The railways were stronger on purchases for both the long and short accounts. Total sales were: Listed, 103,000; unlisted, 71,000; including Chicago Gas, 14,000, and St. Paul, 10,000.

At no time is man secure from attacks of such painful and dangerous disorders of the stomach as cholera, cholera morbus, cramps, diarrœa, and dysentery; but these complaints are particularly common during the heated term, when it is doubly dangerous to neglect them. Perry Davis' Pain-Killer is a remedy that has never failed when tried, and the severest attacks have been cured by it. It leaves no evil effects, and invariably brings relief to the sufferer. Every reputable druggist in the country sells Perry Davis' Pain-Killer. Large size new bottle, price 25c.

I was attacked severely last winter with diarrhœa, cramps, and colic and thought I was going to die, but fortunately I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and now I can thank this excellent remedy for saving my life. Mrs. S. Kellett, Minden, Ont.

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please, I am have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similiar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose topay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

Live Stock and Cheese.

Tuesday being the regular weekly day for transactions in live stock and cheese, there was quite a good business done today by Mr. Green, the market clerk, for various dealers for export trade. A lot of fine cattle bought by Mr. Geo. Webber, weighing over 1100 lbs each were shipped. Quite a large number of hogs bought by Messrs. John Welsh and David Conroy were also shipped. Several factories' cheese were weighed to be shipped by Mr. George Fitzgerald, of Smith. For the home trade, Messrs. Morris & Howden; and Shaughenessy & Kennedy weighed a large number of splendid hogs, bought for the Peterborough Pork Packing establishment. Prices are all looking up. Another large shipment of cheese is expected on Thursday, by Mr. Spence for Cook & Company.

Sport for a Mastiff.

The old saying that "every dog has it's day" was fully verified last night, but in this case the canine had an evening thrown in. It seems that some time during the evening the large mastiff, "Moscow," belonging to Brown Bros., merchants, had found its way into their liquor department, opposite Chamber's street, and in some manner, which cannot be explained, had climbed over the temporary partition, which separates the window from the rest of the premises, and proceeded to create havoc among the choice brands of liquor displayed in the window, Harry Corby's best running in a stream through the window, being joined by the choice "Scotch" and "Irish" element. Quite a crowd had gathered around the store to witness the antics of the dog, and when the manager arrived to release him from his position, the dog took matters as cooly as if nothing had happened, treating his master's appearance with a wag of the tail, with the result that several more bottles lost their balance and fell in a heap. The mastiff was escorted to the back door as gently as the circumstances would allow, and this morning the window presented a dilapidated appearance as a result of the dog's action. A facetious individual wished to know if a bite from that canine after its being released from its position in the window would have distastrous results.

—A young child on Water street north had a miraculous escape from death last evening, a street railway car almost running it down.

—Destroys bed bugs, cockroaches and other similiar pests, sure as death. What? Post's Corrosive Sublimate, for sale at Lynch's Drug Store.

—Mr. E. G. Burke, proprietor of the Northumberland Paper Mills, Campbellford, died suddenly yesterday, from hemorrhage of the lungs.

—Peterborough Canton, No. 10, Patriarchs Militant, will meet Wednesday evening in order to complete arrangements for Friday afternoon, Decoration Day.

—The 57th Battalion Band will run a moonlight excursion on Chemong Lake to Jacob's Island, per steamer Columbian, on the evening of July 19th. Train leaves G. T. R. station at 8 o'clock.

—As a result of the closing off of the water in Rogers' raceway in Ashburnham, schools of eels have been discovered under the mill by the inevitable small boy and large catches are being made.

—A gang of men are at present employed in erecting a foot bridge over the coffer dam, besides repairing the brackets and abutments. When finished the old Rogers dam will be stronger than ever.

—A large crowd took in the excursion of the Charlotte street Methodist church this morning—so large that the ticket agent ran short of tickets and was forced to manufacture some for the occasion.

—Otonabee Council, No. 517, R. T. of T. will hold an ice cream social in their hall on Thursday, July 19th. A first-class programme is under preparation, and an enjoyable time is assured all who attend.

—A party of five men went down the river fishing yesterday and had grand sport—but the sport came at the conclusion in the shape of a ruction over dividing the catch, a baby bass that was about the weight of a brook trout.

—City Lodge, No. 404, I.O.G.T., will be treated to a lecture on phrenology, Thursday evening by Mr. Jno Cubitt, of Rochester, who is in town on a visit. A first-class programme will also be furnished. No admission fee and every one invited.

—Mr. Thomas Stothart, of the Peterborough Dairy, in the township of Smith, immediately outside the town limits, lost a most valuable horse yesterday, which he considered one of the finest specimens of its class in the province. He valued the beast most highly.

—Peterborough Canton No. 10 will hold a grand excursion to Rochester and Ontario Beach, on Civic holiday, August 16th. The 57th Battalion Band will accompany them. The committee having the matter in hand are bound to make it the outing of the season.

—The racing track, belonging to the new syndicate, is in A.—1. condition. Some of the local sports had their flyers participating in a brush heat this morning, when some exceedingly fast heats were trotted, by the crack flyers. This is the first warming up they got this season.

—To-morrow evening, at the close of the prayer meeting, there will be an executive meeting of the E. L. of C. E., of Charlotte street church, in conjunction with a committee meeting of the department of Christian Endeavour work. —In the list of additional subsidies granted to railways appears the following:—"Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Pontypool Railway Company, for 16 miles from Bobcaygeon to the Midland, and for another 16 miles from the end of the said 16 miles to Pontypool, a revote $102,400." If the municipalities cannot be brought into line with their bonuses it is probable that the $102,400 will have to be re-voted again.

—Mr. Harry Calcutt's brewry, Ashburnham, is doing a large business. To-day they made a shipment of their brands of ales and porters to the various cities, towns and villages throughout Ontario. No less than one hundred and sixty dozen all-cased goods. This shows that the bottled goods manufactured at this brewery are greatly in demand and are highly appreciated by consumers of beverages of this sort, and the public in general.

—Two boys, each eleven years of age, secured a package of cigarettes Saturday near Kingston, and invited their sister, Lena Doyle, aged 10 years, to see them smoke. One of the number carlessly threw part of a lighted cigarette alongside of Lena, which was not noticed by the boys until the smoke came thickly from her dress, when they immediately ran away. The result was that the body of the unfortunate girl was frightfully burned from head to foot, and she died in indescribable agony at 10 o'clock Sunday evening.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

AN ASHBURNHAM WEDDING.

Nuptials of Mr. J. W. Wade and Miss Ellen Clancy.

St. Peter's Cathedral was the scene at an early hour this morning of a very interesting ceremony, in the marriage of Mr. John W. Wade, son of the late Mr. Thos. Wade, of Bewdley, and Miss Ellen Clancy, daughter of Edward Clancy, Stewart street, Ashburnham. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Collins, in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. A choir composed of members of the Sodality, of which the bride was a member, sang a number of hymns during the ceremony, Miss Maggie McCabe presiding at the organ. The bride, who looked charming, was becomingly attired in a dress of cream silk, and carried in her hand a beautiful bouquet of roses. She was attended by Miss Maggie Wade, sister of the groom, who was attired in cream cashmere, trimmed with lace. The groom was assisted throughout by Mr. C. Clancy, brother of the bride. After the ceremony, the happy couple repaired to the residence of the bride's father, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was partaken of, and where they received the congratulations of their friends. The bride was the recipient of a large number of presents from her numerous friends in the village and district. Mr. Wade is a young man of excellent character, and is employed as collector for the Gately firm's general wholesale house, Rochester, N. Y. The happy couple left on the 7 o'clock C. P. R. express for a trip through the principal cities in New York State, after which they will repair to their future home, Pen Yan, N. Y., where their many friends will wish them a prosperous wedded life.

A LITTLE LAKE LITTLE WAIF.

Dead Body of an Infant Discovered at Point St. Charles.

This morning about 10 o'clock a workman in the employ of the Point St. Charles lumber mills, discovered the body of an infant in Little Lake. The police were at once informed of the circumstance and Police Constable Stewart accompanied Mr. D. Belleghem, undertaker, to the place and there Mr. Belleghem found the remains floating in the waters of the lake between two boom timbers about three feet from the shore on the south-east of the mills. The body was taken from the water and removed to Mr. Belleghem's undertaking rooms to await the order of the coroner. When found, the body of the infant was, as stated, floating. It had been swaddled carelessly in a piece of manilla wraping paper. The body which was apparently that of a full-term child, showed the appearance of having been in the water for some days. The skin had peeled off in places and where the hair remained on the scalp it was of a dark colour. The nails of the fingers and toes were developed, and the body seemed to be that of a healthy infant which had good chances for life if it had received proper attention at the time of birth. This it had not apparently received, for there is no appearance of the umbilical cord having been properly tied or even tied at all. The body would weigh about nine or ten pounds, and appearances indicate that it had been an unwelcome visitor and had received a prompt dismissal from this world of woe. Dr. Bell, Coroner, was notified. After viewing the remains and learning the circumstances, he decided that there was no prospect of discovering the identity of the mother of the child, and an inquest would be of no use. An order for the burial of the body was given and this afternoon the remains of the little piece of human flotsam was laid under the daisies in Potter's field, Little Lake Cemetery.

THE DAIRYMEN'S INTEREST.

The following letter appears in the Oxford Tribune of July 12th:

DEAR SIR,—Would you be kind enough to allow me space in your valuable paper, for the purpose of enlightening some of those interested in the dairy business in this community what they are losing each year from simply allowing their milk to remain in cans undisturbed from night until morning. It of course is a law of nature that when milk stands for any length of time without being agitated the cream rises to the top and becomes to a certain extent tough and leathery, and can never be incorporated in the milk again, which means a loss in both quantity and quality of cheese. It has been stated by several of the best authorities on milk and cheese that if the milk be kept in motion, dairymen would be thousands of dollars ahead each year. Of course the swine would suffer some in as much as they would not be permitted to feed on butter-fat which is, when cheese is selling at 9 cts per lb., worth about 25 cts per lb. The butter-fat is supposed to run off in the whey. Other men who have had long experience in the business claim that the butter-fat does not go off in the whey but that the gasses which are in the milk in some way burn the fat or evaporate it so it cannot be retained or made into cheese. Of course if this be true there is no method known by which the milk can be freed from gasses and taints other than by airing freely and agitating gently. Now sir, the writer has made several tests in the following manner, viz: When the cows were milked at night the milk would all be poured into one can and thoroughly stirred up so that it would be practically one cow's milk in quality; it was then divided into two cans, an agitator placed on one can that would the other can would be handled in the ordinary way, viz: by dipping for a few minutes in the evening and then allowed to remain quiet until it is taken to the factory in the morning. When it had arrived at the factory each can was thoroughly stirred again so as to have the cream thoroughly mixed through the milk. Then a sample of each was taken and tested by the Babcock tester and the results were from .2 of 1% to 1% in favor of the agitated milk: six successive tests showed on an average .6 of 1% in favor of the agitated milk.

KEEP THE MILK IN MOTION ALL NIGHT;

According to the blue books 100 lbs of 3% milk will make 8.25 lbs cheese, 100 lbs 4% milk will make 11.00 lbs of cheese. The difference as you see would be 2¾ lbs cheese. At the price cheese now is this means about 25 cts worth; take less than half of this and figure at 12 cts on 100 lbs of milk and it would mean from $15 00 to $25.00 and $28.00 of a saving each day according to quantity of milk taken in at the factories. Is this worth saving or not? If not then the patrons of cheese factories do not require to agitate their night's milk. We are informed that 10½ lbs. of milk, that is entirely free from gas will make one lb. cheese on an average through the season, whereas milk that contains a considerable amount of gas requires about 13 lbs. to make a lb. of cheese. Figuring on this basis, take for instance a factory where they would receive 24,000 lbs. of milk per day, over half of this would be night's milk, but figure on 12,000 lbs. to make sure, and we have a difference of $10.80 per day. This it seems is rather much to lose, but a good many seem to be contented to lose it for the simple reason that there has not been any machines that could do the work of of airing and agitating completely until the present time.

[The letter goes on to state that a milk agitator has been invented, is manufactured, and most successfully used, that operates by clockwork, and being placed in the milk can gently agitates the milk, keeping the cream thoroughly incorporated with the milk.]

I am yours, etc.,
J. C. GRANT.

GORED BY A BULL.

Guelph Mercury.

John Rutherford, farmer, of Beverly, was killed Thursday evening by a bull. Mr. Rutherford was 80 years old and a very heavy man, weighing about 250 lbs. A vicious bull had been tied in a field in the rear of the barn, and Mr. Rutherford's two sons were loading hay in an adjacent barn. They saw their father in the barn, and noticing that the bull had broken loose they shouted to Mr. Rutherford not to come out. Not hearing, or not heeding the warning, Mr. Rutherford entered the field and the bull immediately rushed upon him, goring him in a fearful manner about the abdomen. The two young men sprang to the rescue, and plying their pitchforks vigorously, drove the beast away before he had inflicted further injury. But it was too late. Mr. Rutherford was carried into the house and a doctor telephoned for. When the medical man arrived in an hour he could do nothing. Mr. Rutherford bled to death, and expired a few minutes after the arrival of the doctor. A year ago it was proposed to get rid of the animal who was growing vicious, but Mr. Rutherford decided to keep him another year.

CENTREVILLE.

Death of Robert A. Brown.

After an illness of several months, Mr. Robt. A. Brown, of Centreville, passed away at his mother's residence Sunday at 4 a.m. at the age of 24 years. The deceased was the son of the late Wm. Brown, of Cavan, and was unmarried. He was a young man of excellent character, and was held in high esteem by all classes of the community. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from his mother's residence under the auspices of Centreville Court, I. O.O.F., of which deceased was a member. Court Ivanhoe, Millbrook, and other lodges of the district was also represented, there being about one hundred men in line besides a large number of carriages, all testifying to the high esteem in which the young man was held. Rev. W. C. Allen, of Millbrook, conducted the funeral services. A circumstance which invests this young man's death with greater sadness is the fact that the family have been called upon to bear the loss of other members during the last few years.

The Wonderful Cheap Men.

Well, the reason is that a disagreement arose between a firm of clothiers in British Columbia and a big wholesale house in Montreal, and Gough Bros. came in as the dark horse and took over the stock, on the understanding that it must be turned into cash utterly regardless of cost or value. That explains the TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER which is giving to the people Men's and Boys' Tailor-Made Clothing, stylish Hats, Caps and Furnishing Goods, and Men's, Women's and Children's Shoes, Slippers, &c., at ONE-HALF their actual value. ### RIVER AND LAKE RIPLETS.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. W. J. Clarke, of Rochester, N. Y., who is visiting his friends in Peterborough, Warkworth and other places, paid a friendly visit to Jubilee Point. He is looking exceedingly well, and after an absence of fifteen years, was readily recognized by his numerous friends.

A representative of the EXAMINER, accompanied by a friend, were invited by Commodore C. W. Voshall, of the steamer "Outlet Queen," for a sail down the lake, to point 47 (Idyl Wild), which was duly accepted. The party aboard, composed chiefly of Americans, with an odd "Canuck," were handsomely used, being most courteously treated. Among the American friends we noticed aboard and registered at the Idyl Wild summer resort and hunting grounds were the following: Mr. Matthias Kondolf, President Genesse Brewing Co., Rochester, N.Y.; Mr. Chas. Raw, Director General Brewing Co.; Col. M. J. Hendricks, U. S. Consulate, Belleville, Ont.; Alderman J. Miller Kelly, President of the Standard Brewing Co.; Camille Forest, Director General Capitalist; Emile Reisky, Capitalist; George Swikehardt, "G. R." I told you so of party; Matt Galt, Superintendent of the party; C. W. Voshael, and the President of the Rice Lake Fishing and Hunting Club. All returned at an early hour apparently well pleased with their Canadian brethren.

Guests at the Hotel Jubilee: Mr. Charles Brooks, of Cobourg; Benj. Barker, Cambray; W. C. Mudge, Geo. Kincaid, Jack Emmerson, J. D. Craig, James Haggart, R. M. Roy, E. J. Hartley, Peterborough; and Mr. Wm. Thompson, of Bensfort, spent Sunday at the Point.

The popular Tuesday afternoon excursion down the river to Victoria Park and Jubilee Point per steamer City of Peterborough, was fairly well attended.

The next skiff race for the "Beckett" cup will take place Friday, 27th inst, over the Jubilee Point course; it promises to be close and exciting. Harry Lane is considered the favourite—he is diligently practicing.

Mrs. Robert Jackson, of the Jubilee Point summer resort hotel, has been suffering lately with a severe cold. Her many friends will be pleased to hear that she is recovering rapidly, under the skilful care of Dr. Sands, of Coldsprings.

POLICE COURT.

Tuesday, July 17th.

An assault case occupied the attention of the Magistrate for an hour this morning. It was the result of a quarrel between workmen engaged in repairing a house of a citizen in the South Ward. A number of witnesses were examined, and the magistrate, after hearing the evidence, dismissed the case without costs.

A citizen was charged with assaulting a small boy Saturday evening, and he was also discharged.

Five residents of the town appeared before the magistrate, charged with neglecting to clean out their out-houses. It was shown that since the information had been laid that they had observed the law in this respect, and they were discharged on agreeing to pay the costs, $3.75 in all.

UNION HALL ASSOCIATION.

Patrons of Industry, North Monaghan—Letter of Withdrawal Granted to Mr. Dawson Kennedy.

At the regular meeting of Union Hall Association, Patrons of Industry, North Monaghan, held on Wednesday, July 11th, 1894, the following resolution, moved by Bro. Jos. Barnard, and seconded by Bro. W. J. Tully, was unanimously adopted:

That, whereas Bro. Dawson Kennedy has been invited by Coldsprings Association to become a member in full standing, it is with feelings of deep regret that we, the members of this association, consent to Mr. Kennedy receiving his card of withdrawal as a member in good standing, but owing to some statements made during the recent election campaign as to his being unable to secure membership in an association in his own neighbourhood, we feel that it is our bounden duty to allow him that privilege. We regret to think that any insinuations should have been made to the effect that he had to come to our association to become a member. Brother Kennedy has been a member of Kathon Grange, of which many members are also members of this association, and has always been held in very high esteem by his brethren on account of the active part he has taken in promoting its interests, and it was by the unanimous invitation of Union Hall Association that Mr. Kennedy became a member. In conclusion we wish Bro. Kennedy every success and trust that he will yet make his mark as a Patron of Industry.

Signed on behalf of the Association,
JAMES MIDDLETON, Vice-President. ANLEY BARNARD, Secretary

A SUCCESSFUL LAWN SOCIAL.

Under the Auspices of St. Paul's Y.P.S. C.E. Held Last Evening.

A very successful lawn social was held last evening at the residence of Sheriff Hall's, Hunter street, under the auspices of the Y.P.S.C.E. of St. Paul's church. There was a good attendance present. The Fire Brigade Band furnished an excellent programme of music, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The grounds were beautifully illuminated with Chinese lanterns, which were hung among the trees, and together with the many young ladies who attended the refreshment tables, made a very pretty scene. The social was in every way an unqualified success.

THE STEWART CASE.

Mr. Stewart Pays a Visit to Pictou—Congratulated by His Many Friends on His Restoration to Health.

PICTOU, N.S., July 16.—Good news sometimes travels as fast as bad news, which is proverbially fast. Many people here knew that Mr. Allan Stewart, of Springton, P.E.I., had been for many years afflicted with kidney disease and gravel. It was known, too, that last year he was so bad that public opinion put him down as likely to die soon. Mr. Stewart fooled public opinion though, for he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills and ten boxes of them completely cured him. When he paid a flying visit to this city a few days ago, he received many hearty congratulations on restoration to health and improved appearance. Dodd's Kidney Pills have never yet failed to cure in this part of the Dominion.

MODERN TELESCOPES.

The Great Progress Made in the Manufacture of Instruments.

In an informal address before the Boston Scientific Society Mr. Alvan G. Clark, the famous telescope maker, spoke of the telescopes of the earlier astronomers, among them that of Galileo, who was the first one to apply this instrument to celestial observation, showing some of the difficulties under which the earlier opticians labored. The difficulty lay in the fact that in its passage through the lens the light of the stars becomes separated into the different colors of which light is composed, and each of these colors comes to a different focus within the telescope tube. This results in confusion and injury to the image. The first step was the invention of the reflecting telescope, different forms of which were made by different men, in the manufacture of which delicate processes were undergone, and with which some remarkable results were achieved. Mr. Clark explained the means whereby the other opticians tried to avoid this dispersion of light by means of long tubes, and paid tribute to Dolland, the English optician, who first gave to the world the achromatic objective. In this combination of lenses the imperfection of the image is eliminated to a large degree by the use of a second lens, the imperfections of which are equal in amount to those of the first lens, but opposite in quality or direction.

Mr. Clark reviewed briefly the story of the increase in size of the telescopes, a story of exceeding interest, since this increase has come to us mainly through the efforts and efficient work of the firm of which he is now the sole remaining member. The aperture of fifteen inches was for many years the maximum, but of late years, with increased facilities for the manufacture of large discs and experience in the handling of the same, the aperture of telescopes has been rapidly increased, until we have now the great Lick telescope of thirty-six inches and the still larger lenses of forty inches diameter, upon which he is now at work. This increase in aperture, in connection with the sharpness of definition, which by the care of the optician of these days is possible, gives great opportunity for the use of high magnifying powers, and it is estimated that the Lick telescope is capable of showing at least one hundred million stars. Mr. Clark's address dwelt briefly upon the manufacture of the glass, the careful methods of shaping the lenses, the elimination of the spectrum colors and many other points of interest, showing that the work of the lensmaker demands not only great and delicate mechanical skill, but also artistic feeling of high order.

My Little One was Near Death.

A Port Williams Mother Speaks of Lactated Food.

IT ALWAYS SAVES BABIES' LIVES.

Mrs. E. G. Bishop, of Port Williams, N. S., is anxious that every mother in Canada should know the value of Lactated Food for young, tender add puny infants.

Mrs. Bishop says: "One of my little ones was very near death. For its sustenance we had tried various foods without any good results. At last my doctor advised me to use Lactated Food, and I feel sure it was the means under God of saving my child's life."

During the present hot weather thousands of babies are in a half-dead condition. They are not being fed with life-giving, nutritious and strengthening food. Every mother should know that Lactated Food shows its grand superiority and health-giving powers in the hot oppressive weather. It makes weak and fragile babies strong, and enables them to sleep peacefully and contentedly.

If you are not using Lactated Food, mother, your child's life is in danger.

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 159 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."

TO BUILD ATALANTIS.

PROCESS BY WHICH THE NEW ISLAND WILL COME INTO BEING.

Begun in Lower Bay to Be Floated to Cholera Banks When Enough Completed —Its Foundations to Be Sunk—Ready Next Summer.

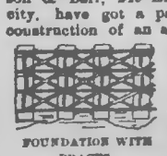
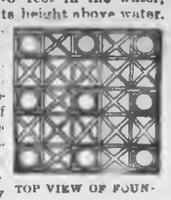
The Atalantis Company, the representative of which is C. M. Coen, and the contractor, Capt. John F. Anderson of Anderson & Barr, 240 Eleventh street, Jersey city, have got a patent on their plan of construction of an artificial island on the shoals of the Cholra Banks, says the New York Sun. The invention is the result of the engineering studies of Messrs. Coen and Barr. They reached the same conclusion almost simultaneously. They differed in details, but not in the essentials. Coen describes himself as a practical man. Capt. Anderson has already made his mark as a successful engineer. His constructions of the foundations of the Hawkesbury river bridge in New South Wales and the Cape Hatteras lighthouse are monuments to his skill. The building of the foundations of the new Hudson river bridge will doubtless add to his laurels.



FOUNDATION WITH BRACES.

The plan of the inventors is to build the island in the Lower Bay, or in some other safe harbor, and float the structure to the Cholera Banks, where it will be sunk and the superstructure erected on the foundation. The construction of the floating island is as follows:

To begin with, thirty-six hollow cylinders made of inch-and-a-half iron, ten feet in diameter and six feet high, with a valve resting on lugs at the bottom of the cylinder, made watertight with red lead and rubber, are placed in a square, 260 feet on each side, and sunk in the Lower Bay at the point at which the first work is to be done. Each longtitudinal foot of cylinder weighs one ton, but has a buoyancy of three tons; therefore the six-foot valved cylinder will sink two feet in the water, leaving four feet of its height above water. The 36 cylinders will be fastened together with two-inch iron rods and wooden braces. This will be done by means of the Howe truss. The truss is the one in use in the construction of the roofs of buildings and ordinary bridges. To the top of the first series of cylinders, a second thirty six, which are without values, are securely bolted. The island will now sink to the depth of four feet. Eight feet of the tubes will be in the air. The braces are added, and the framework is ready for new cylinders. The work will be carried on at this point in the harbor until it is found that the lower edges of the cylinders are almost touching the bottom of the bay. The anchors of the island will then be lifted and the structure towed into deeper waters. All material, lumber and machinery will be carried to the floating foundation in lighters and landed on the framework. Even in stormy weather, it is asserted, men can work as safely as on the top of a high Broadway building.



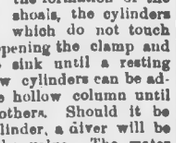
TOP VIEW OF FOUNDATION.

Atalantis, so far as it is completed, will then be towed out to sea through the Swash channel. The depth of the water in the waterway floats a ship drawing thirty feet. By this time the foundation of Atalantis will be thirty feet under water and sixty above the sea level. The entire structure is securely braced, and in the distance will have the appearance of a colonnaded building without a roof. To a passenger in a balloon it would look like a huge checkerboard, with the checkers in place for a game, and with diagonal lines connecting the squares.

When the site of the new island is reached, clamps will be fastened about the tops of the cylinders, the jaws of which are opened and closed with a screw and bolt. The braces have been so built as to allow the cylinders to move up and down freely in the framework. The valves at the bottom of the cylinders are opened by being raised by chains. If this is not desired, an automatic valve in the side of the tube is opened. The structure sinks by its own weight to the sea bottom. When irregularities occur in the formation of the shoals, the cylinders which do not touch can be lowered by opening the clamp and allowing the tube to sink until a resting place is found. New cylinders can be added to the top of the hollow column until it is equal with the others. Should it be desired to raise a cylinder, a diver will be sent down to close the valve. The water will be exhausted by pumps and the cylinder will rise because of its own buoyancy. When the entire foundation rests on bottom, the sand closed by the bottom rim will be dredged out. As this is done the tube sinks into the sand. The wooden braces will be removed from the structure if it is thought to be safe. New cylinders will be bolted on, as each of the great tubes reaches the water line. For each foot of water above the sea bottom, the tubes will be sunk an equal depth into the sand. The water at the shoals varies from 60 to 66 feet in depth. The depth of the foundation will be, therefore, from 120 to 132 feet.

FOUNDATION CYLINDER.

When a sufficiently firm foundation is reached, the valves of the hollow cylinders will be removed and the space filled with concrete, which will become as hard as stone. The foundation will become by the action of the water thirty-six stone columns, enclosed in inch-and-a-half iron cylinders and braced with a network of two-inch iron rods. A wave breaking upon the edge of the island will have its force divided by a rock almost ten feet in diameter. Its force will be scattered by the other columns of the foundation. The reactionary energy which follows each breaking wave will be resisted by the iron braces which connect the cylinders. The inventors assert that no storm could destroy the structure when finished. Should a storm arise, when the island is afloat off the shore, and only anchored by chains and the lowered iron tubes, it is said the structure can ride it out as safely as the staunchest ironclad.



CLAMP HOLDING CYLINDERS.

Capt. Anderson was the first to use water ballast in order to sink cylinders, in the place of stone and other materials. When the foundation is finished the floor will be built of cement and iron and the superstructure of iron and glass. Should the first building be a success, a second will be built and connected with the first by bridges.

The actual cost of the building cannot be estimated. There is plenty of money, it is said, back of the scheme. The Louisiana Lottery desired to take shares in the company, but the offer was rejected. To a second company of New York men, who desired to establish an American Monte Carlo, admission to the enterprise was also refused. The inventors think the island will be built before next October and be ready for business by next summer.

STATISTICAL.

Of the $26,305,985 worth of textile machinery exported by Great Britain in the year 1893 only $2,443,320 was sent to the United States, pointing to how well builders of machinery in this country supply the wants of domestic manufacturers of textiles.

The foreign trade of Japan, according to a Japanese statistical review, increased last year over the year preceding 15,000,000 "yen," about $15,000,000. The entire export was valued at about $89,000,000. The chief buyer of Japanese stuffs is the United States, $33,750,000 of the $89,000,000 having been paid by that country. Great Britain is next, paying $32,000,000; then China, $24,000,000, and then France, $22,000,000. The exports to Germany amounted only to $8,750,000.

The exports of iron and steel from Great Britain for the four months to April 30 show a decided decrease. This year the total amount was 772,325 tons, valued at £5,773,901, while in the corresponding period of last year it was 861,835 tons, valued at £6,881,846; the diminution in quantity being 10.4 per cent., and in value 16.1 per cent. There has been a very large loss this year in the exports of railroad material to the Australian colonies, and a still larger one in the shipments of all classes of iron and steel to India, so that the manufacturers are realizing the effect of the silver policy in the latter country.

Bennett was fond of stout, but would only drink the bottled variety.

Hummell worked best arrayed in a full dress suit. He said his ideas then flowed more easily.

Clementi frequently rewrote his pianoforte sonatas four or five times before allowing them to be published.

Halevy liked smoking, and always composed best with a long pipe in his mouth, the bowl resting on the floor.

Piccini was a very quiet, peaceable man, and was greatly annoyed by the difficulty with Gluck, which was forced upon him.

Weber was very temperate in his habits, but insisted on drinking three glasses of wine and no more every day with his dinner.

Clementini's music manuscript was so perfect it looked almost like print. He took especial pains with the appearance of all his work.

Spentini declared that with him nature was the best inspiration. His choicest compositions were conceived in the fields and woods.

Sullivan does not write more than one or two songs a year. He receives hundreds of poems for music, but generally does not read them.

IS WELLMAN LOST?

Nothing Heard of the Ragnvald Jarl Since She Left Dane's Island.

LONDON, July 17.—A despatch to the Times from Tromsoe, in the north of Norway, reports that the yacht Saide, of the Royal Yacht Squadron, touched at Dane's Island, northwest coast of Spitzbergen, July 6, where she found Prof. Oyen, the geologist, left there by the Wellman polar expedition to await its return and guard the depot established on the island.

Nothing has been heard of the expedition since its steamboat, the Ragnvald Jarl, left Dane's Island.

The yacht met an experienced walrus hunter, Capt. Johannesen, coming from the northwest. He thought the Ragnvald Jarl had been beset by ice and crushed.

Other hunters were met, but none had seen the steamer east of Verlegen Hook.

The Saide left supplies for Prof. Oyen. He declined to return with the yacht as he was pledged to Mr. Wellman to guard the depot until the Ragnvald Jarl's return. He had for company only one dog. He feared that his supplies would be inadequate for the expedition on its return. He had only enough meat and flour for eight men for six months.

Capt. Johannesen intends to search for the Wellman expedition northwest from Spitsbergen when the ice permits. In any case he will bring Prof. Oyen back.

BRITANNIA WINS AT BANGOR.

She Beats the Vigilant, Winning the County Down Cup.

BANGOR, July 17.—The course over which the American sloop Vigilant and the British cutter Britannia sailed yesterday for the County Down Cup or its equivalent in cash (£50) is peculiarly adapted to the English racing mode. The prize for which the yachts struggled was offered by the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, commodore of the Royal Ulster Club; the Marquis of Londonderry, Viscount Bangor, Lord Dunleah, vice-commodore, and R. E. Ward. When the boats reached for the line the wind was brisk from the southwest.

The Britannia crossed the line at 11.00.-12, the Vigilant at 11.00.15; weather cloudy; good breeze.

The time at the various stations was:

Blackhead—Vigilant, 11.50.30; Britannia, 11.50.51.

Briggs—Vigilant, 12.17.47; Britannia, 12.18.39.

Carrickfergus—Vigilant, 1.09.13; Britannia, 1.09.52.

Blackhead—Vigilant, 1.39.44; Britannia, 1.43.28.

Rounding the mark boat of Briggs' buoy—Vigilant, 2.03.28; Britannia, 2.06.35.

The Vigilant passed the commodore's boat at 2.23.54, the Britannia at 2.26.11. The Britannia then began to gain and finally won the race by 1 minute 32 seconds.

The Irish Land Committee.

LONDON, July 17.—There is chronic discord in the Irish Land Committee, which reached a climax yesterday. Mr. John Morley, who is chairman of the committee, sustained a witness in refusing to read the whole of a letter in regard to the settlement of a land case. Messrs. Broderic and McCartney sided with Mr. Morley, but the majority voted that the whole letter should be read, whereupon Mr. Morley summarily adjourned the sitting, saying that he must consider the matter of resigning his position as chairman. The affair created a great sensation in the lobbies of the House of Commons. Mr. Timothy Healy declares that if Mr. Morley is absent from the next meeting of the committee he will move that Mr. Sexton take the chairmanship. It is expected that this or some similar action will break up the committee.

The motive of the man's attempt to kill Mrs. Sandys is not known. He is locked up.

SUBMARINE TELEPHONY.

An Impossible Cable Required for Franco-Atlantic Conversation.

It was Professor Sylvanus Thompson, of London, that set electricians talking again about what is known as submarine telephony. He was in the United States some months ago and he declared his belief that a cable so constructed as to make what the electricians call self-induction balance and neutralize certain other elements of difficulty in the problem would render it possible to talk from the Old World to the New. Practical electricians see small prospects of results from Professor Thompson's suggestion, as it would cost some millions of dollars to test the accuracy of his theory. He admits that his special form of cable would be costly and difficult to make and lay.

It is generally held by electricians that a cable with a thick enough conducting core properly insulated would carry the human voice under the ocean. Some electricians guess that the cable, insulating cost and all, that should carry speech under the Atlantic must be a foot in diameter. This is arguing from known facts, but unforseen difficulties might arise When the electrician has taken into account all he knows he is sometimes balked in practice by the development of things that he does not know. The building of such a cable, or of that suggested by Professor Thompson, is believed to be a long way off.

The only man who has suggested a method of sending human speech under the ocean by means of cables now in use is J. J. Carty, a widely known electrical engineer of this city who set forth his theory in a lecture about five years ago. Another man thought the idea of sufficient practical importance to have it patented. When Mr. Carty thinks so perhaps the other fellow will hear from him.

When a telegraph operator cables across the Atlantic there is an appreciable length of time between the communication of the impulse here and the recording of it on the other side, and the second impulse must be withheld until such time has elapsed. For this reason the human voice cannot be directly transmitted by cables now in use, for a single syllable would communicate hundreds of tiny impulses to the cable, and they would jostle one another, so to speak, in such fashion that no clear record would be made upon the other side. Mr. Carty suggested that the message be first talked into a phonograph upon one side of the Atlantic; that the phonograph then be connected with the cable, and turned at so slow a rate that the impulses shall not crowd one another. A slowly moving phonograph on the other side would receive the message, and, having its record, would be revolved rapidly enough for the sounds to be received by the human ear.

Mr. Carty believes his plan perfectly sound in theory, but, he admits that it would take a long time to send such a message. No experiment has been tried to demonstrate its practicability, partly because Mr. Carty is too busy earning a living in the service of a telephone company to take six months off for devising the necessary machinery for the experiment, and partly because the cable companies are not likely to trouble themselves about such a matter.—New York Sun.

The Sun's Pumping Work.

At a recent meeting of the Engineers' Club of this city Joseph T. Richards made some interesting remarks on the actual work of lifting performed by the sun's rays in the absorption of water from through the atmosphere. He said: "For many years past I have been much interested in matters relating to the composition of the atmosphere and the work done by the sun in raising the moisture afterwards precipitated as rain. Professor Loomis claims that the average height of clouds is two miles. Although this is probably correct, I think there is no doubt on the other hand that many clouds from which we see rain falling are within half a mile of the surface of the earth. To make a moderate calculation let us assume as a minimum distance 3,000 feet. If you figure it out you will find that a rainfall of one inch in an hour would amount to 72,600 tons of water deposited on each square mile, to elevate which 3000 feet would mean an amount of work equal to 220,000 horse power. To raise this water in an hour by pumping engines giving a duty of 100,000,000 foot-pounds, would require the consumption of 200 gross tons of coal. I think this will help us to appreciate the immense amount of work being done by the sun in storing up our natural water supply.

If the average elevation of Philadelphia is 84 feet, then we have 4517 horse-power developed for each square mile for a rainfall run-off in an hour. When these quantities are considered the wonder is that when we have such downpours as that which caused the Johnstown flood the damage is not much greater than it was on that occasion."—Philadelphia Record.

A Telegram's Travels.

A telegram from New York to New Zealand traverses a length of line of 19,123 miles, nearly three-fourths of which is submarine cable. It has to be repeated or rewritten fifteen times. The longest cable is between America and Europe, say 2800 miles, and the longest land line is across Australia from Port Darwin to Adelaide, 2150 miles. When the Australian merchant finishes his day's work he can telegraph to London, knowing that the London merchant is beginning his day's work and will have all day to attend to it, and that he may expect a reply when he opens his own office again in the morning.—Engineering Magazine.

A Record-Breaking Yacht.

Richard K. Fox will build a steam yacht which is intended to compass a speed of thirty knots an hour. The yacht will be 100 feet long, flush decked, with a small steering line forward. She will be fitted with quadruple expansion engines, developing nearly 1000 horse-power, steam being furnished by two water tube boilers. The hull will be of steel.

Fire-Fighters Directed by Telegraph.

During a fire in the British navy yard buildings on Ireland Island, in the Bermudas, an admiral directed the operations of the fire department by telegraph from Halifax, Nova Scotia, 900 miles away.

VIOLATION OF THE INJUNCTION

Is the Offence With Which They Are Charged—The Case to Come Up on Monday—The Present State of the Strike—Outrages in Oklahoma.

CHICAGO, July 18.—There was a sensational climax yesterday to the troubles that have disturbed railroad circles during the past three weeks when President E. V. Debs of the A. R. U. and his cabinet, Vice-President George W. Howard, General Secretary Sylvester Keliher and L. W. Rogers, chairman of the executive committee, were taken to the county jail and incarcerated as prisoners of the United States for violation of the injunction issued July 2 by Judges Wood and Grosscup, restraining them from combining and conspiring to hinder interstate commerce traffic or the movement of United States mails.

The imprisonment of the chiefs of the Railway Union was not in any sense an arbitrary proceeding. Although predicated upon what the courts regarded as an open and defiant violation of orders previously issued, an opportunity was afforded the defendants of presenting bonds for their appearance in court a week hence. This proposition, however, was rejected on the ground, as emphasized by President Debs after the court had rendered its ultimatum, that the principle involved was one entirely too serious in its nature to admit of the defendants availing themselves of any technicalities that might be regarded as loopholes in the law. Bondsmen offered aid to the union leaders, but their overtures were declined and the prisoners suffered themselves to be taken to jail and locked up. There, unless in the meantime they should tire of incarceration, they will remain until Monday morning.

The proceedings which resulted in this climax were inaugurated in the United States Circuit Court when the special counsel for the United States, Edwin Walker and United States District Attorney Milchrist, appeared before Judge Seamans to present information against President Debs and his associates, charging them with violation of the injunction. It was contended on behalf of the government that the proceedings of the defendants, subsequent to the granting of the injunction, were simply an aggravation of the alleged offence originally stated.

Instead of relaxing their efforts and intentions, so the information charges, the defendants by every means in their power had endeavored to still further increase the obstacles in the way of a sufficient movement of railroad traffic, as construed under the provisions of the interstate Commerce Act, as well as the transportation of the United States mails. In support of the contention of the government several scores of telegrams which had been secured from a telegraph company under a ruling of the court was cited.

These are specimens of the whole:

"To Court Head, South Butte, Mont.—The General Managers are weaker. If the strike is not settled in 48 hours complete paralysis will follow. Potatoes and ice are out of sight. Save your money and buy a gun. E. V. Debs."

"To W. F. Smith, Grand Junction, Col.—It will take more than injunctions to move trains. Get everybody out. We are gaining ground everywhere. E. V. Debs."

Only a few of these dispatches had been read when Judge Seamans interrupted to remark that sufficient had been shown to indicate a wilful and deliberate violation of the injunction and thereupon counsel for the Government concluded with a prayer for an attachment against the defendants and their punishment for contempt of court.

An information somewhat similar in its terms was then filed by George R. Peck, general counsel for the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Road, alleging specific interruption to the traffic of the road after the issuance of the injunction and making separate and distinct prayer for punishment upon Debs and his associates.

President Debs was the only representative of the Union in court during the morning session. He was accompanied by W. W. Erwin of St. Paul, special counsel for the Union, who figured in the defence of the Homestead rioters at Pittsburg two years ago; W. A. Shoemaker, of St. Paul, his law associate, and S. S. Gregory, of Chicago, recently leading counsel for Prendergast, the assassin of Mayor Harrison.

At the opening of the court in the afternoon Debs, Howard, Kelliher and Rogers were on hand. Attorney Erwin led off the proceedings with a fiery speech in which he declared that the defendants had been guilty of no contempt of court, and stated point blank that in the event of the court ruling otherwise they would refuse to give bail and accept the alternative of going to jail. He insisted that the injunction previously issued would not hold water, and intimated the intention of the defence to file a demurrer both against the injunction and the indictment found against the defendants at the proper time.

Special Counsel Walker asked the court to pay no attention to the speech to the public that had just been delivered. Day after day, he said, these men had wilfully violated the injunction directed against them. They could not raise the question of jurisdiction until they had purged themselves of their contempt.

Mr. Walker said in conclusion: "It is no excuse for Debs and Howard to say they are unable to give additional bail and that if it is imposed they must necessarily go to jail. They should have thought of that on the third and fourth of July and on every subsequent day. They have ignored the injunction and they must answer for it. The Government urges a speedy hearing and it asks that the defendants be held to bail in a sum which the court may deem sufficient, not only to insure their attendance, but to prevent any further aggravated violations of the courts orders."

After further argument counsel for the defendants asked that the case should be set for Monday. To this Mr. Walker objected on the ground that he did not propose to be kept here all summer. Judge Seamans, however, said that reasonable time should be allowed and thereupon fixed the hearing for the case for 10 o'clock on Monday morning. He added that there would be a manifest impropriety in allowing the defendants to go at large on their own recognizances. He therefore thought that each and every one of the four should find satisfactory sureties in the sum of $3,000 to appear on Monday next. The court added that this was purely nominal bail, and but for the fact that the defendants were already under bonds it would be much larger.

Lawyer Erwin, after consulting with the defendants, announced that they would refuse to give bail. Several friends urged them not to pursue this course, but they persisted. Marshal Arnold escorted them to an open carriage in which they were driven to the county jail. Arnold sat with the arrested men, while two deputies shared seats with the driver. On their arrival at the jail the prisoners were courteously received. At the demand of the turnkey they held up their hands and submitted to a search. They were deprived of all their valuables and then led to cells in the debtors' department.

The Condition of the Strike.

At a meeting of strikers held in Uhlich's hall to hear the reports of the committee selected to report the condition of the strike on the roads they formerly worked for, some of the reports were not as indicative of success as the leaders expected. A former Nickle Plate employe reported that more than half the strikers had returned to work. A committee of Illinois Central strikers from Harvey asked for an order to return to work, but permission was refused. Vice-President Howard made a speech, in which he claimed that eight tenths of the switchmen, trackmen and shopmen were still out, 40 per cent. of the engineers and 35 per cent. of the firemen.

Lawlessness in Oklahoma.

GUTHRIE, Ok., July 18.—Rioting and destruction is going on worse than ever on the Rock Island railroad. One bridge was blown up with dynamite, one burned and a dynamite bomb thrown under a train carrying soldiers. Telegraphic wires cut, train guards fired upon and section men driven from their work are some of the occurrences of the day at Enid and Round Pond. County Attorney Asher at Round Pond was in the hands of a mob and roughly treated, only escaping hanging by the interposition of citizens. A reign of terror prevails and the local officials are afraid to act. The handful of soldiers are scarcely able to take care of themselves and the secret band goes right along pillaging and burning.

SHOCKING MINE FATALITY.

Ten Workmen Blown to Atoms by a Dynamite Explosion.

HAZELTON, Pa., July 18.—The most horrible accident which has ever occurred about the mines in this region took place at No. 8 Stockton mine yesterday.

Two hundred sticks of dynamite exploded among a crowd of men who were preparing to go to their day's work. All of the unfortunates were shattered and torn to fragments. The true cause of the explosion will never be known as none of the men are living.

The accident occurred at seven o'clock. The men were descending the slope at the time, and distributing themselves in the various chambers and gangways, where they were employed at the bottom of the slope.

A rescuing party rushed through subterranean passage ways to No. 8. Pushing forward towards the bottom, they came upon a scene which baffles description. Huge timbers were twisted and torn and scattered about promiscuously. Rocks and debris were everywhere. Over all was strewn human flesh, legs and arms of the unfortunate victims, and from the jagged sides hung two shattered bodies. Not one of the several bodies was left sufficiently intact to permit of identity.

Trouble With the Standard Oil Co.

OSWEGO, N.Y., July 18.—Yesterday the longshoremen attempted to get on the Standard Oil Company's dock, but were repulsed by the militia. They then proceeded in boats and attempted to land via the government pier. The United States authorities placed all government property under martial law. The Standard Oil Company closed their box factory and put the men and boys unloading barges.

For the Relief of Turkish Sufferers.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 18.—The Sultan has headed the fund for the relief of the earthquake sufferers with a subscription of 1,500 Turkish pounds. M. Cambon, the French ambassador, has presented £500 from French subscriptions.

LONDON, July 18.—The Lord Mayor of London has opened a fund for the relief of the earthquake sufferers in Turkey.

Altenberger Sentenced to Death.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 18.—Judge Lippincott sentenced Bernesar Altenberger, who killed Katie Rupp, to be hanged on Thursday, September 6, between 10 o'clock a.m. and 3 o'clock p.m. Altenberger heard the sentence unmoved, but as he was being led out he sprang into the air, made a motion with his hand as if putting a rope around his neck and gave a yell.

Forest Fires in Wisconsin.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., July 18.—The forests east of here have been burning all day and dense clouds of smoke have been driven this way by the winds. There is also a heavy fire on Duluth Heights, but the buildings on the heights are not yet in danger. The town of Partridge, on the Eastern Minnesota, is burning.

Plot to Murder Abdul Aziz.

TANGIER, July 18.—A despatch from Mequinez says that the ex-Grand Vizier Haif Amasti, his brother Mohammed Sorsir, ex Minister of War, and two other court officials have been arrested for plotting to murder the Sultan.

SAT ON THE GENERAL

Soldier Members of the Commons Say Herbert is Incapable.

CHARGES AGAINST THE JUDGES

Sir John Thompson Says Tarte Has Not Been Explicit Enough to Justify an Inquiry—Franchise Act Laid Over—The Queen Congratulated.

OTTAWA, July 18.—In the House Lieut.-Colonel Tisdale brought up the question of the suspension of Col. Powell, the Adjutant-General of Militia, by Major General Herbert. The Colonel, who represents South Norfolk and who is a follower of the Government, read from the law on the subject to show that the Adjutant General was most unjustifiably suspended by Major General Herbert, who commands the Canadian militia. He pointed out that there was an existing fallacy that the Major-General was an Imperial officer, and above criticism. It was true that he held rank as an Imperial officer, but he was nevertheless an officer of the Canadian Government and under the control of the Minister of Militia. He held that the Major-General was totally unacquainted with the needs of the Canadian militia and that the sooner he resigned it would be the better for his own reputation and the interests of the force.

Major Sam Hughes, who represents North Victoria, declared Major-General Herbert as commander of the militia to be a failure.

The Minister of Militia defended the Major-General to some extent although he did not say he was right in suspending the Adjutant-General.

The matter dropped without any motion being made on the subject. The outcome will be that Canada will likely hereafter appoint its own general from the Canadian militia.

Tarte's Charges Against Judges.

In the evening Sir John Thompson said that the charges which Mr. Tarte had made in the House against the judges of Quebec were not sufficiently explicit to warrant him to allow an enquiry into the same. He would, however, make a departmental inquiry into some of the points raised.

Franchise Act Laid Over.

Sir John Thompson informed the House that the Government did not propose going on with the Franchise Amendment Act. The revision of the lists in the redistributed constituencies would be proceeded with. The revision in the old constituencies will be proceeded with on the old lines. Thus the proposition for conducting the next general elections on the basis of the provincial franchises and lists has been abandoned.

Congratulations to Her Majesty.

The Senate last night adopted an address to her Majesty, congratulating her on the birth of another heir to the throne, son to the Duke and Duchess of York.

They Want Their Back Pay.

There is much dissatisfaction in the various departments of the civil service over the fact that they have been unable to draw any pay this month. Last Saturday should have been pay day, but none of them got their cheques. This is owing to the fiscal year having ended on June 30 and the supply bill for this year not having passed Parliament. Until such time as prorogation comes there will be no money to pay any of the employes. While the permanent hands are only waiting for the past month's pay, there are a large number of the extra hands who have not been paid for months. In some of the departments they have not been paid since last December.

MANGLED BY A MOWER.

Shocking Death of a Forest Young Man—A Little Girl Poisoned.

FOREST, Ont., July 18.—A young man named Thos. Freele, eldest son of James Freele, of Forest, met with a horrible death on the farm of Wm. Knapp, four miles from town. He was driving a mower and while oiling the machine was kicked in the head by one of the horses. The team then ran away and Freel was dragged under the mower and terribly mangled, his head and body being bruised and cut and one of his ears cut off. Life was extinct when assistance arrived.

In the evening while friends were at the house of Mr. Freele, who was killed during the day, a little daughter of Geo. Hancock got hold of a can containing embalming fluid, a deadly poison, and drank part of the contents. By prompt action the child's life was saved, but she is not out of danger.

The Wreck at Battle Creek.

MONTREAL, July 18.—E. Christie, Pullman car conductor on the Montreal Grand Trunk express, which was wrecked at Battle Creek, passed through here yesterday. He is uninjured, and he tells a thrilling story of the wrecking. "I was passing from the rear Pullman to the car in front," said he, "when, just as I opened the door of the rear car, I saw the vestibules fall in. I knew then that there was a run off, or something of the kind, and ran back jumping from the rear platform. Every car of the train was off. The destruction was terrible, and the shrieks of the wounded passengers were terrible to hear. The fireman, Crow, never spoke. The engineer had his leg and ankle smashed, while another engineer, who was in the cab with him learning the road, had his nose and chin smashed. The wreck was clearly the work of an expert."

Found Dead in an Oat Field.

FOREST, Ont., July 18.—Miss Mary McKinlay, aged 56 years, left the residence of her brother-in-law, John Douglas, five miles from here, on Monday night. She had been ill and her mind was affected. Search was made all night by a large number of neighbors, but she was not found until yesterday afternoon, when her body was found in an oat field about a mile from the house. Coroner Scott examined the remains and found that death had been caused by paralysis. The McKinlay family are among the most prominent residents of Plympton township.

IT ISN'T FAIR.

What is the Dominion Government going to do about it? Yesterday a squad of eighteen or twenty workingmen from Saginaw, Michigan, arrived in town by C.P.R., and went north to work in Howrie & Son's mills at Fenelon Falls, or on their limits. Thus we have the spectacle of a score of American workmen invading Canada, and directly depriving a like number of Canadians of employment, while not a single Canadian is allowed to "do a tap" of work in the United States. Is the Dominion Government ever going to place itself on record as doing something for the workingman except to extend to him the privilege of paying taxes on about everything he and his family eat, drink or wear? They restrict the buying powers of the workingman's scarce dollars by taxing the necessities of life, and throw open the doors of labour, and permit unrestricted competition, which makes the Canadian workman's dollars scarcer still. While we we do not uphold the principle of retaliation, there is a distinction to be drawn between retaliation and self defence. Mr. Taylor, of Leeds, the government whip, introduced a bill into the House of Commons to enact a law that would place the Canadian and American workmen on the same level with regard to employment, but the government discouraged the bill and smothered it. While the government felt that they may have been justified in such a course, their failure was in not taking any steps to remedy the grievance. There certainly must be within the resources of the Government some means of removing the anomolous trade relations that exist between this country and the United States and with a statesmanlike adjustment of those relations in the direction of removing the commercial restrictions that prevail, there would be a chance to satisfactorily deal with a condition that shuts the door of the United States to Canadian labour and opens the doors of Canada wide to alien labour. The streets of Peterborough are thickly dotted with men—honest working men, honestly desirous of a chance to work, and it must be galling to them to stand by in idleness and see their families deprived of the common comforts of life, and to see foreign workmen brought in in regiments to rob them of the work to which they have first claim.

Mr. Foster is, doubtless, too busy in solving difficulties concerning the yet unsettled tariff, that it is hardly fair, the Ottawa Free Press thinks, to expect him to know much of the working of his own department. "It is the first I have heard of it; I will enquire," was his reply to a question as to the non payment of interest now due on Dominion bonds. This seems rather loose administration. Perhaps the finance minister is not aware that a good many other people are waiting for the treasury to pay them their overdue accounts, and this delay causes much inconvenience. And though the Supply bill has not yet been passed its items have so far been approved that the government might readily, without any violent breach of red tape principles, obtain the money for the public employes, now long in arrears.

---

Upon property worth $10,000,000 at a conservative estimate George M. Pullman, according to the Chicago Times, pays annually taxes to state and municipality of only $15,000. Upon highly improved real estate in the town of Pullman, upon house property which brings in splendid rentals, upon magnificent business blocks and immense factories, all located within the city limits of Chicago, and in receipt of the full benefits of the most advanced form of civic government, Mr. Pullman pays taxes at the same rate as is assessed upon the owners of unimproved swamp and marsh lands which do not bring in a picayune annually from rental or produce any income whatever in cash or commodity.

Now that Mr. Pullman has established his ability to reduce the wages of his employees, he will be able in that way to add somewhat to his meagre income. Apart from the $25,000,000 he has put aside for a rainy day, the income of the company, in which he is a large shareholder, reached last year $11,389,893, as against an outlay of five millions. The profit was therefore over six millions, or about 18 per cent. on the capital invested. It is safe to presume therefore that Mr. Pullman is not in very immediate danger of want.

Speaking of the revelations before the Public Accounts Committee with reference to the Montreal bridge affairs, the Montreal Witness says, "in any other country than in Canada such revelations would be followed by the resignation of the government." In Canada such revelations are followed by a liberal application of Government whitewash.

THE DISCOVERY OF AMERICA BY ST. BRENDAN.

One night as St. Brendan lay taking repose,
He saw in a vision the great promised land,
It seemed like an isle from the ocean that rose,
With its primitive forests extensive and grand.

Three ships he got ready of great size and strength,
To cross the Atlantic in search of that land,
And then for a voyage of three years in length,
He put upon board all his needs might demand.

When all of his outfit was placed upon board,
Then twenty brave seamen he put into each,
And then of Almighty a blessing implor'd
That all might in safety the promised land reach.

On March twenty-second he sailed from Tralee,
Across the Atlantic in search of that land,
And after some months, he its green coast could see,
And soon its fair outline in great length did stand.

He reached a fine port, he called Tirmannah Bay,
And landed his party upon a high plain,
And there built good tents and some time did stay,
And planted the cross, and for Christ set his claim.

Through the Toltec county some brothers went West,
And reached a great river, as historians say,
And near a great junction for some time did rest,
And then travelled back to their ships in the bay

St. Brendan, the Gospel preached throughout that land,
From Chesapeake Bay to the Florida coast,
And in its great cities did oftentimes stand,
Of which in past ages it proudly could boast.

And when he sailed home to his own native shore,
He left many priests here the Gospel to preach,
And these and that country he never saw more,
Nor did he again the great promised land reach.

When savage invaders came down on that land
The Toltecs away into Mexico went;
And there built great cities whose ruins yet stand
As models of art that best skill could invent.

Their cities in Central America prove
That their great buildings with old Egypt's could vie;
It was to that country they made their last move,
And there in its forests the last of them lie.

As their banner long bore the sign of the cross,
That people must surely have been Christianized,
But to find who taught them we are at a loss,
Unless St. Brenden preach'd there and baptized.

When the Spaniards first into Mexico reach'd
They found Christianity then in that land,
And that some great saint in that country had preached
And planted the faith that did yet in it stand.

To the isle of Tlapallan, the Mexicans say,
The apostle who taught them self'd away home,
And faithfully promised at some future day
To come to that country with blessings from Rome.

Now what other isle except Erin had then
Ever sent forth a saint the Gospel to preach,
And crossed o'er the ocean, through valley and fen,
And thus with the true faith the heathen to reach.

The isle of Tlapallan surely Erin must be,
From which Quetzatcoatel in olden times came,
And planted the faith in the Land of the Free,
And where it will ever through ages remain.

To prove that St. Brendan discover'd this land,
We need but refer to its festival day,
That did in the church for some centuries stand,
And proves for a fact that he here made his way.

That festival ne'er in the church would have been,
Unless St. Brendan discovered the land,
And had a great part of this country once seen,
With its prairies, and forests and scenery grand.

St. Aengus invok'd the sixty who sail'd
Along with St. Brendan in search of that land,
Which he ne'er would have done if that voyage had failed,
Or ne'er in that country did ever once stand.

Notes.—(a)—The prayer of St. Aengus Cele de taken from his book of Litanies is as follows: "Sexaginta qui comitati sunt sanctum Brendanum in exquirenda terra promissionis invoco in auxilium meum." "I invoke unto my aid the sixty who accompanied St. Brendan in his quest of the Land of Promise."

(b)—The Toltec country lay between the Alleghany mountains and the Ohio river. It was extensively cultivated in ancient days before it was invaded by the North American Indians.

(c)—A great Toltec city, with well-paved streets and well-built aqueducts lies buried a few miles from Irontown in Ohio, and beside the Ohio river.

(d)—In some centuries after the Toltecs settled in Mexico they were conquered by the Aztecs, whom they had civilized. The Toltecs, in order to escape these merciless foes, left Mexico and settled in Yucatan and Central America, where their great cities now lie in ruins in the forests of that country.

TO SHUT OUT ANARCHY

The Lords Pass the Second Reading of Salisbury's Bill.

ROSEBERY STRONGLY OBJECTS

He Declares No Anarchic Plots Have Been Hatched in England During the Present Government's Existence—Budget Passes in the Commons.

LONDON, July 18.—In the House of Lords yesterday Lord Salisbury formally moved the second reading of the alien immigrants bill.

Lord Rosebery opposed the bill on the ground that such proposals ought not to be made to parliament except upon the initiative of the Government. It was not through neglect on the part of the present ministry, he declared, that the alien question had not been touched. When Lord Salisbury was in power the case against alien immigrants was infinitely stronger than it is now as immigration was much greater; yet the Conservative ministers then opposed special legislation on the ground that aliens were few and that the right of asylum in England ought to be upheld.

Lord Rosebery quoted copiously from statistics showing that immigration was now at a lower point than it had reached in many years. The bill, he said, had not the slightest chance of becoming a law, and it was therefore a waste of time to put it through the House of Lords. On the authority of the Home Office he could deny the allegation that any plot against a foreign government or an official of a foreign government had been hatched in England since the present ministry came into power. He advised Lord Salisbury by all means to drop the measure.

Lord Salisbury expressed regret at the Government's refusal to support the bill, which was necessary legislation in the direction of protecting the workingmen against the competition of low-priced labor and also a preventative of England becoming a permanent asylum for anarchist refugees. He declined to withdraw the measure.

A division was taken and the bill passed its second reading, 89 to 37.

In the House of Commons Sir William Harcourt announced that to-day he would make a statement of the parliamentary programme of the Government for the remainder of the session.

A motion made by Sir John Lubbock to reject the budget bill was rejected by a vote of 283 to 263. On Sir William Harcourt's motion the bill then passed the third reading amid loud cheers.

VIGILANT WINS A RACE.

The Britannia Meets With an Accident and Drops Out.

BANGOR, July 18.—The Vigilant and Britannia started yesterday on their eighth race.

Vigilant was 1m. 50s. ahead on the first round and gained 45s. on the second leg.

The second round was finished with the following times: Vigilant, 2h. 34m. 54s.; Britannia, 2h. 40m. 27s.

Shortly after starting on the third and last round Britannia carried away a bobstay, lowered her foresail, took in her topsail and gave up the race.

Vigilant reached a winner at 4h. 30m. It is now said that the iron band at the throat of the Britannia carried away and caused her to give up the race.

Capt. Carter, of the Britannia, sustained a bad cut on the head by a piece of the shackle which fell from aloft at the time of the accident.

AFTER THIRTY YEARS.

Allan Stewart, of Springton, Suffers all This Time—At Last Confined to Bed—Story of His Happy Release from Pain.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., July 9.—Allan Stewart, of Springton, near here, says that Dodd's Kidney Pills saved his life and he wants the fact to be known. For thirty years he has had kidney disease and gravel. Hundreds of dollars spent on doctors and medicine failed to do any good. On July 14 last, Mr. Stewart had to take to his bed and everybody considered his case a hopeless one. He heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and began using them. He says he noticed an improvement from the first and ten boxes cured him. He is now free from all pain and enjoys excellent health.

I was attacked severely last winter with diarrhœa, cramps, and colic and thought I was going to die, but fortunately I tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and now I can thank this excellent remedy for saving my life. Mrs. S. Kellett, Minden, Ont.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

OTTAWA, July 18.—Nearly 200,000 feet of lumber belonging to J. R. Booth has gone up in smoke. The piles were situated in a low spot, and a mill right at the side was crowded with people from miles aroud, who watched the flames until there was nothing else left but the dying embers of the lumber. The loss is estimated at $4,000, said to be fully covered by insurance.

Should Secure Wolfe's Sword.

TORONTO, July 18.—Mayor Kennedy has written a letter to Sir John Thompson, urging that the Government take steps to secure the sword of Gen. Wolfe as the property of Canada. The sword is at present owned by an official of the Imperial War Office, and is said to be for sale. If the Government takes no action possibly the council may.

Drowning Accident at Toronto.

TORONTO, July 18.—A lad named Moore was drowned in the bay at the foot of Peter street yesterday. He was picking up drift wood, and while doing so picked up a board owned by a man in the vicinity. He chased the boy, who sprang on a boom and was upset and drowned.

Cotton Mills to Close Down.

CORNWALL, July 18.—It is rumored here that the two mills of the Canadian Cotton (Colored) Co. the Stormont and Canada, will shortly be closed down. If the rumor proves to be true it will throw about 2,000 hands out of work, which means a loss of about $40,000 a month to the town.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, July 18, 1894.

The Grand Trunk Railway Company's return of traffic for the week ending July 14 shows a decrease for 1894 of $67,600.

The local cattle market is very dull. Forty loads received and 40 left over making total offerings 80 loads. Several loads of exporters, averaging 1,325 lbs., sold at a trifle over 4c per lb.

At the London wool sales 9,220 bales were offered. Good greasy merinos and cross breds firm. Competition sharp by home and continental buyers. A large quantity suitable for America was offered, but little business was transacted.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—The market was dull, the only receipt being 300 bush. of oats, which sold at 39c to 40c. Wheat steady and nominal at 62c for white; red quoted at 61c and goose at 58c. Peas are quoted at 65c and barley at 41 to 43c.

The pressure of the new crop made itself felt in Chicago and wheat closed ¼ to ⅜c lower. Corn followed wheat, showing a net loss of ¼ to ⅜c for the day. Corn was also weak, the close being ⅜c lower. Receipts—Wheat, 80 cars; corn, 200 cars; oats, 120 cars; hogs, 14,000 head.

Buffalo.—Cattle—Twenty-five cars; active, steady, unchanged. Sheep and lambs—Six cars; weak, almost nominal, not quotably lower; no very good stock on sale. Hogs—Eight cars; Yorkers advanced 10c, selling mostly at $5.60 and down to $5.50 for light weights; good heavies, $5.63 and mediums, $5.60. Pigs, $5.42 to $5.49.

The feature of the New York stock market was the heaviness of distillers, the stock breaking from 20¼ to 18¾. The railroad list held well until the last hour or so, when a decline of ¼ to 1 per cent. occurred in sympathy with the weakness in the industrials. The closing was rather weak, owing to the heaviness of the industrials. Total sales were? Listed, 115,000; unlisted, 48,000, including Chicago Gas, 20,000; American Sugar, 46,000; Distillers, 45,000.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

Athlete Cigarettes have no rivals.

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please," an have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose to pay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

The Late T. B. Pearse, Madoc.

The numerous friends of T. B. Pearse, of Marmora, will learn with regret of his death which took place on Saturday last in California. Last fall Mr. Pearse, accompanied by his wife, went to California for the benefit of his health. His expectations were however not realized, and Mr. Pearse's death will be regretted by all of his friends in his wide circle of acquaintance, and especially Marmora. He was an enterprising public-spirited citizen, held in the highest esteem for his many excellent qualities, both social and civic. The body is being brought home for interment at the special request of Mr. Pearse, made during his last illness.

Sale of Town Property.

One of the most eligible properties in the town will be offered for sale by auction on Tuesday, July 24th. It consists of the northern portion of that valuable town block situated on the east side of George street, between Murray and Macdonel street, and opposite the Central Park, owned by Mr. Chas. Cameron. The attention of real estate men has been frequently called to this admirably situated property and the chance now to be given is likely to attract a good number of offers. The sale will take place on the premises at 2 p.m. The terms of sale are unusually liberal; especially the non-interest bearing portion of the conditions.

Canada's Great Fair for 1894.

The Toronto Industrial Exhibition, which is to be held from the 3rd to the 15th of September, will no doubt be the greatest fair of the present year, and from present indications it promises to excel all others, both in point of exhibits and in attendance of visitors. The grounds have been vastly improved since last year, and already most of the space in all the buildings has been applied for. All entries close on the 11th of August. A good programme of special attractions, both novel and interesting, will be provided as usual. It is only a little over a month to the time of the fair, and our readers cannot choose a better holiday trip than this offers. Cheap excursions will as usual be run on all railways at rates in keeping with the times. This great Fair has now become one of the best and most popular educational and entertainment enterprises on this continent, and attracts visitors each year, not only from all parts of the Dominion, but from the United States as well, and those who have never been there would be surprised at its magnitude and attractiveness, being almost like a World's Fair, only on a smaller scale.

A Warning to Boys.

At the police court this morning a youth appeared before the police magistrate to answer to the charge of maliciously destroying the Chinese lanterns and other decorations at the garden party on the lawn adjoining the residence of Mr. John McKee, London street, held by the Young Women's Association on Monday, July 9th. The magistrate imposed a fine of $5 and $1.20 compensation for the damage done. Three other youths will appear in court to-morrow morning to answer to the same charge. This should prove a warning to the young vandals who appear to take delight in displaying their evil propensities in this respect. The chief of police states that he is bound to put a stop to this practice. Whatever may be thought of the curfew bell, applied to a town like Peterborough, here is a case where its enforcement would have been a direct benefit in the way of prevention. If this law had been in force at the time of the garden party the offending lads would have been, where they should have been, soundly asleep in their beds and their parents would not have been put to the expense with the added disgrace of the doubtful honour of a police court connection. The devil's schools are the streets at night. Our criminal army is recruited from the boys and girls that are allowed to roam our streets at night without parental restraint. Parents who do not know where their boys and girls are at nights are laying up for themselves trouble or disgrace. Shakspere's adage with a variation applies to this matter—"safe bind, safe find."

—Don't forget the address on the "Science of Phrenology," by a real live Yankee, in the lodge rooms of City Lodge, I.O.G.T., (over China Hall), to-morrow (Thursday) evening, at eight o'clock. Everybody is cordially invited. No admission fee.

—The sawdust in the Little Lake, near the cemetery, has shifted, taking up its station further down the river. If the government would dredge Little Lake it would be money well spent, and would prevent that beautiful expanse of water from becoming, as it fast is, a frog pond.

—The lad who stole a cake from the school room of St. Andrew's last night after the social, in his flight, dropped his pocket knife. He can now see the wisdom of having his name placed plainly on the handle of his knife. The Central Canada Exhibition.

Our friends at Ottawa are in the field again early and with their usual energy and determination to come out ahead. The Ottawa Fair and Exhibition now in its seventh consecutive year, has become a household word amongst the great stock men and manufacturers throughout the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec. The constantly increasing attendance is proof of the fact that it is every year gaining more and more the confidence of the intelligent farming community located throughout the beautiful and fertile Ottawa Valley. The Central Canada has fairly made its record as one of the most firmly established and successful exhibitions that hold a place in the grand circuit of fairs that covers the two great provinces of old Canada. The special features this year are, a large increase in the amount of prize money offered; the Dairy department is made a special feature, the prizes therein being increased from $250 to $600, and a special building provided for dairy purposes; a new class is added for "Quebec Jerseys" or "Canadian Cattle," a small class, but if the exhibit this year will justify it the Association will give full class next year; a new class is added for Tamworth swine; prizes are increased for mares with foals; the poultry prizes are increased; the ladies department will have many special improvements, glass show cases being provided for fancy work exhibits. A special roadway is being made to Machinery buildings, the latter being largely increased and improved. The usual number increased of large and valuable gold medals for which this society has become famous amongst exhibitors are again offered. The exhibition as heretofore will be held on the last week of September, the best possible time to visit the capital.

MONTREAL HIGHLAND CADET CORPS

Will Visit Peterborough on Thursday, August 16th—A Well-Drilled Corps.

Captain E. F. Mason, of the 57th Battalion, received word this morning that the celebrated Highland Cadet Corps, of Montreal, would arrive in Peterborough on the morning of the 16th of August, and would give an exhibition of fancy drill in the Agricultural Park in the afternoon, and an entertainment in the evening in Bradburn's opera house. This corps is considered the finest drilled body of men in the Dominion, and will have with them the band of the Royal Scots, Montreal, numbering 35 pieces, and two Highland pipers, the total strength of the corps being about 150 picked men. It is proposed by a number of citizens of the town to hold a demonstration in Peterborough on that date, and although the Highland Cadet Corps is being brought here independent of this, it is proposed to have their drill exhibition in conjunction with the demonstration should it be held. Capt. Mason is deserving of a great deal of praise for bringing this celebrated corps to Peterborough.

The corps will remain in town two days and will put up at the Oriental hotel. They are all men of means, paying their own expenses wherever they visit. The following programme will be presented on the afternoon and evening of Civic Holiday. It is expected that more numbers will be added to the programme of the afternoon:

AFTERNOON PROGRAMME.

Fancy march to music.
Manual, firing and bayonet exercises.
Physical drill with arms to music.
Company and battalion drill.

EVENING PROGRAMME.

Physical drill to music without arms.
Sword drill.
Bayonet exercise.
Bar bell exercises to music.

THE WHEEL.

The C. P. R. picnic at Perth on July 24th is not going to be any of your rural go-as-you-please affairs. "The greatest line on earth intends to do things in first class style. The bicycle races for which valuable prizes will be offered will be conducted under the regulations of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association.

LACROSSE.

A junior lacrosse club was organized in the Central Park last night. They intend contesting for the junior championship of the town with the Granites.

It is not probable that the Peterborough lacrosse club will make a tour of the east next week, Perth being the only club that they have completed arrangements with. The victorious club in this contest receives a purse of $25.

The Brockville Recorder says:—"An effort made some time ago to secure a visit from the senior Cornwalls seems to have been unsuccessful, and now the Peterborough club may be induced to come down. The Peterboroughs won the western championship last year and are capable of putting up a game worth going to see this season, but as yet we are not in position to announce a match with them. The Port Hopes are anxious to come down also and within a few days it is altogether likely a game can be announced."

BASEBALL.

Lindsay baseball club will take a week's tour throughout the district, playing Oshawa first, and at the end of the tour will pay this town a visit.

N. CLARKE WALLACE IS INVITED

To Address the Monster Gathering Here on August 13th

The committee composed of members of the True Blues and Prentice Boys lodges who have the Derry Day celebration in hand state that they expect a monster gathering in Peterborough on Monday, August 13th. Invitations have been extended to N. Clarke Wallace, Grand Master of British North America, J. Billingshurst, Grand Master of the 'Prentice Boys, Toronto; W. Fitzgerald, Grand Master of the True Blues, Toronto; the Grand Chaplain of the True Blues and a number of local gentlemen to deliver addresses on that day. Brockville and Kingston will send large contingents, together with other towns along the line.

Messrs. J. E. Chapman, J. Phillips and G. S. Warring, members of the Sons of Ireland Benovolent Society, of Toronto, were in town yesterday making arrangements for the running of an excursion from Toronto on that day. It is expected that over 1,000 excursionists will arrive on this excursion from that city.

Two bands have already entered the contest for the prizes for best bands and it is expected that a number of drill corps from the Queen City will also be entered. The committee are working energetically and no doubt Peterborough will see a monster gathering on that date.

BOARD OF HEALTH MEETING.

The Question of Vaccination and of Whyte's Dam Nuisance Discussed—A Very Short Session.

The adjourned meeting of the Board of Health was held last evening in the mayor's private office, the council chamber being in the hands of the calciminer. A quorum of the board did not arrive until 8:30 and what little business there was to transact was run off in short order.

There were present J. J. Hartley, chairman, S. R. Armstrong, secretary, Messrs. H. Denne, Chas. Stapleton, B. Shortly, Dr. McGrath and Dr. Clark, health officer.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary and confirmed.

THE NUISANCE AT WHYTE'S DAM.

The secretary stated that he had received the resolution of the Health Committee of the council passed at its last meeting in reference to Whyte's dam. On motion the resolution was received.

THE QUENTION OF VACCINATION.

Dr. Clarke stated that he had received circulars from the Provincial Board of Health in reference to vaccination and danger of small pox. From extracts in the circular it was learned that in case Canada was affected it would be from the west.

Dr. Clarke stated that in case of necessity any Board of Health could enforce vaccination without the consent of the municipal council.

Mr. Shortly wanted to know if there was actually any danger from smallpox at present.

Mr. Stapleton,—There is never any danger until it breaks out. If it is in the interest of the country that the people should be vaccinated, it should be carried out.

Dr. Clarke stated that as far as he was able to learn, there are few, if any, cases of smallpox in the country.

After some discussion, it was moved by Mr. Shortly, seconded by Mr. Stapleton, that the communication from the Provincial Board of Health be laid over until next meeting of the Board, to confer with the Health Committee of the town council.—Carried.

THE DISCUSSION RE. WHYTE'S DAM.

Mr. Stapleton wished to know the nature of the complaints in reference to Whyte's dam.

Mr. Denne stated that fifteen residents in the vicinity had complained of the nuisance.

Mr. Shortly said he would like to see the dam removed, and every other dam on the creek, as it would not only abate the nuisance, but would lessen the expenditure on bridges in consequence of spring freshets.

Mr. Stapleton agreed with Mr. Shortly in this matter.

After the question had been pretty thoroughly discussed, it was moved by Mr. Denne, seconded by Mr. Stapleton, that the Health Committee of the town council be notified to meet for discussion of this question at next Board of Health meeting, and that the parties making complaints also appear to give evidence.

The motion was carried, and after the discussion of other minor questions, the Board adjourned to meet at call of chairman.

A MOST SUCCESSFUL EXCURSION

The Charlotte Street Sunday School Enjoys a Day on the Lakes.

The annual excursion of the Charlotte street Methodist church Sunday school was most successfully held on Tuesday. Between four and five hundred persons took the train at the G.T.R. station and arrived at Lakefield, boarded the Golden City and scow attached and off for the lakes. The party put in at Sandy Point, with its fine shade and excellent cold water springs and enjoyed dinner. This gastronomic diversion was followed by the running off of the following list of sports and games under the management of Mr. Wm. Adamson:

Boys' race, 5 to 10 years—George Edmison, John Fowler, James Fowler.

Boys' race, 10 to 14—George Fowler, Fred Adlum, James Sutherland.

Boys race, 12 to 16—John Cunningham, Jas. Fowler.

Three-legged race—James Sutherland and George Fowler.

Young men, hop, step and jump—Mr. Hawley.

Girls' race, 5 to 10—May Redman, May Huffman, Lillie Grose.

Girls' race, 10 to 14—Lillie Minorgan, Mabel Montgomery, May Huffman.

Girls' race, 12 to 15—Lillie Minorgan, Mabel Montgomery, Edith Fuller.

Girls' race, 14 to 18—May Redman, Edith Fuller, Lucy Grose.

Girls' race, 5 to 8—Lillie Lyle, Alice Williams, Rotha Sherwood, Edith Williams, Hazel Huffman.

At the conclusion of these events the party re-embarked and sailed through Stony Lake to Burleigh, calling on the way at Mr. J. D. Collins' island, where Rev. S. J. Shorey, of Lindsay, and Mr. T. Fitzgerald were left. The steamer proceeded to Burleigh Falls, where nearly an hour was spent viewing the sights. The party then returned to Lakefield and by train home, which was reached at 8:30, concluding a most enjoyable day's excursion.

AN ASHBURNHAM GARDEN PARTY

Held Under the Auspices of St. Andrew's Y.P.S.C.E. Last Evening.

The beautiful grounds adjoining the residence of Mr. J. J. Lundy, presented a pretty appearance last evening, the occasion being the garden party of St. Andrew's Y.P.S.C.E. The trees were literally covered with Chinese lanterns, and the many young ladies and children who thronged the ground, and passed to and fro under the many trees, presented a pretty sight and added much to the picturesqueness of the scene. The evening was a delightful one, the light breeze blowing from the lake having an exhilarating effect upon the large crowd present. The ladies in charge of the refreshments were kept busy during the evening, attending to the wants of their many patrons. The Fire Brigade Band provided an excellent programme on the lawn, which it is needless to say was thoroughly enjoyed by the gathering. St. Andrew's Y.P.S.C.E. have reasons to congratulate themselves over last night's success. The members of the society desire to return their most cordial thanks to Mr. J. J. Lundy for the use of his grounds, and also to the Fire Brigade Band for the excellent programme presented.

NORWOOD NEWS NOTES.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Isaac Puffer returned Tuesday from a visit to friends in Lindsay and vicinity.

Miss Iva Butler, of Toronto, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. S. S. Weaver.

A large number of our townspeople are spending the summer vacation at Stony Lake. J. R. McKelvie's bus to the Lake is doing a thriving business.

Rev. Father Conway will arrive home from his trip to Europe, in a few days. He is already on this side of the water.

Miss Sperry, organist of the Methodist church, is spending a few days at her home, in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vars, of Buffalo, were the guests of Mrs. Butterfield, last week. They wheeled the way on a "Bicycle made for two."

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Robertson will take up their residence in Perth.

Saturday afternoon some children playing in the back part of Fleury's boot and shoe store set fire to a bundle of invoices. There was considerable excitement for a few moments but the fire was easily extinguished without damage.

County Police Magistrate Edmison held court on Friday on the case of Lowry vs. Anderson. Mr. Lowry was the first witness. He said that he owned the dog, over which the dispute was, and that he had not disposed of his property in it. He loaned it to his father, who gave it to Mr. Anderson. He wrote to Anderson for it and received no answer. He wrote again and received an answer from Mr. Anderson. On Monday the 9th inst. he came for the dog and on attempting to gain possession was struck twice on the head by Anderson. Dr. Moffatt was the next witness. He gave some testimony in relation to the wounds received by Lowry. Mr. Anderson now stated his case. He said he thought he had rightful possession of the dog, and that he only received one letter from Lowry. This he answered by offering Lowry the dog if he would pay expenses, which Lowry refused to do. After ordering Lowry from the house a number of times, not feeling able to handle him otherwise, he struck him on the head twice with a club which he held in his hand. Even after this Lowry rushed at him and pushed him over, but was pulled off by W.A.F Campbell and M. McGregor. Messrs. Campbell and McGregor corroborated this testimony. The magistrate held that although Lowry was wrong in remaining in Anderson's house, more unnecessary violence was used in ejecting him. The case was settled by allowing Anderson $3 for the keep of the dog and each paying half of the costs, which amounted to $7.80. Lowry takes the dog and Anderson is to get a pup.

Rev. Mr. Graham will preach in the Presbyterian church on the 22nd and 29th inst.

OMEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Harvesting begun. Fall wheat a splendid crop.

Everything quiet after the 12th of July celebration. Never in the past history was a celebration better conducted or observed. Some of the brethren will attend the Relief of Derry celebration in Peterborough, August 13th.

Capt. Evans is very busy in his foundry, repairing harvesting and all kinds of implements.

J. D. Thornton has begun to solicit farm risks, in the county of Peterborough, for the London Mutual Fire Insurance Co. His headquarters for the company are with Cox & Davis, Peterborough.

M. Dorgan, living twelve miles north of here had his barn and out buildings consumed by fire on the 12th of July. Cause unknown. The fire occurred in the day.

The Conservative party here is feeling very indignant over certain correspondence, after the election, that appeared in the Lindsay Post, from our special correspondent, giving a terribly low account of the manner in which the Tories conducted the elections in this as well as all other towns. Probably the writer did use strong language about the Tory "wire-pullers," but no more so than N. Clarke Wallace and Nesbitt Beattie used against the Mowat Government at a meeting held a few days before polling day, and had Mowat going, but he has not gone yet.

Rev. M. Somerville, late of Detroit, will occupy the Presbyterian pulpit here and at Mount Pleasant and Fowler's Corners, on Sabbath next at the usual houses of worship.

Mrs. Morrow, formerly of Peterborough, and now of Toronto, and Mrs. Walker, Cavanville, are visiting friends here.

Miss Ross and her mother, of Bobcaygeon, made a short visit after attending the funeral of the late Miss Ross, Peterborough.

THE STEWART CASE.

Mr. Stewart Pays a Visit to Pictou—Congratulated by His Many Friends on His Restoration to Health.

PICTOU, N.S., July 16.—Good news sometimes travels as fast as bad news, which is proverbially fast. Many people here knew that Mr. Allan Stewart, of Springton, P.E.I., had been for many years afflicted with kidney disease and gravel. It was known, too, that last year he was so bad that public opinion put him down as likely to die soon. Mr. Stewart fooled public opinion though, for he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills and ten boxes of them completely cured him. When he paid a flying visit to this city a few days ago, he received many hearty congratulations on restoration to health and improved appearance. Dodd's Kidney Pills have never yet failed to cure in this part of the Dominion.

CAST OUT; the disorders diseases, and weaknesses peculiar to women—by the prompt action of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. A woman's beauty depends on her health—beauty in this case can be purchased. A bad complexion, a muddy skin, a wrinkled face and sunken eyes, follow the disorders of the womanly functions. Cupid is in demand for healthy woman—not for sick and ailing ones.

The "Favorite Prescription" is a powerful, invigorating tonic, and a strengthening nervine to be used in all those distressing troubles which make woman's life miserable. You'll find relief from sleeplessness, backache and bearing-down sensations. It's a medicine prescribed by an eminent physician for those nervous conditions brought on by functional disorders—such as Nervous Prostration, Excitability, Fainting Spells, Dizziness, and St. Vitus's Dance. In every case of "female complaint" if it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures Catarrh in the Head.

THE DAIRYMAN.

If your dairy has no pedigree, start one at once.

The cow with a temper will yield poor milk.

All straw and no hay will turn a bright heifer into a dull cow.

A good way to choke a valuable cow is to feed her uncut vegetables.

A dirty strainer reflects as badly on the milker as on her who washes it.

Too much carbonaceous food in the dairy will make fat beef faster than butter fat.

Give the animals plenty of room in the stable in which to lie down, if you would make them comfortable.

Do not let the milk get cold before it is carried from the milking stable to the dairy house to be strained.

Sawdust in the manure heap represents so much inert matter; land plaster is an absorbent that is also a fertilizer.

To feed economically, and yet sufficiently, give the cows only what they will eat up clean. Trying to stuff them beyond this limit will result in loss and not in gain.

Think twice before you go into the business of raising veal calves by letting them suckle their dams. The system will have a demoralizing effect on the dairy, offsetting the temporary gain.

THE ARTISTS.

Constable's landscape, "The White Horse," was sold recently at Christie's rooms, in London for £6,510 ($32,550).

An expert declares that he knows of at least six hundred counterfeits of the old masters which are now hanging in private galleries in the United States, and all of which were originally purchased in Europe at very high prices.

The death is announced of Mrs. Gray of Bowerswell, Perthshire, Scotland, the mother of Lady Millais, as the advanced age of eighty-four years. It was from Mrs. Gray's garden that Sir John Millais painted his celebrated picture. "The Vale of Rest."

Munkacsy has just completed a great picture, "The Dying Christ Upon the Cross," for the mortuary chapel of the late Count Julius Andrassy. It is said to be quite equal in depth of feeling and boldness of artistic conception to any previous work of the Hungarian master.

Thomas Nast, whose great success as a caricaturist has not killed his original desire to become a historical painter, spent last winter in the work of his heart, and produced two pictures on events of the war of the rebellion. But, all the same, he is still likely to win more fame in black and white than in oils.—Hartford Courant.

INTERESTING PERSONALS.

Geronimo, the famous renegade Apache, is now a justice of the peace in Alabama.

The fastest shorthand writer in the world is a young Dublin gentleman, George Bunbary. He can write 250 words in a minute.

Dr. Emily A. Bruce declares that more women in New England die because of faulty dress than from all contagious diseases combined.

Mrs. Claudia Herrera, a Mexican woman, died in San Francisco the other day at the age of 120. Her acquaintances are positive there is no mistake about her age.

Mrs. Balch, of Bar Harbor, Me., is 83 years old, but the other day she climbed Beach hill, 790 feet above the surface of the lake, and wasn't even tired out by her exertion.

Mrs. Alice Ramsey, a niece of Andrew Jackson, who was born in Algiers, La., fifty-years ago, died at Phoenix, Alaska, June 8. Mrs. Ramsey was a field nurse during the rebellion.

Mrs. Mary Philbrook cannot be examined for admission to the bar in New Jersey because the supreme court of that state has decided that the weight of reason is against the granting of such an admission.

THE CHURCHES.

Milan cathedral will contain 37,000 persons.

The assessed value of the church property in New York city exempt from taxation is $55,000,000.

There are about 1,700,000 Christians in India, out of a population of 260,000,000. The Christians are mostly Roman Catholics.

There are 855,089 members in the churches connected with the Northern Presbyterian assembly and 188,536 with those connected with the Southern.

At the present time there are 17,051 Wesleyan Methodist Sunday schools in England, an increase of 500 in ten years. They have 950,000 pupils, an increase of 106,557 during the same period.

RAISING A RAILROAD BRIDGE.

Lifted Five Feet Without Interrupting Traffic.

The raising of a bridge in Switzerland upon the line of the International Railway, from Paris to Vienna, has attracted considerable attention from the methods pursued. The occasion for the change was that the river crossed—the Rhine—had lost in the sectional area of the passage between the piers, about twenty-five per cent in thirteen years, owing to the deposition of gravel and sediment, while the high water level had risen to such an extent as to pile floating debris six feet deep on the bridge floor in times of flood. The alterations included some reinforcements, beside the raising of the whole structure about five feet. The bridge was continuous over a centre pier, and had two main vertical posts there and four vertical end posts. To each of these posts an inclined strut was attached in a transverse vertical plane, presenting a surface for the top of a hydraulic jack to act upon. Eight special 100-ton jacks were used, with an eight-inch stroke and a working pressure of 400 atmospheres, the piston being nearly 0.7 in diameter. The fluid used was a mixture of water, alcohol and glycerine. Sixteen men operated the jacks, their movements being synchronized by a code of signals, designed to secure uniformity of action. The bridge was raised a foot or two by short lifts, followed up by thorough blocking, and then building under one course of cut-stone masonry. The total load was 546 tons, and the maximum load on a single jack was 88 tons. The bridge was raised in four stages during intervals between trains. The longest interval between trains was about two hours. The weight of trains was rigidly restricted during the time the bridge was undergoing repairs, and their speed was limited to three miles an hour in crossing the bridge. In addition, a special block system was organized upon that section of the line upon which the bridge is located, so that operations could be suspended, and the track restored five minutes before the arrival of a train at the site.—Locomotive Engineering.

Electricity in Egypt.

That the Arabs of Egypt are not quite up with the advancement of electrical science is seen by an amusing experience of Werner Von Siemens while traveling in that country. He, with several companions, climbed the great pyramid and there attempted some experiments on atmospheric electricity. His work had not progressed far before the Arabs arrived at the conclusion that he was practicing sorcery, and became uneasy. Finally they insisted that the savants should leave the pyramid. As their entreaties and threats produced no effect, they proceeded to resort to force.

"I placed myself then at the highest point of the pyramid," said Von Siemen, "and charged my strongest Leyden jar at the moment when a chief of the band was about to seize my hand to try and pull me from the place I had chosen. At this critical moment I brought the rod of my condenser within a centimeter of his nose. The effect of the discharge was greater than anything that I could have expected of it. The son of the desert, whose nerves had never been put to such an ordeal, fell backwards as though he had been struck by lightning, but uttering a yell he sprang up and, in an instant, vanished from our vicinity followed by all his companions."

Rev. Geo. J. Lowe,

The Rectory, Almonte, Ont., writes: I must ask you to send me another bottle of your valuable medicine, K. D. C. I think your last bottle has cured me entirely, but some members of my family, whose cases are worse than mine, insist on my getting some more. Indeed we all think it an indispensible article in the household.

S. P. SMITH, of Towanda, Pa., whose constitution was completely broken down, is cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He writes:

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 159 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."

CITY OBSERVATIONS.

"Somehow," said a stroller, "no little thing impresses me more with a sense of our growing luxury than the sight of steamer chairs for children displayed in the stores in which such goods are sold.

The boys, like older people, learn something by experience. Many of them nowadays when they play ball in the street use a tennis or some other light ball, thereby saving many windows and avoiding much trouble.

"It is not usual to see pleasure carriages drawn by spike teams," said a citizen, "but I saw the other day for the first time a pleasure vehicle; it was a break, drawn by three fine horses driven abreast. It was a strikingly handsome turnout."

Some of the cabmen of the New York Cab Company wear in stormy weather waterproof high hats made of paper, imported from Paris. They are black and of the same style as an ordinary silk hat, but very much lighter. A silk hat with a rubber cover weighs wet about five pounds; a paper hat about one pound.

A family with a record of twenty-five cooks in two and a half years finds comfort in the assurance of a purveyor of servants that three months is to be regarded as a long stay for a cook. Nurses and housemaids are less subject to change, perhaps, because their work is more agreeable.

Among the sightseers on the Brooklyn bridge one can almost always find Chinamen. They appear to be greatly interested in the mechanical construction of the bridge, pointing out to each other the cables, the trusses, struts, and each of its other parts, and seemingly discussing the whole with great attention.—N. Y. Sun.

SOME FAMOUS WIDOWS.

There is a Hebrew tradition that Eve survived Adam, and was, therefore, the first widow.

The list of sovereigns record the names of three hundred and twenty-six widows who either reigned in their own names or as regents.

The mother of Gracci remained a widow that she might give her whole time to the education of her sons.

Mrs. Aphra Behn was a widow when she wrote the dramas and poetry which excite the disgust of every present-day reader.

Empress Dowager Augusta was, in early life, a musician of marked ability, and composed many marches for the Prussian army.

Boadicea was a widow when she led the great revolt which nearly ended the Roman power in England. She committed suicide after the defeat of her army.

Ex Empress Eugenie, of France, lives in retirement in England, with occasional visits to the continent. She and Victoria are warm personal friends.

Andromanche, the widow of Hector, was tall, blonde and blue-eyed. After the capture of Troy she was married to Pyrrhus, surviving him to take a third husband.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—ulcers and tumorous forms, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause than Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

COLOR HEARING.

Dr. Colman's Interesting Theory About the Relation of Sounds to Colors.

John Locke's blind man, who hazarded the guess that the color scarlet was probably something like the sound of a trumpet, is generally thought to have simply spoken according to his lights, or rather lack of lights, but it appears from Dr. W. S. Colman's articles on this subject that we have now laid the foundation of a science of color-hearing. The term is defined by him as applying to the special case in which a color sensation is excited by some auditory stimulus—as, for example, by the pronunciation of the vowel sounds. It is not a matter of association, as in the case of the "shrill squeak" evoked by the filing of a saw or the drawing of a slate pencil down a slate. Dr. Colman estimates the number of people who possesses the faculty of color-hearing as under 12 per cent., and mentions a case described by Flournoy, in which the vowel "i" awakened the impression of an orange circle with an "i" in black in the centre.

Theophile Gautier, under the influence of hasheesh, heard the sound equivalents (whatever they may have been) of various colors. The notion is, at all events, of respectable antiquity. Dr. Colman cites as believers in color-hearing Hoffman, Goethe and Hans Sachs, and refers to the case of St. Catharine, of Siena, who had a "bright red color sensation whenever she saw or thought of the Host." The Lancet, which comments learnedly on Dr. Colman's theories, feels disposed to think that the red ribbon which adorns the dark-blue bonnet of the members of the Salvation Army is a parallel case, and not difficult to explain on the principles of conventional metaphor.—London Daily News.

The Baron Munchausen.

Southey wrote to Sir Walter Scott, "Of Baron Munchausen I can tell you something. Some years ago in London I was a little startled at hearing a foreigner ushered under this title into a musical party. As this naturally led to enquiries on my part, I was referred to the gentleman himself, who very good humoredly told me he was the nephew of the celebrated Baron Munchausen, who was a minister under Frederick of Prussia.

"It seems the old baron was a humorist, who after dinner, especially if he happened to have any guests who were likely to be taken in by his marvels, used to amuse himself inventing or relating such marvelous adventures as are contained in the volumes which bear his name. He added that his uncle was in other respects a sensible, veracious man, and that his adventures were only told by the way of quizzing or amusing society.

"A starving German literatus, whose name I have forgot, who knew the baron and thought he had been neglected by him, compiled the book in revenge, partly from the stories of the baron, partly from other sources, and partly from his mother wit. It proved a good hit for the bookseller, as the baron's name and humor were well known, and by degrees made its way into other countries as a book of entertainment."—Familiar Letters of Walter Scott.

Antiquity of Advertising.

Advertising is not an outcome of modern necessity, but is a very ancient practice. The British Museum possesses a collection of old Greek advertisements printed on leaden plates. The Egyptians were great advertisers. Papyrus leaves over 3,000 years old have been found at Thebes describing runaway slaves and offering a reward for their capture; and at Pompeii ancient advertisements have been deciphered on the walls. Thus, a business man, by inserting an advertisement in this paper, will not only command a larger trade, but he may be perpetuating his name and his occupation forever.

Consider Arcturus.

Arcturus is the brightest of the fixed stars visible just now. In round numbers its distance from this planet of ours is 19,000,000,000,000 miles, or 11,500,000 times the real distance of the sun. As to radiating power Arcturus is equal to 5,198 such suns as ours is; its diameter is estimated at 62,350,000 miles. When one ponders on these things and looks at that twinkling point far away in space what recks he of coal strikes or the failure of the strawberry crop?

THE SCIENTIST.

It is computed that every year the earth receives about one hundred and forty-six billions of shooting stars, which fall on its surface, thus slowly adding to its mass.

The discovery has been made by a German physiologist that the milk of inebriate mothers contains a small amount of alcohol, and it is his belief that such mothers communicate to their offspring a desire for stimulants.

A mass of one thousand pounds weight will lose exactly two pounds between tidewater and the top of a mountain four miles high. This, it is plain to be seen, is because the force of the earth's attraction is much less on the mountain top than it is at sea level.

It is now believed that chemical and medical science will soon make the vegetable foods notably gross digestible by man without first passing through animal intermediaries. An enormous increase in the food supply of the world would be the result.

Petroleum is not in any sense a product of destructive distillation, but is the result of a peculiar chemical decomposition, by which the organic matter passes at once into this or allied products. It is the result of the primary decomposition of organic matter.

How to Cure a Corn.

It is one of the easiest things in the world to cure a corn. Do not use acids or other caustic preparations, and don't cut a hole in your boot. It is simply to apply Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, and in three days the corn can be removed without pain. Sure, safe, painless. Take only Putnam's Corn Extractor.

DEATH OF EDITOR GORMAN.

Journalistic Circles in Canada Loses One of Its Brightest Members.

OTTAWA, July 18.—Thomas H. Gorman, editor of the Ottawa Free Press, died last night from heart trouble, brought on by an attack of la grippe, which he contracted about three years ago.

Mr. Gorman was 39 years of age. He was born in Prince Edward Island, where he early became identified with newspaper work. He published for some time a paper of his own at Summerside, P.E.I., and afterwards removed to Montreal, where for a number of years he acted as night editor of the Herald. Subsequently he became the Ottawa correspondent of the Toronto Globe and filled the position for two years. In 1887 he took the editorial control of the Ottawa Free Press. The late Mr. Gorman was the correspondent of several Canadian papers and had achieved a considerable reputation as a writer for the "American Magazine." He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his loss.

Fatal Accident in a Hay Field.

MANOTIC, Ont., July 18.—A fatal accident occurred last evening on the farm of Mr. Peter Hicks, North Gower township, James and Cyrus, sons of Mr. Hicks, were engaged in haying operations and drove in the hay field. James, the eldest son, jumped down from the wagon to commence loading. At that instant the team, scared by a dog, started running towards where Mr. Hicks was mowing. He had just got off the mower, and seeing the runaway coming on him, and his third son, Cyrus, in danger he fainted. The runaway team dashed up, upsetting the hay rack over on Mr. Hicks and Cyrus. When James reached them he found his father under the rack and his brother lying stunned and crushed. Cyrus lived in an unconscious condition for about half an hour. Mr. Hicks, it is feared, is badly injured.

A Russian Prince in Halifax.

HALIFAX, July 18.—Prince Gregoire Galitzin, of Russia, has arrived in the city. He is a lieut.-general in the Russian army and is a member of the council at St. Petersburg. He does not understand a word of English, but speaks German and French fluently. The Prince, accompanied by Captain Monteith, paid his respects to the Lieutenant-Governor. He does not intend to remain here long. He expresses himself as very much interested in the subject of immigration and made diligent inquiries as to what cities or places in the Dominion are most suitable for large numbers of German and Russian immigrants, who intend coming this way next fall. The Prince will visit Ottawa to consult with officials there regarding immigration and will go as far as Vancouver.

A Serious Stabbing Affray.

GRAVENHURST, July 18. — News has reached here from Severn Bridge of a serious stabbing affray which has occurred there. It appears two nortorious characters named Dan McCauley and Elijah Mark had been drinking heavily at Severn Bridge. They were passing Dyment & Sons' mill, where they got into an argument with the nightwatchmen, William Hamilton and Elijah Morris, which ended in a fight. McCauley stabbed Mark in the left lung. Mark is not expected to live. Morris had two cuts, not very serious.

To Protest Hamilton's Elections.

HAMILTON, July 18.—It has been announced on good authority that the elections of Hon. J. M. Gibson and J. T. Middleton, for West Hamilton and East Hamilton respectively, will be protested. The matter has been in the hands of Nesbitt & Gauld, barristers, for some time, and the necessary papers will be filed in a day or two. The protestors claim to be able to prove bribery and corrupt practices against both candidates personally and by their agents.

Minard's Liniment cures LaGrippe.

A Torontonian's Sudden Death.

TORONTO, July 18.—George W. Kielly, one of the wealthiest citizens of Toronto, and who, with Sir Frank Smith, was a principal owner of the previous street railway company, was found dead in bed at his residence on Jarvis street yesterday. He was down town in the evening and in his usual health. He had been ailing the last couple of years, but was not considered seriously ill. He was about 55 years of age. Heart disease was the cause of death.

The Birmingham Mine Tragedy.

Lynched a Tramp.

BURLINGTON, O., July 18.—A mob of 20 masked men took Louis Lafordetta from jail shortly after midnight and hanged him. Lafordetta was a tramp and had killed a farmer.

Expansion of Girders.

A writer on strains in girders, referring to the amount of movement of iron girders due to expansion and contraction under extreme variations of temperature, observes that for iron and steel the coefficient or rate of expansion is nearly 1 inch for 100 degrees F. of heat for every 100 feet in length. Thus a girder 60 feet in length will expand 6-10 inch for 100 degrees increase of temperature and contract the same amount for 100 degrees decrease of temperature; or a girder 75 feet long will vary 75-100 inch or ¾ inch, for a variation of 100 degrees. He says: "In order to provide for all contingencies it is the general practice to allow for a vibration of 100 degrees F., or a movement equal to 1½ inches for every 100 feet in length." A girder 6 feet long will therefore require to have an allowance for movement in the moving end equal to 9-10 inch or 1 inch, the other end being fixed. It is only necessary to put the rollers under one end of the girder, so that the movement of the girder may be at the end only.—Iron Age.

Raising Useful Insects.

"Here is an interesting colony of insects," said an entomologist who was showing a writer over his country place in the suburbs of Washington.

"You see," he explained, "a little bunch of eggs has been deposited on this stone wall. Nearly all of them are hatched already. The young insects that are newly out are yellow, while those a little older are red and black. Yes, they do look something like small spiders, but they are not such.

"They are wheel bugs. They grow to be large predatory insects as big as the end of your thumbs. Caterpillars and various other garden pests are their chosen food. So, you observe, I encourage this colony. Any one of my neighbors would promptly destroy it, but I know better. People around here wonder how my trees and plants are always in such perfect condition. Here you have one of the reasons. The wheel bug is so called because of a mark on the thorax which looks like a wheel."—Washington Star.

No Forests, Great Floods.

The explanation of floods like the present one and that of 1889 is as easy as rolling off a log. There comes a heavy spring rain, perhaps of several days' duration. Instead of the natural condition of mountain sides with thousands and thousands of trees, whose foliage and trunks and roots hold the rain and allow it to flow gradually into the streams and rivers, the downpour falls upon barren places, with here and there great gullies made where the felled trees have been washed down to the rivers to save hauling, and the result is that torrents pour into the rivers in an incredibly short space of time and carry destruction in their track. The only wonder is the short-sightedness of the people who for a seemingly temporary benefit are ultimately the losers. The question of the protection of the forests of the state is one that is sure to come up for legislation very soon.—Philadelphia Times.

WIVES OF THE WORLD.

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN SCOTCH AND ENGLISH ONES DISAPPEARING.

A Consideration of the Question by One in a Position to Know—An Interesting Problem Being Settled by the Law of Evolution.

The differences in the social life and customs of the Scotch and English nations are gradually disappearing. Among the upper class, and even the well-to-do middle class, it would be difficult to detect any distinctive features greater than are to be found between one county and another. But the working people, peasants, and, above all, the farmers, cling tenaciously to the habits consecrated by their forefathers. Thus, in a farmhouse in Scotland and one in England, not more than a hundred miles apart, we find the style of working very different. This is especially the case with the wives. The most notable difference is that the Scotch guidwife works very much harder than her English sister. This is to be explained by the fact that Scotland emerged from barbarism some two or three hundred years later than England. All semi-barbarous people make the women do the hardest work; the men reserve their strength for fighting. One would think, arguing theoretically, that the weaker sex ought to have the lighter labor, especially as the bearing and rearing of children devolves upon them. This is recognized more and more as a people becomes more civilized; but in the days when fighting—war—was a sacred duty, even when not a necessity, the tilling of the soil and all field labor was left to the women. We read how a Highland gillie thought it something of a disgrace to handle a spade or follow a plough. It was unbecoming the dignity of a man. Now that they are no longer allowed to carry a dirk, and it is dangerous for them to fight out their clan's quarrels, the lazy domestic habit still clings to them. Even in this century the Highland women carry the manure to the fields on their backs, dug the soil, and carried home the produce; while the men, when they were not fishing, or hunting, or stealing, loafed about.

Of course, the Lowlanders are a more civilized race, and it is long since they outgrew such barbarous habits. Still, in the Lowland counties, I venture to think that the farmers' wives—with some exceptions—have a harder life than the farmer himself. Certainly they undertake much more work than the women do in England. To begin with, in the Southern country the men usually take charge of the byre and the milking. Often a cowman is kept, and always a cowboy. The master himself probably milks, or one of the sons—in fact, the milking chiefly devolves upon the men. It is not common for the mistress to go to the byre at all, and the daughters, perhaps, help only in hay-time or harvest. This is of the North of England that I speak. Now, in most Scotch byres I have seen, the milking is done entirely by women, the mistress herself leading the way and keeping the others up to the mark. This means in summer time some hours' hard labor every day, for we all know that one cannot milk well and take one's ease. Then it is also very trying; for a milker is not of much use who cannot be depended upon night and morning. If the mistress goes a-visiting, she must be "hame to the milkin'." The propriety of this is so acknowledged that her hosts never ask her to stay. Perhaps, when she has grown-up sons and daughters, and her sore battle is over, she can say—"I'm weel aff, there's plenty without me;" but, from force of habit, when she is at home she takes her stool and her pail with the rest.

I have never seen the mistress or daughters in England go out to the fields to work; they do very well if they send the girl to help with the hay. But in the Land o' Cakes the farmer expects his daughter to work out hay-time and hairst, and they seem rather to like the opportunity of donning a clean jupe and a sun-bonnet. I have heard my mother tell that in the last generation it was quite common for the servant lass to be out all day after breakfast till milking-time; no one left in the house but the mistress to make the cheese, attend to the dinner, wash up, and attend to the children. One, more ambitious to shine than the others, would put the vegetables in the broth, lock the door, and go out herself for an hour or two, leaving the field a quarter of an hour before the others to feed the pigs and have the broth on the table. Those who knew her say she was always running at her work, with her bare feet even in winter. She paid the penalty later in life, being deformed and stiff with rheumatics. One I know, who is now a bright, cheery woman of 60, has often told me that when a young wife with her first baby, a sucking infant, the lass went out to the fields, and she was left with the cheese and all the housework. She says it required perfect health and a strong body. Even with these the life was hard. I should think it was!

But the guidwives themselves, far from regarding this state of things as a hardship, prided themselves on the amount and speed of their work. Their ambition was to do "twa weemen's wark." Whoever couldn't do that was a "saft sumph," or a "tumphie." It must have been wae days for those who were delicate, and I suppose there would be a few here and there who were unfit for that sort of thing, though I heard a worthy woman, whose niece had been ailing a little, exclaim in a dissatisfied tone—"We never were no-weel when we were young."

When these worthy souls met together for a gossip, they laid wagers how many cakes they could put out in an hour, how much work they could do in a day, and retailed to each other tales of the feats of women who had made their names famous for being clever—i.e., phenomenal workers. The chief objection to this way of thinking was that excellence was necessarily confined to the physically strong. We are not sufficiently amended yet in that respect.

One day in an English house I heard a farmer's wife commented upon. She had almost a miraculous number of children, the eldest of them twelve. She kept no servant, and was altogether a most wonderful housewife, keeping house and children in perfect order with her own hands. Most of the women were inclined to doubt her powers, but I remembered several cases of Scotch wives who would have thought that a comparatively easy life. But I did not say so—they would not have believed me.—Gretchen, in the Scottish Farmer.

Dutch Laborers Ask for Re-instatement and are Accepted—Train Wreckers Arraigned—A Plot to Destroy a Bridge Discovered in Oklahoma.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The stampede of Pullman strikers has begun. It had been expected ever since Debs sent his letter to the railway managers offering to surrender if his men were given employment again. The break came from a quarter least expected. One hundred and fifty Hollanders, who had been ballasting railroad ties behind the foundry, went back of their own accord and asked for work. The men were accepted and began where they left off when the Kensington rioters scared them from the works. No attempts were made to interfere with them. Col. Turner's troop's were patrolling the district, prepared to drive away any agitators or walking delegates who might assail the Hollanders.

President Debs, Vice-President Howard, Secretary Keliher and Director Rogers, of the American Railway Union, passed a pleasant night in jail. As there can be no meeting of the board of directors while its principal members are in jail, it is not likely there will be any change in the situation until next Monday, when the trial for contempt takes place. The imprisoned strike leaders have not yet availed themselves of the permission given by Judge Seaman to leave the jail in charge of a bailiff. President Debs says they will do so only when their lawyers call for them for consultation. This morning President Debs was visited by scores of persons, among them his brother and his wife and sister. Several offers of bail have been made, but all were politely declined.

The first whole day spent by the quartette of the American Railway officials in jail was a quiet one. Part of the afternoon was spent outside the jail walls in the office of S. S. Gregory, one of their counsel. All offers of friends to furnish funds for their appearance in the United States court next Monday were declined. Several hours were occupied by the prisoners in reading and answering correspondence. Many telegrams were received by Mr. Debs. A unique one comes from Woodland, Cal. It reads: "We hear you are in jail. So are we. Stand pat. That's what we are doing. Don't give up." The message was signed by five members of the A. R. U., who are in jail there in connection with the strike.

Theodore Debs was asked by a reporter of the United Press what the four prisoners would do if they were found guilty of contempt and given the option of a fine. He answered: "It is in the discretion of the court to impose a fine alone, a fine and imprisonment, or imprisonment alone. If the judgment is a fine or imprisonment in default, my brother and the others will pay the fine. All of them will stay where they are until next Monday morning at least. They may have to stay longer."

The shops at Pullman will probably be opened in a few days, but the strikers by a large majority do not intend to return to work at the reduced scale of wages until they are forced to do so by the pangs of hunger. The total number of applications received by the Pullman Company from strikers who want to return to work is 75. The great body of strikers are getting plenty to eat just now from some unknown source and every man, woman and girl is as full of fight as ever.

Orders were received last evening at the head-quarters of General Miles for the withdrawal of the federal troops now on duty in and about this city.

It is now thought safe to leave the local situation in the hands of the city officers, backed by the four regiments of state troops still on duty. According to the order, however, all of the regulars except the Ninth regiment of Sackett's Harbor, N.Y., which will be stationed at Fort Sheridan indefinitely as a reserve force within easy call if they should move its train, but the railroad officials say they have all the men they wish. Regular passenger trains are run guarded by troops.

The Trouble in Oklahoma.

GUTHRIE, O. T., July 19.—The latest advices from Wharkomis, where the bridge was burned yesterday, are to the effect that the men that destroyed it were mounted and heavily armed, and that they overpowered and bound the watchman before firing the bridge. From Round Pond comes the news to-night that government detectives have secured information of a plot to burn down the 1,300 foot bridge spanning the Salt Fork of the Arkansas River, and troops are now being stationed all about the bridge. U. S. Marshal Nix telegraphed the mayor of Round Pond that the city ordinance, under which it was proposed to force the Rock Island trains to stop there from and after Saturday next, is illegal and that any city officer attempting to enforce the ordinance will be arrested. C. B. Franke, mayor of South Pond and James Tarboy, who was with him on business in Pond Creek today, were rotten-egged and forced to flee the city. A company of recruits belonging to the territorial militia has been ordered to the scene of the disturbance by Acting Governor Lowe.

The Trial of Train Wreckers.

WOODLAND, Cal., July 19.—The cases of Knox, Mullen, Compton, Hatch and Worden, charged with murder in connection with the wreck which occurred near Sacramento a week ago, came up before Judge Fisher yesterday. The defendants insisted upon a separate examination, to which the court decided they were entitled. The decision precipitated a heated discussion between the attorneys for the prosecution and defence and the matter finally went over until Thursday morning for further argument.

Indiana Strikers Honored

BRAZIL, Ind., July 19.—A unique levee and banquet was held in the yard of the sheriff of this county. More than 500 citizens from Knightsville and the neighborhood, where the recent stoning to death of the Vandalia Engineer Barr occurred, came to bid farewell to the four young strikers who were recently connected with the murder of the engineer. They are about ready to be taken to the state prison at Jeffersonville to serve each two years' sentence. Ice cream, cake and all the delicacies of the season were served. The prisoners were brought out from their cells in the jail into the sheriff's yard and seated at the first table with their fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters and other relatives.

AGREED TO DISAGREE.

The Wilson Bill Not Yet Reported From the Conference.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Within a very few minutes after the conferees on the tariff bill met yesterday Mr. Voorhees announced that it was apparent that the two Houses were unable to agree and it had been decided to report a general disagreement.

Mr. Wilson stated, after the conference, that he would make the report to the House to-day. After an informal discussion in the committee rooms he was asked by Senator Jones how long the House would probably keep the bill, whereupon Mr. Wilson replied that he thought the conferees would be instructed to insist upon the House bill, and the conferees would be sent back within two hours. The same question was then put to Senator Jones, and he said the action of the Senate would depend upon the action of the House. If the House insisted upon heaping coals of fire on the heads of the Senate conferees and assailing them it would be very likely that the Senate, when the bill came back, would in like manner debate the bill.

It is believed that the bill will again be in conference by Saturday at the latest. Although the report shows a general disagreement on all items, this is not technically correct, for the reason that agreements have been reached on many items, but it was deemed best not to report them until a conclusion had been reached on the whole bill.

Mr. Wilson said the report of the conference will be verbal and will simply state that the conference committee of the two Houses has failed to reach an agreement. The committee on rules will probably meet to-day and will report a special order limiting the time during which the debate upon the report may continue.

"Buckwheats or Canucks," said the Judge

BUFFALO, July 19.—Two tramps, Montgomery Smith and James Morin, were up before Judge King in the police court yesterday. "Where did you come from?" Judge King asked Montgomery Smith. "Canada," replied Smith. "And where do you hail from?" James Morin was asked. "I came from Canada, too," said Morin. "What did both of you come here for?" went on the judge. "To get work," they answered. "How long will it take you to get out of Buffalo?" "Not very long," said both. "Get out then. If you are here after 12 o'clock I'll send you to the penitentiary for six months each. We don't want any buckwheats or Canucks here. Any man who don't work ought to be hanged."

Visible Effects of the Conference.

MONTREAL, July 19.—Trade between Canada and Australia is to be opened up within the next few days. A big trial order for paper, for newspaper printing purposes, has been given a Canadian manufacturer by a Melbourne firm. The goods will be shipped by the cheapest route, whether it be by Vancouver or by London and Suez. A sample order of wooden ware is also to be sent over at the same time. Mr. J. A. Cantlie and other wool merchants were yesterday examining samples of New Zealand wools, but the feeling is that the goods are too expensive for this country,

Just One More Church.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 19.—The seceders from the St. Stanislaus Roman Catholic Polish church contemplate a revolution in Roman Catholicism which shall be national, if not world wide. They have appointed a Polish nation church committee, and will issue a proclamation to dissatisfied Poles all over the United States inviting them to flock to the standard of another church, which will probably be that of the Armenian church. The Rev. Mr. Knowles, a priest of that church, is now in conference with the Patriarch of Antioch.

Eloped With Another Parson.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 19.—The Rev. Guy Stevenson, a Presbyterian minister, of Sparta, Ind., arrived here in search of his wife, who, he believes, has eloped with a neighboring clergyman, the Rev. George W. Gelvin. Some weeks ago Stevenson was told that his wife was receiving attentions from Gelvin. He sent her and her three children on a visit and later she came alone to Cincinnati. Gelvin took his wife and six children to his father's and also came alone to this city. Nothing has since been heard from either party.

Strikers Held for Trial.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Thomas Moran, the striker who was arrested for derailing the limited express on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, was held for the grand jury under bail of $2,000 by Commissioner Hoyne. Four deputy United States marshals, who were witnesses of the deed, testified that as the train was crossing a switch Moran turned the switch and threw two Pullmans which were on the rear of the train from the rails. The cases of 38 alleged rioters, set for trial in the commissioner's office, were postponed to July 28.

PROROGATION AT LAST

It is Expected to Be Reached by the End of the Week.

THE CURRAN BRIDGE AFFAIR

Sir Richard Cartwright Moves a Resolution Which is Defeated—Over a Million in Subsidies Granted to Railways—Vacancy in Quebec Judiciary.

OTTAWA, July 19.—There was very good progress made with the business before the House yesterday and the outlook is that prorogation will be reached on Monday next, if not on Saturday. The Premier announced that morning sessions would commence to-day and would be held until the end of the session. The whole of yesterday's afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of the money subsidies to railways. The first batch of resolutions, amounting in all to over $1,400,000, were adopted.

At the evening sitting a vote was taken on the James St. George Dillon, of Montreal, divorce bill, which has had such a narrow run in both Houses of Parliament so far. Last night it was carried and finally passed by a vote of 67 for and 23 against. The opposition to the bill was that both parties were Catholics and the church is against divorce.

In the House at night Sir Richard Cartwright moved a strong resolution condemning and censuring the Government for the Curran bridge affair at Montreal.

Mr. Haggart admitted that the Government was robbed, but so far has not been able to catch the thieves.

Cartwright's amendment was defeated by 36 yeas to 74 nays.

Trades Congress Session.

The Dominion Trades Congress will meet in Ottawa this year. The congress will convene on Tuesday, September 4, the day following labor day. There will be a large number of delegates, the most prominent labor men from the various centres being expected. Some very important discussions will take place and the political position of labor men thoroughly reviewed. Several political reforms, such as the grouping of constituencies, the initiative referendum and national manhood franchise are at present being discussed by the various trades councils in the country and it is expected that each council will report its position on each question. A labor platform will be formulated and steps taken for aggressive political action. The local council meets on Saturday night to discuss the Initiative Referendum.

Northwest Crops.

Rev. Dr. Robertson, of Winnipeg, superintendent of Presbyterian missions in the Northwest, is in town en route for home. The doctor says the crops this year are the best since 1883. The slope to the north and south of Calgary is producing a yield much ahead of the last three years. Dr. Robertson says that more than 2,000 people from Nebraska and other states have settled this summer in the district north of Calgary.

Sir Francis Johnson's Successor.

The Dominion Government has, it is understood, decided to fill the vacancy in the Superior Court bench of Quebec, caused by the death of Sir Francis Johnson, by the appointment of S. C. Lemoine, a prominent French Conservative lawyer. The appointment is well received. A movement was set on foot some time ago by friends of Mr. Curran, the Solicitor-General, to obtain his appointment to the bench of the Superior Court to fill this vacancy, but Sir John Thompson positively refused, alleging that it was impossible for him at present to do without the assistance of the Solicitor-General.

The Session to be Continued.

From present indications there is little possibility of the session terminating this week. The debate on the railway subsidies alone will consume nearly two days.

Glass Workers in Convention.

MONTREAL, July 19.—The American Glass Workers' Association in convention here has adopted the following resolution: That the resolution passed at the labor convention in Chicago this year, laying down the following principles, be endorsed: That education be compulsory; a legal eight hour work day; direct legislation; sanitary inspection of workshops, mine and home; liability of employers for injury to health, body or life of employes; the abolition of the contract system in all public works; the abolition of the sweating system; the municipal ownership of street cars, gas and electric plants for the public distribution of light, heat and power; the nationalization of telegraph, telephone, railways and mines; the collective ownership by the people of all means of production and distribution; the principle of referendum in all legislation.

Canadian Drowned in the Soo.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., July 19.—W. A. Carlisle, formerly a member of Carlisle Bros. & Co., St. Catharines, Ont., latterly with Dunbar and Sullivan, contractors here, met his death by drowning yesterday. Carlisle started on his bicycle from the city for the point where his firm's dredges are at work. The pathway was narrow and slippery and in passing over an obstruction Carlisle was thrown off and into the canal. The body was afterwards recovered.

Fire in Wallaceburg.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., July 19.—Fire was discovered last evening in the old Scott dry goods store, now occupied as a billiard hall by John Martell. The adjoining building, occupied by Chas. Lendon, undertaker and furniture dealer, and another addition occupied by A. Bourne, agricultural implement showroom, were all destroyed. Mr. Lendon's loss will be heavy and is partly covered by insurance. Cause of fire unknown.

A Kintail Farmer's Loss.

KINTAIL, Ont., July 19.—Yesterday the barns and out buildings belonging to Chas. Stewart, Lake road, Ashfield, were destroyed by fire together with his binder and about 15 tons of pressed hay. The loss will be between $1,000 and $1,500. The fire was caused by children playing with matches. No insurance.

THURSDAY, JULY 19, 1894.

It is authoritatively stated that the proposed gerrymander of the province of Quebec has been dropped. Notwithstanding the eminent knowledge of constitutional law attributed to the premier, it is an open secret that it was not until a private member pointed out the more than doubtful legality of the bill that the fact that it was one likely to come into collision with the British North America act dawned upon the ministry. The withdrawal of the bill cannot be very pleasing to those in power. An election is impending and the utter disintegration of the Conservative party throughout the country makes the outlook very black for the government. Frantic efforts are of course being made in the direction of smoothing the refractory with velvet hand and golden arguments in various ways. But more is needed. There is so marked a break from the blind fealty of traditions and allegiances which died with Sir John Macdonald, that it is evident the first general election under the new regime will prove to be a surprise to most people and most unexpected in its results. A gerrymander would have been a powerful instrument in the hands of an unscrupulous administration, but the law fortunately prevents that instrument from being used.—Ottawa Free Press.

Mr. John Morley has shown a preference for hard tasks, and it is to be hoped that he is sufficiently accommodated in the labour of getting the evicted tenants bill through Parliament. There are 3,731 evicted tenants in Ireland, for whom it is proposed to provide legislation whereby they will be enabled to resume possession of the holdings from which they were dispossessed. The chief difficulties are as to the rate of compensation to be allowed to the tenants who succeeded them, and to the landlords for arrears of rent, and the provision of a sufficient fund for these purposes. Mr. Morley starts with £100,000 which has been transferred from the Irish Church surplus. It is admitted, however, that this will be wholly insufficient, and that additional funds will have to be provided at the expense of the general British taxpayer for carrying out the work. The British taxpayer will will not take kindly to the idea, and Mr. Morley therefore has a task not unworthy of his great earnestness, courage and application.

American sailors are said to attribute the almost daily defeat of the Vigilant by the Britannia to the fact that the American boat weighed anchor and sailed from New York on Friday; but, the Mail remarks, people who are not superstitious will probably entertain the belief that if the boat came home and started again she would do no better. A philosopher has observed that "it is unlucky to be struck by lightning on Monday, or take hold of a circular saw in motion on Tuesday, or fall down stairs with a coal scuttle on Wednesday, or be hit by a cable car on Thursday, or fall overboard on Friday, or marry on Saturday a girl who swings tenpound dumb-bells, or be one of thirteen at dinner on Sunday when there is only food for ten;" but it seems as if the Vigilant had been beaten six times out of seven, not because she sailed on Friday, but because she is not fast enough.

Some returns published in the Empire, if correct, show that over 150,000 votes were polled for the Government, 100,000 for the Conservatives, and over 100,000 for the Patrons and Independents. The Hamilton Spectator, consequently, says that if Sir Oliver had any sense of shame he would resign instantly. Perhaps he could, the Globe suggests, be induced to resign if the thing were made a little clearer. He has no reason to be ashamed of his own party, which heads the list easily; nor for the Patrons, who have done very well for young fellows. He might feel a little bit ashamed for Mr. Meredith, but we doubt whether he would allow his feelings to carry him so far as to resign. Better try Mr. Meredith.

Things may be a little hard in the Old Country, but it is astonishing how the demand increases for Canadian cheese. Up to July 7th, 457,109 boxes were shipped from Montreal, as against 284,642 boxes for the corresponding period last year. Already about $3,700,000 of English hard cash has been distributed in Canada in exchange for cheese products; and with the prospect of six times this amount being distributed before the season is over, Canadian exporters may well be excused for saying "Cheese is king." In fact had it not been for the ready cash that has been realised on this staple product the present dull times would have been much duller.

FRASERVILLE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

The first of the great harvest of the season has been commenced and the farmers are busy in their hay fields. They report crops fairly good.

Mr. G. L. Flemming, who has been our village telegraph operator for some time past, has returned to his home in Bowmanville. He was a very highly respected and an obliging young man, which gained for himself many warm friends in this locality. They will miss him in the village. We understand Miss Bessie Goodfellow, who is ably qualified, will take charge of the office.

On Sunday evening, July 8th, the members of L. O. L. No. 46, attended divine worship, dressed in their new uniforms. The boys marched in a body from the lodge room to the church, where a special sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. Mr. McKay. The church was crowded, the aisles and everywhere being filled, the Orangemen occupying the centre seats.

There was a grand turn out in the village on the 12th, although the morning was somewhat unfavourable. Most of the citizens, together with Maple Leaf lodge, No. 46, celebrated the day in Lindsay. Before taking the train the lodge marched round the village and presented a fine appearance. The music rendered on the occasion was excellent and their new banner, supplied by Fairweather & Co., of Peterborough, attracted considerable attention. It is without doubt the finest banner ever seen in this section.

Mr. Waterman, who is erecting a new barn, is getting along very nicely now. He has got the foundation up, ready for raising.

On Friday evening a social and garden party in aid of St. Luke's mission, was held at Hare's school house, and was a decided success. During the evening refreshments were served by the ladies and seemed to be much enjoyed, as was also the excellent programme, which was rendered as follows:

She Didn't Take With the Gentlemen.

She was refined, intelligent, and not bad looking, but somehow she never seemed to take with the gentlemen. They didn't like her listless ways; they said she hadn't any "snap" about her. Poor girl! she was suffering from functional irregularities, and it was actually impossible for her to take much interest in anything. But a change came. One day she heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. She procured a bottle, and she had not taken half its contents when she felt like another woman. Now she is in the enjoyment of perfect health, and has suitors by the score. No woman need suffer from functional irregularities and weaknesses. The "Favorite Prescription" is a safe and certain cure for all the weaknesses to which women are peculiarly subject.

EX-MEMBER of PARLIAMENT

REUBEN E. TRUAX

Hon. Reuben E. Truax, one of Canada's ablest thinkers and statesmen, a man so highly esteemed by the people of his district that he was honored with a seat in Parliament, kindly furnishes us for publication the following statement, which will be most welcome to the public, inasmuch as it is one in which all will place implicit confidence. Mr. Truax says:

"I have been for about ten years very much troubled with Indigestion and Dyspepsia, have tried a great many different kinds of patent medicines, and have been treated by a number of physicians and found no benefit from them. I was recommended to try the Great South American Nervine Tonic. I obtained a bottle, and I must say I found very great relief, and have since taken two more bottles, and now feel that I am entirely free from Indigestion, and would strongly recommend all my fellow-sufferers from the disease to give South American Nervine an immediate trial. It will cure you.

"REUBEN E. TRUAX,

"Walkerton, Ont."

It has lately been discovered that certain Nerve Centres, located near the base of the brain, control and supply the stomach with the necessary nerve force to properly digest the food. When these Nerve Centres are in any way deranged the supply of nerve force is at once diminished, and as a result the food taken into the stomach is only partially digested, and Chronic Indigestion and Dyspepsia soon make their appearance.

South American Nervine is so prepared that it acts directly on the nerves. It will absolutely cure every case of Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and is an absolute specific for all nervous diseases and ailments. It usually gives relief in one day.

Its powers to build up the whole system are wonderful in the extreme. It cures the old, the young, and the middle-aged. It is a great friend to the aged and infirm. Do not neglect to use this precious boon; if you do, you may neglect the only remedy which will restore you to health. South American Nervine is perfectly safe, and very pleasant to the taste. Delicate ladies, do not fail to use this great cure, because it will put the bloom of freshness and beauty upon your lips and in your cheeks, and quickly drive away your disabilities and weaknesses.

Dr. W. Washburn, of New Richmond, Indiana, writes: "I have used South American Nervine in my family and prescribed it in my practice. It is a most excellent remedy."

NICARAGUAN TROUBLES

Advices From Bluefields Say a War is Threatened.

THE AMERICANS ORDERED OFF

Two Nicaraguan Soldiers Killed by the Indians—Bluefields in Trepidation Fearing an Organized Attack of the Natives—Americans Leave the Reservation.

NEW ORLEANS, July 19.—The first reliable news from Bluefields since the outbreak of hostilities there was brought here by the steamships Gussie and John Wilson. The vessels left there on July 10 and at that time the situation in the Mosquito reservation was quite serious and threatened to develop into a regular war before long.

For a long time after the removal of General Iaccayo, whose dictatorial acts brought about his downfall through the demand of the United States Government, everything went along peacefully at the reservation. Young Chief Clarence of the Mosquito Indians resided in Bluefields under the protection of the British Consul and the American warship, and nothing of note transpired until during the day of July 5, when some Indians and Nicaraguan soldiers got into a brawl on the streets of Bluefields and two of the soldiers were killed.

This caused a great deal of excitement, and it was feared that the attempts to arrest the rioters would result in more bloodshed. That night, however, before the authorities had time to perfect their plans the Indians executed a coup d'etat which changed the whole aspect of affairs, and which the Nicaraguans charged was incited by the Americans. This has resulted in an increase of the tension between the two nationalities to such an extent that many Americans have left the reservation despite the fact that an American war ship is anchored off the bluffs. About the middle of the night the Indians made a clever attack on the Bluffs, where the Nicaraguan troops were quartered, and, driving them off, captured all the arms and ammunition and fortified themselves in the stronghold which Lacayo had built for his soldiers.

The next morning Marblehead landed 50 marines and quartered them near the International Club to protect American interests. After the landing of the marines there were no more hostilities, though the Indians were still in possession of the bluffs. It was reported that the Indians in the interior were preparing to move on Bluefields in large numbers to annihilate the Nicaraguans, and though they have not yet materialized there is a vast amount of uneasiness there. It is said that the Nicaraguans had already warned the Americans to make themselves scarce on pain of death, but so far these threats have not been put into execution. There is no British warship at Bluefields now.

He says he noticed an improvement from the first and ten boxes cured him. He is now free from all pain and enjoys excellent health.

THE RULING MARKETS.

TORONTO, July 19, 1894.

The earnings of the Canadian Pacific for the week ended July 14 were $338,000, a decrease of $91,000 as compared with corresponding week of last year.

At the London wool sales 7,300 bales of good average quality were offered. There was a full attendance and competition was brisk. Cross-breeds were in good supply and firm. Victorian was animated. The present series of sales will close on July 25.

THE FARMERS' MARKET.—The market remains inactive. the only offerings being 200 bushels of oats, which sold at 39½c to 40c. Wheat steady and nominal at 62c for white; red quoted at 61c and goose at 58c. Peas are quoted at 65c and barley at 41c to 43c.

The downward movement in wheat continued in Chicago, the close being ½c for cash and 1c for September lower. Corn was firm, closing ½c to ¾c higher. Oats were weak, the close being 1¼c lower. Receipts to-day are 152 cars wheat, 280 cars corn, 132 cars oats, hogs 25,000 head.

Buffalo.—Cattle—Only two cars on sale; firm, unchanged. Sheep and lambs—5 cars more; active, demand closing 10 to 15c higher than yesterday for the few lots of good on sale. Hogs—4 cars on sale; 10 to 15c higher; packers paid $5.70 generally, and York buyers put up $5.70 to $5.75 for their kind.

The New York stock market was a tame affair, the Industrials monopolizing the little speculative interest that was manifested. In this group American Sugar was the sole feature, the stock after an early decline to 99½, rising to and closing at 102½. The railway list, while inactive, presented a firm front. Statements by President Depew that the business outlook was improving and the continued buying of railway and miscellaneous mortgages had a good effect. Total sales were listed 51,000, unlisted 50,000, including American Sugar 46,000.

"I was prostrated with a severe bilious complaint," writes Erastus Southworth, of Bath, Me. "After vainly trying a number of remedies, I was finally induced to take Ayer's Pills. I had scarcely taken two boxes when I was completely cured."

Athlete Cigarettes have no rivals.

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please," an have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similiar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose to pay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

Boat leaves Wolfe street wharf at 8 o'clock sharp.

Sale of Town Property.

One of the most eligible properties in the town will be offered for sale by auction on Tuesday, July 24th. It consists of the northern portion of that valuable town block situated on the east side of George street, between Murray and Macdonel street, and opposite the Central Park, owned by Mr. Chas. Cameron. The attention of real estate men has been frequently called to this admirably situated property and the chance now to be given is likely to attract a good number of offers. The sale will take place on the premises at 2 p.m. The terms of sale are unusually liberal; especially the non-interest bearing portion of the conditions.

A ROUND THE LAKES TRIP.

The steamer Columbian will run a trip from Chemong to Lakefield on Saturday, July 21st, and from Lakefield to Chemong on Monday, July 23rd, connecting with morning trains from Peterborough and evening trains from Lakefield and Chemong. Tickets for each trip, including railway fare, only $1. For sale at G. T. R ticket office. W. McCamus & Co., proprietors steamer Columbian. 4d14

New Craft for the Trent River.

Mr. W. F. Boswell is building a new steamer at Trent Bridge, the dimensions of which will be 40 feet long, 9 feet 6 inches beam, and 5 feet deep. She will, the Herald says, take the place of the "Pearl" which has become unseaworthy, and will go the way of all worn out crafts. The new boat is larger than the old one, will retain the same name, and will be supplied with the same machinery, the engine and boiler and wheel and shaft being in first-class order. White oak and tamarac will be used in her construction. The contract is in the hands of Capt. Eden, of Peterborough, an old seaman and experienced shipbuilder. Mr. Boswell has also purchased two fine boats from the Canadian Canoe Company of Peterborough, to be added to the fleet of boats he owns.

SPRIGHTLY SUMMER SPORTS.

On the Lacrosse Field, the Cricket and the Diamond—Triple A. Topics—The Bicycle and Football.

BASEBALL.

The Maroons of Toronto will not play here until Aug. 13th, Toronto's Civil Holiday. Lindsay will play Peterborough here on July 28th.

The Peterborough and Auburn baseball clubs will play a match at the annual Auburn excursion to Jacob's Island on Tuesday next, July 24th. Following are the teams:

| Peterborough. | | Auburns. |
|---|---|---|
| O'Brien | catcher | Cowan |
| McCabe | pitcher | Weeks |
| King | 1st base | Welsh |
| Drain | 2nd base | Melrose |
| Burnon | 3rd base | Kempt |
| Horkins | short stop | Armon |
| Dolan | left field | Thompson |
| Riely | centre field | Arenon |
| Connor | right field | McIntyre |

Port Hope and Cobourg will play ball in the first named town to-morrow. This promises to be an exciting match.

LACROSSE.

Hastings defeated Campbellford Saturday in lacrosse by 3 goals to 1.

Orillia defeated Barrie yesterday by four straight games in forty minutes.

Beaverton and Bradford were to have played yesterday but the latter team defaulted. Beaverton now leads the North-eastern League.

The Ontarios, of Port Hope, are playing the Ætnas, of Georgetown, in Port Hope, to-day.

It is probable that the Peterborough lacrosse club will not take the proposed tour. At present, arrangements have only been completed with Perth and Madoc for matches next week.

SPRINTING.

On Saturday afternoon, the 100 yards race between L. LeBar and W. Heffernan will take place, on the Driving Park, for a silver cup and a side bet of $50.

AQUATIC.

A canoeist stated to a reporter last evening that he was often surprised that there were no aquatic sports held on Little Lake during the summer. Canoeing is a favourite pastime with a large number of citizens and he wondered that no illuminated canoe parades were held as in years gone by. He thought that if one or more of the lovers of this sport would take the matter in hand and boom it, many enjoyable evenings might be spent on Little Lake this summer and he hoped that his suggestion would be recognized and a step taken in this direction, as he was certain it would be a grand success and would bring aquatic sports to the front again in Peterborough.

CRICKET.

The Toronto Cricket Club has broken another engagement. A match was arranged for the home grounds on Saturday, and special arrangements had been made to fit up the grounds for a first class match. The waterworks supply of the cricket grounds being disarranged the club went to the trouble of having water drawn to put the crease in proper order. But this morning a telegram was received from the Torontos stating that they would not come to play on Saturday. This is the fifth time the Toronto club has played this shabby trick. Cricket is considered a gentleman's game, and any cricket club is unworthy of the name which will substitute for the conduct of gentlemen the action of the cad, as well as a club that does not play cricket for the sport of the game, and will not hesitate to break fixtures with boorish abruptness, unless it can be sure of sending a team that is sure to win. Toronto has won and seems bound to worthily wear the appellation of Hogtown and Toronto cricket club seems ambitious to form a suburb which may appropriately be dubbed Cadville.

AN EXTENDED DRIVE.

Mr. J. W. Brisbin's Outing via Queen's Highway.

Mr. J. W. Brisbin, flour and feed merchant, has returned from a rather extended drive. Accompanied by Mrs. Brisbin, he started from Peterborough and drove by way of Garden Hill, skirting the lake shore, to Belleville and a little beyond. The journey was made by easy stage, the tourists stopping at various points to visit friends. On the return journey a different route was taken, striking across country by way of Stirling and arriving home by way of Keene, the last stop on the route having been made, at the hospitable hostlery of that genial boniface, Mr. John Gall, for tea. Mr. and Mrs. Brisbin greatly enjoyed the outing, the drive along the lake shore being particularly delightful. While en route Mr. Brisbin, according to his custom, kept his eyes open, and having by virtue of his business a particular interest in the crops, his observations in this regard are of especial value. He reports all along the route as a rule splendid crops of hay, wheat, peas and spring wheat, the latter however, not being largely planted. The oat crop is far below the average, the straw being short and the fields having the Spanish brown tint, indicating the presence of rust, which will make this crop a short one and oats will be oats next winter, unless other sections make up for the shortage which Mr. Brisbin predicts will prevail in the districts through which he passed. He also reports an indifferent prospect of a potato crop and the root crops as well, and the corn crop presents a rather discouraged appearance.

Yesterday at noon the dwelling house of Mr. Wm. McKinley, situated near the floating bridge on the Ennismore side of the lake, took fire from a defective chimney and the dwelling totally was destroyed, together with most of the household effects.

MOTION MUSIC AND MOONLIGHT.

A Happy Four Hours on the City of Peterborough.

The curlers had some difficulty in finding the "tee" at their moonlight excursion last night. The beauty of the route, the comfort of the capacious steamer, City of Peterborough, and the delightful coolness of the evening on the water, did not, for some reason, attract a very large attendance. However, the seventy-five to a hundred who took passage were simply delighted with the trip. The steamer swung from her moorings a little after eight o'clock and steamed slowly down the lake amid a fleet of canoes and skiffs, and puffing wheezing whistling, little steam launches, snorting like so many Pancks, and like many other little things, and persons making an immense noise—in inverse ratio to their importance. As the steamer passed, her paddle wheels churning the dull waters of the lake made the sweet odors latent in the sawdust deposits at the bottom, delightfully sensible. This was one of the pleasantest features of the embarkation to any person desirous of a valid excuse for vigorous profanity. The steamer and her happy cargo made a delightful steam about ten miles down the river, the moonlight element making connections about half way down the river. The sail was a delightful one. The cool night breeze crept across the purple bloom of clover meadows laden with their perfume, and joined the groups that clustered on the deck revelling in the enjoyment of the moonlight that poured upon them over the tops of the trees, which threw a black shadow on the placid water at the shores, and made the mid-channel a band of silver, broken in the steamer's wake into a thousand glittering points of shifting light. When to all this was added the charm of music on the water, furnished by Butcher's excellent orchestra, some little idea may be formed of the enjoyment of the journey. About twelve o'clock the party returned to the home wharf all highly delighted with the hospitality of the curlers and the pleasure of the outing.

THE SEWERAGE BY-LAW.

On Thursday, August 2nd, the votes of the duly qualified electors will be taken upon the bylaw to raise the sum of $21,000 for the construction of a main outfall sewer from Townsend street southward to a point about half a mile below the Locks. Several cogent reasons may be submitted why this bylaw should be passed. In the first place the work must be built. By the agreement between the town and General Electric Company the town is bound to build and maintain a sewer from the Works on Park street to the Little Lake or any other effective outfall point that may be selected. In accordance with this agreement the fifteen inch sewer on Park street was put down For the sake of economy the outfall of this sewer was placed in Little Lake, near Point St. Charles lumber mills. But Mr. McDonald, and others interested, very properly objecting to the sewerage being emptied into the lake near their premises—in the centre of the town—the matter was brought before the courts. An injunction to restrain the town from emptying sewerage into Little Lake at the point it is now entering it, was staved off by an arrangement between the courts and the Provincial Board of Health. The stay of proceedings was granted for two years to permit of the town constructing a proper outfall sewer. This year the time expires and therefore the outfall sewer, for whose approval the bylaw is submitted, is to be constructed. It will be seen that this or some other outfall must be built and therefore the people are called upon to give their assent to its construction. The plan proposed is to build this outfall according to this section of Mr. McDougall's plan, with certain modifications in the way of improvement, with a view of making it the outfall for a system of sewerage for the whole town. Provision is made for the connection of sewer extension to this outfall. When this outfall is constructed the 2190 feet of 15-inch sewer will be connected with it. A 12-inch sewer is now being laid on Sherbrooke street, from the Boundary to Park street, a distance of 1,732 feet; this is paid for by the residents on that street on the frontage tax principle. This sewer was decided upon to meet a petition of the residents for a drain similar to the Park street cribwork drain. It was thought, however, that with very little additional expense a twelve-inch vitrified tile sewer main could be laid down to serve the double purpose of sewer and drain. This the people assented to and the sewer is now under construction. If the new outfall sewer is built and the owners of properties abutting on Park street will petition for the construction of a sewer from Sherbrook street to the Rink street sewer there will be a continuous line of sewer from the boundary on Sherbrooke street to the outfall below the locks, or over a mile of sewerage. This is an example of the proposed gradual extension of the sewerage system from the basis of the proposed outfall. Assuming that the plan proposed by the town for the outfall is a proper one from an engineering point of view, it seems that the people are called upon to vote for the bylaw providing for its construction. This outfall sewer, or some other answering the same purpose, must be built immediately and if the people do not, by passing the by-law to authorize the issue of debentures, provide the funds, the funds will have to be obtained in some other way. The town, Heaven knows, needs nothing so much as a system of sewers, and this proposed outfall is a beginning of a system that by very little extension will serve the most congested districts, and permit of the gradual extension of the system to include the whole area of the town. Another reason why this bylaw should be favourably voted upon, is the necessity of providing employment for those of our citizens who are now idle, many of whom in default of employment, between now and winter, will become unwilling pensioners upon the town's charity list, and this expenditure will in such an event be far greater than that arising from any obligation in respect of the bylaw. There are scores of men willing and anxious to work, to whom the idea of accepting aid from the town is repugnant, and they should be given a chance of employment. This has been a very hard year — the demand for labour has been exceedingly meagre, therefore other things being equal, it is the duty of the ratepayers, by voting for the bylaw, to authorize construction of a work which will give employment and prevent hunger and suffering from entering many an honest home in Peterborough. It is probable, in the event of the popular assent being given to the bylaw on August 2nd, that work will be begun at the earliest possible moment. All preliminary preparations possible will be made between now and the beginning of next month, with a view of commencing actual work with the least possible delay. Steady work, far into the winter, will be a boon which our labouring men, now living in enforced idleness, will highly appreciate. Under all these circumstances and, assuming as before stated, that the plans for the proposed outfall are the best that the topical conditions and its relation to a complete system of sewerage demand, and that our resources will warrant; it seems that the electors will act wisely in approving of the by-law. The EXAMINER has no interest in promoting the by-law beyond a desire to serve the public interest and to provide much needed employment for our labouring population. We need a sewerage system very urgently and, in default of any other, better than that proposed, it seems wise to make a beginning. The work of sewerage has been bungled and delayed but there seems to be a disposal to start now. Once under way and the foundations, so to speak, laid, the work will go on by more or less rapid degrees and Peterborough, the best town in Canada, will be saved the reproach of not having one of the first essential conditions of a higher civilization, a system of sewerage.

MATRIMONIAL.

Nuptials of Mr. Robert W. Wilson and Miss Minnie Campbell.

On Wednesday evening an interesting ceremony was celebrated at the residence of Mr. John Campbell, Douro, near Nassau Mills, the marriage of his youngest daughter to Mr. Robert W. Wilson, of North Monaghan. Rev. W. R. Young, B. A., pastor of the George street Methodist church blessed the tie that binds, in the presence of about thirty invited guests. The bride was assisted by Miss Alexandria Law, of Peterborough, and Mr. George Hunter, of North Monaghan, supported the groom. After the ceremony the company extended their cordial congratulations to the newly wed and partook of a sumptuous wedding banquet. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson take up residence in North Monaghan and their many personal and family friends wish them all the possible happiness in their wedded state that human conditions, with the divine blessings, permit.

THE DELINEATOR.

For September is called the Autumn announcement number, and is the strongest issue of this popular magazine that has yet come to hand. The display of styles is unusually large and attractive, and is the first authentic representation of the Autumn modes, and there is besides a special illustrated article on clothing the baby. A most interesting contribution is the plea for and against according the suffrage to women, by such well known writers as L. G. Runkle and Edith Thomas, and there is also a valuable paper on Public School teaching and employment for women. The first article of a series on the Kindergarten appears in this number, and should prove of much service to both public and private teachers. There are also interesting papers on fancy work of various kinds, culinary information and other topics such as are to be expected in this first-class ladies' magazine of useful and interesting information. The subscription price of the Delineator is one dollar a year. Single copies, fifteen cents. Address orders to the Delineator Publishing Co., of Toronto, Ltd., 33 Richmond St., West, Toronto.

IT TAKES YOUR MONEY

—only 25 cents to buy a glass vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets — but then you get a lasting benefit and a permanent cure of your Bilious or Sick Headache, Constipation or Indigestion, loss of appetite, and all those troubles which follow a disordered liver.

The time to treat an inactive liver is before it becomes a disease. If these tiny Pellets were in every day use people would be germ-proof. The germs of disease make their entrance to the system through the liver—your health and well-being depends on the liver.

If you suffer from wind and pain in the stomach, giddiness, costiveness, disturbed sleep, you get immediate relief from the use of "Pleasant Pellets."

They're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money returned.

A "COLD IN THE HEAD" is quickly cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. So is Catarrhal Headache, and every trouble that is caused by Catarrh. So is Catarrh itself. The proprietors offer $500 in cash for any case which they cannot cure. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

SHORT HOURS.

They Result in Invariably Increasing Productive Capacity.

There are still some here and there who seem to believe in the old maxim of Richelieu that workingmen are to be compared with mules, who are less spoiled by work than by repose; but, on the whole, the beneficial effect of reasonable repose is now generally admitted and, according to the Contemporary Review, nobody would think it wise or profitable to return to the very long hours of the early part of the century. And, here again, what is good for one nation has proved good for others; all have alike benefited in productive capacity by abandoning long hours of labor. When Mr. Scott, the eminent Scottish shipbuilder, opened a yard in France, he reduced the hours of the French shipwrights from twelve to ten, and says he found it advantageous so far as he was concerned. Indeed, he raised their wages in consequence from 4 francs a day to 4½ francs, so that they must have done more work in the shorter day than in the longer one. When the hours were reduced to eleven in 1872 in Canton Glarus, the manufacturers prophesied ruin, but obtained 99.15 per cent. of their old production in the first year, and more than their old production in the next. The eleven-hour day was introduced into the rest of Switzerland in 1878, and Dr. Schuler, the factory inspector, extracts the following results from the books of a spinning mill whose machinery was too old to be speeded except very slightly: In 1876-7 in twelve hours the mill produced 372.18 kg. of yarn per 10,000 spindles, but in 1879-80 it produced 388.88. In 1881 the Swiss factory inspector reports a tannery and a watch factory as having voluntarily reduced hours to ten, and having in both cases found the same quantity produced in the day and an improvement in quality. The textile manufacturers of a particular district in Bohemia reduced their hours in 1870, and, while they got at first a little less product in the day, they soon got more than before. M. Freese, window-blind manufacturer at Hamburg and Berlin, who had reduced his hours to nine in 1890 and found the step profitable, reduced them further to eight in 1892, and obtained from a majority of his hands an increase of the quantity produced without any loss of quality.

One of General Wolseley's Secrets.

One of the secrets of Wolseley's success is his being always ready. The Premier of England, having an interview with him one day in London, and giving him command of the army at the Cape of Good Hope, inquired, as they parted: "When can you start?" "By the 4:15 train," answered Wolseley without an instant's hesitation. It was then 1 o'clock. This trait of alertness, together with a wonderful faculty for choosing whatever time and conditions happen to be most convenient for doing his eating and sleeping, have been familiar to his friends since his boyhood. The Rev. Abraham Jones of Hollymount Academy, to whom he went to school, was visited by another ex pupil some ten years ago, and their talk found its way around to Wolseley and his boyish pranks. Mr. Jones recalled to his friend's memory the fact that he had predicted the young fellow's rise in the world. But he added that the end had not come yet. "Garnet will be a Field Marshal one of these days, sir," said he, proudly, "though I shall not live to see it." I wonder if the old gentleman did live through the Queen's last birthday?—Kate Field's Washington.

An Idea of Krupp's.

Krupp, of Prussia, claims as the result of experiments that while only ten to fifteen per cent. of heat units are utilized in the modern steam engine, if the coal is powdered to an impalpable powder and exploded in cylinders, after the manner of an ordinary gas engine, seventy-five to eighty per cent. of the heat units may be realized.

Not a Drunkard's Paradise.

Renowned though Switzerland be for the freedom and democracy of its institutions, there is no country in the world that is so drastic and severe in the treatment of inebriates. The laws vary in detail in the twenty-two cantons, but in their essential principles they are very similar and provide for the punishment not only of those persons who indulge in strong drink to excess, but also of the people who supply the liquor in question. Drunkards are visited with penalties amounting to a maximum of a year's imprisonment with hard labor and three years' interdiction from exercising the franchise and from the purchase of any alcoholic drink, while the dealers and innkeepers who permit their customers to become intoxicated, or who furnish "interdicted" persons, are likewise sentenced to the payment of heavy fines, imprisonment and the forfeiture of license. Altogether, Switzerland can scarcely be considered a drunkard's paradise.

The total expenditures of the British government post office telegraph service during last year were £166,682 more than the total receipts, which were £2,526,312.

One thousand and sixty persons were killed in coal mines in Great Britain during last year and sixty-five persons in metalliferous mines, both numbers being above the yearly average.

Miss Townsend laid the first stone in the nave for the rebuilding of St. David's church at Denbigh, Wales. An interesting fact in connection with the ceremony was that it was the same stone that was laid by her aunt, who gave the site for the original church fifty years ago.

Bishop Blyth, the Anglican bishop of Jerusalem, asserts in his annual report that "about 100,000 Jews have entered Palestine during the last few years, of whom 65,000 have come within the last seven years, and the arrival of a vaster host is imminent."

It is a curious fact, as noted by Sir Samuel Baker, that a negro has never been known to tame an elephant or any wild animal.

M. Moissan, the distinguished French chemist, has made some more crystals of diamond by plunging the electric crucible containing the carbon at a temperature of 2,000 degrees C. into cold water. The diamonds thus obtained scratch rubies and burn with the production of carbonic acid gas, but the largest weighs only six milligrammes.

Odd Feat of Endurance.

A feat of endurance, unique in its way, was performed at the Aldershot Gymnasium yesterday, when Tom Barrows, the champion Indian club wielder and axe thrower of England and Australia, easily beat the previous best record of club swinging. He started at 7.24 a. m. and kept up the exercises without a single check of either hand for eight hours and fifteen minutes. The clubs weighed two pounds and two ounces each. He was fed during the day by his confrere, Tom Williams. Col. Fox, Army Inspector of Gymnasia, was chief referee, assisted by other officers.—London Telegraph.

Origin of Rosebery's Title.

It appears from some family reminiscences of Lord Rosebery recently published that the title Rosebery was borrowed from Yorkshire. The first lord married an heiress from Rosebery Topping, in the broad-acred shire, and when he was ennobled he took the name of the place for his title.—Westminster Gazette.

THE STEWART CASE.

Mr. Stewart Pays a Visit to Pictou—Congratulated by His Many Friends on His Restoration to Health.

PICTOU, N.S., July 16.—Good news sometimes travels as fast as bad news, which is proverbially fast. Many people here knew that Mr. Allan Stewart, of Springton, P.E.I., had been for many years afflicted with kidney disease and gravel. It was known, too, that last year he was so bad that public opinion put him down as likely to die soon. Mr. Stewart fooled public opinion though, for he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills and ten boxes of them completely cured him. When he paid a flying visit to this city a few days ago, he received many hearty congratulations on restoration to health and improved appearance. Dodd's Kidney Pills have never yet failed to cure in this part of the Dominion.

S. P. SMITH, of Towanda, Pa., whose constitution was completely broken down, is cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He writes:

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 159 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."

NEEDED INVENTIONS.

Things That Might Fill Various Long-Felt Wants.

London Answers recently invited its readers to suggest various "needed inventions." Here are a few of the many suggestions:

The Pencil of the Future.

The article which in my idea would be the most satisfactory invention to the public at large would be a pencil which, instead of being filled with the ordinary plumbago, should be filled with some composition which would write as indelibly as ink without smudging, and would enable us to write with the smoothness of a pencil.

This would do away with the scratching, spluttering, dirty, corroding pen. Besides, the time lost alone in dipping a pen in the ink is considerable.

The inventor of such a pencil would confer a boon upon the public.

Automatic Omnibus Starters.

What invention would be more humane and, I should imagine, possible than the following?

A spring capable of being applied to omnibuses and similar vehicles that are required to be stopped and started very often, and so constructed that it would act like an ordinary brake in stopping the vehicle, but would, when released, again start the vehicle of its own accord.

It would effect an enormous saving in the number of horses now yearly worn out in this unnecessary labor.

An Overcoat Lifter.

The majority of fellows find it a bother to get their overcoats on. I think an invention for holding and lifting an overcoat would be a good thing.

My idea would be for the machine to hold the coat with two spring clips on two arms, to work by clock-work, and by a series of gentle jerks, to lift the coat to the required height. It would have a spring at the bottom, which being pressed by one's heel would instantly release the coat.

The machine could be made both ornamental, simple, and cheap, and could also be used as a hat and umbrella stand.

Wanted, a Smoker's Friend.

I think one of the most needed inventions of to-day, especially in this changeable climate of ours, is an apparatus for lighting matches in the open air on a wet or windy day.

It should be collapsible, small and covered, and would indeed be a boon to men. I have often pitied poor fellows on a wild night, trying in vain to light their pipes, and dodging behind every corner and projection. They would bless the inventor of a match-box which would afford at the same time a temporary shelter to the flickering light.

Umbrella-Opening Made Easy.

Of late years we have seen a great variety of designs and colors in umbrellas, but as yet nothing has been invented to improve the opening and shutting of this every-day article.

Now, would not a great improvement be effected by fitting a wire spring from the top of the handle down to the socket where the ribs meet, so that if it were pressed by the thumb it would draw up and open the umbrella?

This would help one out of a difficulty which one is often placed in, when he or she has only one hand at liberty to open one's "gamp."

Why Has no One Thought of It?

What is particularly wanted at the present day, especially since we are now threatened with the woman cyclist, is a bicycle so constructed that its motive power is increased by the rider keeping in an upright position, and retarded by the rider keeping the Bico-Scorcherosa position now in vogue.

Again, bicycle riders want a handy lamp-extinguisher, which might consist of a little wire at the bottom of the lamp so that the extinguisher would fall over the wick, and when not in use a small spring would hold it at the top of the lamp, keeping it from vibrating.

He Believes in Dreams.

"I never took any stock in dreams," said J. L. Santer, of Lexington, Mo., "but from recent experiences I am inclined to believe that there is something in the mysteries of sleep after all. About two months ago my wife informed me that she had dreamed of a marriage and that it was a sure sign of death. Two days afterwards my grandfather was killed by a train at Omaha. Following this up, my better half warned me to look after my financial interests, as she dreamed I was being treated for hysterics. To dream that I was being treated for anything, she informed me, was a never failing sign that I would suffer a financial loss. In less than a week came the Sedalia Bank calamity, and I am out $2,000. Just before I left home I accidentally broke a looking-glass. Now I am told that I will have seven years of trouble. It has not materialized, but I expect to receive a telegram before morning informing me that my boy has been drowned in the river, my house has been destroyed by fire, or that something else equally as horrible has occurred."—St. Louis Republic.

For Diphtheria.

During the prevalence of diphtheria it is quite as important to look after the well ones as those that are ill; especially needful it becomes if one is exposed to the disease. The observance of a few precautions in this disease, as well as in others, is of great value in preventing their spread. First, never go into the presence of disease with an empty stomach. Eat a good meal if possible, if not able to procure this drink a cup of coffee, a cup of hot tea, or a glass of milk. If nothing more substantial offers drink a glass or more of water, better if a little whisky, brandy or Jamaica ginger be added to it. If possible, visit the sick when not over fatigued or exhausted. Before going into the room where diphtheria is, gargle the throat with diluted alcohol—one-third alcohol, two-thirds water; stronger if the throat will bear it. All the members of the family in the house with a case of this disease should gargle their throats three times a day at least with the same preparation.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood-contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Having suffered over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache. Ethel D. Haines, Lakeview, Ont.

GLADSTONE A FINANCIER.

Clean Record of an Able, Upright and Unselfish Man.

It is not as a politician that we note the departure of Mr. Gladstone from the office of Prime Minister and from public life—not as a politician, but as a political and social economist. The present generation has forgotten most of his life's work, knows naught of what it owes to his labors, and we can but briefly recall the past here. In doing so one general observation may be permitted. Throughout his life Mr. Gladstone has been eminently clean handed. Not only has he never taken a pension for himself from the public purse, but he has never, when not in office, eked out his income by means unworthy of a gentleman and a man of true honesty. He preferred to write magazine articles and books about Homer. Consequently his name is never found among those who "punt" off the stock exchange; no limited liability company ever got him to be a director, nor could a single financier ever conjure with his prestige, because of any selfish interest he might have in view. Mr. Gladstone's very purity of mind and conduct in this and other respects was doubtless a source of weakness to him in practical affairs, and for one thing marks him throughout his career as a bad judge of men. Charlatans could always impose upon him for a time if they were plausible, because the simplicity and uprightness of his mind and life unfitted him for comprehending baser-minded individuals. To no small extent his virtues were the cause of the intense hatred with which so many regarded him, and in this respect his successor is much more favorably placed for the enjoyment of a long and prosperous political career. Lord Rosebery knows all about the turf and the stock exchange, "those dear old English vices." About Mr. Gladstone there has always been something of the ecclesiastic in the best sense, and a good deal of the dialectician and theological casuist. But to us, above all other characteristics of his great personality, stands out dominantly this attribute of cleanness. It is visible, not only in his own life, but in the way he has abstained from quartering his family upon the nation. We remember once hearing about a relative of his who declared with strong language that had he been a complete stranger to the Prime Minister he would have long since had promotion in the fighting service of which he was an humble subaltern. The complaint was, beyond a doubt, justified by the fact, for a scrupulous and noble sense of honor—old-fashioned and rare, always governed the late Prime Minister's conduct in this respect also, as all who care to look at the actual position of his children can see for themselves. Differ from him politically as men may, it is impossible, looking at the facts, for anyone not to admit that in losing Mr. Gladstone's services the nation parts with one of the purest, and, in all that relates to himself and his family, most unselfish men who ever helped to guide its affairs.—London Investors' Review.

SPEAKING OF DINNERS.

Small dinner parties of four or six are often most enjoyable.

Be sure the servants understand just what is expected of them.

It is no longer obligatory to serve or to drink wines or other liquors.

Attempt no more than can be certainly and perfectly carried through.

Have a system, and follow it—much unnecessary labor will thus be saved.

Do as much of the work of preparation the previous day or two as possible.

Even the richest feast is barren, if with it there be no "feast of reason and flow of soul."

Utter silence is better than to be bored; but a golden mean in conversation is vastly better than either.

A dinner may be varied from three to fourteen or more courses, but from five to seven will usually be found the most desirable number.

HORSE TALK.

Don't be afraid to buy a horse because he is thin. In other words, look out when buying a fat one. Flesh hides blemishes.

Better muzzle the horses than hinder the free use of their necks by checking while at work. Checked horses sweat more and grow thin faster than free horses.

A team that is yelled at and jerked will become so nervous that they do not know what they are about; they grow thin with half the work of one that is used kindly and steadily. The manners of the team show the temper of the driver.

If for any reason the horses have not shed their coats or are unthrifty, give them a little oil meal in their feed daily. Begin with a tablespoonful and gradually increase until feeding a pint twice per day. Few feeds will give a horse so much strength and make him look so well.

Nothing Impossible.

Just now a mite of money is worth a mountain of stock.

Just now, nothing seems impossible in the line of economy. But the TRUTH about low values is hard to comprehend. Anything less than ALL the facts concerning OUR goods and their present values would be unjust to the public.

You cannot always buy so many kinds of goods at and below cost as we offer you now. Your best economy is to invest your money in wisely selected goods at present prices at this store. Listen:

DRESS GOODS
AT COST.

Just to liven things up these hot days we offer all our Summer Dress Goods at about cost. This will help to clear out our stock and save carrying anything over to another season.

WASH GOODS

MASONIC GRAND LODGE.

Thirty-Ninth Annual Convention Opened—Summary of the Grand Master's Address—Four Hundred Delegates Present.

The thirty-ninth annual convention of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Ontario opened in Hamilton on Wednesday. After a warm welcome by the Hamilton brethren, the Grand Master, Hon. J. M. Gibson, delivered his address.

He opened with a few sentences of welcome to the brethren and a brief general reference to the work of the year and the prosperity of the order.

During the year there were laid with Masonic ceremonies the corner stones of St. James' church (Anglican) Morrisburg; a new Public School at Palmerston, and a Methodist church at Pettawa Creek. The lodge rooms dedicated were those of Acacia Lodge, No. 430, East Toronto; Tecumseh and Stratford Lodges, Stratford; St. Clair Lodge, No. 135, Milton; Port Elgin Lodge, No. 429, Port Elgin; New Hope Lodge, No. 279, Hespeler; Moravian Lodge, No. 430, Eden Grove, and Fidelity Lodge, No. 428, Port Perry.

Reference was made by the Grand Master to his numerous official visits during the year and to his presence at the Fraternal Congress of Masons held at Chicago, the conclusions of which he quoted.

A sentence or two sufficed to refer to the by-laws submitted for approval during the year and to the decisions rendered, none of which he submitted to the Grand Lodge not considering any of them of importance enough to go on record.

A dispensation had been issued for a new lodge at Hanover, and the application for a warrant he commended to the careful consideration of the Grand Lodge.

MASONIC RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

Praise was given to the good work done by the General Masonic Relief Association, and satisfaction was expressed that the Grand Lodge of Mississippi had undertaken the responsibility of initiating a movement having in view the adoption of uniform rules as to jurisdiction over candidates. The proposed uniform rules the Grand Master quoted in full.

It was noted also as a matter for sincere congratulation that there has been a marked general improvement in the ritualistic work of the lodges, although he dwelt forcibly on the fact that this is not by any means the chief object of Masonic ambition.

SOMETHING HIGHER THAN RITUAL.

It has been my aim, he said, to urge that something more should be done within the lodge rooms than mere transaction of business and conferring of degrees. Masonry is a sham and means nothing if it is confined to the lodge room, if it fails to permeate our conduct and actions through life, or if it fails in some cases to restrain, and in other cases to prompt us, in the course we are about to pursue in any direction. Perplexing questions of duty arise when business interests conflict with the charitable considerations due from one Mason to another, or when one's instinctive Masonic partiality is combatted by notions of what on other grounds may be right or wrong. The ideal of a Freemason is difficult of attainment. But we are not good Masons if we do not strive to the best of our ability to exemplify our professions by the practical record we from day to day are making. We are prone to boast of the antiquity of our order, to descant in grandiloquent terms upon its stability and world-wide diffusion, and, with pardonable pride, to grow eloquent in referring to its lofty aims and the everlasting principles upon which it is founded. But the practical and important question for each of us is whether, by reasons of being Masons, we are better men than we would have been if we had not been Masons. Let each Mason within this jurisdiction resolve for the future that in some way or other he shall, no matter how modestly, do something more than ever before in the effort to live up to the high standard we place before us.

CLOSING REMARKS.

Brethren, I am about to place the gavel in the hands of my successor, and I shall do so with mingled feelings of satisfaction and regret. It would not be possible for any ruler in the craft to receive a larger measure of loyal support on all hands or to experience more genuine or uniform kindness and courtesy in every direction than have been my happy lot, and frequently I have been vain enough to believe that strong expressions of confidence and fraternal regard were intended for personal appropriation by me, and not entirely as compliments paid to my official position. However, that may be, my enjoyment of the work has been thoroughly genuine. My regret is that more time could not have been devoted by me to visitations, but other duties and responsibilities stood in the way. Routine work and business which imperatively called for attention have been disposed of with promptitude, but as time has passed by possibilities of usefulness have been presented to me and perforce reluctantly allowed to disappear. The privilege of becoming grand master is the greatest honour of a lifetime. For all the generous consideration that has been shown to me, my heart is full of gratitude which I am not able adequately to express. But while, as I pass from the chair and my name becomes enrolled among those of your honoured past grand masters, the mark of distinction you have conferred upon me remains for all time; rest assured, brethern, my appreciation of your kindness shall never grow less.

GRAND TREASURER MURRAY.

M. W. Bro. Hugh Murray, Grand Treasurer, presented his annual report, showing that on May 31, 1894, the funds of the Grand Lodge amounted to $83,011,78, of which $75,000 is invested in the debentures of loan companies. The receipts during the year amounted to $17,903,05, and the disbursements to $16,478,26, of which $8,081,25 went for benevolence. Detailed statements of the several funds and their disposition were given.

GRAND SECRETARY MASON.

R. W. Bro. J. J. Mason, Grand Secretary, in his annual report, gave details of the receipts and expenditure of his office, of the special communications of Grand Lodge, of the dedications, appointment of grand representatives, revision of lodge bylaws and dispensations granted.

ATTACKED IN COREA.

The British Minister Set Upon by Japanese Soldiers.

SHANGHAI, July 19. — Advices from Seoul, the capital of Corea, say an attack has been made by Japanese soldiers upon the British consulate and that Consul-General Hillier and his wife were brutally assaulted. A force of British marines has been landed at Seoul to protect the consulate from further attacks.

Additional advices from Seoul give a statement concerning the attack upon Consul-General Hillier, furnished by the consul general himself. Mr. Hillier says he was stopped on a public road by Japanese soldiers, who demanded to know who he was and where he was going. Mr. Hillier replied by giving his official title, whereupon several of the soldiers rushed upon him, beat him with their fists and dragged him almost 50 yards in the dirt, Mrs. Hillier, who was being borne in a chair, witnessed these indignities to her husband and protested vehemently. Her remonstration further enraged the soldiers, who scattered the chair-bearers and pushed the chair with Mrs. Hillier in it into the ditch. Consul General Hillier made a formal complaint to the Japanese minister at Seoul, but no apology was offered, nor can it be learned that the offending soldiers were punished.

Uncle Sam Sides With China.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The Sun's Washington correspondent telegraphs that he has learned that the Chinese Minister, who has been in frequent consultation of late with the Secretary of State regarding the strained relations existing between Japan and Corea has finally induced the Secretary to send an official despatch to the Japanese government expressing the dissatisfaction of the United States with the policy which Japan has showed toward Corea, and closing with these important words: "The United States views with regret the levying of an unjust war by Japan upon a weak and defenceless nation like Corea." The Japanese government has made no reply. The despatch practically places the United States on the side of China in her dispute with Japan and Russia.

The interest which the United States has always manifested in Corean affairs has been extremely cordial, but not more so than its relations with Japan. Both countries were opened to the world by this country (Japan) in 1854 and Korea in 1882. In the treaty negotiated with Japan in 1858 the second article expressly provides that the president of the United States, at the request of the Japanese government, will act as a friendly mediator in such matters of difference as may arise between the Government of Japan and European powers and that the American warships should render assistance to Japanese vessels on the high seas.

Most of the institutions of Japan are modeled after those of this country and nothing has ever occurred to affect the warm relations between the two countries. In the treaty with Corea the United States assumed obligations quite as important. Article 1 reads:

"There shall be perpetual peace and friendship between the President of the United States and the King of Chosen and the citizens and subjects of their respective governments. If other powers deal unjustly or oppressively with either government the other will exert their good offices, on being informed of the case, to bring about an amicable settlement, thus showing their friendly feeling."

It was under this clause that the King of Corea June 10 last, when the rebellion in several provinces progressed beyond his control, asked the United States to send warships to Chemulpo, a request which resulted in the despatch of the flagship Baltimore to that port the next day, and under the second paragraph of the clause the Corean government notified the United States two weeks ago that Japan and China were dealing unjustly and oppressively.

The Shooting at Bisley.

LONDON, July 19.—At Bisley the shooting in the final range, 600 yards, of the first stage for the Queen's Prize was completed. Corporal Bailey, of the Third Surrey Regiment, made the highest aggregate at the three ranges, 97, and thus won the bronze medal for this stage. The Canadian did fairly well. The weather was much improved which made the shooting a great deal better. Of the Canadians who did well in this stage Staff Sergeant W. J. Davidson, of the 12th Battalion, York Rangers, Toronto, heads the list with twelfth place, his aggregate score over the three ranges being 91. Staff Sergeant A. Bell, of the same battalion, is the next Canadian with aggregate score of 87, which gives him fortieth place. Lieut. Mitchell, also of the 12th Battalion, gets fifty-sixth place with a score of 86. Lieut. Curran, another of the 12th Battalion crack shots, also came within the first hundred, securing eightieth place with 83. These four stand well for the second stage which will be shot to-day.

Reports from Bisley show that the Canadians have no chance of winning the Queen's Prize. Davidson has scored 29 at 600 yards, Bayles 27, Ogg 23. But the totals at the three ranges do not suffice to bring them within even remote reach of success. Twenty-four competitors are ahead of Davidson, who has made the best score of the three.

The Government's Programme.

LONDON, July 19.—Sir William Harcourt, the Chancellor of the Exchequer in the House of Commons, states that the remainder of the session of Parliament would be principally devoted to the consideration of the evicted tenants' bill, the bill providing for an equalization of London rates, the local government for Scotland bill, and the local veto bill. All other measures, he added, would go over until next session. The consensus of opinion among the Liberal members in the lobby of the House of Commons this afternoon is that it would be impossible for the House to pass during the remainder of the session the bills mentioned by Sir William Harcourt in the programme which he announced. Only two of the bills he enumerated, the evicted tenants' bill and the Scotch local government bill, have as yet been placed upon the schedule.

The Earthquakes in Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 19.—A rather violent earthquake was felt here yesterday but no serious damage was done.

PARIS, July 19.—M. Moureau, director of the Meteorological Observatory has reported that the curve of the Magnetograph was notably perturbed 16 minutes after the earthquake in Constantinople, thus proving that the magnetic wave had traversed 3,000 kilometres with ten times the velocity of sound.

The Situation in Hawaii.

AUCKLAND, July 19.—With the Honolulu mail which arrived yesterday came the first news of the proclamation of the republic on July 4 with Sanford B. Dole as president. Many inhabitants have taken the oath of allegiance to the new government.

FIGHTING WITH MAHDISTS.

The Italians Win a Victory—Many Natives Killed.

ROME, July 20.—An advance of the Italian troops into the Mahdist's territory began on July 12, when the Italians marched from Agordat in force in consequence of the receipt of information at that place that the Mahdists had been raiding Indian territory, in which they had killed a number of natives and made captives of a great many more with the intention of selling them into slavery. Col. Baratieri, the governor of the district, got together 2,400 troops, the most of them natives, and despatched them, under command of fifty-four officers, in pursuit of the marauding Mahdists. The Italian column pursued the invaders for several days, and reached Kassala at daybreak on Tuesday, where they found the enemy intrenched and prepared for battle. An attack upon the earthworks of the Mahdists was at once ordered and a fiercely-fought battle ensued.

The Mahdists fought desperately, but were finally driven from their position, leaving hundreds of dead and wounded in and about the entrenchments. Being hotly pursued the Mahdists scattered under a continuous fire, and many of them in their efforts to escape plunged into the river Adbara, hoping to reach the other side. The river was flooded almost to the top of its banks and the current too strong for a swimmer to contend with. Hundreds of the enemy were drowned and it is believed that none succeeded in reaching the opposite bank. Gen. Baratieri is in full possession at Kassala and the surrounding territory.

The Anarchist Lega on Trial.

ROME, July 20.—The trial of the anarchist, Paul Lega, for attempting to kill Premier Crispi as he was riding in a carriage on his way to the Chamber of Deputies on June 16, began yesterday. The prisoner upon being arraigned said he was animated in his attempt upon Signor Crispi's life much less by hatred of Crispi personally than he was by a desire to strike at the chief of a prepotent society. "If I had failed to kill him," he said, with a laugh, "it wasn't my fault." The prisoner made a vigorous defence of anarchy and concluded his speech by saying: "I now await your verdict. If you give a capital sentence, there is always someone ready to avenge his brethren in France or America."

Lega was found guilty and was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment and three years' police supervision. When the sentence was announced he shouted "Hurrah for anarchy."

Intense Suffering in Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 20.—The suffering caused by the earthquakes is more widespread than was at first supposed. The loss of property is felt more keenly every day by the homeless and half-fed families who have camped in the parks and cemeteries. The local relief fund is entirely inadequate to the emergency here and in the provinces, especially in and around Adabazar, the Chalaldja and Gallera. The sufferers have been helpless in their wretchedness. As soon as communication with the provinces shall be restored the reports of privation and disease will probably begin to reach the city.

Fatal Wreck on the Susquehanna.

ALBANY, July 20.—The Chicago express on the Susquehanna division of the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company's railroad ran on to an open switch at Esperance, crashing into several cars standing on a side track. Fireman Palmer, of Oneonta, was killed. Engineer Truman Austin, of Binghamton, was seriously injured and will die. He was brought to a hospital in this city. None of the passengers were injured. The engine was demolished. The opinion prevails that the switch was turned with evil intent and this rumor gains credence from the fact that a Pullman car was on the train.

An Aristocratic Thief.

PARIS, July 20.—A wealthy American, Mrs. Botson, residing in the Avenue Halakoff, recently invited Defly Lestange, a man of good family, to luncheon. Three days later she missed jewellery valued at £900. The police discovered that Lestange had sold the jewellery for a small sum and they arrested him. Lestange is the brother of Mme. Reymond, who shot her husband's mistress in Paris some time ago. His relatives are pressing Mrs. Botson not to sue him, but the judicial authorities will probably insist.

An Explosion at Homestead.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 20.—An explosion occurred yesterday in the converting mill of the Homestead steel works. Four men were terribly burned. The explosion occurred just as one of the converters was about to be emptied. The men were in the pit and when the hot metal poured out and struck the damp ground it was scattered in every direction. Nelson and Diamond were literally covered by the shower of liquid steel. The cause of the explosion is a mystery.

Bismarck Troubled With Neuralgia.

BERLIN, July 20.—Prince Bismarck told several friends who met him at the Stettin Railway Station on July 16 that although his health was good, he got a good sleep only one night in three. He said that he never expected to be rid of the neuralgia in his face. Even then, he added, the pain was tormenting him. The Princess seems to be very anxious about his health and watches him constantly.

The Evicted Tenants Bill Debated in the House of Commons.

STILL SLAUGHTERING CATTLE

The Practice Continued at the Ports of Landing — How the French Treaty is Viewed by France — The Scotch Mine Trouble.

LONDON, July 20.—In the House of Commons last evening Sir Michael Hicks-Beach moved to adjourn in order to discuss the statement outlining the Government's programme made by Sir William Harcourt. The motion was rejected by a vote of 256 to 205.

John Morley, Chief Secretary for Ireland, was loudly cheered by the Irish National members as he rose to move the second reading of the evicted tenants bill. The measure, he said, was designed to meet a difficulty of the utmost gravity, a difficulty whose immediate removal was imperative.

Mr. Morley rebutted the contention of the Opposition that the bill bristled with new principles for which no precedents could be found among the Irish land legislation of the past quarter of a century. If the Government was mischievous, as had been asserted, the existing absence of a plan was doubly so. The bill proposed to take £100,000 of the church surplus, but it was now found possible to take £250,000. To no better use could the surplus be devoted than to restoring peace and harmony between landlord and tenant.

Col. Saunderson, champion of the Ulster Unionists, made a violent attack upon the bill. The Government proposal, he said, to pay the wages of iniquity and criminal conspiracy out of the spoils from the church. Several other Unionist spoke in a similar vein, continuing the debate until the House adjourned.

Still Slaughtering Canadian Cattle.

LONDON, July 20.—In the House of Commons Mr. Herbert Gardner, president of the Board of Agriculture, stated in reply to questions by a number of members, that there was no present prospect of the Government abandoning the plan of slaughtering cattle imported from Canada and the United States at the port of landing. Mr. Arnold Morley, Postmaster-General, announced that the newspaper statements that the Australian and New Zealand mails destined for England, or those from England for Australia or New Zealand by way of San Francisco had been delayed by the striking employes in America, were entirely without foundation.

French Treaty Acceptable to France.

LONDON, July 20.—The action of the Canadian House of Commons regarding the French treaty has been much applauded here as well as in France. M. Hanotaux, the chief French negotiator of the treaty, is now Minister of Foreign Affairs in the French Cabinet, and the treaty is, therefore, sure of acceptance in the French Chamber of Deputies. M. Hanotaux, who has the reputation of an anglophobe, will thus have one point less to harp upon in regard to the British lack of good-faith which he brought to the fore so strikingly when the Anglo-Belgian treaty, in regard to the partition of Africa, was recently announced.

Rosebery Compliments the Imp. Fed.

LONDON, July 20.—In presenting a testimonial last evening to H. Loring, ex-secretary of the Imperial Federation League, Lord Rosebery said that the good work done by the league had more than justified its existence. The league had been very influential in arousing and forming public opinion as to the need of close and continued union of all parts of the Empire. He was certain that, but for such influence and efforts, the Ottawa intercolonial conference would never have aroused the deep interest which all had felt in its proceedings.

The Scotch Mine Trouble.

LONDON, July 20.—The board of conciliation, who have been considering the differences between the Scotch mine owners and miners, have decided that wages shall not be reduced more than 30 per cent. below the standard of 1888 and shall not be pushed more than 45 per cent. above it. These and other provisions made by the board will tend to establish peace in the effected districts. Benjamin Pickard, the labor leader, says he expects the arrangement suggested will remove the bitterness of recent years and will be renewed on the date of its expiration. The agreement in question will be valid for two years.

Jabez Will Repay His Creditors.

LONDON, July 20.—The family of Jabez Spencer Balfour have sent circular letters to the victims of the Liberator Building Society and his other schemes informing them that all his property would be sold soon and the money would be divided among his creditors. The family express the hope that the majority of those who lost by him can be reimbursed with this money.

To Investigate the "Massage" Scandals.

LONDON, July 20. — Home Secretary Asquith has ordered an official inquiry into the massage scandals in the west end. The police report that a number of "massage" establishments are cloaks for disreputable houses where young girls are ruined.

Claud Gets His Divorce.

EDINBURGH, July 20.—The Court of Sessions has granted a decree of divorce separating Claud Alexander from his wife, Diana Alexander, daughter of the Earl of Eglinton. The decree was granted to the husband on the ground of his wife's infidelity.

Sympathy for Debs.

LONDON, July 20.—The executive committee of the Social Democratic Federation have sent a message of sympathy to Samuel Gompers, Master Workman Sovereign and President Debs, of the American Railway Union.

Forest Fires in New Jersey.

BRIDGETON, N. J., July 20.—A fierce forest fire, which started between Bridgeton and Rosenhyn, is sweeping through the timber with great rapidity and has caused much damage. The lumbering settlement of Green Bank, just above Bass River, has been almost totally destroyed.

Further Subsidies Voted to Bonus the Railways.

A WANT OF CONFIDENCE VOTE

Mr. Laurier Brings Up a Motion Censuring the Government in Connection With Kingston Graving Dock—Reform Members Will Journey West.

OTTAWA, July 20.—The House divided yesterday on a resolution of Mr. Mulock to throw out the bill granting to the Canadian Pacific railway drawbacks on material to be used in the construction of new iron bridges on the road. The amendment to the bill was defeated by a large majority. It had only in all sixteen supporters. The bill was read a second time.

The whole of the afternoon session was devoted to the passing of another batch of railway subsidies. They totalled $3,102,000, all of which were passed.

Sir John Thompson stated that prorogation would take place on Saturday afternoon.

A motion of want of confidence by Hon. Mr. Laurier against the Government for paying to the Connolly's $43,621 for the Kingston graving dock while a large suit by the Government was pending against that firm, was defeated in the House by 61 nays to 24 yeas.

Hon. L. H. Davies, Mr. Choquette, M. P., A. S. Fisher, ex-M.P., James Sutherland, M.P., and several Ontario members will accompany Hon. Mr. and Madame Laurier on a trip to the Pacific Coast next month. The party leave Montreal on August 20. The first meeting will be held at Sudbury on North Bay. Meetings will also be held at Port Arthur, Winnipeg, St. Boniface and other points.

A Young Priest's Crime.

QUEBEC, July 20.—A young man from Montreal was lodged here yesterday for robbery. He was for some time previous a novice at the Mistassini Trappist monastery. The young fellow was entrusted with a money letter from the Superior for a firm in Quebec. He, however, threw his robe away on arriving in this city, and having donned the outfit of a mundane started on a regular picnic. The Superior of the convent, thinking there must be something wrong, caused his apprehension, but he had just fled from the city. The detectives secured his arrest at Richmond and he was identified in No. 1 police station by the Frontenac people as having been a fashionable boarder who had some time ago jumped his board bill. He was at once traced up as having been an habitue of a house of doubtful reputation in St. Roch suburb.

Fire in Wallaceburg.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., July 20.—The wooden buildings on the corner of James and Nelson streets, owned by J. W. Steinhoff are a total loss. They are insured in the British America for $1,700. In the buildings were a barber shop, billiard hall, furniture and undertaking establishment and all agricultural implements, hops, and store rooms. Leroy, barber, contents insured in the Mercantile for $175; only slightly damaged by removal. Martell's billiard tables and fittings insured in Liverpool, London and Globe for $1,400; probable loss of $200 in removal. C. London, furniture, insured in Waterloo Mutual for $400; loss small, damaged in removal. The undertaking stock, insured in the British America for $500, is a total loss. Mr. Bourne's loss on implements will be about $200; no insurance.

Fatal Accidents in Lucan.

LUCAN, Ont., July 20.—While Mr. S. Kelly, a farmer living at Lucan Crossing, in the township of McGillivray, was milking his cows one of the other cows ran at the one he was milking and threw the man over, alighting with her two forefeet upon his breast, from the effects of which he lingered in terrible agony until noon, when death relieved him from his suffering. Another accident occurred yesterday evening. William Lee, a boy 15 years old, son of Mr. George Lee, a farmer residing on the ninth concession of McGillivray, while in the act of unharnessing his horses got entangled in the harness. The horses got frightened and ran away, and the boy, being unable to extricate himself, was killed.

Sunk in the Tay Canal.

KINGSTON, July 20.—The steamer Rideau Belle, plying on the Rideau route from Kingston to Ottawa, met with a serious accident in the Tay canal. She was just going in the first lock on her way to Perth when something went wrong with her machinery and she struck the front of the lock. This would have been all right had not the water flowed through the gates. The machinery being disabled the steamer could not be prevented from smashing back into the rear gates. So hard was the crash that a large hole was knocked in her stern. The steamer sank in the lock with the water above her decks. She is owned by D. Noonan, of Kingston.

Serious Accident to a Bather.

NIAGARA, Ont., July 20.—Mr. Stuart Palmer, a young man from New York, about 30 years of age, who is summering here, met with a serious and what may prove fatal accident. Mr. Palmer was in bathing and while diving struck his head on the bottom injuring his spine and causing part paralysis of the body. The physicians, five of whom are attending him, are doubtful of his recovery.

An Embezzler in the Toils.

MONTREAL, July 20.—Detective McGrath, of Toronto, has arrived here to take to that city a man named Peters, lately in the employ of the New York Life Insurance Company, who is charged with embezzlement. Peters collected $137 for a presentation to T. G. McConochy, a fellow clerk, on his approaching marriage, and skipped with the money.

Killed While Bathing.

WINDSOR, July 20.—Anthony Shiappeasse, employed by the Natural Gas Co. near Walkerville, went to the river to bathe. A logging train came along on the bank above, some of the logs rolled off and striking Shiappeasse instantly killed him. He resided in Detroit, and leaves a wife and three children.

A FREE TRADE VICTORY.

The cable announces that the general elections which have just been held in New South Wales have resulted badly for the Government of Sir George Dibbs, the advocate of protection. The elections, not yet, apparently, quite complete, gave the free traders 58 members, the protectionists 39, and the labour party 28. Sir George Dibbs took office towards the close of 1891, having, with the aid of the labour members, defeated Sir Henry Parkes' Government on the question of the insertion of eight hours clauses in the coal mines regulation bill. Sir Henry Parkes' Government stood on the principle of free trade, but since the preceding election, in June, 1891, it had not a clear majority in the Assembly. In May of the same year the same Government had been attacked by Mr. Dibbs on the question of federation, of which Sir Henry Parkes was an enthusiastic advocate and the Opposition leader an opponent, on the ground that it was the precursor of Imperial federation, and not of the national independence which, he contended, was desired by the younger Australians. The Government had been sustained only by the vote of the Speaker in a House of 127. Sir Henry Parkes resigned, and the elections were fought on the platform of free trade and federation. They resulted satisfactorily to neither of the old parties. Sir Henry Parkes secured 51 followers; the native Australian and protectionist policy of Mr. Dibbs brought him 57 supporters, while instead of having a meagre representation of four members, as in the previous House, the labour party found itself with a phalanx of 28, besides which three independents affiliated with the labour party.

The labor representatives were generally understood to be opposed both to free trade and to federation. Sir Henry Parkes was, therefore, considered defeated. He and his colleagues met the House, however, and when Mr. Dibbs moved a vote of want of confidence there was general surprise that the veteran free trader was supported by a majority of 20. This was explained by the declaration of the leader of the labour party to the effect that they would support the Government so long as it suited their purpose. The Ministry, therefore, continued to enjoy a somewhat precarious existence until the close of the year 1891, when Sir Henry Parkes displeased the labour party on the question referred to, and they put him out of power. There were indications at the time of the great financial storm which soon after burst over Australia, and it was freely hinted by the Dibbs supporters that the Parkes Government had, to use a sporting phrase, run for a foul, and sought the defeat which came to them. The labour party now in turn supported the protectionist Government, which was formed under Mr. (now Sir George) Dibbs, and he has been enabled to carry on the Government until now. Realizing that he had not a clear majority in the House, he materially modified his protectionist views, and this, together with the exigencies of the financial situation, enabled him to impose a mild form of protection on the hitherto free trade colony of New South Wales.

The Dibbs party does not appear to have established itself in the confidence of the people during its two or three years of power. The Premier recently modified his views on the subject of Australian federation and advocated the union of Victoria and New South Wales on the federative plan as a precursor of a wider scheme. The followers of Sir Henry Parkes came out straight for entire federation and entire freedom of trade. The labour party was comparatively indifferent on these topics and, as before, will support whichever party will pay most attention to its demands on other subjects. As a result of the election the free traders have considerably increased, while the Dibbsites have declined in number. The labour party remains about the same. It is too soon to accept the cabled statement that Sir George Dibbs is defeated, seeing that he apparently may yet retain power with the aid of the labour party; but the elections are, nevertheless, a considerable triumph for the principles of free trade, and the chances are certainly in favour of a free trade government being soon again installed in power in New South Wales. The idea of federation, too, will receive an impetus from the measure of success that has fallen to the supporters of Sir Henry Parkes and the new legislature may be counted on to take some decisive action in the matter.—Globe.

A BAD TIME COMING.

Any ordinarily careful student of events cannot but come to the conclusion that the present period of social unrest that is agitating the world menaces a culmination in something decidedly serious. There is a tendency for liberty to degenerate into license, license into anarchy, anarchy into bloodshed and a reign of terror. Any person who has read the graphic suggestions of terror painted by Dickens in his tale of Two Cities, and also the reports of the recent outrages in Chicago cannot but reflect that characters built on the same villanious plan as "Jaques Three," "Madame Dufarge" and other saintly personages were very much in evidence in the recent Chicago emeute. It therefore does require a very exalted gift of prescience to observe the suggestions of trouble ahead. Mr. Herbert Spencer the great evolutionary philosopher, writing to a friend in America on May 28th, utters a prophecy which has received sufficient fulfilment to justfy his claims to prophetic insight into the tendency of the elements at work underneath the crust of society. Mr. Spencer says:

"Fairfield, Pewsey, Wilts, May 28, 1894.

"Dear Mr. Skilton,—In the United States, as here and elsewhere, the movement towards dissolution of existing social forms and reorganization on a socialistic basis, I believe to be irresistible. We have bad times before us, and you have still more dreadful times before you—civil war, immense bloodshed and eventually military despotism of the severest type.

Yours truly,
HERBERT SPENCER."

The sunny south also ventures upon prophecy, and, though Governor Hogg, of Texas, employs more polished and scholarly language than Mr. Herbert Spencer, still his conclusions in the prophetic line are entitled to respect. On Wednesday, Governor Hogg, of Texas, in an address is thus reported:—

"He predicted that within six weeks marshal law would be declared in California, Kansas, Colorado and Illinois, and that the anarchists of Chicago would use dynamite and "bespatter the lofty buildings of the city with the hearts, lungs and livers of citizens." He alluded to President Cleveland having ordered the troops there and Judge Cooley's letter commendatory of the act, and said he felt humiliated over it, as it was a dangerous invasion of state rights and had not been done before since 1860. The Governor predicts a great revolution soon, and possibly dismemberment of the great republic, unless a foreign war diverts the attention from internal dissatisfaction."

The Chicago Interior which saw all the recent Chicago disturbance from behind the scenes, does permit the general tendency of glorifying American "institootions" in season and out of season, to blind the keenness of its vision nor warp its judgment as to the significance of current events. The Interior says:—

"There are times when the American eagle sits very quietly in a remote corner of the aviary and refuses to indulge in his tendency to scream. It is when on one side of his cage he sees city mobs and factory lock-outs and miner's riots and industrial armies; and on the other side he notes the quiet and content of his Canadian neighbours. Are our friends north of the great lakes made of other flesh and blood than we? Are they speaking different tongues and bred in opposite faiths, more homogenous. It will be a day long in the future before any one will hear of discontented masses seizing a train of the Canadian Pacific. We cannot remember a case of lynching north of the boundary line in our states? The fact is that we are drifting rapidly towards anarchy, and there is no use in assuming to be blind to the fact. The swarms that terrorize our national and state capitals would not be tolerated for an hour in a remote settlement of Manitoba. Even the Indian buries his tomahawk or Winchester as soon as he crosses the line. England suffers neither citizen nor savage to flout her laws; we suffer immigrant, tramp and desperado to go his own gait; and just now we are paying dearly for the substitution of voluntary organizations for civil compacts. Centuries before Christ was born a philosopher of Greece described the orbit of a state through revolution, liberty, lawlessness, back to despotism again. The question will rise in every thoughtful mind, are we nearing the apogee from which we started 120 years ago?"

She Didn't Take With the Gentlemen.

She was refined, intelligent, and not bad looking, but somehow she never seemed to take with the gentlemen. They didn't like her listless ways; they said she hadn't any "snap" about her. Poor girl! she was suffering from functional irregularities, and it was actually impossible for her to take much interest in anything. But a change came. One day she heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. She procured a bottle, and she had not taken half its contents when she felt like another woman. Now she is in the enjoyment of perfect health, and has suitors by the score. No woman need suffer from functional irregularities and weaknesses. The "Favorite Prescription" is a safe and certain cure for all the weaknesses to which women are peculiarly subject.

CASH IN THE DAIRY.

A Return Showing $43 per Cow for the Summer's Work.

We publish below a statement of the cash returns of a cheese factory in Ontario, and hope to hear from some of our subscribers who operate all-the-year creameries, believing that the showing will be better than the one given.

Occasionally some one with a herd of ill selected, ill-cared-for and ill-fed cows raises the stereotyped cry that there is no money in dairying. Possibly not—for such a man—and we doubt if there would be in any line of special purpose farming, or general purpose farming either. He has probably settled down in despair to the conviction that there is no money in anything on his farm. But there is money in dairying, as the prosperity of good dairy districts and individual dairymen amply proves. Take an example: Mr. Facey, of the Harrietsville cheese factory, in the township of North Dorchester, East Middlesex, which last season turned out over 247 tons of cheese, furnishes the following list, which very clearly indicates what farmers can do who give their attention to the cow business. These men do not set themselves up as fancy or gilt-edged dairy farmers at all, and the results may be taken as a fair sample of what can be accomplished under ordinary conditions, with well-fed, carefully selected cows. In fact, last season was not one of average excellence, because it was practically shortened nearly a month by the long continued and severe drouth. As will be noticed, the following includes small as well as large patrons:

| Names of Patrons. | No. Cows. | Cash Rec'd. |
|---|---|---|
| Stephen Yorke | 35 | $1,501 22 |
| Angus Yorke | 20 | 905 73 |
| Fred Garton | 26 | 1,021 24 |
| Henry Jackson | 30 | 1,244 19 |
| Samuel Archer | 30 | 1,229 19 |
| Samuel Leaman | 20 | 808 92 |
| John Barr | 14 | 640 30 |
| P. Abbott | 10 | 444 92 |
| R. Tooley, M.P.P. | 7 | 283 23 |
| Thomas Rodway | 3 | 130 40 |
| Total | 195 | $8,309 33 |

These 195 cows owned by these ten patrons brought their owners an average of nearly $43 per head for the summer season, which, as we have already pointed out, was not a very favorable one. Besides this, milk was used at home, and a very considerable sum additional was realized for butter made in winter, some of the farmers mentioned, we understand, being patrons of the Gladstone factory when run as a winter creamery. It would not be excessive to put the total yearly return from some of these herds at an average of over $50 per cow. For the whole province the average is probably not yet much more than half that sum. The example of these Dorchester farmers should stimulate others to go and do likewise.—London Farmers' Advocate.

Cultivate Flowers.

While the residents of the country live in the midst of nature's adornments, they should not permit these to repress the cultivation of those things that minister to our higher tastes.

Within a few years the use of flowers has grown enormously. Every occasion from the cradle to the grave is marked by evidence of this kind. Very often the relations between two persons are such that flowers are the only thing that may be sent with propriety. They may represent large value, to be sure, but a value that is entirely lost with their rapid fading. The same money put into an article whose value would not be so fleeting would never be sent by a cultivated man or accepted by a refined and right-minded woman. It may be laid down as a general rule that it is always in good form to send flowers to any one with whom pleasant, friendly and social relations exist. On the other hand, it may be said with truth that flowers are rarely other than acceptable.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Soil for Beans.

The best bean soils are what may be termed mild loams, firm in texture, deep and dry. Rich muck soils contain too much humus. Beans grown on these would make too much top. Loams, sandy in texture, and sandy soils which contain a fair amount of plant food will produce the best crops of beans.

On a rich soil, manures rich in nitrogen are misapplied. Nothing but mineral manures should be used on such soils. Although rich in potash and requiring it, it is able to make a good growth without it, as without phosphoric acid—indeed the bean is relatively very rich in phosphoric acid. One hundred and fifty pounds of muriate of potash and 350 pounds of phosphoric acid will make a fair dressing, no other manure being applied. The rows should be just wide enough to use the horse to cultivate with, or some two feet, and the hills eighteen inches apart, unless the rows are made wider, when a narrower distance will answer.—Mirror and Farmer.

AFTER THIRTY YEARS.

Allan Stewart, of Springton, Suffers all This Time—At Last Confined to Bed—Story of His Happy Release from Pain.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., July 9.—Allan Stewart, of Springton, near here, says that Dodd's Kidney Pills saved his life and he wants the fact to be known. For thirty years he has had kidney disease and gravel. Hundreds of dollars spent on doctors and medicine failed to do any good. On July 14 last, Mr. Stewart had to take to his bed and everybody considered his case a hopeless one. He heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and began using them. He says he noticed an improvement from the first and ten boxes cured him. He is now free from all pain and enjoys excellent health.

A New Fertilizer.

In tallow-melting establishments—and there are a score of them in the city of New York—a large amount of refuse, so-called "tank water" is thrown away. It contains a valuable element, gelatine. A patent has lately been granted to Michael Golseiff of this city for a method of utilizing the above waste product. It consists in partially evaporating the tank water and then combining it with quicklime in the proportion of one and one-half parts of lime to each part of water remaining in the refuse after the evaporation. The mixture is then allowed to expand and dry, when it is reduced to a powdered state, and is useful as a fertilizer, containing, as the patentee claims, from seven to twelve per cent of ammonia and from forty to sixty per cent of lime. If the new process should be found practicable for adoption by the various tallow melting manufactories, then a waste refuse of to-day will be made useful, and what is now a nuisance to public health will be abated.—Scientific American.

Salting Cows.

Salting the cows is one of the little things that is sometimes lost sight of under the pressure of other and what is regarded as more important work, but a trial recently made at the Mississippi Experiment Station indicates that inattention to this point may be a rather expensive oversight. Three cows were kept without salt for four weeks and their milk record kept during the last two weeks of this period; then they were given the usual allowance of salt for two weeks, and on comparing the milk records it was found that the cows gave 454 pounds of milk during the first period when salt was withheld, and 564 pounds during the second, when salt was furnished, a difference of 110 pounds of milk in two weeks in favor of salting.

FRATERNAL ASSESSMENT LIABILITY.

"Can't I get out when I please," an have no liability?"

Most people expect "yes" for an answer to this question, when they say they are members of an assessment insurance society, and begin to think of their responsibilities as such. It is important for them to know that they cannot escape liability; because every member, no matter when he drops out, is liable for any deficiencies that may arise in future, if they were developed during his membership. Here is an instance:

The United Masonic Benefit Association of Missouri was some years ago an active and apparently prosperous assessment concern. It provided no reserve, but offered low rates, cheap insurance, and seemingly hoped that new blood would make up for increasing mortality resulting from increasing age. By and bye its forces began to fall off, not enough "new blood" came in, and the cost of membership ran up in a very uncomfortable way. Presently the healthier lives began to feel their burden pressing heavily and steadily left the ranks, until so few were left in the association that the assessments amounted to $140—one hundred and forty dollars—on each certificate. The remaining members refused to pay such a sum, and the concern failed. But there were unpaid death claims for a large amount due, and the State Superintendent of Insurance thought they ought to be paid. So he began suits at law against individual members to enforce payment of the assessments against them; the court has decided that they must pay. The feelings of those who are thus compelled to pay what they never expected have undergone a change with respect to assessment insurance.

Replying to some enquiries which had been made upon this point of liability, and citing this case illustration of what may be expected in any similiar case which might be pressed to suit, the Insurance Monitor says: "The decision referred to answers our question which has been debated whether the member's liability is limited to sums which he may choose topay; in, other words, whether he can get out when he pleases without further harm. This he cannot do. Every member, no matter when he may drop out, is liable for any deficiencies which may crop up in future, resulting during his membership. The only safe course for parties that apprehend breakers ahead is to drop their membership before the breakers are reached; and the misfortune of this course is that the faster they drop, the faster the association drives towards the breakers."

There seems to be only one course open for the prudent man who may be determined to avoid possible liability; that is to keep out of such associations entirely and buy his insurance of the regular companies.—Monetary Times.

She was picked up unconscious and removed to her home and medical assistance summoned; but, fortunately no serious injury was sustained further than severe shock.

BRIDGENORTH AND CHEMONG PARK ITEMS.

(From a Correspondent.)

Amongst the items of interest, I do not think that there is anything that will be more eagerly sought after than the news from Chemong Park, as this, the most charming of all resorts, will before many years, as the thriving and pushing town of Peterborough becomes a city and has its suburbs be one of them. Then this Park, with its lofty pines, pure water, and mineral springs and the gentle breezes off the lake, will be sought after each day by the wealthy, the business men, and sons of toil, as a place to go for an hour, a day, a week, or perchance a month, to recuperate in health and get away from the turmoil and bustle of city life. That it is destined to be even more than Island Park is to Toronto there is no doubt, and to show the wide reputation the hotel is justly earning under the able management of the proprietor, Mr. Fobert, and his staff, it will only be necessary to enumerate a few of the many guests from a distance at present sojourning at the ever popular hotel. Among the latest arrivals are: Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Lee, children and nurse, Mrs. Smith, Mr. Hormer, Mr. Cluther, all of Toronto; A. R. Souber, Montreal; W. H. Brown and wife, Toronto; Chas. H. Brown and wife, Bloomington, Ill.; Mrs. Aikie and Mrs. Ellis, Toronto; H. Corey, wife and maid, Miss Lottie Corey, Master H. Corey, all of Petrolia, and several rooms have been engaged for two weeks past, and on Monday arrivals will be here from Rochester, Lyons, N.Y., and several from Toronto. To the lovers of fishing it will be pleasing to note that many good catches of fish have been made, one party of three catching eighteen bass weighing 32 pounds; Mr. Carton landing a 14 lb. maskinonge; Mr. Fobert, jr., one at 12 pounds and one 7 pounds; so that Chemong Lake can now be rated as a first class fishing ground. Although the season has been somewhat late yet there are several large excursions booked, amongst them one being a large union excursion under the auspices of I.O. O.F. and C.O.F., of Cannington, during the month of August.

The new steamer, The Idle Hour, built by Messrs. Moffatt & Kinch, two of Peterborough's most enterprising men, is already doing a big business, having since its arrival at the Park been chartered no less than five times and to-night has a pleasure party for Jacobs' Island, and to-morrow another for Buckhorn. All those who have been on the boat speak in very glowing terms of her speed, her steadiness as a sea boat and of the kindness of those in charge. Mr. McDonald is captain, and Mr. Geo. Ward, a Peterborough man, engineer, and under their able hands she will no doubt weather any storm, and those who charter her will enjoy their trips as both Mr. McDonald and Mr. Ward can keep them deeply interested by telling sea stories equal to those of the oldest sea captain who has crossed the Atlantic for years and years.

Next week the writer will try to write with greater interest. By the bye, I would be leaving out one of the brief items were I not to say that Mr. T. Kelly, one of Peterborough's prominent men, and his family have taken for the season Mr. Rogers' cottage and add greatly to the sociability and enjoyment of all at the park and hotel. —"SCRIBE."

Miss Jennie Kelly, Port Hope, is visiting friends in Peterborough and vicinity for a few weeks.

Miss Crossley, of Peterborough, is spending a few days with Mrs. A. Johnston.—Millbrook Reporter.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Gnaedinger, of Montreal, will arrive in town this evening on a visit to Mr. W. Lech, and Mr. and Mrs. Walters, who have been a few days at the lakes, will also join the family circle in town.

Mr. C. Fessenden, principal of the Collegiate Institute, left this morning for a month's sojourn at "Camp Le Nid" on the Bay of Quinte, between Picton and Napanee. He will join a coterie of congenal spirits and enjoy the delights of the beautifull surroundings of this locality.

Rev. Father Conway, of St. Patrick's church, Norwood, arrived in town last night on his return from a three months' visit to Ireland. He had a pleasant voyage both going and coming and passed a pleasant three months in the land of his birth and especially in the neighbourhood of the scenes of his childhood days. He is in excellent health and spirits and his foot on the old sod, his eye on the green hills and sparkling lakes and his lungs filled with the salt air of the Emerald Isle seem to have renewed his youth. Rev. Father spent the night and day in town, receiving hearty congratulations on his safe return. He goes to Norwood to-night, where a formal and enthusiastic reception will be tendered the reverned father by his delighted parishioners, in whose hearts he has so warm a place. Rev. Father Conway is the pioneer priest of Ontario and has spirit and vigour under Providence for the many long years of usefulness and happiness, which his hosts of friends pray may fall to his lot.

DECORATION DAY.

Very Generally Observed—Floral Tributes to the Memory of the Dead—The Cemetery Carpeted With Flowers.

This is decoration day and the Oddfellows of the town and hundreds who follow their example, are observing it with due ceremony. The Oddfellows, having formed a procession at Central Park, headed by the Fire Brigade Band, proceeded to the cemetery, which in its summer garb, is remarkably beautiful, and laid their floral tributes with subdued reverence and loving remembrance upon the graves of the departed brethren who have been summoned to the celestial Sovereign Grand Lodge. A large number of citizens also thronged the cemetery and profusely beautified the graves of their loved ones with flowers. A report of the ceremonies will appear in to-morrow's EXAMINER. How to Hang the Hammock.

There is science in the hanging of a hammock both for comfort and grace. The hammock should be six and a quarter feet from the ground at the head and three and three quarters above ground at the foot end. The rope at the head which fastens it should be one foot, and at the foot should measure four feet. It may sound as though this made the hammock very high, but it is just right, as our women have found out. For convenience and effect, a hassock is used on which our fair one steps and swings herself in place from the foot end. In this way there are no "tucked up" skirts, and one's shoes are not more conspicuous than one's head.

The hammock paraphernalia is now as important an addition to the summer girl's outfit as tennis racquet or parasol, and it requires infinitely more careful thought.

The hammocks themselves are beautiful, being woven of strands of colored silks. A brunette chooses a yellow and black one with heavy fringes, while a blonde takes a soft baby blue and white one. One black-eyed belle has packed a gorgeous crimson one.

With the hammock go the pretty varied colored silk blankets and down pillows made of white linen and embroidered with the owner's monogram. Hammocks may be made of straw, grass, or any other appropriate material. These hammocks are swung on piazzas and across halls quite as often as on the lawn.—New York Sun.

—Mr. D. H. Moore, of Peterborough, government forest ranger, spent a couple of days in town this week interviewing the local lumbermen, and securing returns for the Ontario government of the timber cut in the north country for the past season.—Lindsay Watchman.

—We have, says the Millbrook Reporter, received complimentaries to Cook & Whitby's circus in Port Hope for which we are asked to advertise their concern. Our reply was to drop the tickets into the waste-paper basket, and we hereby advise our readers to stay in the harvest field or workshop or office, unless they are proof against all the arts of the sly fakir who pretends to give a ten dollar bill for a five.

—In its notes on the Orange parade at Lindsay on the 12th, the Watchman says: The Peterborough band surpassed itself and blew a mighty blast. The genial "Pinch" still commands. Will they ever place him and Mr. E. McCabe on the pension list? They have certainly won their spurs....The Douro lodge was greatly admired, not alone for their striking costumes but also for the large size and soldierly appearance of its members.

The warm weather suggests Fans.—A nice assortment at the Peterborough Book Store.—A. H. STRATTON & Co.

RIVER AND LAKE RIPLETS.

American Anglers, at Rice Lake, Indignant Over Special Fishery Legislation of Dominion Government.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Great indignation is manifested here among anglers and guides at the recent promulgation of a piece of special legislation by the Canadian Government.

Rumors of a new fishing law directed against American anglers have been rife for some time. But, it was not until last Monday that the Canadian Fishery Overseers received a copy of the law, with instructions as to its interpretation and enforcement from their Government.

The new law is practically this: Every American angler fishing in Canadian waters obtains a license at a cost of $5 for each line used. The license covers a period of three months only. If an American angler takes up temporary residence in Canada, he is exempted from this charge, unless he hires an American guide, in which case he must take out a license.

A further clause of the Canadian law forbids more than a dozen bass being caught by any tourist or summer visitor on one day. The penality is liability to fine and costs in default of payment. The offender is subject to imprisonment. Every informer receives one half the fine, and is paid for costs and attendance as a witness.

The steamer, City of Peterborough, was well patronized to-day, owing to it being a half-holiday and on account of the oppressive heat prevailing. She ran to Victoria Park and Jubilee, where the excursionists enjoyed the cool breeze from the lake.

SILVER WEDDING CELEBRATED

Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Melvill Millar.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Millar, formerly prominent residents of Peterborough, and now of Orillia, will read with interest the following account, printed by the Orillia Times, of the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding and will join in the congratulations the happy event suggests:

"One of those social events which only come to the lot of but very few, took place last Monday evening at the residence of Orillia's first Mayor, who also during past years filled many positions of honour and trust. The celebration of the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Millar brought forth a very generous response from friends in Orillia, Barrie, Toronto, and Peterborough, many letters of congratulation having been received. The presents which were numerous and costly, included a very valuable silver tea service. Amongst the guests present were quite a number of old friends who have been fighting the battle of life for the past quarter of a century hand in hand with them. The family consist of eight boys and four girls, all of whom but two were present. The grounds were tastefully arranged: decorated and lighted with chinese lanterns. The refreshments were ample and enjoyed by all. Altogether it was one of the most pleasant gatherings it has been our lot to attend for some time, and we hope that Mr. and Mrs. Millar may long be spared to enjoy the confidence and esteem of their many friends in Orillia.

RELIGIOUS RECEPTION AT LINDSAY.

A Number of Young Ladies Received into the Community of St. Joseph at Lindsay Convent.

A grand reception was held in St. Joseph's Convent in Lindsay on Wednesday morning. Among those present were His Lordship the Bishop of Peterborough, Revs. Father Collins, of Peterborough; Father Casey, of Peterborough; Father Leary, of Rochester, N.Y.; Father Nadeau, S.J., of the Indian Mission, Manitoulin Islands; Vicar General Laurent and Father Scanlan, of Lindsay, besides a large number of friends and acquaintances of the young ladies. His Lordship the bishop of Peterborough took charge of the service assisted by Ven. Archdeacon Casey and Rev. Father Leary, and after a powerful address received the young ladies into the community. Rev. Father Grogan, of Toronto, preached the sermon. The following young ladies received the "Holy Habit":—Miss Dinner, of Bracebridge, in religion Sr. Mary Alphonsus; Miss Peake, of Parry Sound, in religion, Sr. Mary Raphael; Miss Cassidy, of Peterborough, in religion, Sr. Mary Genevieve; Miss Mahar, of Lindsay, in religion, Sr. Mary Juliana. The novices who made profession are:—Sisters Magdalen, Francis Clare, Immaculate Heart, Nativity. The service was very solemn and impressive throughout and there was hardly a dry eye in the audience as the sisters repeated their religious vows.

MOONLIGHT ON THE LAKES.

A Successful Moonlight Excursion to Jacob's Island Last Evening.

The excursion to Jacob's Island, Pigeon Lake, under the auspices of the Fire Brigade Band per G. T. R. and steamer Crandella was well attended, some two or three hundred passengers being aboard. The trip was a most delightful one, every one aboard being highly pleased with the manner in which the evening's programme was carried out. The band played an excellent programme during the evening. The Peterborough excursionists were joined at the Island by a party from Bobcaygeon numbering about four hundred, accompanied by their brass band, per steamer Maple Leaf with palace barge attached. In all, there were fully one thousand people on the island.

The excursion was a grand success and the crowd returned home at an early hour all delighted with the outing. Jacob's Island is a splendid summer resort and is considered one of the prettiest in the province. The hotel was well patronized during the evening, as well as the refreshment booths. The steamer Idler was registered at the island, Capt. McDonald in command.

PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH

Rev. Wm. Johnston Ordained and Inducted at Millbrook.

The Millbrook Reporter says:—"As appointed by the Presbytery of Peterborough the Presbytery met at the church in Millbrook on Tuesday, July 17th, at 2:30 o'clock to ordain and induct the Rev. Wm. Johnston into the pastoral charge of Millbrook and Garden Hill churches. The junior member of the presbytery, the Rev. J. Laird of Port Hope, preached a most excellent sermon, and the Rev. J. Cattanach, the popular young pastor of Centreville, gave an address to the people full of words of advice and encouragement, while the Rev. Dr. McLellan in a witty and pithy discourse to the minister concluded a service that was much enjoyed by all who were present. At 1:30 the trial sermon by Mr. Johnston was heard by the Presbytery. The choir in anthem and song aided by Prof. Pemberton also contributed to the service in an appreciable manner.

LECTURE ON PHRENOLOGY.

Mr. John Cubett Entertains City Lodge, I.O.G.T., to a Lecture Last Evening.

There was a good attendance at City Lodge, No. 401 I.O.G.T., last evening to listen to the lecture on phrenology by Mr. John Cubett, of Rochester, N. Y. Mr. Jas. Stubbs, C.T., occupied the chair and the entertainment was opened by a well rendered duet by Misses T. and E. Kindred, after which Mr. K. Mark led in prayer. The chairman then introduced Mr. John Cubett, the lecturer of the evening. Mr. Cubett handled the subject of phrenology in a clever manner, showing that he had a thorough knowledge of this subject and was well versed phrenologically. He had a number of subjects on the stage, five ladies and five gentlemen, and they afforded considerable amusement for the audience. Phrenology, as maintained by eminent men, is the science of the human mind, as connected with the supposed organs of thought and passion in the brain. The lecture was an interesting and educative one, and at its close a vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker by Bros. Stubbs and Early. The entertainment was brought to a close by another duet furnished by the Misses Kindred.

SELWYN.

A Young Lady Seriously Injured.

Last week Miss Mary Fanning, daughter of Mr. James Fanning, of the 13th Con. of Smith, in the village of Selwyn, in company with a few others left home to drive to a huckleberry field. On the way the horse became unmanageable and ran away, throwing Miss Fanning out with the result that she sustained severe injuries to the head and shoulders. She was picked up unconscious and conveyed to her home, and Dr. Fraser, of Lakefield, summoned. She is now lying in a very dangerous position, but hopes are entertained of her recovery.

when pimples, boils, carbuncles and like manifestations of impure blood appear. They wouldn't appear if your blood were pure and your system in the right condition. They show you what you need—a good blood-purifier; that's what you get when you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It invigorates the liver, purifies and enriches the blood, and rouses every organ into healthful action. In the most stubborn forms of Skin Diseases, such as Salt-rheum, Eczema, Tetter, Erysipelas, Carbuncles, and kindred ailments, and with Scrofula, in every shape, and all blood-taints, if it fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back. ## NEWS NOTES FROM EUROPE.

Nelson's old battle ship, the Foudroyant, is being exhibited at various ports in Great Britain. It is said that every timber of the old ship is as sound to-day as when she was launched, a hundred years ago.

In the annual parade of truck horses held in London recently there were two gigantic horses, each measuring eighteen hands—that is, standing just six feet high at the shoulders—and weighing at least a ton.

The British royal commissions to the World's Columbian exposition says in its official report that the exhibition was by far the most magnificent ever held, and that it was not appreciated in Europe at its proper value.

Ambrose Thomas, the composer of "Mignon," was decorated with the grand cross of the legion of honor by President Carnot a few weeks ago. This is the highest honor France can give, and no musician has hitherto attained to it.

Although Queen Victoria rules over an empire that embraces possessions in every part of the world she has never traveled outside of Europe, and even there her trips have been short ones in France, Holland, Germany and Italy only.

Venice is preparing for the first of a series of biennial international art exhibitions, which is to be opened in April of next year. It it proposed to ask leading artists of all countries to take part in the exhibitions, and valuable prizes will be awarded.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

Pope Leo XIII. has just completed a book reviewing his pontificate.

It is said that Protestant Christianity is growing in India as fast as it is in this country.

Over Mr. Gladstone's bedstead is hung the motto: "Christian, Remember What Thou Hast to Do."

It is estimated that there are over three million people in London who never enter a place of worship.

The largest Sunday school library in the world is in Washington, D.C., the property of the Assembly Presbyterian church.

Rev. William Mays, of Perryville, Ky., has preached the gospel for sixty years and has never accepted a dollar for his services.

It is said that when Tennyson was asked what his highest aim was he replied: "My supreme wish is to get a clearer vision of God."

Mr. Moody receives a royalty of twenty per cent from the publishers of "Gospel Hymns,' and since the first publication of the collection this royalty amounts to one million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

Miss Fannie Edwards, the girl evangelist of Louisville, Ky., is reported to have saved one thousand souls in Ohio and Indiana. She is eighteen years of age and lets her long hair hang down over her shoulders.

WOMAN'S CHAT.

The actress Kate Bateman (Mrs. Crowe), the Leah of a former generation, is a grandmother. Her daughter, Mrs. Hunter, has a little girl who has been named Leah, after her grandmother's famous heroine.

Queen Victoria and her daughter Beatrice are accomplished straw-plaiters, and can and do make handsome hats for their masculine relatives. The German emperor is reported to value very highly divers hats made for him by his grandmother.

A young Englishwoman, Lady Mildred Jessup, has written an opera which has been produced and enthusiastically received at Florence. Her husband wrote the libretto. Lady Mildred is the youngest daughter of Lord Strathmore and is about twenty-five years old. She calls her work "Ethelinda."

Women in "smart" London society dress magnificently with quantities of jewels for ornament at balls, concerts and dinners in the season. For their country house gayeties also they prepare gorgeous costumes; but at the theatre and at London dinners in the autumn or winter they prefer to wear what they call "little gowns"—pretty and rather simple black dresses, worn without jewels, not too low-necked and with a goodly quantity of sleeve.

What do you take medicine for? Because you are sick and want to get well, of course. Then remember, Hood's Sarsaparilla CURES.

DEAR SIRS,—I was suffering very much from diarrhœa, and could get nothing to cure me. A friend told me of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and a few doses completely cured me. Thos. L. Graham, Melita, Man.

Largest, Deepest, Highest.

The largest bronze statue in the world is that of Peter the Great, at St. Petersburg, Russia; weight 1100 tons.

The greatest bee owner on earth is Harbison, of California, who owns 6000 hives.

The Czar of Russia holds the largest individual estates, 100,000,000 acres.

The deepest hole ever bored into the earth is an artesian well at Pesth, Hungary, which was driven to a depth of 8140 feet.

The largest flower is the "Rafflesia," (named in honor of Sir S. Raffles), which is a native of Sumatra. The diameter often exceeds nine feet.

The Mordella beetle has the greatest number of distinct eyes, a single specimen possessing as many as 25,000 facets of vision in his compound eye.

The largest bird's nest is that built by the Australian jungle fowl, usually about twenty feet in diameter and fifteen feet high.

The greatest height ever attained by balloonists was by Coxwell and Glaisher, who reached an altitude of 37,000 feet. They made the ascent from Covent Garden, London, in 1862.

Sweet Woman's Way.

"Good morning, Mr. Dolyers."

"Good morning, Mr. Trivvet. What can I do for you to-day?"

"Well, the fact is, Mr. Dolyers—I—I—I—er, your daughter referred me to you, sir."

"Oh, she did, did she?" snorted the papa. "Well, all I've got to say is that I'm getting tired of this referring business. You are the fourth that she has sent to me in the last ten days. I'll put a stop to it. I'll tell her that if she hasn't enough nerve to do her own rejecting, I'll accept the very next dude that she unloads on me in this way, and make her marry him. When the fellow comes along that she wants she'll accept him without taking the old man into consideration, and I don't propose to be made a scapegoat any—— Well, I declare, if the chap didn't actually walk off before I got done telling him what I had to say."

Mr. Dolyers resumes his work of cutting off coupons.

As for Mr. Trivvet, he never came back.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

A devilfish measuring thirty feet across was caught recently in the inlet at Vancouver, B. C.

The Texas court of appeals has decided that the laws prohibiting prize fighting in that state are null and void. The only penalty that prize fighters can be subjected to is a small fine for assault and battery.

U. S. Congressman Tom Johnson weighs 250 pounds and is a terror to bicycle owners. He broke down three bicycles and exhausted an attendant in taking his first lesson in riding, but before the lesson was over he rode around the ring with the ease of a practised bicyclist.

A French bicyclist has just crossed the Alps, by the Mont Cenis pass, on his bicycle. The weather was unfavorable and the road was made slippery by snow and rain. The trip was an incident of a journey on the wheel from Rome to Paris.

A "masher" in South Amboy, N. J., thought he had fallen up against the pitcher of the local ball nine when he attempted, the other night, to kiss Miss Hattie Frazer of that town. It has since been explained to him that she is one of the best boxers in the place.

THE STEWART CASE.

Mr. Stewart Pays a Visit to Pictou—Congratulated by His Many Friends on His Restoration to Health.

PICTOU, N.S., July 16.—Good news sometimes travels as fast as bad news, which is proverbially fast. Many people here knew that Mr. Allan Stewart, of Springton, P.E.I., had been for many years afflicted with kidney disease and gravel. It was known, too, that last year he was so bad that public opinion put him down as likely to die soon. Mr. Stewart fooled public opinion though, for he began using Dodd's Kidney Pills and ten boxes of them completely cured him. When he paid a flying visit to this city a few days ago, he received many hearty congratulations on restoration to health and improved appearance. Dodd's Kidney Pills have never yet failed to cure in this part of the Dominion.

To destroy worms and expel them from children and adults use Dr. Low's Worm Syrup.

S. P. SMITH, of Towanda, Pa., whose constitution was completely broken down, is cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He writes:

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 159 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a traveling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."

French Exploration of the "Black Pyramids" of Dahchour—The Jewel Box of a Princess—The Archæologists Expect Great Finds Before Long.

Since the commencement of the century, in Egypt, more than in any other country, antiquaries and archæologists have dug and excavated so as to penetrate the mysteries of the history of the ancient races that peopled the land. The ground has been turned over, more or less, in nearly every district, and many a hitherto forgotten town or city has been brought to light, so that we might say that little has been left undiscovered which was worth discovering in the country between Alexandria and the cataracts on the Nile.

Of all the places in the Valley of the Nile, none has more often attracted the attention of explorers than the tract of country which has been called the Necropolis of Memphis—that spot in the desert which the ancient inhabitants of Memphis chose as a site for the tombs of their rulers, and where the Kings of the ancient dynasties erected the pyramids which were to contain their mortal remains. In spite of their efforts to hide the actual position in each instance of the chamber containing the coffin, the inconoclastic explorer of this and other centuries has discovered them in the majority of cases, and the tombs have been rifled of their treasures. Many of the pyramids, as we all know, have contained objects of historical value, which have enabled archæologists to make discoveries of the greatest importance, while some of the other ancient monuments have hitherto added little of any value to the student of Egyptology.

Until recently the two brick pyramids of Dahchour (or Dashoor) might have been included among the monuments which were full of mystery, and which had hitherto not enriched the stores of the nineteenth century knowledge. These pyramids are called by the Arabs the black pyramids, and they have excited the curiosity of travelers from the time of Herodotus, who said of them that they were even more mysterious than their sisters, the stone pyramids. At one time these brick pyramids had an outer covering of stone, but this was taken away by a well-known Egyptian conqueror, the famous Sesostris, who did not hesitate to denude these pyramids of their carved stone facings so as to enrich and enlarge the beautiful temple of Ptah at Memphis. To-day the pyramids are little better than shapeless mounds, although a close inspection shows how well each pile had originally been constructed, and of what good material it had been composed, to stand so long after being deprived of its protecting stone covering.

So early as the year 1839, Mr. Perring, who had been sent out on behalf of the British Museum, had attempted to cut his way into the more northerly of the two brick pyramids, but without result. The Egyptian Government department, which concerns itself with the discovery and preservation of Egyptian antiquities, a department founded by the French savant, M. Mariette, the discoverer of many of the Memphis remains, has made several attempts to probe the depths of the mystery of the "black pyramids," and in 1884, under the direction of Mr. Maspero, an excavation on an unusually large scale was commenced on the north side of the larger pyramid. It was expected that the secret entrance to the innermost chambers would soon be reached. The work was continued for two years and was then given up.

The new director of the department, Mr. T. de Morgan, being satisfied that the efforts of his predecessors had not been properly directed, determined to make a fresh attack on this mysterious and impregnable fortress of the dead. So in February this year he established himself at Dahchour, and shortly after his arrival some hundreds of fellahs were engaged to make excavations. The men dug the sand and filled the baskets for the women and children to carry off, the whole crowd singing all day long their peculiar songs, of which the words vary but seldom and the tune never. Mr. de Morgan commenced by excavating the tombs situated round the pyramid, by which he was enabled to make researches proving the period to which the tombs, as well as the pyramids, belonged. These tombs were the burial places of the richest of the inhabitants of Memphis who lived in the reigns of the kings who built the pyramids; the better class of people, and the courtiers, being able to afford to be buried close to the burial place of the kings. About thirty mastabas, as these tombs are called, were laid bare, among them being the sepulchres of several grand court functionaries known to students of ancient history, such as Khnoum-Hotep, Nehasi, and Ont-Khent-Khiti. All the thombs were built on the same simple principle, each being covered by a mass of stone masonry ornamented on the sides with sculpured funereal figures, while in each case the entrance to the tomb was from the north, whence a passage led to a pit more or less deep in which the sarcophagus had been deposited. This was, of course, the mode of burial in vogue up to and including the Twelfth Dynasty. Among the royal names on some of the thombs were those of Osirtasen II., Osirtasen III., and Amenemha III., the pricipal monarchs of that dynasty.

As a result of his researches Mr. de Morgan was able to prove that the large pyramid was built on a plan similar to the small tombs for he set his men to dig carefully all along the northern base of the pyramid inside the outer surrounding wall, until one day his enterprise and patience were rewarded by the discovery of an entrance to a pit, in which was an opening leading to a tortuous, narrow passage. At the end of this passage was a tomb with a rifled sarcophagus—rifled by the spoliators of a bygone age, perhaps in the time of the Romans. This sarcophagus chamber led to a gallery about 120 yards long. The pit by which entry had thus been obtained into the pyramid was evidently not the true and original entrance, but a pit made by the people who had rifled the tomb of its treasure. The difficulty now was to find the proper doorway. And this was all the more necessary since it was found impossible to remain inside the gallery without being suffocated, and an opening near the other end of this gallery would establish some ventilation which would enable the workers to carry on their explorations. At length the proper entrance was found. It led to twelve vaults, more or less spacious, of which the contents—sarcophagi, offerings, canopies, carpets, etc.—had been stolen or rifled at some remote period. Most of the objects left behind contained no inscriptions; but the few hieroglyphics remaining showed that the explorers were in the burial-place of a family of high estate; in fact, of a whole series of princesses, and among them actually the coffin of the Queen Nofert-Hont, and the coffin of the royal daughter Ment-Sent-Senbetes.

But the discovery that placed the date of these burials as having taken place in the middle of the medium or middle empire, during the time of the most powerful dynasty of that period, was made a few days later. Mr. de Morgan was carefully cleaning the floor of the passage when he discovered, under the spade of one of his assistants, a hiding place scarcely covered by the sand, and which had not been noticed by those robbers of bygone days who had rifled the tombs. In this secret receptacle was a little wooden box, quite rotten, filled with jewels of marvelous workmanship. This box was carefully conveyed to the museum of Gizeh. The principal jewel was a breastpiece of gold, encrusted with precious stones of remarkable beauty and of very fine workmanship. On this was depicted two eagles guarding the tomb of Osirtasen II. The rest of the jewelry consisted of necklaces, bands, bracelets, and scores of various little trinkets.

The following day the explorers brought to light, close to the sarcophagus of another princess, a still larger box of jewels, of which the principal were two breastplates, on which are inscribed the names Osirtasen III. and Amenemha III., while around the names the enemies of these two kings are depicted being thrown to the ground.

Encouraged by these finds, the explorers continued their researches, but as yet the vault, containing the mummy of the king for whom the pyramid was constructed, has not been discovered. Success will, however, probably crown Mr. de Morgan's efforts, which have been delayed by the mass of debris caused by the former excavators.

Since the discovery of the great subterranean passage, several other pits have been cleared of sand, but none has given any interesting result. Two fine sarcophagi, made of alabaster, have, however, been found.

In the meantime, at the other brick pyramid, situated nearly two miles to the south of the first, some important work is being carried on. This pyramid is not nearly in so good a state of preservation as the northern one. Here the work was commenced on the 6th of last April, and a series of excavations have been made along the north side, as in the case of the previous pyramid. Some of the discoveries already made will be of great scientific value. The first was the tomb of a king whose name has hitherto been unknown in the compiled lists of Egyptian monarchs. This king's name is Hor Rafou-ab, and his place is at the end of the Twelfth Dynasty. The tomb also contained a wooden coffin, covered with bands of gold engraved with hieroglyphics, and a statue made of acacia wood, and representing the king. This coffin stood close by and is ornamented similarly to the real coffin. Hieroglyphics cover the gold bands. The statue, which is almost life-size, represents a young man of extraordinary beauty, and is a wonderful example of Egyptian art; in fact, it throws quite a new light on the art of the period.

The next vault had been left intact, and was found just as the mourners left it thousands of years ago, with the funeral offerings surrounding the sarcophagus. A princess had been buried here. Her name was Noub-Hotep, and in the coffin were enclosed jewels of great interest, consisting of necklaces, bracelets, anklets, and other trinkets. A scourge was also in the coffin.

This is how matters stand at Danchour. The two pyramids have not yet altogether disclosed their secrets, but M. de Morgan is quite justified in expecting that success will crown his well-directed labors. The value of these latest researches can, of course, hardly be estimated as yet.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood-contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Having suffered over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I concluded to try Burdock Blood Bitters, and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headache. Ethel D. Haines, Lakeview, Ont.

ITCHING AND PIN WORMS. PILES

No More Misery.

ITCHING PILES is an exceedingly painful and annoying affliction, found alike in the rich and poor, male and female. The principal symptoms are a severe itching, which is worst at night when the sufferer becomes warm in bed. So terrible is the itching that frequently it is impossible to procure sleep. Often the sufferer unconsciously during sleep scratches the parts until they are sore—ulcers and tumors form, excessive moisture is exuded. Females are peculiarly affected from this disease, causing unbearable irritation and trouble. These and every other symptom of Itching Piles or irritation in any part of the body are immediately allayed and quickly cured by Chase's Ointment. It will instantly stop itching, heal the sores and ulcers, dry up the moisture.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT

PIN WORMS is an ailment entirely different as to cause than Itching Piles, yet its effects and symptoms are exactly the same. The same intolerable itching; the same creeping, crawling, stinging sensation characterizes both diseases. Chase's Ointment acts like magic. It will at once afford relief from this torment.

HE WANTS TO BE POOR.

Millionaire Armour Transferring Money and Burdens to His Sons.

This is from the Chicago times:—P. D. Armour, the millionaire packer, who was labelled "One of Chicago's Trinity" by Wm. T. Stead, in his "If Christ Came to Chicago," strolled into a dining-car on the St. Paul road the other day in his usual breezy and wholesome way. The train conductor came along and Mr. Armour handed over a commutation ticket to be punched. Though he has a desk full of annual passes he never travels on a pass, even on roads of which he is a director. The millionaire was bound for the home of his son, P. D. Jr., at Oconomowoc, where he spends what few hours he can spare from his business during the summer months. After he had given the waiter his order, Mr. Armour turned to chat with a friend. He is a great talker, and keeps at it all the time. "Yes," he said, "if I live a few years longer, as I hope to do. I shall die a comparatively poor man. To my two sons I am turning over my fortune as fast as they show ability to handle it. I don't tell you this for the purpose of talking about my money but to show you just where I stand. I want to see my money cared for while I am alive to direct the boys. I am doing now what Field and the others are waiting to do at their deaths. There can be no squabble over my estate in the Courts after I am gone, as the estate will be comparatively small. The two boys are shouldering it rapidly, and they are demonstrating their ability to care well for it."

FOREIGN NOTES.

The body of the late Edmund Yates, editor of the London World, was cremated in accordance with his desire.

"Gen." Booth, commander in chief of the Salvation Army, says, and says it emphatically, that he never reads the newspapers.

It is about thirty miles across town in London, and for that entire distance there is said to be an unbroken line of residences and stores.

Railway employes in England are now instructed in first aid to the injured under the auspices of the St. John's Ambulance association.

Six corpses on the ballroom floor was the result of a little difference of opinion among the dancers at a ball in an Austrian village some weeks ago.

The renting of portions of the sidewalk in Paris to proprietors of cafes, who set out tables there, brings in a rental to the city of nine hundred thousand francs a year.

A woman bicyclist, Signora Maria Forzani, recently rode from Turin to Milan, a distance of one hundred and fifty kilometres, in eight and a half hours, with one hour's rest included.

Parisians are intensely fond of canaries and other pet birds. It is estimated, figuring on the amount spent for bird food at the regular stores, that there are fully one hundred thousand pet birds in the city, or one to every twentieth individual, including babies.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS.

A volume of purely literary essays by the late Phillips Brooks is announced for autumn publication.

It is reported that Mr. Barrie, the author of "The Little Minister" and "A Window in Thrums," is seriously ill from lung trouble in London.

Mr. Henry Fuller, the author of "The Chevalier of Pensieri-Vani" and "The Cliff-Dwellers," who has sailed for Europe, has just finished another novel concerning Chicago.

Like Mr. Austin Dobson, who, as Henry A. Dobson, receives pay as a clerk of the board of trade, the late Edmund Yates, the editor of the London World, had a business as well as a pen name. For a long time he was chief of the lost letter department at the London post office, and was known in the service as E. Hodgson Yates.

It seems that there is really a labor journal in England called "The Clarion," whose editors say that its success has been lessened by the description in "Marcella" of a labor organ bearing the same title but of a different character. Mrs. Ward replies that she of course supposed the name to be one of her own coining, but courteously offers to change it when her book passes into a cheap edition.

A Mistaken Idea.

Women have the mistaken idea that men are opposed to their advancement. Now, really, they are not. In fact, I do not believe they think very much about it. They just go on calmly, and we make all the fuss about it. Woman may come out and expand in the sunlight of her public progress, but I believe she loses just a little of the perfume of her womanhood, just as flowers grow more gorgeous in the sun but lack the delicate perfume of those that bloom more in the shade. The shade for woman is in the path of quiet, intellectual progress.

FIGHTING OVER SUGAR

This is the Hitch in the American Tariff Conference.

THE DUTY ON REFINED SUGAR

Mr. Wilson Declares It Must Be Repealed Even to the Detriment of the General Tariff—House Conferers Reappointed by the Speaker.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The first battle in the open over the differences between the House and Senate was fought yesterday in the House of Representative in the presence of a large and deeply interested audience. For the first time in a month the galleries were filled, and almost every seat on the floor was occupied.

Hostilities began immediately after the journal had been read when Mr. Outhwaite presented an order from the committee on rules, providing for two hours' debate on the report of the conferers on the tariff bill and restricting action of the House to voting on a motion to insist on disagreement to the Senate amendments in bulk. The order was antagonized by Mr. Reed and Mr. Johnson, the latter of whom who wanted an opportunity to vote separately on the sugar schedule.

It was agreed to without a division however and then Mr. Wilson, chairman of the committee on ways and means, with his face hidden under a handkerchief binding a bandage about his eyes, in which are seated the neuralgic trouble from which he is suffering severely, reported the failure of the conference to agree and moved that the House insist upon its disagreement to the Senate amendments. Speaking to the motion, Mr. Wilson gave a very frank statement of the differences between the two houses and conferers and the reasons therefor. He was frequently interrupted by applause from his political associates, which arose to a tumultuous uproar when he declared in favor of never adjourning until the duty on refined sugar had been repealed whatever might be the fate of the general tariff bill.

In conclusion, he read a letter from President Cleveland, approving the features of the Wilson bill as it passed the House and advising the conferees to stand firm for the principles contained in the bill at that stage of the bill's existence. After further debate by Mr. Reed, Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Crow (Rep., Penn.) the motion was agreed to and Speaker Crisp reappointed the conferers on the part of the House.

In the course of the session the conference reports in the naval and diplomatic and consular appropriation bills were presented and agreed to.

An order from the Committee on Rules was agreed to, taking up the Tucker joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution so as to permit the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people as the next order of business. A vote on its passage to be taken on Friday.

OFF TO BLUEFIELDS.

The Americans Taking Steps to Protect Their People.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The cruiser Columbia is under orders to leave New York harbor and proceed to Bluefields for the protection of American interests. These peremptory orders from Secretary Herbert were sent to Capt. George P. Sumner, commanding the vessel, and it is expected the departure of the cruiser will not be delayed beyond to-day. It cannot be learned at the State or Navy Departments exactly what extraordinary emergency has arisen to cause the despatch of such a large vessel to the Mosquito coast at this time, but it is known that the lives of Americans have been threatened. It is possible the mission of the Columbia may indirectly result in the recognition of the independence of the Mosquito territory from Nicaraguan rule. The San Francisco has been substituted for the Columbia for naval reserve duty.

Wells-Fargo Again Robbed.

RED FORK, I.T., July 20.—The office of the Wells-Fargo Express Company and the south-bound train on the Monet division of the Frisco road have been robbed by Bill Cook and his gang of six desperadoes. The amount taken from the express office was not large. That from the train is not known. A posse is in pursuit. The delayed remittance of account of the railroad strike may have made the raid a valuable one for the robbers, as present shipments are large.

W. W. Phelps' Wealth.

HACKENSACK, N.J., July 20.—The will of the late William Walter Phelps has been probated. No inventory was filed. The estate is worth about ten million of dollars.

In New York the announcement of the engagement of $1,000,000 additional gold for shipment to Paris shortly after the opening of business had a tendency to weaken the general stock market. The railroad list was also unfavorably affected by the light traffic receipts for the first half of July and the month of May. Total sales were: Listed, 64,000; unlisted, 66,000, including St. Paul 14,000 and American Sugar 62,000.

Prize-Winners at the Shooting—Sympathy for Simpson.

LONDON, July 20.—The prize-winners in the Prince of Wales' prize at 600 yards were Private Bertram, Staff-Sergt. Davidsen and Staff-Sergt. Mitchell.

In the Alexandra prize at 600 yards the Canadian prize-winners were Lieut. Ross, Sergt. Davidson, Private Rolston, Private Bertram, Gunner Turnbull and Corp. McNaughton.

The aggregate score of the six men chosen to represent the Canadians for the Ranelagh Challenge Cup is ahead of all others, and they will hold the cup for one year. The Canadians are well up in the four money prizes given in this contest.

Major Ibbotson has returned to the camp. The men sympathize deeply with Staff-Sergt. Simpson on the sudden death of his wife.

There was a fair attendance of spectators on the Bisley Commons despite the fact that the weather still continues bad, with only an occasional let-up in the rain. While the shooting was in progress it was raining.

The St. George Challenge Cup is one of the great matches of Bisley. The highest Canadian last year was Staff-Sergt. Simpson, 12th Batt., with 33 out of a possible 35, which brought him the Bronze Cross and £9. The next was Lieut. Limpert with 42. The next in order were Col.-Sergt. Henderson 31, Sergt. Mumford 31, Lieut. Mitcheli 30.

FIVE MINERS KILLED.

A Shocking Accident in a Mine in Pennsylvania.

PINE GROVE, Pa., July 20.—A fearful accident took place in the mines at Wilhamstown, seven miles from here, last evening, just as the miners were being hoisted out of the colliery. A number were in the wagon, which had just started, when the pulley underneath failed to work and they were crushed against the top rock, five being killed instantly. They are: John Raudenbush, John Llewellyn, M. A. Tate, William Clark and Charles Woodman. All live at Williamstown, are married and have children. Their bodies were horribly mangled.

United Choirs at Sarnia.

SARNIA, July 20.—The annual excursion of the united choirs of Western Ontario has become an event of unusual interest to the musical people and others as evinced by the fact that our town was invaded yesterday by a host of some 5,000 people in search of fresh, pure water and immunity for a few hours from dust and heat and in this respect the visitors were not disappointed. Sarnia is essentially a summer town and has become a natural resort of thousands who seek a variety of amusement, rest and refreshment not to be had elsewhere. The crowd numbered contingents from every town and village in this western district. The delightful precincts of Bay View Park and the river offered refreshment, the concert gave pleasure to the musically inclined and in this regard many of the numbers were indeed excellent, especially the chorus "Praise Ye the Father" set to Gounod's air, and the hymn "Lead Kindly Light," and other numbers equally good. The playing of the Waterloo Musical Society's band was greatly admired by everyone. The members are a gentlemanly lot of young fellows, and reflect great credit on themselves and the place they hail from.

English Influence in Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—A letter from a prominent resident of Honolulu contains the statement that never in the history of the islands has English influence been so strongly displayed as at the present time. The letter continues: "It is openly said here that should the United States fail to continue the present reciprocal arrangement of the tariff the efforts of Canada and the English government will be exerted to the utmost to obtaining terms as good or better than those denied by the American government." The general belief in Honolulu is that within three months after it becomes definitely known that the United States has given up the free sugar schedule as applied to Hawaii, the British minister here will have succeeded in negotiating a treaty whose advantages will be all on the side of the British crown and against American influence in the islands.

PEOPLE WHO WRITE.

J. M. Barrie, the novelist, is reported seriously ill from lung trouble in London.

Count Tolstoi is writing a "cosmopolitan drama" which he says is to be the best of his works.

English critics are finding fault with Mr. Gladstone's translation of Horace. They say that Gladstone's Horace is very stiff and very pedantic.

Rose Young, a direct descendant of one of the Pitcairn mutineers and a woman of more than usual intelligence, is writing a history of the Pitcairn colony.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe celebrated her 75th anniversary recently. She is at this ripe age in the full possession of her faculties, and is rejoicing in a beautiful and vigorous old age.

It is reported that some old-fashioned English people who have met Rudyard Kipling during his present visit to England are pained at what they consider evidence of Americanization in his manners.

Robert Louis Stevenson has grown thin to emaciation. His wrist is now so thin as to look, it is said, as if a child could break it in two. His lean body has become visibly leaner, and his face is so sharp at the chin as to give a V-shaped appearance to his physiognomy.

American Pressmen in Montreal.

MONTREAL, July 20.—The members of the Michigan State Press Association and their lady friends were entertained by the city to a drive and luncheon on Mount Royal yesterday. The party arrived at the City Hall at 10 o'clock and proceeded to the council chamber, where they were formally introduced to Mayor Villeneuve, who welcomed them to the city in a few happy words. He alluded to the fact that Canadians had a great deal to do with the State of Michigan. The city of Detroit had been founded by a French-Canadian of the city of Montreal, and it had grown to be a great business centre. Other cities in their state had also been established by natives of the Province of Quebec, and it was, therefore, fitting that as mayor he should welcome them to Montreal.

Masons Elect Officers.

HAMILTON, July 20.—The Masonic Grand Lodge concluded its session yesterday. When it adjourned at 1 o'clock, election of Deputy Grand Master was in progress. Two ballots having narrowed the contest down to a straight fight between E. T. Malone of Toronto, and Wm. Gibson, M. P., of Beamsville, the first choice of Hamilton and the vicinity. Malone's prospects were bright. Toronto district elected John A. McGillivray, Uxbridge, D.D.G.M., by a large majority. Thos. McCallum was elected for Hamilton district. W. R. White, Pembroke, was chosen Grand Master by acclamation.

The Memrancook Gold Mine.

CHESTER, N.B., July 20.—A meeting of the Memrancook gold mining company was held at the works yesterday. The reports of the tests were made. J. B. Neilly, president of the company, offered to pay one-fifth of the amount of making further tests of the property. The directors decided to pay up the bills and call another meeting when they will decide as to further tests.

Canadian Canoeist at Croton Point.

CROTON POINT, N.Y., July 20.—Recent arrivals at the canoe camp are J. R. Stewart, of Buffalo, and B. Saunders, of Toronto. An excursion was taken to Croton Landing by a merry party of canoeists. Among those who composed the party was R. D. Scott, of Ottawa, Can.

An Old Pensioner Suicides.

BRANTFORD, July 20.—Patrick Killeleagh, aged 70, an old pensioner, shot himself in the abdomen last night. He was removed to the hospital, where he died. It is supposed the old gentleman was weak-minded.

Casimir-Perier Friendly With Italy.

PARIS, July 20.—Le Journal says Signor Bonghi, member of the Italian Chamber of Deputies, recently had an interview with President Casimir-Perier and has reported the President as saying he would welcome a reconciliation between Italy and France especially as it is possible that the triple-alliance will not be renewed owing to the peaceful condition of Europe.

The Cholera at St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 20.—It is officially announced that in consequence of the prevalence of cholera, the mobilizing of the reserves and the customary autumn military manœuvres in the vicinity of St. Petersburg will not take place this year. The health authorities report 208 fresh cases of cholera and 82 deaths from the disease.

William Will Look at the Chicago.

LONDON, July 20.—The Admiralty learning that the Emperor of Germany had expressed a desire to see the United States cruiser Chicago, has sent an invitation to Admiral Erin to be present with his flagship on the occasion of the Cowes regatta, which the Kaiser will attend in the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern.

HILL AGAIN IN LINE

He Makes a Vigorous Defence of the President in the Senate.

RAW MATERIALS MUST BE FREE

The Senate Asked to Recede From Its Position Placing Coal and Iron Ore on the Free List—Cleveland Calls for a Further Conference.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Crowds such as had not thronged the Senate in months packed the galleries yesterday. The House and the President had thrown down the gauntlet to the Senate on the tariff question, and a pitched battle was expected. An ominous hush was upon the Chamber when the President pro tem (Mr. Harris, of Tennessee) rapped the Senate to order.

Senator Voorhees, Chairman of the Finance Committee, rose in his place and called up the conference report on the tariff bill. Without a word of explanation he yielded the floor to Senator Smith, of New Jersey, who read a carefully prepared speech in which he said that the events of the last twenty-four hours had confronted the Democratic party with the possibility of the failure of all legislation at this session. He believed in placing the responsibility where it belonged. He criticised the President for attempting to interfere with the prerogatives of the legislative branch of the Government, but declared he should never be intimidated by threats of the President or utterances of associates.

At the conclusion of Senator Smith's speech Mr. Hill took the floor and in the course of his remarks said: "Let me read from that remarkable letter of the President's, which was yesterday submitted to the House of Representatives. It expresses better than I can hope to do, the true, sound and logical position of the Democratic party upon this question."

After reading extracts from this letter Mr. Hill went on as follows: "Mr. President, I approve every word that I have quoted. It is an honest and manly statement of the true attitude which the party should assume in this crisis. I am not required to defend the propriety or wisdom of the promulgation of this letter at this particular time. It may have been indiscreet, it may operate as a fire brand to spread the flames of discord already kindled among party friends, honestly differing, as I am disposed to concede, upon questions of public and party policy. But aside from the question of its mere expediency, I am here to defend the President's letter in so far as it demands that the party shall not be led astray into the violation of Democratic pledges and principles.

"Upon the question of free raw materials the President is right, and you know it. You cannot answer his arguments. You cannot stand up against the sentiment of the great Democratic masses of the country, which will rally around the President in his contest with you upon this particular branch of the schedule. The time to yield is now, before there is further humiliation, embarrassment and discord.

"The Senate bill which has been passed violates this Democratic theory, and while it reduces the duty on iron, coal, lead and some other raw materials from those imposed under the McKinley bill, and in that respect is commendable, it nevertheless imposes some duties thereon, and thereby fails to redeem our pledges. It is not a question of the amount of duties which may be imposed. A question of principle is involved and a single penny's duty violates our promises and places us in a false position. As the President well says, there can be no compromise on a matter of this character, where a vital principle is at stake.

"The House of Representatives, fresh from the people, which represents more distinctly and peculiarly than we do the taxing power of the people, repudiates our bill, and a Democratic President has emphasized that repudiation, and the condition which confronts us is one of extreme embarrassment.

"Shall we advance or retreat? Shall we surrender to the House while we can do so honorably, or shall we wait until we are driven to it in the light of the letter of the President the House cannot honorably retreat? It has no other alternative except to insist upon its bill, wherein it provides for free raw materials. The President cannot approve the Senate bill after what he has said in his remarkable letter. He arraigns the Senate, and intimates that the enactment of the Senate bill means 'party perfidy and party dishonor.'

"These are strong words which the President of the United States would not use towards a measure which he ever expected afterwards to approve.

"This letter is significant; it is a bold, vigorous, even if imprudent, letter; it means war to the knife against the Senate bill; it justifies much that has been said against the Senate bill during the last three months; it means that it can never receive executive approval; it means that the Senate cannot be permitted to abandon or surrender the great underlying principles for which we struggled and lost in 1888 and fought and won in 1892. The President is right, there is no middle ground which we can occupy. No bill which does not provide for free raw materials can be permitted to become a law.

A motion was made by Mr. Vilas to recede from the differential of one-eighth of a cent on sugar. No vote was taken on any of the propositions.

SUBSIDIES TO RAILWAYS

Mr. Laurier Wanted the Accounts Audited in Committee.

HIS AMENDMENT IS REJECTED

Bill to Amend the Dominion Election Act Read a Third Time—The Railway Passenger Ticket Bill Dropped —The Tariff Bill Read a Third Time.

OTTAWA, July 21.—At the morning session of the House yesterday, on the motion to receive the report of the Railway Committee, Hon. Mr. Laurier moved the following amendment:

"That within four days after the opening of each session the Minister of Railways shall lay upon the table of the House copies of all agreements made by any of the companies with the Government, together with a statement of all payments made by the Government up to date for subsidies earned by any of the said companies, and the Order-in-Council authorizing such payments. That within a month after the payment to any company of any portion of the subsidies the president and manager of said company shall furnish to the Auditor-General a statement under oath showing if the whole of the subsidies so paid to the company have been applied in the manner herein intended, and that a similar statement shall be supplied by every contractor of the company who is to receive or has received the payment out of any such subsidies or out of the proceeds thereof, and that within four days after the opening of each session the Auditor General shall lay all such statements upon the table of the House. That all such documents laid upon the table of the House shall be referred to the Committee on Public Accounts, to be by them investigated in the same manner as the public accounts. That every officer and director of the said companies and every person having a contract with any of the companies for the performance of any work, the doing of anything or the furnishing of any goods, effects, or materials, and having, or expecting to have, any claim or demand against the company by reason of such contract, who either directly or indirectly, by himself, or by any person on his behalf, subscribes, furnishes, or gives or promises to subscribe, furnish or give, any money or other valuable consideration for the purpose of promoting the election of any candidate to a Legislature or to Parliament, or with the intent in any way of influencing or affecting the result of a Provincial or Dominion election is guilty of misdemeanor and liable to a fine of not less than $100 and not exceeding $1,000, unless the value of the amount or thing paid, offered, given, loaned, promised, received or subscribed, as the case may be, exceeds the last mentioned sum, in which case the fine may be raised to a sum not exceeding sum not exceeding such value, and also to a term of imprisonment not exceeding one year and not less than one month, and in default of paying such fine, to imprisonment for a further term not exceeding six months."

The House divided on the amendment, which was lost by 20 for and 50 against.

The Caraquet Railway.

Sir Richard Cartwright moved in amendment that the Caraquet Railway resolution be struck out and the following substituted: "And in view of the fact that the said road is a branch of the Caraquet road, and that said Caraquet road appears from a report recently laid on the table of this House by the Minister of Railways to be utterly insolvent and unable to pay working expenses and keep its line in due repairs; also that statements on the faith of which the original grant was made have been entirely falsified by results, there is no justification for granting any further sum of public money to said enterprise."

The amendment was lost on the same division and the main motion was carried.

Dominion Election Act.

The House then went into committee on other resolutions, after which Sir John Thompson's bill to amend the Dominion Election Act was taken up and given a third reading.

The Evening Sitting.

In the House at night Mr. Daly, in answer to Mr. Laurier, said that prorogation would take place on Monday. The tariff bill was read a third time and passed.

Mr. Haggart withdrew his railway passenger ticket bill, which provided that before a rebate would be given for the return of a ticket a receipt would have to be given the company that the party asking the refund was the owner. Messrs. Mills, Sutherland and Mulock opposed the bill, and Mr. Haggart said he would drop it.

The Arrears in the Civil Service.

Auditor-General McDougall being seen with reference to the nonpayment of civil service salaries on the 15th, said: "In 1885 the same difficulty occurred as now exists with reference to the payment of salaries. This was obviated in the long session of 1891 by the passage of several supply bills, while this year there was but one supply bill. The Auditor-General or any other official cannot have the power of the two Houses of Parliament and the Governor-General as well. It is, however, satisfactory to know that payments can be legally made on Monday next, as the House closes on Monday and the Governor-General will sign the supply with other bills."

Gas Explosion at Walkerville.

WALKERVILLE, July 21.—As men were engaged in connecting stand pipes near the Ontario Basket Company, with the main pipe on Walker road, for the purpose of testing, the valve burst with terrible force, blowing a bystander named Yates fifty yards over a fence, breaking his leg. Two of the men working on the pipe had their legs broken and were terribly bruised and two others had their faces terribly cut by the stones and dirt thrown up by the force of the explosion. They were all taken to the Windsor Hospital.

Riots in Pullman.

CHICAGO, July 21.—One hundred and forty men employed in the repair shops of the Chicago and Erie Road at 55th street went out on strike yesterday and say they will not return until the American Railway Union strike is declared off.

The determination of the Pullman Company to re-open its works and operate them with a force of non-union employes if the old employes refuse to return has aroused the strikers to a white heat temper and both militia and police are looking for trouble before Monday night. There were no less than four incipient riots in Pullman and its surroundings during the day. The most threatening occurrence was at 3 o'clock when a big crowd surrounded the fire station where a senatorial primary election was in progress. The militia was compelled to charge with bayonets and the mob retreated.

Disastrous Conflagration in Newark, N.J.

NEWARK, N.J., July 21.—One of the most devastating fires that ever visited this city broke out in the Russian colony on Bond street. The blaze started in Benjamin Joachimowitch's hat factory, 81 Boyd street, and communicated to the buildings on either side. It was caused by the explosion of a steam coil in the drying room of a shop and the terror-stricken employes rushed from the building. Before the firemen reached the scene the flames had spread to the adjoining houses, and in a short time nine frame tenements were ablaze. One hundred children were rescued from the annex to St. Peter's Orphan Asylum without injury. In several of the tenements sick people were carried out half suffocated. Nineteen families were left without homes. The total loss is about $58,000.

Serious Powder Magazine Explosions.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 21.—A series of explosions occurred in one of the power magazines at Fort Pulaski. The first explosion was very heavy. Sergeant Charles Chinn, U. S. A., and his wife were badly injured. What further damage was done is not known, as communication by wire was cut off. Other explosions followed at intervals. There was a gang of 40 men working on the magazine, constructing a mining casemate. Part of the fort is now on fire. Captain O. M. Carter, of the United States Engineer Corps, has gone down to the fort with physicians. The fort is 15 miles down the river and is being put into use for harbor defence by making submarine mines and planting torpedoes.

An Excursion Train Wrecked.

EVANSVILLE, July 21.—A special excursion train on the Louisville, Evansville & St. Louis road from Albion, Ill., to Merengo Cave was wrecked at Valpin, Ind., by the front truck of the engine tank breaking down. Sarsdorf waylaid and robbed the paymaster of the Standard Radiating Works of $1,700. He was captured and placed in jail, but he and Campbell escaped on the morning set for his trial. The men were arrested here a week ago on a charge of assault and robbery and were recognized yesterday by a Buffalo detective.

Killed at a Railway Crossing.

ST. LOUIS, Mich., July 21.—Mr. and Mrs. David Strouse were instantly killed by a train from Grand Rapids. They were driving in a one-horse waggon and when they neared the railroad crossing saw the train was near. They whipped up the horse and tried to get across the track before the train, but were struck. Their bodies were terribly mangled, Mr. Strouse's leg being crushed to a pulp and his head cut off.

The Canoeists at Croton Point.

CROTON POINT, N.Y., July 21.—There were a number of prominent arrivals at the Canoe Camp yesterday. A very enjoyable camp fire was given at the ladies' camp. A race for the cup given by the Sing Sing Yacht Club was run this afternoon on Croton bay in front of the house of the yacht club at Sing Sing. E. B. Edwards, of Peterborough, Can., acted as officer of the day.

OVER-SANGUINE SIR RICHARD.

Sir Richard to all the other faults credited to him by the Opposition, is altogether too optimistic as he has already discovered. It was quite unreasonable for him for a moment to think that his resolution to censure the Department of Railways and Canals for inefficiency, neglect of duty, extravagance and gross mismanagement in connection with the work of the Curran Bridge would meet with the approval of the house. There was nothing wrong in connection therewith, for, did not the majority of the house say so by voting down the motion of censure. The facts respecting this bridge are few and plain. The work was estimated to cost $122,000, and it actually did cost $430,000. Is this any proof of "inefficiency"? Does not this show care and capacity for spending the people's money economically? Sir Richard is actually absurd to expect the government majority to condemn the Department of Railways and Canals for wasting $318,000 of the people's money on one bridge. If the department had been as inefficient as Sir Richard wishes the country to believe, the waste might have been ten times larger. The Montreal Star says that "the whole history of the undertaking is one long record of plunder" and the facts bear out this statement. In the face of this does Sir Richard expect that the Conservative majority will pronounce this an evidence of neglect of duty on the part of the Department of Railways and Canals? The account books that contained a record which might have shown where the $318,000, stolen from the public chest, went, were burnt and destroyed. Will Sir Richard have the assurance to say that this is "gross mismanagement" when the government majority declares it is very good management. In the face of the authority of the government majority, it is a great consolation to the taxpayers to know that a public work constructed under the authority of the Department of Railways and Canals and costing nearly four times what it could be built for at a profit, is an example of "efficiency." It is also a pleasure to be assured by the government majority that stealing right and left all through the work shows no neglect of duty. Especially when the stealing was done to furnish reptile funds to keep the government in power. The facts show very good management indeed on the part of the government—in the interest of the thieves. We should be very grateful, as the Montreal Star remarks, that the Department of Railways and Canals is so carefully, economically and efficiently managed, especially when we remember what immense amounts parliament entrusts to this excellent department. We should be proud of such a department and Sir Richard should be ashamed of himself to dare to found a charge against it on the paltry grounds of stealing and wasting the public money to reward party healers and produce corruption funds. Sir Richard is very unpatriotic to object to such excellent management as characterized the building of the Curran bridge. If he keeps on in his rash course we shall find him raising puritanical objections to such peccadilloes as forgery, manslaughter and murder.

A DOMINION ELECTION IN SIGHT.

That Sir John Thompson and colleagues contemplate an early appeal to the people there are, the Globe thinks, some grounds for believing. It is generally observed that just prior to a general election the grants to railways and public works at the final session of the Parliament show a buoyant tendency. That this is such a session will occur to anybody who peruses the formidable list of subsidies to railways which was brought down by Mr. Haggart on Friday last. It was pointed out in the House on Wednesday that in some of these which have been kept dangling before the eyes of the electors for years there is probably not the remotest intention of the promoters to build a railway. Then there is the Trent Valley Canal. The appropriation of $130,000 for that work, together with entrancing visions of future appropriations held out by the Premier in the early part of the session, is decidedly symtomatic of the proximity of an election. The determination to revise the lists this year, although the operation costs the country a quarter of a million of dollars, is another indication pointing in the same direction. The government must be presumed to know its own mind and if a general election is not to be held until a year hence, surely it is not intended to put the country to the cost of a general revision for no practical purpose under the sun. The decision to have a revision this year means either that an election will be held before another revision is due, or that the government is about to engage in a scandalous waste of $250,000. It is not rash to conclude, therefore, that a general election is not far off, and Liber[als] should at once set about preparing for [it].

A CONFESSION OF GUILT.

Hon. John Haggart on Wednesday characterized the Curran bridge job as a "gigantic fraud." The Minister of Railways further said that work which should have been carried out for $253,000 really cost $396,000, thereby involving a loss to the country of $143,000.

When a member of the Government makes such an admission as this, says the Toronto News, a Conservative journal, it must be clear to even the most obtuse taxpayer that he has been robbed right and left. But this is not the point to which we wish to direct special attention just now. What we desire to deal with in the first place is Mr. Haggart's plea that he was unable, owing to the difficulties placed in his way by subordinates, to check the waste before it had been completed. What a pitiful acknowledgment of incompetence! Imagine the architect in charge of a private contract going before his employer with the statement that a work had cost nearly sixty per cent. more than it should have done, but that he had been prevented by subordinates from stopping the leak!
